Shelter for Farm Animals.

Every stockman should give his animals the best shelter he can. Humanity and good financial policy will warrant nothing less. But unfortunately some farmers cannot provide good shelters, which are expensive. This is not a good reason, however, why they should not provide as good shelters as they can. One is not justified in exposing his animals to the severity of the season, because he cannot provide painted buildings. Pens of poles, the cracks chinked, and roofed with straw, cost very little in some localities. Sheds of straw are generally inexpensive. Even fodder "lean-tos" are better than nothing.

Hicks' Great Works.

Rev. Irl R. Hicks, the celebrated storm prophet, of St. Louis, is now a household name in nearly every home in America. His wonderful Almanac predicts the weather for a year ahead more correctly and accurately than any other publication or any other system. The testimony of a large number of careful observers is that 99 per cent of Hicks' predictions are fulfilled to the letter. His series of annual Almanacs are now well and favorably known in all parts of this country and in foreign lands. The new Almanac for 1896 is the most practical and instructive as well as the prettiest of this splendid series. It contains 100 pages, printed on fine book paper, with covers elegantly printed in colors. The matter, although scientific, is written in popular style, there being nothing difficult about it.

It is also finely illustrated. Don't confound this with some patent medicine pamphlet. It is nothing of the kind, but a fine book, which sells at all news stands for 25c. This fine Almanac is given as a premium to every yearly subscriber to the Rev. Irl R. Hicks' well-known and deservedly popular paper, Word and Works. This unique journal is a peerless educator of the masses, and is fast becoming a household guardian, and necessity in the homes of America. Those who want to keep up with the advanced thought of the age in science, religion and all social, commercial, intellectual and domestic subjects, should subscribe for Word and Works. Subscription only $1.00 a year. You can send for both direct to Word and Works Publishing Co., St. Louis, Mo. Single copies of Word and Works, 10 cents.

CHURCH COLUMN.

This column is devoted to the interests of the various churches and church societies of the Tawas and each pastor and officer is invited to contribute to it.

CHURCH NEWS.

There are 711 women missionaries at work in India. During the last two years they visited 40,514 heathen families and taught over 62,400 heathen girls.

It is stated that a Russian Hebrew has given a large sum of money to establish a Jewish university in Jerusalem, in which special attention will be given to the Semitic language and Jewish literature.

The Christian Union Institute of the United Presbyterian Church, which is to that church what the Epworth League is to Methodism, recently held its seventh annual gathering at Columbus, O. Over 2,000 delegates were present.

The American Hebrew says: "An indication of the drawing together of Jews and Christians in spirit and work, if not in doctrine, is found in the fact that circles of King's Daughters are being formed in the Jewish church, under the name of Daughters of Israel. They wear the same badge and engage in similar work with the Protestant sisterhood."

The Congregational Church cannot accommodate its ministers. It has more preachers than churches. This state of affairs is mentioned on the authority of the Congregationalist. The explanation is that, owing to the popularity of this denomination there is a steady influx from other sects. In this religious emigration Methodists and Presbyterians are in the majority. It is stated that in Boston, alone, one-third of the Congregational pastors were educated as Methodists.—N. Y. World.

The Free Church of Scotland, at its last Assembly, resolved to grant ordination in certain circumstances to men as evangelists for work in places where their settlement was not necessarily to be permanent. The action was earnestly opposed as un-Presbyterian, but was finely adopted, and it is soon to be carried into effect in the Highlands.

The "Evangelical Mission Church" in Belgium, in the beginning of 1893, had a deficit of 27,000 francs, which in April, 1894, had grown to 55,000 francs. Suddenly, in June, this year it was announced, the deficit had been reduced to 6,833 francs. Friends abroad and in Belgium itself, had come to the rescue. In one meeting, composed mostly of Belgian workmen, the sum of 7,000 francs was secured. The church now numbers 8,552 members.

During the World's Fair at Chicago, the two great evangelists, Moody and Sankey, carried on a very successful series of meetings, which undoubtedly offset much of the harm done by the reign of vice in the Windy City, at that time. They have now been engaged to hold another series of similar meetings in November at Atlanta during the progress of the Cotton State Exposition. A mammoth tent with a seating capacity of 5,000 will be erected near the business center of the city.

An interesting and touching charity is the Methodist Cot, in the Children's Ward at the Retreat for the sick, in Richmond, Va. This work has been hitherto accomplished by means of voluntary contributions, but it is desired to endow the cot, so that a child may be taken (and kept entirely without expense) from any state in the Union. It will require $3,000 to provide for the endowment, and of this sum $1,200 has been already subscribed. Contributions are earnestly solicited. They should be sent to the Treasurer, Miss Rebecca Hardwicke, No. 517 North Eighth street, Richmond, Va.—Ec.

