Obituary.

ROBINSON—Mrs. Elizabeth Jane Robinson; beloved wife of Cornelius Robinson, was born Nov. 27, 1840, at Byerson, Lincolnshire, England.

Fell asleep in Jesus on Jan. 9, 1905, aged 65 years, 1 month and 10 days. She passed peacefully from the church militant to the church triumphant, leaving a husband three sons—Joseph, Thomas and William, and one daughter, Mrs. Thomas Froekins, of Reno.

Sister Robinson was a loving mother, devoted to her husband and children. She carried a sweet and tender spirit through all her crosses and Christian duties. Much loved by her husband and children, highly esteemed by her many acquaintances and respected by her neighbors.

Deceased was converted to Christ in 1901 under the labors of Rev. J. Pearson at Reno, and joined the First Baptist church, since which time she has lived a faithful and consistent life.

The funeral services were held by Rev. L. Severance of the Reno Baptist church on Jan. 11, 1906. Her three sons and three sons-in-law acted as pall bearers and carried her to her last resting place. It may be said of her: "She sleeps in Jesus."

OUR HOPE

Our hope is not that grand success
Shall crown our work, nor happiness
Upon the earth shall fill our lives,
Nor e'en the joy the Spirit gives;
'Tis not that quiet holy days
Shall close our earthly pilgrimage;
Our soul inspiring hope is this,
That we shall see Christ as He is.
We'll be like Him when He appears,
What matters then the weary years?
This hope will comfort and inspire
The heart that otherwise would tire.
This hope will strengthen in the vale
The feet that otherwise would fail;
'Twill lighten all the heavy care,
We'll see Him and be like Him there.
These bodies that have suffered here
Shall there His glorious image bear;
No pain in that bright land of day,
And God shall wipe all tears away.
'What then if earthly hopes must fade?
Eternal things more clear we read.
We tell for other worlds than this,
And "we shall see Him as He is."
The soul that hath this hope will strive
Pure always in His sight to live.
The world cannot engage the heart
That by this hope is set apart.
And as he muses what 'twill be
To be with Christ eternally.
His spirit bounds to taste the bliss—
To be with Christ and as He is.—Sel.

A Grim Tragedy

is daily enacted in thousands of homes as death claims, in each one, another victim of consumption or pneumonia. But when coughs and colds are properly treated the tragedy is averted. F. G. Huntly of Oakland, Ind. writes: "My wife had the consumption and three doctors gave her up. Finally she took Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, coughs and colds which cured her and today she is well and strong." It kills the germs of all diseases. One dose relieves. Guaranteed at 50c. and $1 by Dr. Darling and J. M. Wiggazzer & Co., druggists. Trial bottle free.

Red Cross Bulletin on Substitution

The substitution of an inferior article for a first-class article is practiced in all lines of business by unprincipled men. The dishonest builder will put into the building where it can be covered up, low-grade and defective material, when the specifications call for the best goods.

The mail order house offers groceries, dress goods, clothing, etc. of the first quality and fills the orders received with second or third quality goods—this is known by mail-order experts to be the secret of the success (?) of "direct to the people" methods of merchandising as practised by the large houses.

And so it goes through all the channels of trade, including the semi-professional trade of retailing drugs and compounding prescriptions. The sensational, tricky drug store man (thank goodness there are comparatively few of them) will substitute cheap and inferior drugs for standard medicinal ingredients when the latter are required to alleviate suffering and cure the diseases for which they are prescribed.

You cannot afford to take any chances in matters of this kind, but should purchase your medicinal supplies, in prescriptions and otherwise, of a druggist personally known to you to be an honest, conscientious man as well as a skilled pharmacist—a druggist whose business methods are devoid of those sensational features that suggest "fakery" in trade and "quackery" in professionalism.

At this store you will always get exactly what you pay for, and will pay no more than the goods (and the service of compounding when goods are dispensed on prescriptions) are worth.

In construction work the cost of handling the material used is the same when the material is inferior as when it is up to standard.

The labor cost in nearly all departments of production is the same whether the material used be first class, or inferior and next to worthless. So it is in the drug business. The "fakir" does not work cheaper than the legitimate druggist—he must have the same or better returns on his investment, must recoup the same or a higher cost of doing business, must receive the same remuneration for professional services, so he is forced to substitute cheap drugs for the standard medicines which you wish to buy, when he announces "bargain prices" in medicinal supplies.

It is well-known that when a dealer "cuts prices" on the standard patent medicines he intends to urge you to buy something "just as good" on which he can make a large profit, or to substitute inferior drugs for standard ones when you make other purchases. Trade with a druggist that you know intends to give you "a square deal."

Prescriptions Carefully compounded. All drugs used in prescriptions are carefully tested for purity by the latest and best methods.

