The Church Temperance Society is about to build saloons with bars attached at which "soft" drinks will be sold, to take the place of places in which intoxicants are sold. The General Convention of the Universalists was held at Meriden, Conn., in the latter part of October. The principal action was in regard to the creed. An amendment to the Third Article received the necessary two-thirds majority to secure its transmission to the next convention, to be held in Chicago in 1897. The amendment will then come up for final ratification or rejection.

The one hundred and twenty-seventh anniversary of the old John Street Methodist Episcopal Church, No. 44, John Street, New York, was

Mrs. Amelia A. Frost succeeded her husband as pastor of the Congregational Church in Littleton, Mass., on Oct. 31. A public installation was held, many clergymen from surrounding towns taking part in it. This is the first time in New England that a woman has been called as pastor of a church of this denomination. Mr. Frost was obliged to give up work through ill health, and his wife took up his duties. For a while she preached in New Hampshire. Mr. Frost was again taken ill, and Mrs. Frost was gladly accepted as preacher to the church in his stead. Since then Mrs. Frost has been preaching every Sunday.

A superb memorial to Phillips Brooks has been unveiled in New York in the church of the Incarnation. The idea of this memorial was started by the late Arthur Brooks during his lifetime and carried out by a few members of his congregation. The memorial consists of a bronze figure of the late Bishop, seven feet in diameter, in high relief. The figure is set in a frame of mosaic and surmounted by a tablet, on which is inscribed in letters of gold; "They that be wise shall shine as the brightness of the firmament; and they that turn many to righteousness, as the stars." And again, under this in black lettering on a gold ground: "The Greater Preacher, the Larger Scholar, the Faithful Priest, the Wise Bishop, the Devoted Friend, the Loving Brother, the Noblest Man." At the bottom of the figure is the inscription: "Phillips Brooks, Fifth Bishop of Massachusetts. Born December 13, 1835. Died January 23, 1893."

The funeral of the late Miss Grace Briggs was held from the residence of her parents, Alderman and Mrs. W. W. Briggs, No 175 Calhoun street, Monday afternoon. The burial couch was a beautiful one and the rooms were profusely decorated with floral offerings, including magnificent one from the fire department and from the Advance employees. The deceased was arrayed in white and looked as though she were sleeping peacefully on a luxurious couch, surrounded by beautiful flowers. The large attendance at the funeral testified to the regard in which this estimable young lady was held, and the appropriate address of Rev. W. S. Potter was listened to with deep interest by the large gathering of sincere mourners. Miss Grace Briggs was a young lady of rare sweetness of disposition and noble character and her parents have in their sad loss the deep sympathy of our entire community.—Battle Creek Journal.

Last week a man slipped up to the Herald and said he would pay us every cent he owed us if he lived until Saturday. We presume the man died. Another man said he would pay us in a day or two as sure as we were born. Query: Did the man lie or were we never born? Another man said he would settle as sure as shooting. We are led to the conclusion that shooting is not very certain. The other man hoped to go to the devil if he did not pay us in three days. Haven't seen him since; suppose he has gone, but trust he has not hoped in vain. Quite a number said they would see us to-morrow. These were stricken blind, or else to-morrow has not come. One man said he would pay us as soon as he got the money. That man would not lie, so of course he has not had a cent since.—Ex.

A discouraged purse can cut a great stroke at Friedman's.

A very notable issue of The Art Amateur is that for November. Since this admirable magazine set the fashion, years ago, of giving absolute facsimiles of paintings in oil, water-colors and pastels, it has had many cheap imitators; but certainly no "cheap" production of any kind could compete with either of the two superb color-plates The Art Amateur gives this month. "A Modern Madonna," by Conrad Kiesel, the German Court painter, is the head of a beautiful woman very beautifully reproduced; and this peridocal has never brought out a more dainty flower-piece than the "Yellow Roses and Violets," by Mrs. Mumaugh. In pursuance of the editor's plan of giving a thoroughly practical art magazine, these pictures are primarily intended to serve as copies for the amateur artist; but we venture to say that few persons possessing them will be able to resist the temptation to frame them and hang them. All of the usual instructive features of the magazine are well maintained; the student in oil, water-color, pastel or china painting, will each find something specially suited to his needs; and about wood-carving, photography free-hand drawing, drawing for reproduction for books and magazines. Church and Home needlework, etc., the information is abundant, and the designs seemingly are without limit. The biographical notices of artists and art criticisms are, as usual, a striking feature, and the numerous "answers to correspondents" suggest that the editor has his hands full in advising not only art students who wish to be helped in their work, but ladies all over the country who want suggestions for furnishing and decorating their homes. It is not easy to overestimate the usefulness of such a magazine. Price, 35 cents. Montague Marks, Publisher, 23 Union Square, New York.

Wedding Bells.

ASALL—STEFFEN:—Married, at the 1st. Ev. Lutheran Emanuel church, in this city. Sunday, Nov. 16, 1895, by Rev. Mousa, of Manistee, Rev. William Asall to Miss Augusta Steffen.

The church and school house were handsomely decorated for the occasion and a joyous time was enjoyed by all present.
