A LAMENT.

Resolutions Passed by the "Old Girls' Club."

Last Saturday evening was the regular meeting of the "Tawas Old Girls' Club." It was evident that something exciting was on, so the short hand reporter of the Herald, secured a ladder reached the roof of the building and let himself into the garret through the sky light. After securing a comfortable position, he listened. All was excitement below. They all seemed to be talking at once. Our reporter finally found that the subject under discussion was the marriage of a prominent young man of this city. He was able to catch a few sentences which were about as follows: "I think he was just awful." "And to think, we never suspected a thing." "I had ambitions of my own." Etc.

The president finally secured order and the committee on resolutions was called on for a report. The chairman arose and with a most dignified bearing read the following:

WHEREAS a certain young man of our city having been party to a sentimental engagement without our knowledge during the past year and moreover as he has recently "been and gone and done it," also without our knowledge or consent; therefore be it

Resolved that we, the astonished, nay, astounded persons who had considered him our prey ready to be divided amongst us, express our regret at the course he has taken. Such surprises are too great a shock to our nerves. Besides that he knew how well we would all enjoy keeping his secret if he had only entrusted it to us. May he next time consider the feelings of the people and let us down easy.

And we desire that this resolution of censure be published in the hopes of deterring other young men from springing such jokes on our unsuspecting public. Signed by the committee on resolutions,

SAMANTHA ALLAN,
BETSY BOBBETT,
MARIETTA HOLLY.

The Weeping Willows,
Sept. 19, 1896.

The resolution was adopted by such an enthusiastic "aye" that our reporter was knocked off his perch and came down through the ceiling square into their midst. The sight of a horrid man was too much for the dear girls and they fled without the formality of adjourning.

Strong Statement from an Unexpected Quarter.

Notwithstanding the efforts of the gold advocates to confuse the people as to effects which must inevitably follow the degradation of silver so much testimony is coming from so many unexpected sources that the effect ultimately must be to convince the doubters that the white metal is, after all, absolutely essential to the commercial and business life of the country.

In illustration, we find quoted in the Washington Post an article from the London Financial News, which is regarded as an authority on both sides of the water. The Financial News makes this astounding confession:

"There is a plain moral in the remark that if the United States would venture to cut herself adrift from Europe and take outright to silver she would have all America and Asia at her back and the command of the markets of both countries. The barrier of gold would be more fatal than any barrier of a custom house. The bond of silver would be stronger than any bond of free trade.

"There can be no doubt that if the United States were to adopt a silver basis tomorrow British trade would be ruined before the year was out. Every American would be protected, not only at home, but in every other market.

"Of course the United States would suffer to a certain extent through having to pay her obligations abroad in gold, but the loss of exchange under this head would be a mere drop in the bucket as compared to the profit to be reaped from the markets of South America and Asia, to say nothing of Europe.

The marvel is that the United States have not long ago seized the opportunity.