Damages in $17,500 were awarded by a Chicago jury to the children of a drunken father for redress against the saloon keepers alleged to have made a drunkard of him. The verdict, establishing a precedent which will result in the institution of many similar suits, was rendered in Judge Richard S. Tuthill's court.

William Ranny Harper, president of the University of Chicago, is dead from a cancer. He was the foremost Hebrew scholar in America. He received his bachelor's degree at the age of 14, his degree of philosophy at 19, was ranked as one of the greatest Sanskrit scholars at 28 and was president of a great university at 35.

A San Francisco Chinaman, with the sententiousness of his kind, after some experience of American law, once remarked: "Chinese law first-class; man killee man China, head off; no ketchee him, somebody head off, mebbe cousin head off, English law second-class; him killee man mebbe allee same head off Melican law no good, too muchee slupleme court."

A statement prepared by P. V. DeGraw fourth assistant postmaster-general, regarding the operation of the rural free delivery service since its establishment up to January 1, 1906, shows that the total number of petitions received and referred was 51,690, of which 13,125 were acted upon adversely. The number of routes in operation on the date named was 34,677. More than one billion pieces of mail were handled by rural carriers during the fiscal year 1905 each piece costing a little less than one and one-half cents. The approximate net cost of the fiscal year 1905 was $16,871,733.

The New Primary Law.

The people are inquiring about the provisions of the new primary law. It is a difficult matter to make clear the provisions of the law complex and cumbersome as it is, but the Grand Rapids Herald has made an heroic attempt to elucidate some of its provisions in the following:

On the first Monday of April, 1906, town meeting day, a party enrollment will be had. At this enrollment every voter who desires to vote either for or against the proposition to nominate officers by direct vote, or who, if the direct voting system is adopted, desire to vote for any officer to be nominated under the direct primary must enroll or register his name with the party to which he belongs. This enrollment is had in order that in subsequent primaries it may be known to which party he belongs and to prevent members of one party from participating for another party.

On the second Tuesday of June, 1906 a primary will be held to allow the people of the state to decide whether they will nominate governor and lieutenant governor by direct vote, and at the same time to vote for the nomination of candidates for governor and lieutenant governor, for the election in November, and if a majority of the republican (or democratic) votes cast in the state are in favor of direct nomination of governor and lieutenant governor, then the votes cast for those offices are counted and the candidate voted for at such primary on the second Tuesday in June receiving the most votes is the candidate of his party; providing that such candidate receives at least 40 per cent of the party vote cast at the primary.

In city, county, legislative and congressional districts, the enrollment takes place on the first Monday in April, as explained with reference to governor. After the enrollment, at any time 30 days prior to the second Tuesday in June, petitions signed by enrolled republicans and consisting of not less than 20 per cent. of the republican vote cast in the city, county or districts for governor in 1904, asking that the question of direct primary for local offices be submitted in June, must be presented to the city clerk for city officers, county clerk for county officers, and to the secretary of state for legislative and congressional candidates. Upon filing such petition a primary is called for the second Tuesday in June, 1906, being the same day that the people will vote for governor and lieutenant governor. At such primary, every voter who has enrolled in April has the right, and it is his duty to vote for or against the proposition, as to the adoption of the primary system.

If a majority of the republican vote is in favor of direct nomination at the June primary, that method is adopted and on the first Tuesday in September 1906, and every two years thereafter, will be held the primary for nominating such officers as may be involved by direct vote, at which primary the candidate receiving the most votes is the choice of his party.

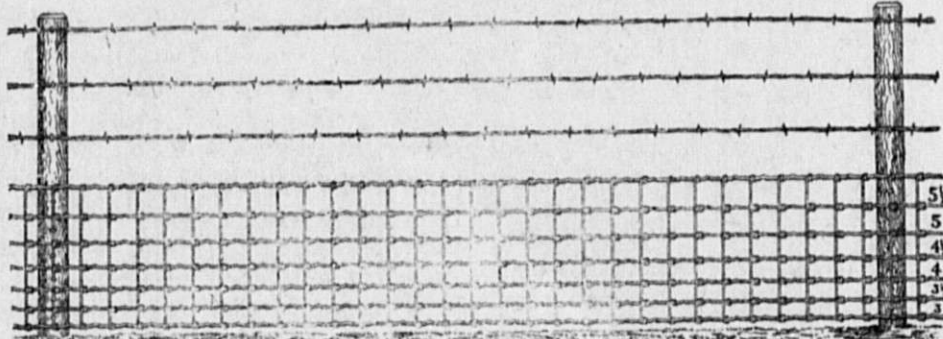

At the June and September primaries only such as were enrolled in April as republicans can vote for republican candidates, and only such as were enrolled as democrats can vote for the democratic candidates.

