If a cat meet a cat upon the garden wall, and if a cat doth greet a cat. O, need they both to squall? Every Tommy has his Tabby waiting on the wall, and yet he welcomes her approach with an un-earthly yawl. And if a kitten wish to court upon the garden wall, why don't he sit and sweetly smile, and not stand up and bawl, and lift his precious back so high, and show his teeth and moan, as if 'twere colic more than love, that made that feller groan.—Penny Magazine.

Many people suppose there is no penalty attached to mailing a letter in a news paper, photographs or package of merchandise. This is a mistake and the postoffice department is looking after such matters. It will be better for all parties to pay the regular postage than to have Uncle Sam's officials after them. If you are sending a letter pay letter postage and avoid any trouble.

THAT General Will White and his gang of military thieves will receive light sentences, if they are convicted, seems to be pretty well understood.

It is to be hoped that Governor elect Bliss will have better success in securing honest men for appointment to the various state offices than Gov. Pingree did. The state can hardly stand another gang of thieves so soon.

VARIOUS kinds of gems have been produced by chemical artifice. Moissan, a Parisian chemist, has succeeded in making diamonds by melting wrought iron and carbon. The diamonds thus made are very small, but it is believed that larger ones will be produced before long. Rubies as beautiful as genuine have been made by means of electricity, and the same is done with sapphires.

In some grottoes in Algeria French explorers recently discovered stone implements mingled with the remains of extinct animals belonging to quaternary times. Further explorations indicate that during the age when the grottoes were inhabited the coast of Algeria had a configuration different from that of today. Among the animals associated with the ancient human inhabitants of Algeria were the hippopotamus and various species of ruminants.

This will be the greatest college year that the United States or any other country has ever known. The Saturday Evening Post has taken some trouble to collect the returns from the different institutions of the country, and there is scarcely an exception to the report of an unprecedented increase in the number of students. This affects not only the universities, so called, but all the colleges of every class and size through the union.

THE election in the third congressional district in Kansas, hinges on the election in the Philippines. Kansas soldiers who are serving in the Philippines have a right to vote under the Kansas law. In the third district the Democrat candidate for congress is elected by 150 votes, but the district has 2,500 soldiers in the Philippines, who have a right to cast their ballots. Until the returns are received from Luzon, the district remains officially in doubt. Naturally the opposing candidate in that district are enjoying all the delights of suspense.

figures of 1890 and 1900 shows that a strip of country which ought to be prosperous has retrograded during the last 10 years. The thriving towns of the Huron shore, in the vicinity of Saginaw bay and northward have experienced a frost. Bay Cities and the Saginaws have lost in population. The town of Au Sable, which 1890 was a busy place of 4,328 inhabitants, has apparently fallen below the 2,000 mark. Tawas City, East Tawas and Harrisville have suffered, and Alpena and Cheboygan have by great enterprise been able to more than hold their own. To be sure, the lumber industry which built up these towns has declined almost to the vanishing point; but the business men had looked forward to that day and prepared to keep their mills running by rafting logs from the forests of Canada. For several years this went on successfully, and then a greedy coterie which was in a hurry to market its southern pine and put up the price of white pine, engineered the $2 lumber tariff through congress. Canada's very natural retaliation stopped the export of her logs, to be worked into lumber in American mills, and then the men who had depended upon the lumber industry in Huron shore towns were left without any occupation. They took their families and moved away. The towns to whose prosperity they contributed have felt their loss. Surely Senator Burrows deserves a monument in one of the public squares in some one of these suffering cities.

Discoveries in the Pacific.

The fish commission steamer Albatross, which returned recently after 14 months' cruise in the Pacific, made some important discoveries during the voyage. It was found that all the charts of the South Pacific are inaccurate, and that most of the islands, except Fiji and Tahiti, are placed from two to twelve miles away from their actual position. The Albatross also discovered that the temperature of the bottom of the sea at all depths from 500 fathoms to the greatest depths obtainable is the same—35 degrees Fahrenheit. Between the surface and 2,500 fathoms down they found edible shrimp, varying in size from half an inch to a foot in length. The Albatross broke the record for deep sea dredging, dragging the bottom at 4,200 fathoms. The greatest depth ever dragged before was 3,000 fathoms, by the British ship Challenger, in 1876. In the Bering sea the Albatross found a place where the charts show 2,000 fathoms, but the depth is only 270 fathoms.

season was in the form of a wedding which took place Wednesday Nov. 21, at the Hemlock Baptist church.

