

Iosco Co. Teachers' Ass'n.

The Fourth Meeting a Grand Success.

The fourth meeting of the Iosco County Teachers' Association was held at the high school, Friday evening and Saturday. The Friday evening session was devoted to a reception to the visiting teachers. The large recitation room was fitted up as an art gallery, and the visitors spent a profitable evening, studying the fine collection of masterpieces, which the association has collected during its year and a half of existence. Other pastimes were indulged in until the closing song, Home Sweet Home, made the teachers' member that rest was a necessity of man.

Miss Harriet Adams, of East Tawas, carried off the hours of the evening and Mr. Harry Price was presented with a fine pair of oxydized steel spectacles, in token of his marvelous eyesight, as evinced in one of the games. All left well pleased with their evenings entertainment.

Saturday morning, in spite of the unportentous weather, about twenty-five teachers meet to discuss the morning's work. Among the members was Prin. Richards and corps, of Harrisville. The spirit of our Alcona county friends in coming so far and on such a day is to be commended. It shows a decidedly progressive tendency and it is safe to say that they have a good school at Harrisville.

After music by the teachers, Miss Nellie Nunn opened the work in a paper on literature in district schools. This was Miss Nunn's first appearance before the association, but no better nor more practical ideas were ever presented to the association.

Miss Mabel Kerr, of Ostoda, then presented a paper on methods of arithmetic, which was thoroughly up to date in method and application. Miss Kerr made a powerful plea for reason, not rule, in teaching this subject. Her paper was well received by the teachers and in the absence of Supt. Campbell, who was to discuss it, the discussion was made general. No one was found to disagree with Miss Kerr's arguments, a proof of their soundness.

Prin. Stephenson, of this city, closed the program for the forenoon with an article on the free text book system. He showed its advantage to the teacher and the pupil in regard to the work done and then proved by reliable statistics that it was best for the taxpayer who had children in school, on account of the greatly lessened cost. As there are only four such districts in the county to day, he earnestly recommended the teachers to work for an extension of the system.

County Supt. Osgerby, strengthened the cause in his discussion of the paper.

The afternoon session opened with over fifty teachers in attendance. The program was opened by Miss Fowler, of AuSable, who talked on the subject of patriotism in our schools. Miss Fowler showed how necessary it was to make patriots of our boys and girls, for they are to be the great men of the next generation. If the teachers profit by the suggestions offered, Iosco county will become a hot-bed of patriotism.

Mr. Hartley, of this place made an able discussion of the paper. He, too, evidently believes in the value of patriotism and the necessity of working it into the children's nature. Supt. Jansky, of AuSable, pointed out the fact that many people had a wrong idea of patriotism, that it was "love of our country and hatred of every other one."

Miss Sue Benton closed the work with the association paper, the "Comet." This paper is the official organ of the association, and is said by complete critics to be one of the most interesting journals published. The leading articles were well illustrated by drawings in charcoal. Altogether the last issue of the Comet was an exceedingly good one. Its leading article was good, the selection of had just had a full meal of chestnuts. Miss Benton showed how powerfully politics can effect even our profession, for as soon as the election of McKinley was assured, school boards began to pay off their teachers in "short order."

The assembled teachers were warned against the iniquity of whipping small children with railroad switches. It is fortunate that our teachers were warned, as there are several cases of locomotor ataxia on record that have been traced directly to this pernicious method of punishment.

The discussion of Miss Benton's paper was not assigned to any one in particular, but in this case everybody's business did not prove nobody's business, for the whole association has been discussing it ever since the meeting.

After a short business session the association adjourned to meet, on invitation of Supt. Stephenson, at Ostoda the last Saturday in June, 1897.

Although the shortest, this was the liveliest meeting of the association. Representatives from nearly every city, village and township in the county were present, which speaks exceedingly well for the educational condition of our county, when such a turnout is made on a day like Saturday was.

