OUR SCHOOLS!

As Viewed by one of Michigan's Foremost Educators.

Ye Editor visited recently the schools of Tawas, East Tawas, Oscoda and Au-Sabie, and attended the meeting of the Iosco County Teachers' Association. These schools seem somewhat isolated from the other schools of our State, and for that reason we wish to step aside from our usual custom and state in these columns that it has never been our pleasure to visit four different villages with such uniformly excellent schools.

The well-eqipped and tidy schoolrooms atoned for somewhat inferior buildings. The courtesy, good order and general tone of the pupils are indeed gratifying, while the grade work is certainly above the average.

It is but right that the people of these villages should know this, and it is but justice to the faithful teachers there that we say at least what we have. - Michigan School Moderator.

BALCOM'S MILL.

November 25, 1891. Anthony Cornell and Colon Barnum have been on the sick list for a few days, but think they will soon be in the ring

That Thanksgiving is near at hand would be well known by the way people here and at the North End are hustling around for poultry. We should judge from the looks of Odell's flocks he will be able to supply the demand.

L. D. McCrumb, foreman for J. W. Balcom, has been suffering with a severe cold and sore throat for several days, But being naturally of strong constitution he has not given up entirely yet.

Miss Sarah McDougald, is still suffering with a scalded foot, which has not improved much in the past week, and fears are entertained that it will lay her

The famous Bancroft is now being re modelled and fitted up with every modern convenience and luxury attainable, and is to be equipped throughout with new furniture which has just arrived, and its owners are spairing no pains or money to make the "Bancroft" one of the most attractive and pleasant resorts in the city.

Thomas Fobert was laid up a few days last week from the effects of a sprained shoulder.

The new shingle mill is running steady every day and doing good work and the operations hope to raise old tally.

Mr. Bearinger, of the North End op erations, was over last Tuesday in the interests of his firm, who are constantly increasing their force and field.

Owing to the late heavy rains Wager & Pfiefler's mill is not running yet and we understand they will not be likely to run before the middle of December. Although they have a force of men and teams in the woods skidding up timber for the winter. This firm reports shingles fair on the slate and moving easier.

J. W. Balcom has a force of men engaged putting in a tram from the main line to his mill, over which he will take his shingles and freight.

Thomas Farnsworth, of the Wardell Dam, transacted business at Balcom's one day last week, and reported lumbering operations quiet over in his neighborhood.

Roots over on the State Road were a bountiful yield this fall, and prices have been crowded down to about the proper

Sam Dyre is doing the rai road act on Balcom's tramway, and is enjoying some distinction in this line.

Mrs. Griver and Mrs. Owens took a trip over in the country this morning in search for butter and returned with a fine crock of the oily substance.

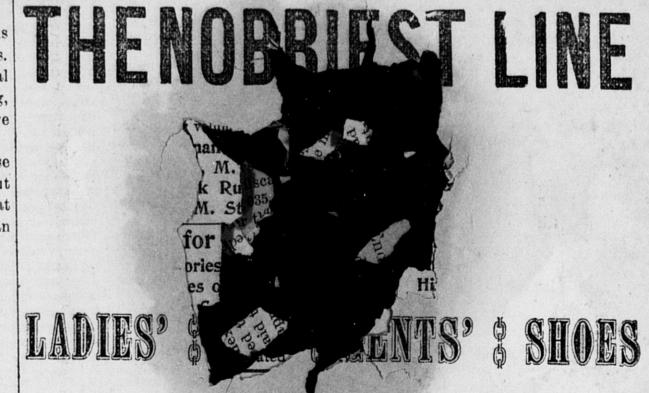

It is estimated by good authority that Balcom's mill and the vicinity of Taft turns out more mail matter than any other one point along the line.

Wm. Irish, of the Big Red Mill, contemplates shutting down that institution and accepting a position at Balcom's.
