CHURCH NEWS.

Archbishop Walsh, of Dublin, has issued instructions to the clergy of his diocese that every candidate for confirmation must have been recently vaccinated.

Only four years ago Penzatti was imprisoned in Peru for circulating the Bible. A few days ago a dispatch was received by the American Bible Society from its agent in Peru announcing the arrival of a case of Bibles. The case passed through the Custom-House at Callao.

A number of clergymen representing six religious denominations recently met in Ayer, Mass., and formed a union to be known as the United Religious Association. The object of the organization is the promotion of Christian Fellowship and Roman Catholics and Protestants are equally eligible.

The wide reach of the Endeavor Society movement is shown in the fact that there is in Los Angeles a Chinese society of fifteen boys and girls who support a native helper in China; one in Atlanta, Ga., supports a free dispensary and Bible training class and cultivates flowers for distribution among the sick and aged. The society on board the Charleston is planning for a seamen's mission with a reading room and temporary home at Nagasaki, Japan.—N. Y. World.

The report recently issued by the Census Bureau shows that there are five denominations which have more than one million members each, and ten others with a membership of over 500,000. The leading denominations are: Catholics, 6,250,000; Methodists 4,600,000; Baptists, 3,725,000; Presbyterians, 1,180,332; Lutherans, 1,230,000; Protestant Episcopal, 540,000. Out of a total of 130,000 Hebrews the Reformed exceed the Orthodox by 15,000. The Salvation Army numbers 8,742.—Ex.

The last report of the Church Periodical club shows that during the past year it circulated 7625 periodicals. The number of books distributed by the club amounted to 8,085. The number of prayer books and hymnals given away reached the sum of 6,727 and 7,485 respectively. Almost 120,000 back numbers of periodicals were distributed. The report also mentions the interesting fact that in a certain large penitentiary every convert was presented with a prayer book. Each one who has since left the prison has taken the book with him.

Missionary work in any of the great cities is not the easy task for some imagine. The great problem of reaching the masses. "Them asses," Carlyle called it, is not yet solved. For instance, take our own city of New York. It is a polyglot city. Every nation under the sun is represented and almost every language is spoken. The city contains more Germans than Hamburg, more Irish than Dublin, more Italians than Venice and fifteen times more Jews than Jerusalem. It is declared that in the chapel of the Good Shepherd on Blackwell's Island there regularly assemble representatives of seventy nations. Here there is "foreign" missionary work right in our own midst. While work abroad should not be discouraged, let the efforts at home be pushed forward with greater earnestness and zeal.—N. Y. World.

The Pinconning Press says: A good sized audience greeted Rev. A. C. Kay, Tuesday evening. The gentleman is a philanthropist, a scientist and a Mason, the latter theme, embracing all, being the topic. During the delivery he took occasion to speak of the fraternity in connection with Christian brotherhood with an earnestness a fervor that his heart was bound to the grand tenets.

All persons indebted to me will confer a favor by settling at once. Mrs. Wm. Dennis.

Persons who patronize papers should pay promptly, for the pecuniary prospects of the press have a peculiar power in pushing forward public property. Pay the publisher promptly, his pocket book is kept plenteous by promptly paying patrons, he puts his pen to his paper in peace, his paragraphs are more pointed and pungent and he paints pictures of present passing events to the public. Paste this precious piece of proverbial philosophy in some particular place where all persons can peruse it.—Cedar Springs Clipper.

The Standard Base Ball club of this city have arranged for an excursion to Bay City, which will leave here at 10 o'clock Saturday evening, on the steamer C. W. Liken, and arrive at Bay City at 6:30 Sunday morning. In the afternoon the Standards will play a game of ball with the West Bay City team. Care of Birds.

Birds are such a dainty addition to the decoration of a home that a few words on the proper care of them will probably be of use to some who possess these dear little creatures.