The contracting parties being Miss Rachel Chambers of Tawas township and Lyman P. Latham of Grant.

After the bridal party reached the church the wedding march was played by Mr. Marshal Smith as cornetist Mrs. Smith as organist and Master Archie Barry as violinist. The bridal party attended by Guy K. Latham and James Chambers as groomsmen and Miss Ethel Durant and Miss Anna Currey as bridesmaids marched up the center aisle and took their place under a large arch decorated with evergreen and white lilies, where the wedding ceremony took place. Performed by Rev. A. Waterbury of Tawas City.

The bride was very becomingly attired in cream mohair with white silk chiffon and crystal trimmings. The first bridesmaid Miss Durant was dressed in Nile green cashmere, The second bridesmaid Miss Currey was dressed in cream cashmere.

After the ceremony was performed the bridal party accompanied by about 90 relatives and friends repaired to the home of the bride's parents where a most bountiful repast was served.

The young couple was the recipient of many costly beautiful and useful presents.

After refreshments were served the young couple accompanied by a few of their friends drove to Tawas where they took the 7.45 train for the Niagara Falls and intermediate points.

The young couple start out in life with the best wishes of a large circle of friends as they are both well and favorably known.

his grandparents, as has been said, the time for the selection of breeding animals should begin equally early, declares The American Cultivator. Herein lies the value of a pedigree for all farm stock, but it should be unbroken, not only in the line of descent, but in the possession of those qualities desired in the future animal. A neglect to conform with this requirement has caused some to lose faith in the importance of hereditary influence. "There are black sheep in every flock" is an old saying, and if one desires white lambs it is not well to accept the black sheep to produce them from, no matter how white its ancestors may have been. This is equally true in breeding any animals for special purposes. If one is not true to the characteristics of the breed, not the bluest of blood should lead to its preservation to perpetuate the breed.

Colts' Feet.

A natural grass field is very valuable in the preservation of the feet of colts. The surface is much softer than a field that is under regular rotation, and their hoofs in consequence are less liable to become worn and splintered.

A Gem Among Chinese Primroses.

Among recent introductions of the primrose family a writer in Meehan's Monthly has mentioned Primula sletlala as one of the best. The foliage is very dark purple in color. The flowers are pure white and about one inch in diameter, produced on tiers one above the other, reaching over 20 inches in height. The plants flower much longer than the sinensis type. The seed should be sown in April in light soil to get good sized plants and given a little more sun than is usual for sinensis.

The 1901 R. Hicks 1901 Almanac.

Whatever may be said of the scientific causes upon which the Rev. Irl R. Hicks bases his yearly forecasts of storm and weather, it is a remarkable fact that specific warnings of every great storm, flood, cold wave and drouth, have been plainly printed in his now famous Almanac for many years. The latest startling proof of this fact was the destruction of Galveston, Texas, on the very day named by Prof. Hicks in his 1900 Almanac, as one of disaster by storm along the gulf coasts. The 1901 Almanac, by far the finest, most complete and beautiful yet published, is now ready. This remarkable book of near two hundred pages, splendidly illustrated with charts and half-tone engravings, goes as a premium to every subscriber who pays one dollar a year for Prof. Hicks' journal, Word and Works. The Almanac alone is sent prepaid for only 25c. Order from Word and Works Publishing Company, 2201 Locust Street St. Louis, Mo.

Latest Bucket Shop Game.

The "typewriter decoy" is the latest thing in Wall street confidence games. If you get a letter signed "Your own Carrie," addressed to you apparently by mistake, and telling you how to turn $100 into $1,000, believe it not. Such letters are being sent all over the country by a bucket shop man to persons who are likely to swallow the bait. He is Carrie. The prospective victim gets the letter in the business envelope of the bucket shop man. It is seemingly written by the firm typewriter to her best young man and tells him how many people are getting rich by sending their money to her employers, how many thousands of dollars in profits she mails back to them each month. Under promise of secrecy she arranges to send him her savings, which he is to mail for investment under his own name and at the end of the month they are to be married and spend the profits on their honeymoon. The best thing about the "typewriter decoy" from the bucket shop man's standpoint is that the postal authorities cannot accuse him of using the mails to defraud. —New York World.

