A Great Democratic Opportunity.

Alfred J. Doherty, of Clare, has secured for himself a renomination to the state senate from the twenty-eighth district.

The district is a scattering one, embracing nine sparsely settled counties. According to Doherty's claim his constituents are palpably ignorant in regard to the great political issues of the age, and are said to be entirely satisfied with corporation rule and boss-dictated nominations. This may or may not be true.

Doherty's only conception of senatorial duties is to play politics. To achieve some petty triumph for a ring of tricky politicians is the height of his official ambition. To seriously sit down the solution of any great question of government is something he is wholly incapable of. He simply makes a farce of the important functions of legislating for a great state.

Theodore Roosevelt and Alfred J. Doherty are opposites in every respect. The one believes in the people and in government for the good of the people alone; the other believes in government by bosses in the pay of the great corporations of the country, and, of course, government for their benefit alone.

Doherty ought not to be re-elected. It will be good republicanism for those who vote for Roosevelt to cut him. A good, reputable and intelligent democrat will be of infinitely greater service to the state in promoting good, wholesome legislation and keeping down taxes. The reputation of the republican party will also be conserved.

Doherty resides in the very edge of his district and can have but slight relations with the majority of his constituents. He has also held the office for two terms, and has done nothing for the state that should entitle him to a third.

He is also unpopular in his own home. A year ago his son stood for the office of mayor of his home city, Clare, and was defeated. The father's influence was wholly insufficient to secure his election.

The opportunity is a rare one for the democrats of the district. If they make a wise selection they can fill with a man of statesmanly qualities at least one chair in the senate which is now ignobly held.—Detroit Evening News.

Tawas Beach Program Inviting to Yachtsmen.

The official program for the eighth annual regatta of the Tawas Beach Yachting association is out, and an excellent list of events is offered for the four days, August 3, 4, 5, and 6. A race will also be held Friday afternoon for the dignities of the yachts for $20 in prizes. At 2 p. m. Friday will occur the squadron sail of the fleet and at 6 p. m. a fish supper will be served at the club. Friday evening the annual ball of the association will be held in the Tawas Beach casino. Saturday will be one of the biggest days, as the special race for county club 21-foot cabin restricted class will be sailed in the morning and the free-for-all handicap race in the afternoon. The 21-footer race will have as prizes the Saginaw Evening News silver trophy and $200 in prizes, divided as follows: First prize, silver trophy and $100, second, $50; third, $35; fourth, $15; Saturday evening the annual meeting and election will be held and following this the smoker and distribution of prizes will wind up festivities.

Brutally Tortured.

A case came to light that for persistent and unmerciful torture has never been equalled. Joe Golobick of Colusa Cal, writes: "For 15 years I endured insufferable pain from rheumatism and nothing relieved me though I tried everything known. I came across Electric Bitters and its the greatest medicine on earth for that trouble. A few bottles of it relieved and cured me." Just as good for liver and kidney troubles and general debility. ### A Railroad War.

Cheboygan, June 27.—Through the combined efforts of the employees of the Detroit & Mackinac road, the sheriff of Cheboygan county, Judge Shepard and 2,000 citizens of this city, the blockade which had been maintained by the Michigan Central for twenty-four hours was removed from the D. & M. crossings and a mile and a half of track was laid by the latter road into the city, bringing the rails within fifty feet of the Michigan Central depot, the whole work having been completed since noon Sunday.

The trouble arose over a dispute as to the D. & M. right of way, and late Saturday night an injunction was secured forbidding the Michigan Central to interfere with the right of way of the D. & M. Until this time the former road had blocked with engines the crossing of the latter road with the Michigan Central's "tannery spur" track south of town. This blockade was raised Saturday night and the engines were removed to where the D. & M. right of way crosses the Michigan Central's paper mill spur inside the city, and the engines, with four large freight cars, were piled up at the diamond crossing. Last night 2,000 men from the city, aided by the D. & M. employees, fought off the Michigan Central men guarding the obstruction, and with crowbars, ropes, pulleys and other equipment pulled off the engines and cars, making the track in its entirety then clear. Taking advantage of this, the D. & M. people built a mile and a half of track into the city and ran a train over it.

During the melee at the blocked diamond the sheriff of Cheboygan county arrested twelve Michigan Central employees including the train crew, section crew and roadmaster, and they are held charged with violating Judge Shepard's injunction. Chief Roadmaster Burns, of the Michigan Central, arrived in town late last night to look over the situation, and with the company's attorney will advise the local employes as to their actions today.

