TAWAS CITY MICHIGAN, FRIDAY, JULY 9, 1897

No. 27.

PROPERLY OBSERVED.

A Successful Celebration held on Monday last.

The 121st anniversary of our National Independence was celebrated in a royal manner in this city last Monday. Notwithstanding the intense heat a large crowd was present and all enjoyed a most pleasant day, not an accident of any kind occurring to mar the pleasure of the occasion.

The parade of the morning, while not as large as at some previous occasions, was good. It was formed at Prescott's store, headed by the city band, followed by G. K. Warren Camp S. of V. and the East Tawas Fire Department. Then came the Calithumpians in command of Tom Garber, in the full war paints of a Souix Chief. Will Saunders, of Baldwin, marched at the head in the well-known garb of our Uncle Samuel. Mr. Saunders is only 17 years old, but reaches up nearly 7 feet above mother earth, and is the best representative of Uncle Sam that could be found in this portion of Michigan. All representations in this portion of the parade were good.

The afternoon sports were all good. The ball game between East Tawas and the W. P. W.'s of Alabaster, was won by East Tawas, by a score of 20 to 19. The yacht race was won by Percy Jones, with his "Morning Star." Arthur Jackson won the boys bicycle race. The men's foot race was won by Frank James, of Saginaw, by about six inches over Will Dean, of East Tawas. The oys race was won by Johnny McGary, of this city. Jim Kinney, of Alabaster, carried off the first money in the horse race. In the horse pulling contest Joe Blust captured the prize for heavy teams, and Thomas Galbraith for the light ones. Tom Dean, of East Tawas, captured the first prize in both the standing and running jumps.

The numerous stands, bowerys, etc., all did a good business during the day

WASHINGTON LETTER.

WASHINGTON, July 5, 1897.

From our Regular Correspondent.

That every good democrat is necessarily a good and patriotic citizen is so well known that it seems almost superfluous to mention it. When, therefore, a large number of good democrats, together with the wives, mothers, daughters, sisters and sweet-hearts of many of them get together to celebrate Independence day, as they are in Washington today, patriotic enthusiasm is bound to be plentiful. This gathering was not at the capital, although both branches of congress were in session, but in a Washington theatre. It was a combination democratic celebration, and it was a regular three-cheers-and-a-tiger success. Ex-representative Sibley, of Pa., presided, and the principle address was delivered by senator Daniel, of Va., who did himself proud, both as a democrat and as a patriot. Each of the original thirteen states were represented by short speeches, and between times there was music, both vocal and instrumental. The celebration was under the joint auspices of the National Association of Democratic Clubs, and the democracy of the District of Columbia.

Senators Jones, of Arkansas, and Teller, forced the republican senators to an immediate and abject surrender by a few firm words, when senator Allison brought forward a tariff amendment hatched by the republican steering committee to pay a bounty on beet sugar. The amendment was a complete surprise to the democrats and also to some republicans, and is believed to have been a bit of political trickery. Senators Jones and Teller said that if the republicans expected to pass the tariff bill, they must withdraw that amendment, and Mr. Teller made his remarks more nagging by adding that there had been reports that republican senators would be glad to see the bill defeated and that this new proposition looked very much as though the committee was not anxious to pass the bill. This brought about a hurried consultation of republicans and the announcement that the committee would withdraw the amendment. Then senator Allen made an individual attempt to get the bounty for his constituents by offering the amendment himself, and senator Kyle made a speech in favor of it, but its death was assured when the republicans withdrew their support.

The tariff bill might easily have been disposed of last week had the republicans been able to stop wrangling among themselves long enough to agree upon several proposed amendments. About the only amendment they agreed upon that is deserving of a good word was that taxing stock certificates and bonds. That is so sensible that it seemed almost useless to expect that it will be allowed to stick. The bill will be passed this week, if the republicans desire it to pass. They can hang it up indefinitely by proposing amendments that they know the democrats will not allow to be added.

Boss Hanna has not had much success in bossing his party in the senate, but he made a success of his fight on the anti-trust amendment, to the tariff bill, and compelled the republican caucus, hurriedly called at the eleventh hour, to decide that the anti-trust amendment, which had been prepared and adopted by the republican steering committee, should not be offered in the senate. That proposed amendment has been introduced as a bill by senator Thurston, but there isn't the slightest idea of its passing;

if there was, Boss Hanna would have another republican caucus called to prevent it.

It is now stated privately in administration circles, that campaign promises made by Boss Hanna makes it necessary for Mr. McKinley to send a special message to congress asking for legislation for the appointment of a currency commission, notwithstanding the notice served upon Boss Hanna several weeks ago by the silver senators, that no such legislation should be acted upon at this session of congress.

Gen. Woodford, our new minister to Spain, has gone home, but he will return to Washington to attend a grand dinner to which he was invited by the Spanish minister when he called on that official personally last week, instead of merely sending his card, in accordance with the usual diplomatic etiquette. He will not sail for Europe until July 28th.

Mr. John R. McLean says the charge that himself and Mr. Paul Sorg has instigated the big coal strikes for the purpose of making political capital against Mr. Hanna in Ohio, is too ridiculous for serious discussion, and is, of course, without the slightest foundation.

THE farmers should not stop with a demand for a bounty on agricultural exports. They should demand a bounty on everything they raise. Let everybody be taxed for the benefit of everybody else, and we will all get rich together!—Indianapolis News.

"In God we trust" was put on our coins as the result of the suggestion of a Pennsylvania minister in 1861. He said there was nothing on our coins to indicate to the future antiquarian that our nation was not a heathen nation. Congress in 1865 authorized it to be put on such coins as would admit it.