The announcement is made that one of the features in connection with the Cotton States Exposition will be a valuable collection of articles, illustrative of biblical archeology. The exhibit is under the auspices of the Smithsonian Institute. It is something new and original. Among other articles there will be a collection of all the gems mentioned in the bible, and one of all the musical instruments. In another section there will be a collection of all the animals mentioned in the scripture, each one labelled with its name, and bearing the verse in which it is mentioned. The exhibit will also embrace many rare and valuable versions of the bible, and other features too numerous to mention.—N. Y. World.

There is at any rate one charitable organization in France which is without a parallel in other countries, and it has what seems to us a beautiful name, "Servants of the Poor." The idea and organization were due to a Benedictine monk. "My daughters," he was accustomed to say, "When the poor are ill, there is no one to take care of the house, for both husband and wife have to gain their livelihood by labor. Go to them, and be kinder and more serviceable than any servant. You must accept nothing of them, neither a morsel of bread nor a glass of water. And, above all, be sweet and amiable, that you may win their hearts, and that they may see that God has sent you." There were five sisters at the beginning. There are now sixty of these "servants of the poor."

The Horticultural Exhibit at the State Fair.

The horticultural exhibit made at the state fair at Grand Rapids, was very elaborate and meritorious, and reflected great credit upon those who took part in it. The following list comprises nearly all of the principal exhibitors in this department; the Grand Rapids Fruit-grower's Association, the Grand River Valley Horticultural Society; Greening Brothers, of Monroe; C. P. Chidester, of Calhoun county. All of the fruit which was shown by the Kent county people was so meritorious that it seems useless to particularize. The peach display which was made, was simply beyond comparison; but one becomes so accustomed to seeing peaches in Grand Rapids that the novelty of the thing soon wears off. A very fine display of apples was made. The grape show although good, was not anything like what it would have been had the season been a more favorable one to this crop.

The botanical specimens shown by the college were very fine, and the close scrutiny which they were receiving at the hands of many of the farmers, showed that they were interested in this department. There is little doubt that the gathering together of this elaborate display of specimens of the different plants which make up the flora of our state, will do more than any other agency to make the farmer familiar with the different plants with which he has to deal, whether they have the nature of profitable forage producers or that of pernicious weeds.

The display in the agricultural building, of the products of field and garden, was larger than the limited amount of space would show to advantage. Every species of vegetable nearly was shown, and the different specimens showed that they had been raised under the most thorough cultivation and upon soil which was in a high state of fertility. Taken all in all, the display made by the Grand Rapids gardeners and fruitgrowers was very creditable, and those who visited the fair, went away with the impression that there were very few cities in this country, the inhabitants of which were so highly favored. One of the features, which to some extent destroyed the effect of the display, was the great lack of room. It is evident that should the fair be continued for a term of years upon this ground, it will be necessary to erect a building for the horticultural exhibit alone, as this exhibit will, without question, require much more space after a favorable season, than was required this year, and would fill a fair-sized two-story hall, without the addition of any other articles. It would seem that should this suggestion be carried out and the display of fruit made as large and perfect as possible, the farmers who attended the fair, with a determination to gain all of the knowledge concerning this line of work, that they possibly could, would be greatly benefited, and the state fair would come to be looked upon as a place to obtain instruction, rather than amusement.

As the increase of knowledge is the main end to be subserved by the holding of an agricultural fair, every effort which will have a tendency to bring about this end should be made by the officials having the work in charge. It would seem that if a new building is erected for the horticultural department it would be a good plan to have men appointed who were well posted in fruit-growing to remain in this building throughout the fair, one for each special department, to answer questions and instruct as to the many technical and important questions in connection with the growing, caring for and marketing the products of the orchard and garden. There are in the state enough practical specialists in these lines to take charge of this work and perform it acceptably and the results would certainly warrant the outlay. Should the association report a plan similar to the one suggested above, they would not only confer a great favor upon the farmers in the state who are interested in fruit-growing, but they would greatly advance the interest of practical horticultural and establish a drawing card which could hardly fail to increase their gate receipts. The State Dairy Association is following the course referred to in connection with its line of work, and there is little doubt but that the result will be very helpful to the dairy farmers of the state. Farmers are about through going to fairs to see a few inferior horse races or to satisfy idle curiosity and, unless something of real value is given them which they can carry away with them and receive benefit from through an increase of knowledge concerning the line which they have chosen as a life work, they will not take the time to attend them.—Free Press.

Why the Bicycle is so Popular.

The evolution of the bicycle from the original idea of manumotion down to the present diamond-framed rear driver has been by certain positive steps, each step marking a distinct advance in the grand march of improvement.