Birds, when proper care is taken of them, are rarely attacked by disease. If owners of these pets would first see that the cage is kept perfectly clean and well supplied with gravel or gravel paper for the birds to peck upon, and that the seed is of the very best quality, and that they are fed and given a bath at a regular hour each day, then birds, if kept from draughts of air, and fed on sugar, candy, figs, raisins, or cake, will sing from ten to eleven months out of the year. The poor German families keep birds for many years, but the wealthy people are apt to kill them with kindness. In cold weather they should be kept in a room where the temperature is even, and where the heat is not over 65 or 70 degrees in the day time nor below 45 or 50 degrees in the night. If no fire is kept during the night, in very wintry weather a newspaper should be secured over and around the top and outside of the cage, from bed time to sunrise, to keep the bird safely comfortable. At no season of the year should it be forgotten that they must not be placed in a draught. Asthma or a sudden cold, often attacks them when the cause is not suspected.—Prarie Farmer.

A FATHER talking to his careless daughter, said: "I want to speak to you of your mother. It may be that you have noticed the careworn look upon her face. Of course it was not brought there by any act of yours, still it is your duty to chase it away. I want you to get up in the morning and get breakfast. When your mother comes and begins to express surprise, go right up to her and kiss her on the mouth. You can't imagine how it will brighten up her dear face. Besides, you owe her a kiss or two. Away back, when you were a little girl, she kissed you when no one else was tempted by your fever-tainted breath and swollen face. You were not as attractive then as you are now. Through years of childish sunshine and shadows she was always ready to cure by the magic of a mother's kiss, the little, dirty, chubby hands whenever they were injured in those first skirmishes with the rough old world."

Children's Rights.

It is the right of every child to enjoy the company of his parents—to be made a companion of. Do not think your duty done towards that active little mind when you have provided playthings, and perhaps a child of the same age as a playfellow. Every child has a right to some period of time during each day when he will be met with, "I haven't time, now, dear," but will feel at liberty to unload his burden of observations, and have things explained to him.

It is the right of every child to be exempt from teasing. Why do so many parents allow so much needless pain to be given to the little ones? They cannot know how sensitive is the nature of a little child.

It is the right of every child that his questions should have satisfactory answers so far as possible. What other way has he for gaining the information that is to make of him an intelligent, observing, thinking man.

It is the right of every child to be talked to in a sensible, intelligent manner, instead of being obliged to the sickening stuff called baby-talk. Ladies' Every Saturday.

A Child's Manners.

People who have not been well-bred often acquire refinement; but the chances are that one who has not been properly "brought up," as the saying goes, will show the effects of that misfortune throughout life. Consequently it is all important that a child should be rightly bred—that it should be taught politeness, consideration for the feelings of others, self control, and everything that goes toward making up gentlemanliness and ladylikeness.

Nor is it enough that it should be so taught by precept; example is indispensable. Parents cannot be too careful as to how they conduct themselves in the presence of their children. Children as a rule, are nothing if not imitative.

They pattern after their elders, and especially after their parents. "Father does so and so," or "Mother does so and so," is with them an appeal to the supreme court of the family. Those who wish their children to be well-bred must themselves observe the laws of good breeding. A husband who does not always treat his wife with respect should not think it strange that their son is not respectful to her. A mother who allows herself to lose her temper should not think it strange that her children lose theirs. Good breeding, in most instances, dates from the cradle. To have it we must have properly-bred children, and children bred by example fully as much as by words. —Good Housekeeping.

Crop Report.

The following crop report was issued by the secretary of state Aug. 9.

The estimates in this report are based on more than 800 returns received since Aug. 1.

Wheat is estimated to yield in the southern counties 10.33 bushels; in the central 12.14 bushels and in the northern 11.48 bushels per acre, the average for the state being 10.91 bushels per acre. One year ago the estimates were for the southern counties 15.57 bushels, the average for the state being 15.47 bushels. The reports as to quality vary greatly from the same and from adjoining localities, some of the correspondents reporting the quality "good," others "average," and still others "very poor." In the state 265 report the quality "good" 373 "average" and 104 "bad."

The number of bushels of wheat reported marketed in July is 437,804 as compared with 847,972 reported marketed in July, 1894, and the amount marketed in the twelve months, August-July is 11,007,604, bushels as compared with 15,146,278 bushels in the same months last year.