The republican county convention, for the nomination of candidates for county officials, has been called to meet at the court house, in this city, Wednesday, July 27, at 10 o'clock.

Dr. Andrew B. Spinney, proprietor of the Reed City Sanitarium, will be at the Holland hotel, East Tawas, Thursday, July 14, from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m. See advertisement.

The board of supervisors were in session Monday and Tuesday. Among other business transacted was the authorizing the rebuilding of the wall under the court house, which is in very bad condition.

Suit has been formally begun by the state of Michigan in the Ingham circuit court against the Michigan Central Railroad Co. to recover $4,050,540.84 in taxes, which the state claims is due to it from the company, on account of alleged fraudulent statements made by the railroad company's officials. The suit is begun by Atty.-Gen. Charles A. Blair and Thomas E. Barkworth, of Jackson, as attorney, with Otto Kirchner of this city, as counsel.

An exchange fitly describes the meaning of the term "local enterprise." If you can think of anything that can be done to beautify or build up your town go and do it. Keep your capital at home; patronize home industries; help your merchants to sell more so they can sell cheaper; always get your work done in your own town if possible; subscribe and pay for your home paper; don't steal or borrow the reading of it. If you follow these suggestions and your town does not improve and build up, it will not be your fault. Try it.

Here is food for the pessimists. Look at the condition of the working man today, where is he? The tinner are continually going up the spout, the plumbers are always in the gutter, the paper hangers are continually up against the wall, the bakers are compelled to raise the dough, the policeman has to be on the beat in order to live, the shoemakers have to work on the uppers and they get waxed in the end, the clock makers are run on tick and they are never on time, the washwoman is always in soak and she is the only one you see hanging on the line.—E. L.

Bourke Cockran, addressing the New York Federation of Catholic societies, declared that polygamy was less objectionable than divorce. The polygamist kept his wives together, while the divorcee drove his wives tandem. The power to divorce, he said, was an encouragement to the unchaste. Divorce at present was only in the fruit was hard to conjecture. He prophesied that if divorce increased it would result in a new civilization. Polygamy would never be sanctioned by the laws of the United States, and divorce was a worse evil.

The D. & M. railroad has over 70 acres of land between the Tannery and Lincoln avenue, and 30 or more acres in the north part of town, and are after more. The Cheboygan Southern road has over $35,000 worth of valuable land on the east side, and an option which they will not sell for $8,000 to $10,000 worth of land on the east side of the river. Just what it all means we cannot say, but surely it can't mean evil, for they have paid a rattling good price for every square foot of it, and its value to them depends on what uses they put it to, for no one else wants the land unless the railroads want it worse.—Cheboygan Democrat.

TWELFTH ANNUAL

Commencement of the Tawas City High School.

On Thursday evening of last week, at the Methodist church occurred the graduating exercises of our public schools. Miss Pearl Hurlbert was the only member of the class of '04. The church decorations were simple, yet handsome, consisting of the class colors, pink and white, and potted ferns and plants.

The program opened with a finely executed piano solo by Mrs. E. King, followed by the invocation by Rev. Ehle. Miss Beryl Hurlbert rendered a most pleasing violin solo. "The Quest of Happiness," was the topic chosen by Miss Hurlbert for her graduating essay, it was well delivered and contained much that was good, and we publish it in full. Master James Mark rendered a vocal solo in a manner that marks this young lad as a vocalist of more than ordinary promise.

The address of the evening was given by F. P. Arthur, pastor of the First Christian church, of Grand Rapids. "Personality" was his theme, and the subject was handled in a manner most pleasing. The address was one of the most able ever listened to by an audience in this city, and contained much food for careful and prayerful consideration by all.

Miss Elsie Mount rendered a piano solo in her usual pleasing manner, and W. F. Whittemore presented the diploma, after which Miss Winnifred Harting sang "Forgotten" which was much enjoyed by all. The benediction was pronounced by Rev. Hastings.

The large audience present was handled in a most excellent manner and much credit is due those who had the management of this profitable evening.

"THE QUEST OF HAPPINESS."
 Below is the full text of Miss Hurlbert's essay:

The quest of happiness is the oldest known topic and also the newest. Because of its fascination it has been the subject of many discourses; but still there is room for various opinions and fresh statements. Happiness is closely related to our personal good, success and usefulness, and is always and inevitably joined to the many and varied quests of life. Among which are the quest of love, the quest of gold, the quest of truth and usefulness, and above all and greatest of all the quest of goodness and of God.