P'S PRAYERS

Once upon a time sickness came to the family of a poorly paid pastor of a country church, says the Omaha World-Herald. It was winter and the pastor was in financial straits. A number of his flock decided to meet at his house and offer prayers for the speedy recovery of the sick ones and for material blessings upon the pastor's family. While one of the deacons was offering a fervent prayer for blessings upon the pastor's household, there was a loud knock at the door. When the door was opened a stout farmer's boy was seen, wrapped up comfortably.

"What do you want, boy?" asked one of the elders.

"I've brought pa's prayers," replied the boy. "Brought pa's prayers? What do you mean."

"Yep, brought his prayers, and they are out in the wagon. Just help me and we'll get 'em in."

The 1901 R. Hicks 1901 Almanac.

Whatever may be said of the scientific causes upon which the Rev. Irl R. Hicks bases his yearly forecasts of storm and weather, it is a remarkable fact that specific warnings of every great storm, flood, cold wave and drouth, have been plainly printed in his now famous Almanac for many years. The latest startling proof of this fact was the destruction of Galveston, Texas, on the very day named by Prof. Hicks in his 1900 Almanac, as one of disaster by storm along the gulf coasts. The 1901 Almanac, by far the finest, most complete and beautiful yet published, is now ready. This remarkable book of near two hundred pages, splendidly illustrated with charts and half-tone engravings, goes as a premium to every subscriber who pays one dollar a year for Prof. Hicks' journal, Word and Works. The Almanac alone is sent prepaid for only 25c. Order from Word and Works Publishing Company, 2201 Locust Street St. Louis, Mo.

Latest Bucket Shop Game.

The "typewriter decoy" is the latest thing in Wall street confidence games. If you get a letter signed "Your own Carrie," addressed to you apparently by mistake, and telling you how to turn $100 into $1,000, believe it not. Such letters are being sent all over the country by a bucket shop man to persons who are likely to swallow the bait. He is Carrie. The prospective victim gets the letter in the business envelope of the bucket shop man. It is seemingly written by the firm typewriter to her best young man and tells him how many people are getting rich by sending their money to her employers, how many thousands of dollars in profits she mails back to them each month. Under promise of secrecy she arranges to send him her savings, which he is to mail for investment under his own name and at the end of the month they are to be married and spend the profits on their honeymoon. The best thing about the "typewriter decoy" from the bucket shop man's standpoint is that the postal authorities cannot accuse him of using the mails to defraud. —New York World.

P'S PRAYERS

Once upon a time sickness came to the family of a poorly paid pastor of a country church, says the Omaha World-Herald. It was winter and the pastor was in financial straits. A number of his flock decided to meet at his house and offer prayers for the speedy recovery of the sick ones and for material blessings upon the pastor's family. While one of the deacons was offering a fervent prayer for blessings upon the pastor's household, there was a loud knock at the door. When the door was opened a stout farmer's boy was seen, wrapped up comfortably.

"What do you want, boy?" asked one of the elders.

"I've brought pa's prayers," replied the boy. "Brought pa's prayers? What do you mean."

"Yep, brought his prayers, and they are out in the wagon. Just help me and we'll get 'em in."

FARM NOTES.

All animals appreciate a clean bed at night.

Fix up the pump and water trough before cold weather.

For general purposes the good walker is the horse most needed.

The cow as well as the steer seems to be jumping over the moon.

Did the change in the weather catch you with your corn unhusked?

Under no circumstances should a vicious sow be kept as a breeder.

Sheep digest their food more thoroughly than any other domestic animal.

Feeding hogs after they have passed the growing stage, and well fattened, is a loss.

Sheep are cleanly; therefore give them clean food to eat and pure water to drink.

There is no danger of handling and feeding the colt to early. The early training is the best.

For those who do not live to far away from lake, river or pond, ice on the farm is a paying investment.

Use sufficient bedding to retain all of the voidings and at the same time secure proper cleanliness with the animals.