Oats are estimated to yield 22 bushels per acre in the southern counties, 23 in the central, and 17 in the northern, the average for the state being 21.

The average condition of corn is 79 per cent, comparison being with vitality and growth of average years, and potatoes in the state are estimated to yield 70 per cent of an average crop.

The estimated yield of hay per acre is only three-tenths of the yield in average years, and the condition of meadows and pastures is but 31 per cent of condition in average years. Clover sowed this year is nearly an entire failure, the estimates showing condition but 13 per cent of an average.

Apples promise scarcely more than one-fourth of an average crop.

The mean temperature of the state for July was 67.8 degrees, which is about 1.0 degree below the normal. It was below the normal in each of the four sections of the state. The mean of the maximum temperature was 80.6 degrees, and the mean of the minimum 54.8 degrees.

The average precipitation in the state during July was 1.28 inches, which was about one-half the normal. The average in the southern four tiers of counties was 1.62 inches as compared with the normal of 2.51 inches. The average rainfall in the central counties was about one-third, and in the northern one-fourth of the normal.

There was practically no rainfall in the lower peninsula before about the middle of the month. Three light rains have since passed over the state, the first occurring on the 15th, the second on the 19th to 21st, and the third on the 27th to 29th.

Foods for Dairy Cows.

The dairyman who would farm to the full extent of his farm and with a view to the greatest profit, should grow plants suitable to the needs of the cow, and herein is offered asphere for the exercise of the best skill and judgement. It is the highest exercise of sound judgement for a man always to grow in his fields plants adopted to the needs of the animals he keeps, that from the plants direct and through the animals he may obtain complete food and thereby realize the most profit. Men sometimes think that because a cow will eat almost any kind of plant therefore everything is adapted to the cow, but that is not so. By feeding expensive food we increase the cost of production; therefore the cow consumes more value than she produces, and thus becomes unprofitable. It is the dairyman's business to convert the raw material of his farm to the finished product of the cow, and he who pays close attention to the kind and character of his plants or the fodder will realize the most profit.

It is a question of food all the way down, food for animals, food for plants, and the man who fails to feed his plants through his soil will by and by fail to find food for himself. When the farmer sells the grain from his farm he sends away everything the plant has taken from the soil, he sends away what is valuable to him; but instead of doing that if he will feed his crops to the cow he may sell the milk in place of the grain. In selling the milk he will send away less than 20 per cent of the manurial value of the plants and have 80 per cent to go back to the soil. The man who sells $100 worth of butter sells less than 10 cents worth of fertility, so it is easy for the dairyman who makes good use of the large amount of rich manure that must result from well feed cows, together with the extensive use he must make of clover to have a rich farm. The dairy farmer must understand the composition of his crops. He should know what is meant by protein, carbohydrates, albuminoids, nitrogen, potash etc. These terms are in common use among well-informed farmers, and it is just as easy and much more useful to know the meaning of such terms than it is to understand what is meant by "high, low, jack, and the game."

Milk is a balanced product and is produced with most economy from a proper combination of different articles of food. Although a single kind of food or some particular combination or two or more kinds may contain albuminoids and carbohydrates in proper proportions, it is unwise to confine an animal to one especial diet for a long time, for the appetite and digestion are improved by furnishing a greater variety. The question of food for any animal and for any purpose becomes a question of the proper proportions of protein to carbohydrates and fat. Food that is rich in carbonaceous matter is the least expensive to produce of any on the farm while on the other hand the protein that enters into the cow's ration is what makes it expensive.

Now when a man will feed a cow a ration consisting of ensilage, corn fodder, millet, timothy hay, straw and foods of like carbonaceous nature it is poor feeding, because the above named foods are all fat formers, rich in carbohydrates. They produce fat, heat and energy. The dairy cow is not putting much fat into her milk, neither has she any use for it on her back. A ration of ensilage corn fodder and timothy hay will not in the long run produce milk in paying quantities. There is a lack of protein not only for the production of milk, but for the cow's private use. Her constitution becomes weakened, her whole system is weakened, she is rendered unfit for breeding purposes. Just as the brood sow is spoiled as a milker and breeder by the exclusive use of corn, so is the dairy cow ruined by a one-sided ration. She becomes fat and the milk flow gradually decreases. It is a well-known fact that a cow in full flow may be dried up in a short time by putting her on full feed of corn meal.

