 The present discussion of the high cost of living only demonstrates that trust and combinations fostered by a protective tariff, are wholly responsible. American meat is being sold in England at from three to six cents less per pound than it is right here at home. Does the high price of corn or the over production cause this condition? Think it over.

Why Boys Leave the Farm.
 A good many years ago, in the state of Iowa, there was a small boy hoeing potatoes in a farm lot by the roadside. A man came along in a fine buggy and driving a fine horse. He looked over the fence, stopped and said: "Bub, what do you get for hoeing those potatoes?" "Nothin' of I do," said the boy, "and hell of I don't."

MARINERS' FEARS OF FOGS
 Numerous Safeguards Devised for Protection Against Dire Peril of the Ocean.
 Probably the greatest menace to the safety of navigation at sea is the fog. Modern steamships are seldom endangered by the severest storms, but when the impenetrable envelope of mist encloses a vessel, she is exposed to the most terrible of perils—a collision at sea. A single ship may be comparatively safe even in a fog, but when there is a fleet of vessels the danger is greatly multiplied. In addition to the customary fog-horns and sirens a fleet of warships often will keep informed of their relative positions by the firing of signal-guns from the flagship. Another excellent method generally employed is the use of the fog-buoy. Each vessel in a warship fleet carries a fog buoy, a large cask painted a bright red. This is cast overboard at the first sign of any fog and floats from the stern of the vessel attached by a rope of grass fiber which does not sink beneath the surface of the water. Sufficient rope is paid out by each vessel, so that its fog buoy floats at the bow of the ship next astern—two cables' length (400 yards) when in close order and double that distance in open order. By this means the exact stations of the individual ships of a fleet are maintained, even though proceeding at a moderate rate of speed.

Help Yourself.

When we have the "blues" or are suffering from disappointment of any kind, says Orison Swett Marden in Success Magazine, we are apt to think that there is not much we can do but grin and bear it until the discouragement has run its course and the suffering ceases.

It is not necessary, however, for anyone to suffer tortures from disappointment or discouragement, for there is a remedy right inside of us for the worst fit of the "blues," the keenest disappointment. Any person who wishes can, by a little scientific training of his thought, completely change his whole mental attitude in a short time by substituting for the suggestion which pains him, troubles him, which brought on "the blues," its opposite.

We can antidote our own troubles in the same way that we antidote those of others, encourage ourselves in the same way in which we encourage others.

The next time you feel the "blues" coming on, or a fit of depression or despondence, just get by yourself, if possible, after taking a good bath and dressing yourself becomingly, and give yourself a good talking to. Talk to yourself in the same dead-in-earnest way that you would to your own child or a dear friend who was deep in the mire of despondency, suffering tortures from melancholy. Drive out the black, hideous pictures which haunt your mind. Sweep away all depressing thoughts, suggestions, all the rubbish that is troubling you. Let go everything that is unpleasant, all the mistakes, all the disagreeable past; just rise up in arms against the enemies of your peace and happiness, summon all the force you can muster and drive them out. Resolve that you are going to be happy, that you are going to enjoy the day, no matter what happens. Just say to yourself, "This is an abnormal condition. Harmony is the everlasting fact. Discord must be an unreality, an absence of harmony, the reality."

Where an Acre Nourishes Forty People.

Professor F. H. King, of Madison, Wisconsin, in writing on soil cultivation in the far East in Farm and Fireside makes these interesting comments:

It could not fail to be a matter of the highest industrial, educational and social importance to all nations, were it possible to bring to them a full and accurate account of all those conditions and practices which have made it possible for such dense populations to be maintained so largely upon the products of Chinese Korean and Japanese soils. Many of the steps phases and practices through which this evolution has passed, are irrevocably buried in the past, but such remarkable maintenance efficiency attained centuries ago and projected into the past with little apparent decadence, merits the most profound study and the time it fully ripe when it should be made.

With our population increasing at the rate of nearly a million a year during the last half century it is clear that we can hardly learn too soon or too thoroughly our probable limit of soil and crop production, and the best methods of insuring and maintaining it. Probably nothing can give a safer measure of the maintenance capacity of the farm and farmers of a nation than the number of people they feed per unit area of cultivated field and it is doubtful if there is a better place to study this problem than in China and Japan at the present time.