There are fewer teachers in the county today than there were a few years ago, but still there are more than enough to supply our schools. While the number is smaller, the amount of enthusiasm per teacher is much more than it has ever been. This fact is gaining attention in the outside world too. Supt. Shuart, of Hillsdale, the instructor at the State Teachers' Institute held here last summer, sent a letter to be read in the Association, in which he spoke kindly of the zeal and professional spirit, of Iosco county teachers.

The teachers associations are to potent a factor in the training of a teacher to be ignored. Unprogressive teachers are opposed to them, for they take a good deal of effort or work, but they must remember that the great laws of mankind apply with intensified force to their profession.

No mind is in a state of stagnation, it is either progressing or retrogressing. Contact with other teachers, with the incident exchange of ideas, is a first class accelerator for the teachers mind.

Ministers of the gospel, physicians, lawyers, all professions and trades where brains enter in the work, have their meetings for exchange of ideas and the social contact of like minds, and if this is a necessary part of these professions or trades is infinitely more so in that grandest of professions, the development of the human soul, i e the training of little children.

THANKSGIVING DAY.

Sensible Proclamation Issued by Governor Rich.

Lansing, Nov. 10.—In his Thanksgiving proclamation issued yesterday, Governor Rich says

Upon that day, et al secular business be set aside, and the day devoted to exercises and recreation suitable to the occasion. Religious and political differences of opinion should be forgotten and as citizens of a common country alike interested in upholding its honor and maintaining its laws, let us assemble in our houses of worship, and in greatful recognition of manifold blessings Providence has showered upon us, reverently thank God for the peace and prosperity that has fallen to our lot.

The poor and unfortunate should not be forgotten, and acts of kindness done to those who do not share in the abundance that has blessed us, as a people, will prove that it is indeed more blessed to give than to receive.

LAST FISCAL YEAR.

Domestic Output of Tin and Terne Plates.

Washington, Nov. 6.—Special Treasury Agent Ayer has submitted to the secretary of the treasury his report covering the domestic output of tin and terne plates for the last fiscal year. From the statistics presented it appears that the production was 307,228,621 pounds, an increase over 1895 of over 58 per cent. Of last year's production 303,002,098 pounds, or more than 98 1-2 per cent, were made from sheets rolled in the United States, as compared with 83 per cent for 1895. The quantity of American sheet iron and steel made by stamping and other manufacturing firms into articles which were afterwards tinned amounted to 10,586,110 pounds, an increase for the year of over 4,300,000 pounds. The production of block plates amounted to $34,014,798 pounds, an increase of 80 per cent. Thirty-six mills, in the United States produced block plates last year, as against 28 of the previous year. The consumption in the United States last year of tin and terne plates is stated approximately to have been 54,639,514 pounds.

Making Sauer Kraut.

To make the best kraut slice the cabbage finely, pack six inches deep in a clean cask and scatter salt freely over it. Now take the potato masher or clothes pounder and pound it down good and hard. Put in another layer of cabbage, then more salt as before. The pounding should be sufficient to form a brine on top of the cabbage when all is sliced. Over the top place layers of cabbage leaves and cover with a board to fit top of cask, inside, and weight heavily. It will ferment in a few days if kept in a warm place. Tie a cloth over the cask to exclude the dust.

The true kraut lover is fond of it in any way, but it is most palatable when raised to free it of excessive salt, and fried in meat drippings. Many persons like it best without any cooking. This will do away with the objectionable smell which arises from cooking it.

Kraut should be kept in a cool place after fermentation ceases.—Home Life.

Protecting Trees.

With the approach of winter there is always a great deal of anxiety displayed by young orchardists in regard to protecting their trees from the ravages of rabbits and mice. The older fruit grower does not worry so much as his younger colleagues do, for he has found out what a great many others do not know—that anything of a greasy nature will keep away rabbits, and to a great extent mice as well. The rabbits is very particular about its food, and anything greasy is generally offensive to it. Probably more orchardists use axel grease than anything else. Occasionally a complaint is heard that this material hurt the trees on which it was used, but so many have used it successfully that it may be taken for granted that where the injury occurred it was from using some impure material, possibly containing crude petroleum. I do not think pure axel grease will hurt any tree. A 10-cent box of this grease will go a long way. It may be applied to the tree with a thin brush, or a woolen rag. Just how high up the trunk to carry it will depend a good deal on what depths of snow may be looked for. Mice will work below the snow, rabbits above it. One application will be sufficient, and this need not be to thick. It is better not to have it too thick or it will not come off before summer, and it is thought to be injurious to the trees if thickly coated with the grease at that time. There is another mixture which can be used, and it is one that has been much praised by those who have tried it. It is a wash made of lime, blue stone, sulphur and water. To this some add a little glue that it may better adhere neither mice nor rabbits will touch a tree which has been washed with this mixture.