When the root crops are harvested save the unmerchantable ones and store away especially to feed the poultry.

The rapid advance in all kinds of meats comes to the farmer with plenty of fowl ready for the block, like a Christmas present.

In fattening hogs to the best advantage it is quite an item to feed and water regularly, whether fed twice or three times daily.

Late wheat is looking fairly well in the southern part of the state, while the early sown has the appearance of "going the way of the earth."

A witty man once said: "The fellow that is willing to work for nothing and board himself rarely earns more than he gets." This saying does not apply to the honey bee by any means.

The man who can't afford to buy lumber for a shed in which to keep the farm implements is a man who is the friend of the manufacturers. Wind and weather are hard on machinery.

A pig's tail is said to indicate unerringly the condition of the animal. If it hangs loose it shows that the pig is not well and that its food should be changed. If it is coiled tightly the pig is healthy and happy.

It is surprising how fowls will eat coal ashes or cinders. They seem to afford excellent grinding material for the gizzard, and hens will eat rough jagged pieces which look as though they would stick in the throat.

Does it pay to rob the farm? There are thousands of farmers who are robbing their farms every year, and then blaming the old farm for not doing better, or else accusing the government because it does not do better.—Missouri Stock Journal.

The government crop report shows this year's corn crop to be only 100,000,000 bushels less than last year, or 2,000,000,000 bushels. The shortage is in Kansas, Oklahoma and Nebraska. Iowa has the best crop raised in twenty years.

The facts are that every steer that grazes is worth from $10 to $15 more today than he was four years ago. And every hog that follows the steer is worth from $3 to $4.50 more than he was at that time, which goes to make up part of the measure of the farmer's prosperity.

The Agricultural Department at Washington publishes much free to every one who requests the Secretary of Agriculture to send them to him.

Turkeys are hard to raise because most people overfeed them when they are just hatched. Wild turkeys do not get much when first hatched nor until they are able to hunt for themselves. Nature knows pretty well how to bring up turkeys.

Chickens can be raised much cheaper where incubators and brooders are used than they can where hens are used for hatching and brooding. Set an incubator going and it keeps going with a little care. Set a hen hatching and she is liable not to be there at the most critical time.

A note from Farmer, N. Y. says: "A thing never before known in this part of Seneca county is the importing of hay and straw, made necessary by the very light crop this year. For many years Farmer has been noted for a shipping point for hay. This year Indiana and Michigan hay will be shipped in."

The man who wouldn't feed his chickens because they didn't lay any eggs was a brother to the man who didn't have any cow shed because cows never pay for their feed in the winter anyhow. He was a cousin of theirs who never set out an orchard because he expected to die before it would come into bearing.

John W. Wood, of Marcy, in remarks before the grangers, said there was dormant fertilizer in the soil of every farm, worth from $1,000 to $3,000 per acre, and that the way it can be got out of the dormant state is by pulverizing the soil very thoroughly. This is fully substantiated by the agricultural chemists. It makes many a farmer very much wealthier than he had any idea.

The silent creeping fungous pests, and not the boisterous world-famed hurricane of September played havoc with many of our western orchards this season. This is the experience in many sections of the Mississippi basin where fruit growers must put up a much more vigorous fight than hitherto before they can hope to successfully compete with the east in growing apples for winter markets.

It is interesting to note the change that is gradually taking place in the ideas of dairymen with regard to the state of flesh in which dairy cows should be kept. It is not long since the average dairyman regarded with horror anything like flesh on the ribs of a dairy cow, and the nearer he sides looked like a sheet blown hard against a picket fence, the more he thought of her. But we have learned a lot of things about the dairy cow and dairying in general during the past ten years and one of them is that it does no harm to let the cow get in good heart and put a little flesh on her bones.—Texas Stockman.

Statistics published by the American Agriculturist go to show that the growing of corn is a paying business, even at small prices. Investigators carried on by the publication named cover over 4,000 acres, with an average yield of a little less than 40 bushels to the acre. The Agriculturist finds that the total cost per bushel is 12.9 cents, including value of labor and its maintenance, a depreciation of team and machinery and every other charge except depreciation of farm buildings and fences, insurance and superintendence. If the farmer can get 21.5 cents a bushel the Agriculturist figures out that he receives six per cent on the capital invested.