Man is not merely a pleasure-seeker; duty is always to be considered before delight. But happiness has a certain divine sanction; for whoever moves along a divine path in seeking the quests of life finds himself possessor of another quest, namely, happiness. Thus we discover the universality of the quest; for its instinct is imbedded in human beings as deeply as the instinct of life itself. The satisfied feeling accompanying the right conduct, and the restlessness brought on by our wrong doing are proofs that the soul was made for joy and good cheer. God has ordained that every act of obedience to His laws strengthens the cords which vibrate joy. Therefore if righteousness is the supreme end and aim of life, happiness is the reward.

Literature is the story of life and our greatest and best books dwell on the quest of a man's life. For instance, Jason's Fleece is a story concerning the quest of gold. Job's quest and Paul's was the quest of God. But the Bible opens with the story of a man in quest of happiness and who moved along a wrong course in pursuit of it, thus losing his first paradise; also does it close with this subject showing the noble spirits of those who were successful in this quest.

If a man is happy his work seems more endurable and he is stronger to it, and whatever event lessens man's happiness may lessen his usefulness and weaken his work.

Many people speak of the good old times when they should say the good new times. For no one can fail to see that men's life is easy now compared with the drudgery and hardships which he had to undergo during past ages. At one time many families were so poor that they never knew whence the next day's food would come. Compare this with the present ages when delicate foods have become common to families which were formerly called poor. The poorer classes of today are also benefited by good schooling, wholesome reading, Christian friends and teachers, and numerous other advantages which have swept away old superstitions, established Christian faith, and clothed it with sweetness and light. We can therefore safely say that none but the most ignorant class believes as Schopenhauer did that life is a misfortune and none but the dead are happy. Many people are disheartened and blinded by former mistakes thus failing to see the opportunities which new day affords. America's poet preacher had said "Old failures like old garments should be cast away and forgotten for ever. Man's greatest opportunity is just in front." If we could but profit by these fruitful sayings and remember that God is a Father who pities and cares for His children we would find happiness and success always in sight.

We are often forced to accept circumstances which cannot be changed; for in studying many a successful life we find that victory begins with the belief of the possibility of happiness. For did not Bunyan write his immortal book "Pilgrim's Progress" while in jail and Beethoven his glorious symphonies when deaf, and did not Phillips become a great preacher although he stammered? Many people are inclined to complain because of the trouble through they are forced to pass, forgetting that pain is the stepping stone to pleasure. Poverty, hardship and toil fitted the youth who became our much loved president Lincoln. For the Man of Galilee, there came the valley of humiliation as a preparation for the glorified work of redeeming the world. For the Savior endured great pain and sacrifice to obtain the joy which was set before Him. It is indeed the man who washes the lesser of his eyes with tears and walks in the way that is bright with forest fires, that is promised the throne and scepter of manhood and happiness.

The fact that the capacity of pain ranks a creature in the scale of life, forces the lines of ignorance to recede. The lark threatened with danger struck its first note which in time developed into the sweet music of the nightingale and hermit thrush. Man's happiness begins with sensitiveness; and sensitiveness is at first delicacy of nerve and later fineness of mind and heart.

Success is ever the heritage of hardships and the youth, always to link ease, wealth and success together is disappointed to find that he who toils is happiest, taking pleasure in what he has wrought. A common argument of today is that man's happiness is unevenly distributed by reason of the inequality of talents. But when we balance joys and sorrow we find that if poverty has its load so also does wealth have its responsibilities; that if the obscure peasant has his task, genius has his heavy burdens.

Many an inventor like Patissey is reduced to such poverty that he is obliged to break up furniture for firewood. Personal happiness consists in the thought that whether a one or a ten talent man, God has placed us here to do the task in hand and do it well. Surely it is a misconception that work is a curse though it was for sin that man was made to earn his bread by the sweat of his brow. Jesus who was born of laboring parents spent thirty years in one of the handicrafts. Paul said "Let him that stole steal no more but rather work, meaning that class of people who get a living without work and are thieves, paupers and parasites. The moral uses of work are to acquaint man with nature, give him a liberal education and train him in morals thus dignifying humanity. All of man's fine arts and his knowledge comes from daily labor.