According to official statistics published in 1908, Japan has in its main islands, exclusive of Formosa and Karafuto, a population of 48,542,736 and the area of its cultivated fields is 21,321 square miles. This is 2,277 people to the square mile, and besides these there are also maintained 2,600,000 cattle and horses nearly all of which are laboring animals, giving a population of one hundred and forty-two people and seven horses and cattle to each forty acres of cultivated field; a condition sufficiently different from our most fully occupied forty-acre farm to make the busiest man among us stop and do some thinking.

The old farmer who permitted me to hold his plow told my interpreter that there were twelve in his family and that he owned and was cultivating fitteen mow of land, which is two and one half acres, and that besides his team—a cow and small donkey—he usually fed two pigs. This is at the rate of one hundred and ninety-two people, sixteen cows, sixteen donkeys and thirty-two pigs on a forty-acre farm; and a population density of 3,072 people, two hundred and fifty-six cows, two hundred and fifty-six donkeys and five hundred and twelve swine per square mile.

Japan is making rapid strides along many industrial lines and great attention has for many years been paid to her agriculture in which rapid progress is being made. As early as 1872 she had established an agricultural college. For several years the soil survey of the main islands has been completed with large scale maps and is made the basis of values for national, prefectural and local land taxes. She has an admirable system of road maintenance in effective operation. She has many agricultural experiment stations, nine of which we visited, and the equipment at Tokio for soil investigation is superior to anything yet provided in this country. We have more pretentious buildings, but their resources are more largely used in providing appliances and men for rigid, accurate research work. I visited one of their dormitories at the agricultural college connected with the Fukuoka Experiment Station, and here young men are provided with room and board at four dollars (gold) per month. From the two colleges of highest rank they had graduated, in 1907, 1,041 students; from their one hundred and thirty-nine A and B, classes of agricultural schools of second rank they had graduated in 1906, 12,371, and from the still lower grade of third rank there graduated in 1905, from the 2,450 supplementary agricultural schools, 14,927.

PUBLIC NOTICE.

WM. MCFARLANE,
Supts. of Poor.

Probably the greatest coffee substitute yet produced is that now known to grocers everywhere as Dr. Shoop's Health Coffee. It actually goes a third further than all others, and besides it is "made in a minute." No 20 to 30 minutes tedious boiling is at all necessary. Pure roasted grains, malt, nuts, etc., have been so cleverly blended as to give a wonderfully satisfying, true genuine coffee flavor and taste. And not a grain of real coffee is used. 100 cups, 25c Sold by James Hamilton.

No Reason for Alarm.

One word in conclusion on a troublesome point about which we physicians have to worry a great deal and the public still more. One often hears the statement: "All this fuss about tuberculosis is terrible for the poor victims who are made social outcasts, to their great distress and to the alarm of their families." There is no justification for this feeling.

There is no risk in close contact with tuberculosis if the patient is ordinarily careful about the sputum. If one is morbidly afraid of the disease and desires a place of safety where one can get away from its germs, go to some first-class sanatorium for tuberculosis. There are fewer germs there in the air and on the floor than in any other place in the country, and there is very little risk of catching the disease in the house of a tuberculosis patient if he takes good care of the sputum, and sees that it is properly disinfected.—Dr. William Osler in Woman's Home Companion for February.

A Wretched Mistake

to endure the itching, painful distress of piles. There's no need to. Listen: "I suffered much from piles," writes Will. A. Marsh, of Siler City, N. C., "till I got a box of Bucklen's Arnica Salve, and was soon cured." Burns, boils, ulcers, fever sores, eczema, cuts, chapped hands, chilblains, vanish before it. 25c at J. M. Wuggazer & Co. and J. E. Dillon.

Woman's Home Companion for February.

The February number has some striking features. Dr. William Osler, the famous physician, contributes a splendid article on tuberculosis, which is the first of an important editorial series. Omaha, seen through the same eyes that criticised Cincinnati and Pittsburgh, comes in for a stirring article which is bound to make a sensation.

The February number is in the main a love story number, leading off with the first part of "The House of Healing," Juliet Wilbor Tompkins, a delightful and natural serial story. Shorter fiction comes from the pens of Anne Warner, Zona Gale, Fannie Heaslip Lea, Owen Oliver and others, and their charming romances are enriched by illustrations from well-known artists such as Arthur I. Keller, James Montgomery Flagg, Florence Scoval Shinn, H. S. Potter, George Gibbs, etc.

Delightful pages are given over to two songs by Ward-Stephens, and the most unique ideas for St. Valentine's Day. "China-Painting for Beginners," by Elizabeth Mackenzie, and "Pulled Rugs," by Mabel Tuke Priestman, are both practical articles on two subjects of interest to women who like to have their own handiwork around the house.