If the direct primary for nominating county or district officers is adopted in June, then any man desiring to be a candidate of his party must present to the secretary of state, if legislative or congressional, or to the county clerk if for county officers, a petition signed by a number of voters enrolled with his party in April equal to 2 per cent of the vote cast in the district for the nominee of his party for governor, at the previous state election.

Timely Advice.

Risks which signers of promissory notes run are pointed out by Editor J. W. Helme in the last issue of the Michigan Patron, in discussing the negotiable instrument law enacted by the last legislature. He holds that the "innocent purchaser" provision is a shield to frauds. Keeting the history of this legislation, he says;

"Several years ago the American Bar association appointed a committee to draft a uniform negotiable instrument law for all the states. The law has now been passed by over 20 states. The bill was drawn by commercial lawyers, who were mostly bank attorneys, and their whole aim seemed to be to have a law that would make a note ironclad and incontestable from any cause whatever, and to make it 'negotiable' no matter what was in it.

"The bill first reached Michigan in 1899, when the writer was serving on the judiciary committee of the state senate. Among other things the bill provided that a promissory note might contain a clause (in fine print, of course) that without notice to the maker, the holder could take judgment and levy on any property of the maker, whether he was exempt by law or not.

"As a result the state will soon be overrun with swindlers who will make you all sorts of promises to get your name on a note. Once there, your local banker, will become an 'innocent purchaser' for 50 cents on the dollar, and under the uniform negotiable instrument law the first notice you may have will be the sheriff taking the goods out of your house on a clause in the note providing for confession of judgment without notice and waiver of exemption.

"Don't sign any notes for strangers, no matter what they say. You are sure to be stuck under the new ironclad uniform note law passed by the last legislature. If you sign your name you're gone."

From Old Virginia.

Seven Pines, Va., Jan. 1, '06.
Editor Herald:—Myself and family left Tawas on the afternoon of Dec. 18 and arrived at Cincinnati at 8.40 the next morning. We had just time to refresh ourselves when the C. & O. train was ready and it was all aboard for Richmond, and we passed over the Ohio river into Kentucky and followed up the river for some 140 miles passing through some beautiful scenery. At the point of leaving Kentucky we can see into three states at one time Kentucky, Ohio and West Virginia. At this point darkness overtook us. About midnight while peacefully sleeping we were awakened by a dense smoke which nearly strangled us and we thought the train was on fire, but it was only a six mile passage through a tunnel.

We reached Richmond Wednesday morning and after something to brace up on, and surely I found plenty, we started out to see the city. Richmond is a very pretty city and a very lively one. After two days rest we bought our new furniture and started for the farm which I had arranged for last September. Here we are this New Years day located on an old plantation of 254 acres, with a lovely old house with fire places in every room above and below stairs. This is the very spot where in 1862 was fought the terrible battle of Seven Pines and Fair Oaks. Our little boy has already found some twenty old musket balls, a ram rod and an old bayonet. People tell us that many things of this kind will be found when we come to tear up old fields, some of which look as though they had not been touched since the war.

We are located nine miles from Richmond. Our mail is delivered at our door and trolley cars run every half hour, fare to any part of the city four cents. Irish potatoes are $1 per bushel here, and sweet ones 50 cents. We have plenty of the latter on hand, are well and happy, with a dog, a cat and a nice flock of poultry.

Yours very truly,

IRA ODELL.

This is a pure tonic medicine; of especial benefit in malaria, for it exerts a true curative influence on the disease driving it entirely out of the system. It is much to be preferred to quinine, having none of this drug's bad after-effects. E. S. Munday of Henrietta, Tex., writes: "My brother was very low with malarial fever and jaundice till he took Electric Bitters, which saved his life." At Dr. Darling's and J. M. Wiggazer & Co.'s drug stores; price 50c. guaranteed.

In the Yakima Valley.

Kennewick, Wash., Dec. 29, '05.
Ed. Herald:—A copy of your paper came into my hands addressed to Rev. A. Waterbury, who had all preparations made to come here when taken sick. Mrs. Story and myself deeply regret his death. He was certainly a good man and a blessing to all who knew him.

I was much interested in reading in your paper of old friends and look forward with much pleasure to a trip I may make again to Tawas.

The item about sugar beets raised by Jos. Blust on 8 acres netting him $226.55 or $28 per acre was noticed.

It may be of interest to you and your readers for me to state what we do here per acre. Our land is irrigated land and only been in cultivation three years. The canal for watering this land is owned and operated by the Northern Pacific Railroad Co. The altitude is only 360 feet giving us an extremely warm, pleasant winter without snow and an exceedingly early spring. We raise principally fruit, berries and alfalfa. Alfalfa is cut four times each season and the average yield is ten tons per acre, worth $6 in the stack. Our strawberries ripen the latter part of April and the first berries brought $15 per crate, shipped May the 4th, the average price for the season was $4 per crate. Many patches yielded $400 per acre net to the grower. These berries are grown between the young fruit trees and when the trees are old enough to bear, the berries will be cut out.