It may seem to my readers that I am evading the subject of "Foods for Dairy Cows" by not going at once to the production of the different crops that enter into the cows ration. I shall take up this subject again before another season opens and discuss the best methods of producing these fodder crops. But I first want the farmer to understand and know something about the composition of milk and foods and their effect upon the animal system and milk production. Best results are obtained by feeding a balanced ration, one that contains both protein and carbohydrates in proper proportions. Clover hay is the best and cheapest protein produced on the farm in the shape of bulky food. Every dairyman should raise clover and know how to make good hay of it so that it will be both palatable and digestible. Clover is not only one of the best foods for all animals, but it has a wonderful manurial and mechanical effect upon the soil. Let no dairyman feed with timothy.

It is a carbonaceous food and will impoverish the soil. Obtain the required carbohydrates through the corn plant. This is where we get the cheap food, in good corn fodder and ensilage. Oats and peas sown together make splendid cow food either threshed and ground and made into hay. It is protein in character. Bran oil meal, and cotton seed meal are all protein foods. Oats are one of the best cow foods, but they are often too expensive. I frequently sell oats and buy wheat bran. In making up a ration the market price of the different articles of food should always be considered. The dairyman must economize by cheapening the cost of production. He has also influence upon the other end of his business only as he improves the quality of the product he puts on the market. A good ration for a 1,000 pound cow in full flow would consist of fourteen pounds corn fodder, six pounds of clover hay, ten pounds wheat bran, and two pounds of corn meal. This ration would contain 2.31 pounds protein, 13.41 pounds carbohydrates, and 64 pounds fat, and have a nutritive ratio of 1 to 6.4 or one pound protein to six pounds carbohydrates. My winter ration consists of forty pounds ensilage, eight pounds clover hay, five pounds wheat bran, and three pounds pea meal. This ration has a nutritive of about 1 to 7, and costs 93 cents.—C. H. Everett, in Prairie Farmer.

The State Teachers' Institute

For Iosco county will be held at East Tawas, commencing at 10 o'clock, a. m. Monday, August 26, and closing at 4 p. m. Friday, August 30.

Commissioner J. K. Osgerby, East Tawas, local committee.

There is no doubt as to the value of a good live institute. Experience proves that, as a rule, the most successful, alert, progressive teachers are those who avail themselves of the work given at such meetings.

The persons in charge of the instruction at these institutes are those who have had practical experience in school work, and know how to impart to others a portion of what they have gained in this experience. Effort has been put forth to give the county the best institute ever held.

The work will combine professional and academic instruction. The institute will be divided into sections, and the instructors will conduct classes for the purpose of reviewing some studies and also to illustrate certain methods of instructions. The workers have been urged to arrange for calisthenic exercises, singing, marching, and the like, so as to make the work move off cheerily and without fatigue.

The time for study at the institute will be necessarily limited, and in order to permit the most profitable of class exercises, the following topics are suggested, so that those who propose attending may make some preparation:

Arithmetic—1, Metal arithmetic drill; 2, applications in percentage.

Grammar—1, Substantive clauses; 2, synopsis of verbs; 3, analysis of sentences, selected from Vision of Sir Launfal.

Geography—1, Michigan; 2, model outline of Europe.

History—1, 1789-1815; 2, slavery; 3, political parties; 4, important current events.

Physiology—1, The skin; 2, health lessons—see manual for country schools—3, circulation of blood; 4 the eye.

Civil government—1, Legislative officers of nation, state, country, city village; 2, compare duties of governor and president; 3, prohibitions on states, on congress.

Pedagogy—The six and seventh chapters of Putnam's Primer, or its equivalent.

Reading and Orthography—Vision of Sir Launfal. A spelling match will be conducted on Michigan Test and fifty technical words of physiology and geography.