The usual well-stocked departments are more than ordinarily filled with ideas fitted to winter housekeeping and winter play and winter lines of thought.

The cover, by Harrison Fisher, is a pleasure in itself and deserves a word of praise.

A Wild Blizzard Raging.

brings danger, suffering—often death—to thousands, who take colds, coughs and lagrippe—that terror of winter and spring. Its danger signals are stuffed up, nostrils, lower part of nose sore, chills and fever, pain in back of head, and a throat-gripping cough. When Grip attacks, as you value your life, don't delay getting Dr. King's New Discovery. "One bottle cured me" writes A. L. Dunn, of Pine Valley, Miss., "after being 'laid up' three weeks with Grip." For sore, lungs, hemorrhages, coughs, colds, whooping cough, bronchitis, asthma, its supreme. 50c. $1.00. Guaranteed by J. M. Wuggazer & Co., and Jas. E. Dillon's.

Tawas City Schools.

Normal class observing in the rural district this week.

There is just one easy road to success—the hard, straight way. And there is only one way to travel that road,—by honest, hard work.

Magazines on our table—Success, World To-Day, World's Work, Independent, Moderator—Topics, Tawas Herald, and Scientific American. The last is donated by Mr. Patterson.

Too many parties this winter, we fear. For the good of the school parties should not be given during the school week. Wheat and tares do not each produce a full crop from the same field neither will study and play. Parties are all right at the right time and place but we are getting too many at the wrong time.

A BUSINESS MAN'S CREED.

To do your work cheerfully for the love of doing it well and for the service you render. If you do any work well enough in this spirit, it will yield you profit.

To build business on character by using sound financial methods and by the use of wise thrift—the kind of thrift that abhors waste.

To speak plainly of public evils, but not to expect abuse to better anything. The only real help is to show a way to mend what is bad.

To have schools that shall not be afraid to teach the young the things they will have to do in later life.

To use wisely, and thus save, our natural wealth, including our health and the health of others.

Weak Kidneys

Weak Kidneys, surely point to weak kidney nerves. The Kidneys, like the Heart, and the Stomach, find their weakness, not in the organ itself, but in the nerves that control and guide and strengthen them. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is a medicine specifically prepared to reach these controlling nerves. To doctor the Kidneys alone, is futile. It is a waste of time, and of money as well. If your back aches or is weak, if the urine is cloudy, or is dark and strong, if you have symptoms of Bright's or other distressing or dangerous kidney disease, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative a month—Tablets or Liquid—and see what it can and will do for you. Druggist recommended and sold.

Institute Prizes.

President Luter and Secretary Campbell, of the Iosco County Farmers' Institute Society, are already laying plans to make the institute of January 1911 bigger and better than those of previous years. The tender leaves of a harmless lung-healing mountainous shrub, give to Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy its marvelous curative properties. Light, tickling, or distressing coughs, quickly yield to the healing, soothing action of this splendid prescription—Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy. And it is so safe and good for children, as well. Containing no opium, chloroform, or other harmful drugs, mothers should in safety always demand Dr. Shoop's. If other remedies are offered, tell them No! Be your own judge! Sold by C. H. Prescott & Sons.

Township Schools.

The following excellent paper on the question of township high schools was read by Miss Mary Hottis, at the Farmers' Institute at Whittemore:

A PLEA FOR THE COUNTRY BOY OR GIRL.
Being left to choose my own subject for this occasion I could think of no better topic to bring before your minds than this one which I believe is so important and so worthy of our earnest consideration.

We believe the country boys and girls have many things to be thankful for. They have an abundance of fresh air, sunshine, flowers, fruits, fresh vegetables, wholesome foods and everything that goes to make healthy, hearty, happy children, and most of them do not lack for exercise.

Usually each child has his own work to do and there is little dogging of duties. They are met honestly and squarely. There is much work to be done on the farm and each must do his part. The country boy or girl must have willing hands and quick feet.

Working and no shirking is a habit which is formed in early life by the majority of our country boys and girls. This habit gives them many marked advantages over their city cousins, whose duties are usually few. Who has a better chance to note the beautiful changes of the seasons, each one bringing its work and pleasure? Who can watch the planting, cultivating and harvesting of one single crop without learning many useful lessons? What pleasure there is in getting the cows, gathering the eggs, feeding the poultry, picking berries not to mention the lovely sleigh riding and skating in winter, and swimming and fishing in summer.