Many peach orchards in the Yakima valley a few miles distant from here yield $1200 per acre. This is true of pears also, apples pay from $700 to $900 per acre and the Bing cherry which is a very large black cherry produces from 800 to 900 pounds to the tree when the trees are ten years old and there are 110 trees to the acre. The fruit is sold on the trees at from 3 to 5 cents per pound, I have seen cherry orchards that produced from $3000 per acre. These are the same cherries you pay 5cts. for a little paper fall from the Dago on the street corners in the cities.

The average size farm in the valley is less than 12 acres in extent and 2 1/2 acres is a good farm and when trees are in full bearing will support in comfort a man and family. Never have I seen in my life such land produce. The land without water is valueless and will grow nothing but sagebrush but when water is applied by irrigation the yield is marvellous. In the hills surrounding Kennewick wheat is raised in great quantities and many men farm from three to five sections. Here no irrigation is necessary. The wheat farmers are a wealthy class.

We are much pleased with the state of Washington and expect to remain here. We are farming a five acre tract, our young trees are growing and we have bearing strawberries planted between the trees. My two boys do all the work on the place and go to school. We like this place particularly well because of the mild climate, and many times when we read of Michigan in the hands of a vigorous winter, here the weather is clear, warm and pleasant.

Very respectfully yours,

C. W. STORY.

Conveniences on D. & M. Trains.

The D. & M. Ry. is the only line into Detroit from the north having porters in the ladies' day coaches. These porters make themselves useful in every way possible, and pay particular attention to the wants of the ladies, children and elderly passengers. A pleasing and convenient feature in the coaches is that they are provided with free lavatories supplied with towels and soap. All coaches on through trains were built last summer and have six-wheel trucks to insure smooth riding; are equipped with the famous high-back seat, patent window shades, double windows, lighted with electricity; with pintch compressed gas and acetylene gas auxiliary lights. Its parlor cars are not surpassed by any line in the United States, and the remarkable low charge of 50 cents applies from Cheboygan and intermediate points to Detroit. Only 25 cents is exacted between Cheboygan and Bay City. No line in Michigan excels the D. & M.'s track. On account of 96 per cent of it being a straight line with very few curves the highest speed is attainable together with safety and comfort. Its new 94-ton passenger engines running between Alpena and Bay City are the newest and largest in Michigan. All trains are heated by steam, provided with regular and emergency automatic air brakes, air whistle signals, and all other up-to-date appliances. It has long been a matter of record that no road more successfully combats snow and cold weather and keeps its trains closer on time during the winter season. Meals in its cafe cars on the la carte plan are most excellent and at reasonable prices. Through solid, wide-vestibule trains are operated without change between Detroit and Cheboygan, and through sleeping cars run between the same points. If you are going anywhere, try the D. & M.; its rates are as low as the lowest and its service above the standard. If you desire any information, confer with D. & M. agents or communicate with the general passenger department at Bay City, Mich.

Spoiled Her Beauty.

Harriet Howard of W. 34th Street, New York, at one time had her beauty spoiled with skin trouble. She writes: "I had salt rheum or eczema for years but nothing would cure it until I used Bucklen's Arnica Salve." A quick and sure healer for cuts, burns and sores. 25c. at Dr. Darling's and J. M. Wiggazer & Co.'s drug stores.

A dashing sketch of that fascinating sport—ice-skating—is the subject chosen for the frontispiece in the February New Idea Woman's Magazine. Norah Anderson discusses in an entertaining article, "The Management of Private Theatricals." The first of a series of tales of mystery and adventure "From the career of Clive Rayner" appears in this number. "The Walls of Jericho" is a story by Mabel Craft Deering, of a girl who after many disappointments makes her way with her pen as a result of much hard work and perseverance. In the distribution of suitable verse and stories the children have not been forgotten. Two good animal stories will appeal particularly to the young reader. The special article on dress deals with rain and dust coats, several drawings indicating the latest modifications in these garments.

A Grim Tragedy

is daily enacted in thousands of homes as death claims, in each one, another victim of consumption or pneumonia. But when coughs and colds are properly treated the tragedy is averted. F. G. Huntly of Oaklandon, Ind. writes: "My wife had the consumption and three doctors gave her up. Finally she took Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, coughs and colds which cured her and today she is well and strong." It kills the germs of all diseases. One dose relieves. Guaranteed at 50c. and $1 by Dr. Darling and J. M. Wiggazer & Co., druggists. Trial bottle free.
