Edward Hopkins and L. E. Fink, of the Michigan Sugar Co.'s Bay City offices, came up last Saturday and went out fishing with Joe Minor, on Pickett creek. They returned Tuesday evening taking with them over a hundred fine trout. Of course it would not do to allow this to get back to their friends in Bay City, but it is a fact that Hopkins came upon Flink standing waist deep in the creek, with perspiration flowing in streams, while he was endeavoring to land what appeared to be the largest ever. In feverish excitement the two men labored for some half hour longer when they succeeded in landing a handsome eighteen inch birch limb.

For Sale:—My ranch on Pickett creek, comprising seven forty of timbered land with about ten acres cleared and fenced. Comfortable house and barn, and good spring brook running through the land. Dairying Northeastern Michigan.

Noting an editorial in the Michigan Dairy Farmer a few days ago, in which the needs of an agricultural publicity bureau were set forth, and knowing that a bureau for the development of Northeastern Michigan had been established, Wesley Schlichter, of Brown City, one of the best authorities on dairy farming in Michigan, took the opportunity to write to Secretary Marston, of the Northeastern Michigan Development Bureau about his personal observation in this part of Michigan which the bureau is seeking to develop. Mr. Schlichter says:

"I heartily agree with the aims of the Northeastern Development Bureau, and it has my heartiest wishes for success along the line indicated by its prospectus. Being personally familiar with the lands situated in Bay, Clare, Gladwin, Ogemaw, Arenac and Isoco, also the southern part of Roscommon, I am satisfied that there are thousands of acres now uncultivated which are going to rank among the best of Michigan's farming lands. I have seen matured crops of all kinds on these lands. I have bought Dent corn grown in Gladwin county equal to anything I have ever seen in the famous Thumb of Michigan. I have two brothers living on Gladwin county farms and I have had occasion to compare their crops with ours here in Sanilac and Lapeer counties. It is only justice to say that Gladwin products are not one whit behind and in some instances are ahead. For instance, in clover and peas they surpass us, and they are also succeeding in growing alfalfa. It seems to be perfectly natural for clover to grow in any of the northeastern counties. I recall one time when I was out fishing along the Tittabawassee river. When going through the brush I ran across a heavy growth of red clover right in the brush. This caused me to investigate, and since then I have walked over acres and acres of brush lands and have found conditions just as I have already related.

"Northeastern Michigan is not all sand, as many may suppose, but most of the soil is a loam and much of the sandy soil has a clay subsoil. The above counties are especially adapted to stock raising and dairying. This is no supposition on my part, but is proven by actual facts. One of my brothers pastured 90 head of cattle on 628 acres in 1909, and these cattle made a gain of about 200 pounds each. This land is strictly brush, fenced in. Anyone who takes the trouble will find cheese factories and creameries already located and running with success. Most of these counties are well watered, have nice clear springs, many flowing wells, and that, with plenty of grass means much for successful dairying.

"My advice to the young man is not to go west, but go north. Most of these counties have good shipping facilities, and I have found the freight rates on live stock and dairy products just about the same as they are here. I find some families from our county located in Gladwin, and they are doing well, on strictly brush land. Any farmer who goes into Northeastern Michigan by the aid of your bureau, and directed by it, will make no mistake if he applies brain and muscle in seeking for success. Plenty of money would make it easier, but with land so cheap as is offered in any of your counties, a man can get along with very little spot cash. You have my best wishes in your development work.

Prizes for Sugar Beet Growers.
The Michigan Sugar Co., through its field man, J. W. Minor, will give the following prizes to the sugar beet growers of Isoco county, to be awarded at the Farmers' Institute which will be held at Whittemore next January. The prizes will be given only to those farmers having contracts with the Michigan Sugar Co., and are as follows:
A 50 pound sack of granulated sugar to the farmer showing the highest per cent, as per Mich. Sugar Co.'s office slip.
A 50 pound sack of granulated sugar for the second best per cent slip.
A 50 pound sack of granulated sugar for the 12 largest sugar beets shown at the Institute.
A 50 pound sack of granulated sugar to the farmer who shows the largest yield of tons to his contract. For example, a contractor having a two acre contract and growing 20 tons will beat one having a 10 acre contract and growing 90 tons.