THE senate has voted a duty of 20 per cent on hides. On the basis of the importations of 1896 this would impose a tax of over $4,000,000 on our manufacturers. It will increase the cost of every pair of boots and shoes and fatally handicap our growing export trade. It will benefit only the Beef Trust.—N. Y. World.

The Lausung Journal says: "The free silver democrats of Ohio omitted to make any reference in their platform of the tariff of abominations which the republican leaders are framing at Washington." That is true; but they are fighting that party; while the gold democrats denounce the abomination and assist the abominators to do so some more.—Bay City Times.

EUROPEAN steamship companies say. "The bicycle is our worst enemy." Thousands of Americans will stay at home this year and view from their wheels the adjoining counties and states which they have never seen. It is well to have something drop to turn aside the fad of running to Europe.—There are hundreds of Americans who go to Europe every year who have never visited the wonders of their own year.

LET our brethren of the republican press turn back to their files of four years ago and peruse their indignant remarks about the activity of the headman of the postoffice department under the Cleveland administration. With less than four months of the administration gone now there have been about 8,000 removals of fourth-class postmasters, an average of 2,000 a month, 500 a week and about twenty for each working day of four hours, or five removals an hour. There is activity for you.—Milwaukee Journal.

Looking for Revenue at the Eleventh Hour.

The government's fiscal year for 1897-'98 began on Thursday, and that was the date of the republican caucus which finally threw up the sponge by admitting that the tariff bill is not a bill to raise the needed revenues of the nation. For the fiscal year just begun the government will need about $520,000. Congress has appropriated this sum, and the boys will see that it is spent, whether it is raised or not. There is not the slightest doubt that these Washington people have known from the moment that this tariff measure went into the house of representatives that it was a delusion and a fraud. The duties of the size that characterize the bill all along the line are prohibitory and not calculated to admit of importations enough to realize a large revenue.

After pretending that they were really honest in supposing themselves to be working for the government that employs them, these fellows go into caucus at the last hour and say that now they have got their bill for the discouragement of trade all fixed up, something ought to be done to get some more money to defray the government's daily expenses. What comment can a long-suffering people make on such action as this? Now that they have come to the moment of reckoning, the senators know not what to do. Some of them have played this game with their country so long that they are willing to trust to luck and go home, leaving the bill just where it is, or where the conference committee is likely to leave it.

Senator Lodge, who has not become seared in public life, and has a lingering notion that the consequences of leaving behind such a piece of work will be disagreeable, wants the senate to do something to raise some money.

He knows, and they all know, for the bureau of statistics has told them plainly, that their treasury will fall short by $50,000,000 if they trust to the money-raising power of this monstrous measure. They first turned to beer, but that would not do, for the people would find out what they are taxed if the burden was put on in that way. Then they turned to tea and coffee, but these articles were no better than beer for taxing people without their knowing it. So Mr. Lodge turns to the stock exchanges and proposes to tax every single one of the business transactions they perpetrate as they occur. Can party humiliation go lower than this?—Detroit Tribune.

He Leaves Us.

Rev. A. Waterbury, who has been pastor of the Baptist church in this city, for the past five years, preached his farewell sermon last Sunday, and he and his esteemable wife leaves today for Cleveland, Ohio, where he will supply for Rev. Thomas, while that gentleman is away on his summer vacation. During his residence in this city, Mr. Waterbury has endeared himself not only to his own congregation, but to all with whom he came in contact by his kindly ways, and his departure will be regretted by all. He is a man of rare attainments and one whose presence cannot fail to be felt for the right. May his lines fall in pleasant places, is the wishes of all here.

A New Boy.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Crandall, of this city, on Thursday, July 8, a son. And now papa sings:

A charge to keep I have,
A kid to pacify;
An ever crying boy to save,
And fit him for the skies.

When darkness comes, oh, dear!
Just hear that sinner bawl;
He makes the cold chills through me run,
And shakes the plastered wall.

I'll feed him catnip tea,
And with him walk the floor;
And then I set him on my knee
'Till he begins to snore.

And thus we onward go,
Through this dark world of woe;
Such seems to be the life of all,
Who live down here below.

J. M. Walker, of this city, left at our office this week, samples of twelve different varieties of strawberries, from his vines, all of which are beauties. Mr. Walker has made a special study of strawberry growing and has it down to a fine art. He has a fine selection of the best varieties, and those who contemplate putting out plants for next year will do well to interview him.
Michigan stands second of the states of the Union in the great salt industry. This is the verdict of the United States Geological Survey, which has just completed its annual report upon the output during last year as compared with the previous 12 months. The output of the whole United States in 1896 was 13,850,726 barrels, worth $4,040,839, of which Michigan contributed 3,164,726 barrels, valued at $718,408. New York alone exceeded Michigan.
The "Glorious Fourth" effects different people in different ways. Now, we know of one young man, whose sister asked him to mail some letters for her, but he went to the bowery and lost them. Then the next evening he took his aged grandmother to call on some friends, and went down town and was to call for her later. It was considerable later. He arrived home about 11 p. m. and had forgotten all about grandma. If that young man's best girl stays away much longer, we are afraid he will be a candidate for Traverse City.
While riding a horse at the celebration in Whittemore last Saturday, Prof. Earl Russell was thrown and very seriously injured. It appears that the horse became frightened and ran into the crowd and nearly on to a lady, when Mr. Russell threw himself to one side to push her out of the way, and as he did so the horse jumped side ways and he struck against a stand in such a way as to break two or three ribs and otherwise injury himself. At last reports he was resting easily and the doctors think that there is no doubt as to his recovery.