This promises to be a great season for the tree shark. The of apples gathered by some wonderful process, and many other things will be proposed. One firm claims to be working with the state experiment station! Now wouldn't you think it a great waste of space to keep warning the public against these rascals? It does seem so, and yet day after day, and week after week, these frauds capture their victims.—Rural New Yorker.

Fifty years ago a man thought nothing of day's walk of 40 or 50 miles; now he has to take a bicycle to go after the cows. Forty years ago a young man, aye an old one, swung his cradled day in and day out through tall grain for months; today if you asked one to cut a road around a field he would think you escaped from a lunatic asylum, and the young man who has to sit on a reaper with a cushioned spring seat thinks it was for a hard fortune he was sent into the world. A few decades ago a young man chopped cordwood in the brush from Christmas to Easter; today he could not take off a 12 inch log to save his life.

CANADIAN FRUIT ABOARD.

A recent issue of the London (Eng.) Mail says that 1000 cases of magnificent Canadian pears and numerous cases of Crawford and Elberta peaches had been landed and sold at Manchester and had created quite a stir in trade circles. "Many of the pears," says the Mail, "are quite what are termed giant fruit. In color, flavor and juiciness they are far superior French pears." The fruit met with a ready sale. It was packed in chambers regulated by mechanical refrigerators—"a system," says the Mail, "which has revolutionized the fruit trade of the United Kingdom. It was inaugurated three years ago by the Hon. Sydney Fisher, Minister of Agriculture for Canada, and since then various improvements have been made under the supervision of prof. J. W. Robertson. The condition of transit are now so faultless that the most delicate Canadian fruits can be delivered in Great Britain in perfect condition."

REPAIRING FOR GRAPES.

In repairing the land for grapevines plow the ground deeply, and if possible, subsoil. Then pulverize the ground thoroughly to give the small roots all the chance possible to develop.

It is best to set the vines not nearer together than eight feet. The holes in which the vines are set should be each two feet square and from eighteen to twenty inches deep.

If a large number of vines are to be set, the land should be previously marked off, so that the row of vines will be straight both ways, as this improves the looks of the fields and makes it easier to cultivate.

One grape grower advises to keep the surface soil separate from the subsoil when digging the holes, and to put back this surface dirt first when filling up the holes. This will give the roots a good medium in which to develop.

Once well rooted and growing, the vine can send its roots into the less congenial soil, without experiencing a setback. In the fall, in regions where winter protection is needed, this may be obtained by growing a furrow on each side of the row and throwing the dirt up toward the vines. In the spring this dirt must be leveled to admit of even culture. The vines may be staked and tied to the stakes, till they are two years old, when they may be fastened to wires strung between posts.

Millions Give Away.

It is certainly gratifying to the public to know of one concern which is not afraid to be generous. The proprietors of Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, coughs and colds, have given away over ten million trial bottles and have the satisfaction of knowing it has cured

Yellow is a highly contagious, incurable disease of the peach. Trees affected with it should be destroyed at the earliest possible moment by uprooting and digging them out and burning roots, trunk and branches, including fruit, on site. No remedy save that has proved successful. Dragging diseased trees or branches through an orchard will infect healthy trees. Late summer and fall are the most favorable times for detection of yellows by symptoms of fruit and twigs. These are: 1. Premature ripening of the fruit, which is highly colored and spotted and has the flesh marbled with red. 2. Premature unfolding of winter buds. 3. Abnormal development of new buds in the trunk and branches, which grow into slender, sickly looking shoots.—Ohio Station.

A Good Collection of Roses.
At the first summer exhibition of the American Rose society, held in New York city, among the Perpetual or Remontant roses, which formed the bulk of the exhibition, the familiar old varieties, such as Anna de Diesbach, Captain Christy, Fisher Holmes, General Jacqueminot, Mme. Gabriel Lutzet, Magna Charta and Paul Neyron, greatly predominated, though about all the varieties noted in American catalogues were shown. If one should add Margaret Dickson and Gloire Lyonnaise, both white, the latter with a yellow tinge, and Jean Labaud or Prince Camille de Rohan, both very dark crimson, to the above list, a good foundation for an amateur collection would be laid, says Rural New Yorker.