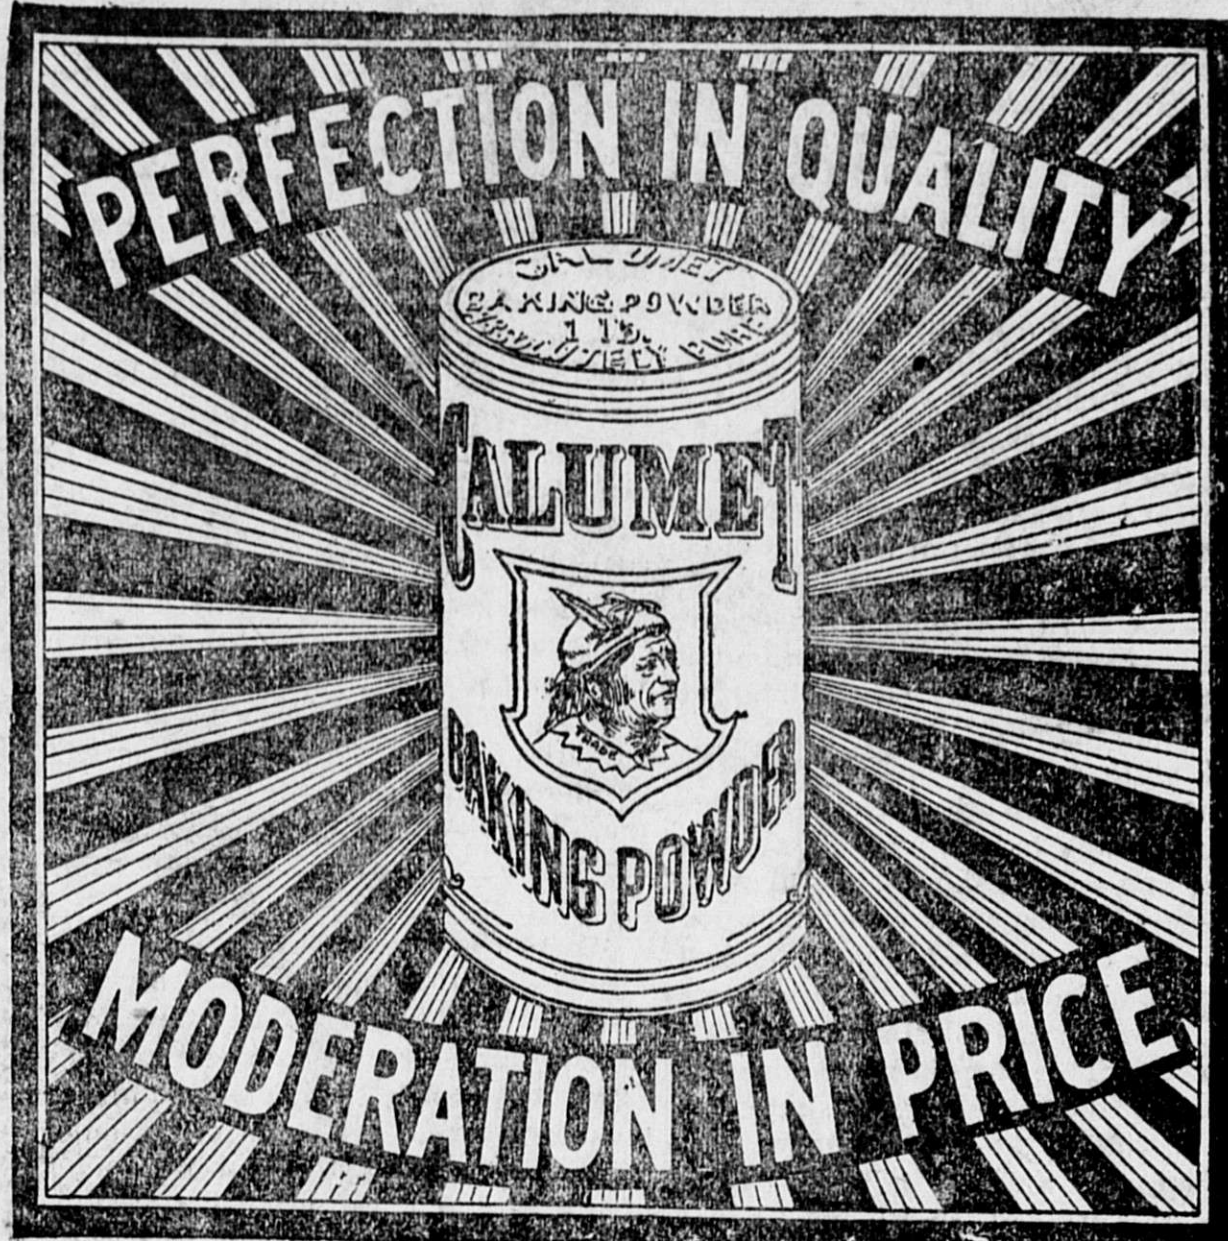

"It has been a piece of luck that it has never occurred to the Americans to scoop us out of the world's markets by going on a silver basis, and it might serve us right if, irritated by the contemptible apathy of our government toward the silver problem, the Americans retaliated by freezing out gold. It could be easily done."