Money is an accessory to man's happiness only as man masters it and is not tyrannized by it, for money is a force which can be made good or bad by its use.

What influences for happiness have conversation and social life. The American people have lost the art of fine conversation by over-emphasis and a form of exaggeration which David Swing termed "Excess." Some people have departed from the time worn rule of thinking before speaking but speak and then think. Others speak so harsh that their words cut like a sharp knife; then there are those who carry poison like the asp and the venom is slander. But with the tongue has its ministry of mercy and sympathy and what words, bullets or lash can never do kind words often accomplish. A person is indeed welcome whose words soothe, oil the bearings of life, lessen friction and provoke laughter and good cheer. When we thus consider the good effect of a few kind and gentle words do we not wonder at the number of homes which are entirely devoid of happiness.

Another way by which a man may obtain a great deal of happiness is by books. These are placed among his most helpful friends and in the very highest sense are true labor saving devices. If you would strip a man of his tools he would become a savage and if you would strip him of his books he would become a mere slave, ignorant of his own rights and opportunities.

Although there are many things which add to man's happiness there are also some which detract from it. Among the most common of these are hurry, worry and debt. Although we affirm that they are impeding this happiness by cultivating the habit of being everlastingly busy. And the noise and din of the business world have compelled men to look around so much that they forget to look up. Then too these three enemies of happiness are also enemies of health for who can be strong physically when they are always in a hustle and when the brow is wrinkled with worry or whom we are constantly made to remember that which they own cannot rightfully be called theirs because of a debt which they have contracted.

The forces of nature and earth's resources are intended to add to man's happiness yet he can neither appreciate these things nor use them to the best advantage unless he considers them as messengers from God, bringing declarations of His loving care for us. It is not enough that there is Providence over summer and winter by which the barns and storehouses are made to overflow. In the midst of the fierce strife, man cries out "no one cares for my soul." Like King Lear of old who rushed forth from his palace to wander amidst the storm and darkness carrying a heart that almost broke not because he had lost his crown but because he found himself uncared for by his daughters. You must profit by King Lear's example and not depend solely upon your earthly friends but remember that if man cares for you God cares for you. Therefore live a trustful, tranquil, God-centered life, meeting storm with calm adversity with fortitude, defeat with faith, and death with hope of immortal life.

Two games of ball are scheduled for the Fourth in this city. The Tawas City team will play the Grant club in the morning, and the D. & M.'s of East Tawas, in the afternoon.

A very good game of base ball was played at the fair grounds last Saturday afternoon between the D. & M. team of East Tawas and the Tawas City team, the East Tawas boys winning by a score of 9 to 1. The next game between these clubs will be played on the grounds in this city on the Fourth, and a much better contest may be looked for as the team from this city will have its regular line up.

Ed. Snyder, of Mt. Carmel, Ill., and John Phillips, two of the proprietors of the Tuttle farm, in Wilber, have been here during the past week, looking after the herding and branding of 490 young cattle which arrived last Saturday and will be kept at the farm during the summer. This company owns about 4000 acres of land, which will be used for grazing purposes, thus adding another large stock ranch to many which have been established in this county during the past two or three years.

For the purpose of more economical management and a closer drawing together of interests a central board of control has been established by the interests controlling eight of the principal beet sugar factories of Michigan. The combined capital of the eight companies in the deal is $6,250,000, and the plants which will be operated by the board of control are as follows: The Alma, Saginaw, Valley, Bay City, Michigan, Tawas, Sebewing, Sanilac, and Peninsula sugar companies.

HON. G. A. PRESCOTT

Lands the Republican Nomination for Secretary of State Without Opposition.

At the hour of going to press no word has been received from the republican state convention at Detroit as to the nominations, but as the convention is absolutely in control of the Warner "machine", there is no doubt but what Fred M. Warner, of Oakland county is the nominee for governor; Alex. Maitland, of Marquette, for lieutenant governor; George A. Prescott, of this city, for secretary of state and Frank P. Glazier, of Washtenaw for state treasurer. The platform will endorse that of the Grand Rapids convention which declared for local option primary reform.

J. S. Stearns withdrew from the race for the nomination for governor, and will probably head an independent state ticket.

The country newspaper is read from the date line to the patent medicine ad. Many city papers can be found, scarcely rumbled, on the street car seats in the cities. Ever see a town littered up with country papers? No they are all worn out before the neighbors get half through with them.