Cases are reported in which pure gas tar has been used on trees, but it should not be used, as there are known cases where tar has killed trees, especially when it has been on the trees in the summer time; and there seems no occasion to use tar alone. Wire netting is now so cheap that some are using it, believing it cheaper in the long run than anything else. It should be procured so wide that it may be cut up to advantage into strips of about a foot in width or as much wider as the case seems to demand. Where snows prevail a good deal it may take much wider strips to reach to the top of expected snows. The strips should be long enough to completely unwrap the trunk and allow for expansion of it for several years, as it will last that length of time, if cared for. When cut to proper length and width, it is better to first coil the wire about a broom handle or something like it. When unwound and set about the fruit tree, it clasps it tight, so that no tying is necessary, except perhaps at the top. The bottom of the wire netting should go a little below ground, to keep out mice, as these little animals work below the snow in winter, while the rabbits works above it. When so desired these wire screens can be had to keep out borers as well as the as other enemies referred to, by getting the meshes smaller. The size used for screens and windows would be about the right material to use. If at any time these screens need to be taken off the trees, perhaps to be painted, the work is easy and the screens are soon readjusted. With the aid of a little point they will last a long while. It is not so difficult to keep away rabbits as it is mice.

Common paper, long grass, corn stalks and similar things, tied tightly about the tree will keep rabbits away, but might prove a harbor for mice, if any were to be feared.—Joseph Meehan, in Prairie Farmer.

MICHIGAN BANKS.

Report of their Condition on October 6.

Washington, Nov. 6.—An abstract of reports from the eighty-five national banks in Michigan, outside of Detroit, of their condition October 6, shows that since July 14, the date of the last report, the average reserve held has increased from 24.95 per cent to 27.19 per cent. In the same period the principal item of the resources and liabilities have increased or decreased as follows: Loans and discount decreased from $28,901,447 to $27,748,135; amount due from other banks, state and national, increased from $722,898 to $780,403; reserve increased from $6,248,930 to $6,583,165. Including in the latter amount the gold holdings increased from $1,653,071 to $1,621,751. Total resources decreased from $43,390,834 to $42,722,467.

Of the liabilities the surplus fund and undivided profits increased from $2,827,215 to $3,967,268. Amount due to other banks, national and state, increased from $2,189,492 to $1,295,561; deposits decreased from $25,485,366 to $24,688,823.

The Single Bed.

As we become more intelligent concerning the laws of health, we are beginning to realize that the single bed, designed only for the occupancy of one person, is as much a necessity for hygienic living as a tooth brush or a napkin is for the individual use of every person. All the conditions that make for health, for rest and for refreshing sleep, urge its use as a precaution against contagious diseases, impure air and disturbed slumber. It will cost little more to buy beds of enameled iron, or brass and iron, than one of expensive wood, even including the two mattresses and two sets of springs which will be necessary.—Ec.

Calumet Baking Powder

has turned the tables on high price baking powders. The directions on High Price cans are the same as on Calumet cans, viz.: 2 teaspoonfuls to a quart of flour, but they say that one can of High Price will go three times as far as any other. Can any claim be more ridiculous? The frantic cry of adulteration, danger and poison, made by the high price baking powder people is a blind to intimidate the public and induce them to pay fancy prices for their goods—also to divert attention from this defect in their own goods.

Calumet Baking Powder is safe. Food baked with Calumet is absolutely free from Rochelle Salts, Alum, Lime, Ammonia or any injurious substance.