The proceeding topics are given to aid in a proper preparation for the work. Bring any text-books. Be thinking and studying along the lines of the topics suggested, and even a week's institute may be made very profitable with class work and lectures combined.

The institute law allows teachers whose schools are in session at the time appointed for the county institute held under the direction of the State Superintendent, to close their schools during the continuance of such institute without forfeiting their wages for as many half days as they are in attendance at the institute.

There will be no enrollment fee, and every wide-awake pedagog or would-be pedagog, should arrange to attend every session. Try to be present at the first session.

Full particulars in regard to board, etc, may be obtained upon application to the local committee.

DON'T STOP TOBACCO

IT'S INJURIOUS TO STOP SUDDENLY and don't be imposed upon by buying a remedy that requires you to do so, as it is nothing more than a substitute. Dear Sir:-I have been a tobacco fiend for many years, and during the past two years have smoked fifteen to twenty cigars regularly every day. My whole nervous system became affected, until my physician told me I must give up the use of tobacco for the time being. At least, I tried the so-called "Keeley Cure," "No-To-Bac," and various other remedies, but without success, until I accidentally learned of your "Baco-Curo." Three weeks ago to-day I commenced using, until I was prepared, and to-day I consider myself completely cured; I am in perfect health, and the horrible craving for tobacco, which every inveterate smoker fully appreciates, has completely left me. I consider your "Baco-Curo" simply wonderful, and can fully recommend it.
Yours very truly, C. W. HORNICK

The editor who wrote the following evidently knew from experience what he was talking about: "It is of little use for the local editor to waste his lungs and sprain his spine in trying to boom his town when all but a half dozen of the citizens stand around with their hands in their pockets and wait indifferently for something to turn up. If the capitalists or the business men do not put their shoulder to the wheel and do a little boosting, it is useless for the editor to try to boom things. He can write boom articles till he gets bald headed, but if the citizens do not take hold and push, the town will forever stick in the mud."

As a Woman Sees It.

The geography of woman's sphere is not yet determined. People say that it looks too much like chaos or a geological upheaval to attempt any laying down of zones or parallels of latitude. They even suggest the carbon period and the Devonian age. We are told that women claim the world for their sphere, the heaven, sea, and all that in them is. Why should we not claim the world and the fullness thereof? It could not get along without us. We had to be made to keep it in order. The Great All Father looked at Adam and said he was very good, what there was of him. But there wasn't enough, so he made some more.

We will not be stingy with this our world,—our great sphere. The best things that we find in it we will give Adam a taste of, as Eve did, and we shall probably have the same thanks. Eve was the first martyr in the cause of knowledge, and yet no monument was even built for her, except continual recriminations. There is some kind of a tablet to stupid old Adam somewhere over which Mark Twain has the privilege of weeping. Not that I wish to disparage the great paternal ancestor, but when a society once attempted to send around letters to all his relatives soliciting coin to rejuvenate this tablet. I felt that the sap stirred but sluggishly in my remote twig of the family tree. When a like memorial is planned for Eve, I will contribute liberally to both.

But this subject of spheres is a broad and glorious one. It does not admit of petty trifling, however, much Ruskin may make of "the majesty of trifles." If woman's sphere is life there is nothing that can transcend the majesty of home-making. The only happy people are the necessary people. Unless men and women can make themselves needed and necessary, so that they could not wander if they would, and would not wander if they could, life is apt to prove a very worthless thing, and character, always the product of effort; withers in idle self-seeking ease. Nothing lasts a character like responsibilities. There is no sanity for a mind, weak or strong, save in thronging duties. A woman who is necessary to some one, or a houseful, is happy, or what is better, who makes others happy.

We shall not win higher regard for ourselves and "our sphere" by merely demanding it. We must make ourselves worthy of it. Like the great, round world that God flung into space it will keep turning swiftly until rapid motion has smoothed down its rugged projections and it is fit to play its own part in the music of spheres and the music of human lives. With one more quotation, taken from a divine's recent lecture at Chautauqua, I leave this sphere to its shaping.—Ladies' Every Saturday.