In schools are taught something of the revolutions wrought by the steam engine, the telegraph and the loom, but the schools of the future will surely take notice of the wonders wrought by the bicycle, and will teach something about the Draisine or "go-devil," the velocipede, the bicycle and all such inventions of whatever name, by which man is enabled to travel quickly, merely through the application of his own muscular powers.

What makes the bicycle so popular with all classes of people? Cheapness? No; the trolley or cable is cheaper. No. If one merely wants to travel fast, there is the railroad. Luxury? No. The brougham is far ahead of the bicycle on that score. And yet people with all these things at their command have taken to bicycling with great fervor. It must be because of the outdoor exercise, you say. No again. The term outdoor comprehends infinite space, and as for forms of exercise—well, they are all without limit. There never was a complaint of the lack of either outdoors or methods of exercise in it.

The secret seems to lie in the fact, the wheel has revealed to us that our natural powers of locomotion have been multiplied. Two blades have been made to grow, where but one grew before.

The draught upon our strength necessary to walk a mile, is sufficient to enable us on wheel to travel five miles or more. Astride of it "magnificent distances" become insignificant.

What a glorious feeling of freedom comes over us when the countryside, smiling and gay, brings to the rider a sort of contagious happiness? What independence! We have not had to be carried there by the horse or the railroad and we are proud to say, "I did it!"

Inventors of auxiliary power appliances for bicycles should take notice of the fact that the secret today of the bicycle's popularity is not merely because a person is enabled to ride fast or far, but because the riding was without foreign assistance. Vanity and egotism cut a considerable figure in the wheel's popularity. To say "I rode on an electric motor bicycle to Albany today," would mean the same as to say, "I rode on a railroad train to Albany today." But to say, "I rode my wheel to Albany today," means something entirely different. The rider who did this in fast time would be hailed with great applause, and the telegraph would announce the fact to the world.

In improving the bicycle the main idea is to get the most results out of the least power applied by man to the pedals. Auxiliary power has nothing to do with bicycle improvement. It belongs to a class of inventions designed to carry or convey, not to those by which man carries himself.—The Wheel.

ORCHARD AND GARDEN.

Some of the Work That Should Be Done Now.

Now is the time to prepare for next year's fruit crop. In the spring you will be too busy with other work, and the orchard and fruit garden will be again neglected. But now you have the time to set those trees so long talked of. They are easier to get and to plant in the fall, and a little extra care will prevent any winter killing.

As for the fruit garden, blackberries, currants, gooseberries, raspberries and grapes are all best planted at this season, and time will admit of the work being well done. Only a few plants of each are necessary to supply your family with all they require and to make the meals cheerful and appetizing. The work is simple and by no means laborious.

Raspberries and blackberries should be set rather deep. Cut off the whole cane down to one eye above ground. Throw a spadeful of dirt on the plant just before it freezes up. They should not bear the first year. Gooseberry cuttings do not root as readily as currant, and early action is especially desirable for them, as the early made cuttings are generally the quickest to strike root. In planting crowd the soil down tight and cut the plants down very near the ground, leaving only the top bud exposed. During the winter the roots will be set, and growth will be rapid in the spring. The cuttings should be of thrifty new growth cut in pieces about eight inches in length. Grapes are propagated in the same way. The gooseberry is not generally esteemed in this country, as it should be, being generally considered an inferior fruit, and one difficult to raise. Those, however, who have made a wise selection of varieties, and given proper cultivation, declare that they will repay all trouble. The English varieties are the best and if the ground about them is kept cool and moist, little trouble may be apprehended.

Those who are already provided with orchard and fruit garden can do much now towards rendering next year's fruit crop, more abundant and spring work less laborious. All the trees should be given a thorough inspection for borers, and all insects carefully cut out and destroyed. The soil should be given thorough cultivation, as it is the weeds that do the damage, especially to small fruits, and the injury is the greatest in the fall.—N. Y. World.

Railroad Talk.

You can read all kinds of railroad articles in the papers in this section, regarding the future intentions of the D. & M. Co. But very few of them contain any authentic reports, as about all that can be obtained from the company is what cannot be kept by them from the public. The fact that the grading is now being done from Emery Junction, is true, but we doubt if any outside parties know how far it will be extended.

The latest in the line of rumors is to the effect that the road will cross the M. C. at Standish and then run west to a point on the F. & P. M. near Freeman, leaving Bay City out entirely. This move originated at Standish, where there is one or two Saginaw parties, who seem to have a desire to get everybody else mixed up with the Bay City Saginaw "scrap." There can be no possible reason why such a route, as the one proposed should be followed, as by going to Bay City, connections can be made with both the F. & P. M. and C. S. & M. There is no indication at present that the D. & M. people have any intention of following the line proposed by Standish.

A large force of men are now employed on the grade at Emery Junction, and the work is being pushed as rapidly as possible.