Monopoly must yield to moderation—
Impurity must improve or go under.
Calumet is the standard.

CABINET-makers are now busy building a cabinet for McKinley.

It now looks as though a circus was about reached in Cuba. The result is watched with interest.

GOV-ELECT PINGREE promises to make it exceedingly interesting for some of his enemies in his own party.

JUDGE O. W. POWERS, a former resident of Kalamazoo, is likely to be the next United States senator from Utah.

THE editor of the West Bay City Independent copies one of our last weeks editorials, but forgot to give proper credit. We suppose it must have been a mistake (?). Eh, Walt!

THE sound money democrats and the republicans have commenced arguing already over the division of spoils. In our opinion that the gold democrats fair rather poorly at the hands of the men whom they aided into office.

THE man who grows general-purpose cattle usually sees his steers sell a notch or two below the top of the market, and his heifers below the prices of well-bred dairy cows. We should think there was not much satisfaction in this, even if one does succeed in the aim to produce a general purpose animal.—Prarie Farmer.

MAX O'RELL says that if a reporter should publish a detailed account of what a French woman wore, her husband would feel called upon to challenge him to mortal combat. In this county the reporter who fails to fully describe a lady's costume is sometimes obliged to fight her whole family. This goes to show that newspaper reporting in any country is ticklish business.—Press and Printer.

Every city, state, nation, wants the boy. The home, the school, the office, the farm, the church, all want the boy. The saloon, the pool room, the billiard hall, the dance hall, all want the boy, God wants the boy, Satan wants the boy. Each is intent on winning him, each is holding forth inducements, each is offering rewards. Each has active agents on the field. Saints on earth and angels in heaven are allied with God in winning the boy. Vicious men, deprave women, smiling devils, are in league with satan to capture the boy.—Ex.

EVER alive to the artistic tastes of the times, The Art Amateur gives this month a lavish selection of examples of the work of the early English masters, the "craze" for which still continues. The number is more than usually rich with its two charming colored supplements—one a rich, bright and glowing study of geraniums by Clara Goodyear, the other a delightful study of out door life by Rhoda Holmes Nichols, about which by the bye, this editor has a curious tale to tell in his Note Book. It is a story of a stolen picture of which more will doubtless be heard later. But as usual the real value of the magazine lies in the practical papers for art students of all classes. There are designs for the new fashionable marquetrie painting infinite suggestions, designs and motives, including some useful Don'ts for china painters (indeed there is no magazine so useful to the china painter as The Art Amateur). Metal Work and Pyrography on Wood and on Leather—the latter especially, handled in detail, and valuable hits are given, some English ideas for House Decoration will be found both novel and useful, and the illustrated description of Mr. Harry Penn, artist's home, will be read with interest. Landscape Painting, still-life Painting, Sketching, etc.

After the Battle.

The battle is over. After three months of earnest and, oftentimes, angry debate upon the issues presented, every citizen quietly cast his ballot for the party of his choice.

The small amount of disturbance in the conduct of the election is a tribute to the good sense and love of the American people.—In no campaign in thirty years has their feeling been aroused as it has been in the campaign that has just closed.

It was not merely the enthusiasm aroused by the party loyalty. It sprang from something deeper.

When party ties are broken, as have been broken this year, it is not difficult to see that the issue upon which the division takes place must possess a hold on the people which springs purely from strength of conviction, and when conviction is strong passion is likely to run high.

Yet in no country in the world has an election ever been marked by a greater degree of good will.—Here and there a thoughtless enthusiast may have led to the semblance of a riot, but, taking the day on the whole there was nothing in it to lead any man to believe that citizens were voting upon a question upon the success or defeat of which the majority of them believe the immediate prosperity of the country depends.

Elections in Great Britain are supposed to be conducted with a greater freedom from disturbance than in any other land. Yet riots, more or less serious, and not infrequent, especially when any question more than ordinary moment is involved. America is the one country in which all believe that the ballot is the instrument of a freeman's will, and in which all loyally and heartily abide by the result.—St. Louis Republic.

Live Stock Points.