While the distinguished patriots, who forced the bond sales and then gained unlimited credit in the Eastern intellectual centers for their selfish forbearance in sustaining the treasury gold reserve in the midst of a national campaign, are urging upon their fellow countrymen with all the eloquence and coercive powers at their command to turn the country, bound hand and foot, over to the tender mercies of the allied money powers of Europe and America, it has remained for a London financial paper to indicate the impending danger and point the finger of prophecy in the direction of American progress.

What the News now says was some time ago pointed out by M. Henri Ceruschi, the eminent authority on finance. His judgment is practically the universal judgment. The difference of opinion is to the method of obtaining bimetallism. When the father of international bimetallism says that if he were an American he would now favor independent action with reference to silver, it is time that his honest followers, forgetting for the moment their environment, accept the situation as it is instead of stopping short before they reach the destination towards which their own logic would carry them.

M. MURPHY,
Chairman, Co. Campaign Com.
GEO. H. COSGROVE, Sec'y County Com.

SENATOR Henry M. Teller says that after all his travels throughout the country, he finds more genuine free silver sentiment in Michigan than in any state in the country, outside of Colorado. He is confident that Bryan's majority will be surprising.

The Wane (?)

Instead of putting forward argument to support their theory, the "gold bugs," keep up the cry that the silver sentiment is on the wane, or in other words are whistling to keep up their courage. Below we give a few samples of the wane (?) in Michigan during the past week.

Rev. Frank Hoyt, of Petoskey bolts the republican platform, and will take the stump for Bryan and Hampton. Alanson Snyder, Will Jarmine and Elmer Thompson, of the same place, and heretofore prominent republican workers have also joined the silver forces.

In Chippawa township, Isabella county, the entire republican committee have resigned and declared for Bryan and silver.

A. D. Marshall, chairman of the republican county committee, of Otsego county, has resigned, and announced himself for Bryan, as has also many other leading republicans of that county.

George Irving, a prominent young republican of Port Huron, who is booked by the republican county committee for several speeches during this campaign, has been converted to the silver cause. He spoke Wednesday evening at Marlette for the cause of free silver and Bryan and Sewall. Irving is the third republican speaker in Port Huron who has deserted the gold standard policy.

Out of a young men's Bryan club organized at Kalamazoo Tuesday evening with 103 members, 50 were formerly republicans.

These are only a few of the conversions, yet the silver cause is on the Wane (?)

How Free Silver will Benefit You.

The tory papers and speakers are in the habit of declaring that free coinage will benefit no one but the silver miner and that the farmer and the working man will get no benefit from the restoration of silver coinage.

It is true that no man will receive money unless he gives something in exchange for it, but at the present time men who have produce and day's work which they are willing to give for money are unable to obtain money in exchange. Any increase in the volume of money will make money more plenty, and the result will be that a man can get a dollar without giving as much wheat, as much oats, as much bark, as much lumber or as much labor as he is required to give for a dollar under the present stringency in the money market.

Let us see how the restoration of silver coinage would help the farmer and the working man. The very moment that it is known that Bryan and a free silver congress is elected, the price of silver will begin to raise. Free silver men in the country will be advertising for men to work in the mines. This will give employment to a vast army of men who are now idle and will raise wages by lessening the competition among working men. Besides those who work in the mines there will be another army of men employed in transporting the silver from the mines, and as soon as a coinage law is in operation all of the government mints will be working at their utmost capacity. Thus from the day that the first pick is struck in the mines until the silver dollars or their equivalents in silver certificates issued to take the place of silver dollars, are returned to the mine owners, a vast number of men will be given profitable employment. These men will immediately begin to buy more of the of the farmers' produce and more manufactured goods, and this will stimulate manufactures, set factory hands to work and in turn will again be able to buy more of the products of the farm.