Every boy and girl has a chance to get a fairly good education, but here comes the fact which I wish to emphasize most. While our rural schools are very much better than they were a few years ago with regard to school buildings, heating, lighting and ventilation, yet our country school advantages are not what they should be.

Our city cousins have the very best schools, from the kindergarten to the high school. When they have finished the work in these grades there is no standing on the brink wondering which way to go, but they can enter a good high school right away. Neither is there an almost heart-breaking experience of leaving home for four or five years, when the child should still be under the parental roof. How many of you who have left home to go away to high school when you were yet young can say it was a delightful experience? There are many trials which must come to us that are necessary, but this one is not.

While a boy or girl may be able to make their living without a high school education, yet no one will dispute that such an education carries with it many advantages. We do not say that a high school graduate is superior to a good country student, many of them are not, but a high school education brings power and regard. Here is where our rural schools fall short.

Why haven't our country boys and girls as much right to a good credited high school as the children in the cities? Aren't they just as ambitious, industrious and wide awake? Wouldn't they take advantage of such a chance as well as their city cousins? If they have to leave home to attend school a great many will never go. On the other hand those who do leave the farm and go to the city to attend school do not feel the same toward the farm. They feel as if there is something better in the city. And who can blame them for this?

If every township had a well equipped high school, such as you will find in any city, then our country boys and girls would have the same chance as the boys and girls of the cities.

Don't the farmers think as much of their children as those in the cities do of theirs? I believe they do. Aren't the farmers as able to build and support such a high school? I believe they are.

Then let us hope that the year 1910 will find us doing more for the country boys and girls than has ever been done before. Let us hope that each township may in the near future have its high school and may Burleigh lead in the important matter.

There is no quinine, nothing whatever harsh or sickening in Preventives. These little Candy Cold Cure Tablets act as magic. A few hours and your threatening cold is broken. Candy-like in taste. Preventives please the children—and they break the feverishness always. And best of all is the economy. A large box—48 Preventives—25 cents. Ask your druggist. He knows! Sold by C. H. Prescott & Sons.

Saved at Death's Door.

The door of death seemed ready to open for Murray W. Ayers, of Transit Bridge, N. Y., when his life was wonderfully saved. "I was in a dreadful condition," he writes, "my skin was almost yellow; eyes sunken; tongue coated; emaciated from losing forty pounds, growing weaker daily. Virulent liver trouble pulling me down to death in spite of doctors. Then that matchless medicine—Electric Bitters cured me. I regained the 40 pounds lost and now am well and strong." For all stomach, liver and kidney troubles they're supreme. 50c at J. M. Wiggazzer's & Co., and James E. Dillion's.

HAD TWO PATRIOTS ON BOARD

Bibulous Passengers on New York Subway Train Who Had Served Their Country.

It could hardly be denied that he had been spending his evening and much of the early morning in places where things to drink were to be had, but when once he started home he was in a hurry. Therefore he dashed at top speed across the platform and caught the subway train which was waiting.

The train was in no hurry to get out of the station, being delayed for some reason or other, so the man settled down in his seat. Suddenly he started up again and remarked loudly: "You may fire when ready, Gridley," and then including the whole carful in his benevolent gaze, said sleepily, "S an ol' man-o'-war term. Was in th' navy once m'self."

His tones awoke another man who had been out entertaining himself lavishly and that one had some responsive chord in his muzzy mind started by the familiar Dewey phrase. This one remarked with preternatural gloom, "Don't cheer, fellers, poor devils are dyin'," and then added: "Mark made by Bob Evans, Fightin' Bob Evans. Served under him," and back into sleep he resolved.

Then the train rolled on.—New York Press.

Achieved Her Ambition.

Mary Ann had been Mrs. Gunther's cook and had left her service to marry Pat Mahone. A year later Mrs. Gunther heard that Mary Ann had not only become a widow, but was for the second time a joyful bride. It was therefore with a sense of shocked surprise that she met her former landmaid in the street one day clad in the deepest and darkest of widows' weeds.

"Why, Mary Ann!" exclaimed the lady, "I am sorry to see this—I thought that you were happily married again."

"'Tis true, I am," responded Mary Ann with great cheerfulness, "and the present husband is a fine man. But you see 'twas this way: When Pat died, I couldn't, but I says to myself, if ever I can I will—and now I am!"