What to do with idle horses in winter is a hard problem. A good plan in districts where the ground is not frozen solid to the depth of several feet is to use them to do the hauling while you dig a pond for irrigation purposes in summer. Many farms have a brook or spring or springy soil in a place high enough to afford considerable fall. At a convenient place dig a good sized pond. Cover the bottom and sides with clay, water cement, or wall it, as you like best. It will fill full and stay full. In the hot dry weather of summer you can connect it by hose pipe with your farm garden or berry patches and raise bounteous crops in spite of drought. Thus your horses will more than pay their way in winter.

The kind of stock that you can't keep because it is so good that buyers snap it up at once is the kind that you want to raise every time.

Breed for size and speed in the American road horse. There is no better in the world.

Shropshires and Oxford Down sheep have wool growing well down on the legs, while the Southdowns have smooth, hairy legs.

There is many a time good work for farm horses in winter, if their owners will just hustle around and find it, either at home or in neighboring towns.

Tennessee is rapidly rising into fame as a live stock state, especially in the production of mules and trotting horses.

Sows bred at 12 months old will bring vigorous litters. It does not pay to breed them till they are at least 8 months old.

There was a fearful glut of interior sheep at the Chicago Union stockyards last year. It seems as if all the fag ends and tags of sheep ought to be about sold off by this time.

The Trakehner coach horse of Germany is very large, from 16 to 17 hands high and weighing 1,200 to 1,400 pounds. He is a very handsome, spirited animal.

The Gate City Oil company at Atlanta is going heavily into the cattle fattening business. Three thousand cattle were bought in the west some time since to be fattened on cottonseed hulls and oilmeal, and then shipped north to be slaughtered. The beeves are to be scattered among the company's oil pressing mills at various points. It is expected that the cost of fattening per head will be 10 cents a day, and that the operation will take from two to three months.

The average price for beef cattle was 25 cents lower on the hundred for 1894 than for 1893.

Corn is lacking in ash elements, and therefore is not good to feed alone to growing animals.

Last Season's Corn Crop Averaged 72 Bushels.

Lansing, Mich., Nov. 9. The Michigan crop report for November, issued this afternoon by the secretary of state, says: The average condition of wheat in the state on November 1 was 90, in the southern counties 83, central 93 and northern 95, comparison being with vitality and growth of average years. The average condition in the state previous years has been: 1895, 78; 1894, 94; 1893, 89; 1892, 87, and 1891, 91. The average condition in the southern counties is 16 per cent higher than in 1895, 3 per cent lower than in 1894, the same as in 1893, and 1891, and 5 per cent higher than in 1892. The plant appears to be in healthy condition, but is of small, owing to the unusually cold and dry weather of October.

The total number of bushels of wheat reported marketed by farmers since the October report was published is 1,227,917, and in the three months, August, September and October 3,399,174. This is 476,459 bushels more than reported marketed in the same months last year.

The average yield of corn per acre in the state is estimated at 72 bushels of ears, equal to about 36 bushels of shelled corn. The estimate for the southern counties is 74, central 70, and northern 67 bushels of ears. These are remarkably high estimates for the state and each section and indicate the largest crop ever grown.

The average yield per acre in the sixteen years, 1879-94, was 51.65 bushels of ears, or about 26 bushels of shelled corn.

The cloverseeds crop is light. The estimate is 1.61 bushels per acre on less than three-fourths the acreage in average years. Potatoes are estimated to yield 80 per cent of an average crop. The excessive rains during the growing season did much damage to this crop.

Hog cholera is reported from a few localities, mostly in the extreme southern counties, but stock generally is in good condition.

The mean temperature of the state in October was 44.9 and in the southern counties 46.2 degrees. It was 1.6 degrees below the normal in the state 1.7 degrees below in the southern counties, and about 1 degree below in the remaining counties.

The average precipitation during the month was, in the state, 1.50 inches, and in the southern counties 1.25 inches. Compared with the normal there was a deficiency in the state and in each section in the lower peninsula as follows: State, 0.92 inches; southern counties, 1.05 inches; central, 1.73 inches, and northern, 1.25 inches. The rainfall in the upper peninsula amounted to 3.46 inches, which is 1.71 inches in excess of the normal.