But this is not all. Some people seem to think that when the silver miner receives his money back from the government in the shape of silver dollars he will do nothing with it except stack it up in vaults. If such were the case he would better leave the silver in the mine without going to the expense of having it taken out, smelted and coined. The silver dollars or silver certificates which the miner receives from the government in exchange for his silver bullion are absolutely worthless to him until they are spent. He will immediately use this money in buying articles which other men produce, and every dollar spent for clothing or carpets, furniture or musical instruments, building material or jewelry, will set just that much more money circulating among the people, paying debts, buying food and clothing for suffering women and hungry children, and bringing prosperity and blessing to every home.

The silver miner will in the end receive a benefit from the free coinage of silver the same as the gold miner is now receiving the benefit from the free coinage of gold, but in both cases the country at large is benefit from the free coinage of gold, but in both cases the country at large is benefitted more than the owners of the mines themselves.--Petoskey Democrat.

Deceiving the People.

Ex-Governor Foraker, of Ohio, is not the only man in public life who has of late made a public exhibition of his ignorance on public questions. For a time the fire alarm governor's statement that the silver dollar was redeemable in gold held the palm for curiosities of the campaign, but Wm. F. Sheehan, of New York, has rushed to the front with a still more ridiculous position. Sheehan shows great solicitude regarding the payment of the bonds of the United States and has attracted some attention by his pathetic appeals in behalf of his Wall street clients.

"If for these bonds gold was paid," says Mr. Sheehan, "justice, morals and national honor all cry out for redemption, principal and interest in the same coin. But it is claimed that on the face of these bonds that the government is given the legal right to redeem them in coin, and therefore may redeem in silver coin." Then Mr. Sheehan rises up to the occasion with these solemn words: "A question of moral should always rise superior to a legal question. For the $850,000,000 of government bonds now outstanding we have received gold coin, and unless the intelligence of the nation be blunted and its patriotic impulses paralyzed, those obligations will be redeemed in similar coin."

Where did Mr. Sheehan get this remarkable piece of news? Who told him that the government got gold for all the outstanding bonds? How will his balzonly about the paralyzation of patriotic impulses seem when he learns that only that portion of the bonds issued during the administration of Mr. Cleveland were paid for in gold. The rest were paid for in "any old thing" that happened to be floating around as currency. They grew directly or remotely out of the civil war. The original purchases, who have been celebrated in song and story for their "patriotism" for furnishing the means to carry on the war, paid for the bonds with the greenbacks, which were far below par. They gave in exchange for these interest-bearing obligations the government's own depreciated currency.

The further the investigation goes into the monetary history of the country for the last thirty-five years, the more monstrous appears the conspiracy against the masses of the people. Here is the man who has been lieutenant governor of the state of New York, and who is so knowledgeable that he writes five thousand words to instruct the people, slobbering over the woes of the people, bondholders and gold speculators, and telling the people that they are wicked because they resist autocratic and plutocratic oppression. There is no excuse for such a fellow as this. He talks about a higher moral question when he himself is doing all he can to deceive the people. It is no excuse for him that he is ignorant. If he has no knowledge he should not set himself up as an instructor.--Saginaw News.

Won't you give your love to me.

POLITICAL DAY!

At the county fair next Wednesday.

The fair association have made arrangements whereby Wednesday afternoon, September 30, will be devoted to a discussion of the political issues of the day by able advocates of both parties.

Hon. Charles S. Hampton, of Petoskey, the democratic nominee for congress from the 10th district, will talk in the interest of silver, and Hon. S. A. Northway, of Ohio, will talk from the gold standard point. This will without doubt be the best opportunity of the campaign to hear a thorough discussion of the political issue.

Reduced rates have been secured over the D. & M. road for the three days of the fair.