Colburn of Detroit, Harry New, of Indianapolis, Dr. Langlois and Edward Gillman. They own a lodge in that vicinity, and it is thought that many interesting conversations will be held between Mr. Baker, who has been so vigorously denouncing soulless corporations in general, and the railroads in particular, and Mr. Hawks, the vice-president and general manager of the road.—Bay City Tribune.

Nan Vredenburg's Famous Painting.

An exquisite reproduction in 14 colors of Von Vredenburg's oil painting, "Our Bench show," representing a yard of playful puppies (size, 10x36 ins.), is given to every subscriber, with the December issue of Demorest's Magazine (published November 15). This issue is enlarged and bound in a beautifully printed cover, and is replete with illustrations and reading matters pertaining to the X-mas holidays. It is sold for 20 cents a copy. The Van Vredenburg alone in this one number is worth more than the price of a year's subscription. It is the cutest picture we have seen and appeals to every lover of art and to everyone who is fond of dogs. Any of our readers who wish this beautiful picture can, by cutting out this notice and sending it to the Demorest's Magazine, 110 Fifth Avenue, New York, with 20 cents in stamps, receive it by mail, carefully packed, and at the same time a copy of the X-mas Demorest. The magazine, by the way, has been phenomenally successful during the past year, having increased its subscription list to 180,000 names a clear gain of 100,000. There must be something in a magazine that can do that.

Look Well to Little Things.

We are not responsible for the people who pass our door, but we are responsible for those whom we invite into our homes, to enjoy our fireside and society, even so we are not responsible for the thoughts that flit through the minds, for the evil one is forever casting his fiery darts at us, if happily he may obtain a footing, and destroy that which is good, but we are responsible for the thoughts that we entertain and harbor. A little leak has sent many a noble ship to the bottom of the sea, so an evil thought has sent many souls to perdition. Doubtless thought is the greatest power belonging to mortal man. It is by thought that greatness is achieved, victories gained, that empires rise and fall. The greatest things that have ever been given to the world, all invention and discoveries have been by thoughtful minds. Very few things have been stumbled upon accidentally by idle, thoughtless men; if apparent accidents have happened it has been to those who have searched long and earnestly and in every direction for the secret that was at last unfolded. As the heart is the foundation upon which we build our careers it behooves us to have it pure and serene.—Home Life.

The well known chap who won't take the HERALD because he can barrow it, has invented a machine by which he can cook his dinner by the smoke of his neighbor's chimney. The same fellow sits in a back pew at church to save interest on his contributions. Yes, we know him! He is a first cousin to the man who never winds up his watch for fear of breaking the spring. He is undoubtedly a near relative to the man who went into the back yard last winter, soaked his hair in water, let it freeze, and then broke it off in order to beat the barber out of a hair cut.

Detroit & Mackinac Extension.

Contractors Kennedy and Campbell have begun figuring on the work of grading the Detroit & Mackinac extension from Rogers City to Cheboygan, and will submit their bids the latter part of the month. McKinley's election definitely settled the question of completing the road. It is now only a question of time when the line will be put through and trains running from this city to Cheboygan, via the shore route.

General Passenger Agent Winnette said yesterday that nothing would be done about putting through the final survey until the last of the month, when General Manager Hawks returned from his hunting trip. The preliminary survey made last year but is probable that the line will be changed this fall and all preparations for beginning the work of laying the rails in the spring.

The matter of securing the location of a beet sugar factory in the Tawas-ees is being agitated. This is an industry that is especially adapted to our county, and one that every citizen should be interested in. Lay aside all local prejudices and word together in this and other matters and thus add to the permanent prosperity of our county.

Prosperity is now supposed to be abroad in the land, and let us hope that no one will be deceived, and that the good old times of business in the days of confidence are restored to the people. Yes, and confidence, they say, is also restored, and we hope from the very soles of our old shoes that it is true. If it is confidence that is wanted, we have hosts of it, and feel confident that a number of those who have been talking it for the past few months ought to call and pay us in full, what is past due, and thereby not shake our unbounded confidence in their ability to wipe out old scores and begin new.

Everybody ought to know that the very best thing he can do is to eat apples just before going to bed. The apple has remarkable efficacious medicinal properties. It is an excellent brain food, because it has more phosphoric acid in easily digested shape than other fruits. It excites the action of the liver, promotes sound and healthy sleep and thoroughly disinfests the mouth. It helps the kidney secretions and prevents calculous growths, while it relieves in digestion, and is one of the best preventatives know for diseases of the throat. No harm can come to even a delicate system by the eating of ripe and juicy apples before retiring for the night.—Bulletin of Pharmacy.

Every little while we read in the newspapers of some one who has stuck a rusty nail in their foot, knee hand, or some other portion of the body and that lockjaw resulted there from, of which the patient died. If every person was aware of a remedy for all such wounds and would apply it, then all such reports must cease. The remedy is simple, almost always on hand, and can be applied by anyone, and what is better, it is infallible. It is simply to smoke the wound, or any bruise or wound that is inflamed, with burning wool or burning cloth. William F. Gilmartin, the Bay City actor, who pleaded guilty to uttering forged paper, is charged with ruining Lettie Sutherland, the only child of a widow, by means of a fake marriage in Saginaw. The certificate he produced had some erasures, showing that it had been used before. Gilmartin offers to marry the girl in real earnest.

A company has been formed in New York city for the purpose of building an electric railway from Bay City east to Fairgrove in Tuscola county, with diverging branches from that place, one going north to Sebawing and Unionville, and the other southeast to Caro. Faithless woman and fickle politics have driven a Bay City young man almost to distraction. His sweetheart, fully expecting Bryan's election, promised to marry him if McKinley won. Now she refuses to fill her contract. From Cupid's court there is no appeal, and as betting debts are not collectible in law there appears to be no hope for the young man.

He was arrested at Chicago Tuesday and brought back, and admitted bail.

There lives a man in this town who it is claimed was ignorant a day or two before election of what it was all about; didn't know anything about Bryan or McKinley or what office they were running for. Yet he has lived in this land of newspapers and intelligent people many years. The redeeming feature of the circumstance is that the man had no vote.—Harrisville Review.

When they go out we should encourage them to ask the meanings of things. There is no lack of interesting objects during country walks; there are birds, beasts, trees, flowers and stones, together with many other things. Natural history certainly tends to widen the faculties more than anything else. Machinery of all kinds, trains and steam engines always have an attraction for children, especially boys, and the father should explain a good deal which puzzles the youthful minds of his children, and afford them instruction and amusement as well.

Then, again, the science of numbers can be commenced at a very early age. Children can count how many brothers and sisters they have, how many fingers and toes, and so on; then, when they really begin to learn arithmetic, the figures they make will be more to them than something merely abstract.

What to do With Scorched Spots.

What to do with scorched places on cloth is a question that sometimes puzzles the careful housewife. If the scorch is not too bad, dipping the article in soap suds and hanging it in the sun for some hours will be likely to remove it. If the day is dull, hang the piece before the great fire. Scorched spots that are very bad and yet have not consumed the fibre of goods are said to be restorable by repeated dipping in a saturated solution of borax. The saturated solution, as the chemists call it, consists of as much salt or crystal as the water will dissolve. It is always easy to put a little extra; if the borax stands undisturbed in the bottom of the bottle, one is sure of the full strength solution. repeated drappings of this, with exposure to sun or air light, will remove what are by most housekeepers considered hopeless discolorations.

The Care of Children's Teeth.

The care of the teeth cannot be begun too early. If a child loses those of the first set prematurely the jaw contracts, there being nothing to prevent it from so doing; the second teeth have not space to stand properly and are crowded. Particles of food lodging between the teeth cause them to decay early. It is a wise precaution to teach a child to pass a thread of silk or dental floss between the teeth after eating, as well as to brush them regularly. Salt and water is a good antiseptic, and answers for a dentrifice as well as many more elaborate and more expensive preparations.—Ladies' Home Journal.