The prizes are conditional to farmers who compete. They must attend the institute at least one day.

A State Fair Exhibit.

The attention of all farmers and others interested in horticulture and agriculture in the counties composing the Northeastern Development Bureau territory to the advisability of formulating plans for making a large and comprehensive exhibit of the products of the counties at the Michigan State fair to be held in September next. The premium list committee has revised the list in such a manner that the counties in this territory shall be in a class by themselves under the classification of "County Exhibits," in the department of farm products and in the department of grains, vegetables and fruits. The Development Bureau has agreed to double all first premiums in this class on the single entries if won by a resident of the Northeastern Michigan Development Bureau's territory; providing, however, that such winner furnishes a correct statement as to the number of acres upon which said crop from which the exhibit was taken, and the yield of the same.

Arrangements will be made whereby the exhibits from the territory in the Northeastern Development Bureau, shall be shown at the fair together. The advantages of this are clearly discernible. It will centralize the exhibit of a portion of the state that wishes especially to attract the attention of the public and to acquaint it with the productive capacity of the region now being exploited. As an advertising feature the value of this plan can hardly be over-estimated, and besides the display will be more attractive and more effective than would be the case were the counties to make separate exhibits.

The idea of those who have undertaken this development project is to use all legitimate efforts to so advertise the region as to attract home-seekers. In unity there is strength, and these counties can, acting collectively, make an exhibit at the state fair that will inevitably attract wide attention and be productive of excellent results.

Snobs.

Every community contains men and women who pretend that they are the picked people of the universe, entitled to everything that grows in the garden. Everything that is made or mined. These real ridiculous persons are impostors, and yet year after year they so impress themselves upon the people by certain habits of snobbery and superior airs, that unsophisticated men and women really come to believe that God made these persons to be low-towed to, and gave them a charter of impertinence.

They begin the game by being exclusive, very, and by teaching their children, if they have any, that they are different and better than other children. Shrewd politicians and sometimes even the clergy toady to them.

A touch of rheumatism, or a twinge of neuralgia, whatever the trouble is, Chamberlain's Liniment drives away the pain at once and cures the complaint quickly. First application gives relief. Sold by Red Cross Pharmacy.

Lion Fondles a Child.

In Pittsburg a savage lion fondled the hand that a child thrust into his cage. Danger to a child is sometimes great when least regarded. Often it comes through colds, croup, and whooping cough. They slay thousands that Dr. King's New Discovery could have saved. "A few doses cured our baby of a very bad case of croup," writes Mrs. George B. Davis, of Flat Rock, N. C. "We always give it to him when he takes cold. Its a wonderful medicine for babies." Best for coughs, colds, laryngitis, asthma, hemorrhages, weak lungs. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free. Guaranteed by J. M. Wuggazer & Co. and Jas. E. Dillon.

Empress Uses Typewriter.

It is related that in passing through her husband's library recently the attention of the empress of Japan was attracted to a peculiar-looking machine. On learning that it was a typewriter, and having it explained to her, she became interested and began to hit the keys. Now, it is said, she does a good deal of correspondence for the emperor.

It is further reported that Queen Alexandra of England, Queen Maude of Norway, the zarina and the queen of Portugal are all fond of using the typewriter in corresponding with their intimates.

It is probable that all of them put together do not use the machine as much as Carmen Silva, the queen of Rumania, who rattles her poems and stories on a typewriter.—St. Nicholas.

Nobody knows. There is one thing that everybody does know, however, and that is that Mild-Lax has made the town famous. Some time ago nearly every one in Kalamazoo suffered from constipation. Now whenever you run across a clear faced, healthy looking individual, set it down he's from Kalamazoo and uses Mild-Lax. All druggists.

MADE QUITE A DIFFERENCE

Stout Man Emphatically Declared He was Not a Pillow, but Upon Some Occasions—

After he had roughly shaken off the head of the third belated passenger on the after-midnight train who had sought repose on his shoulder, the stout man proclaimed in a voice loud enough to be heard by everybody in the car that the next time anybody went to sleep with his head pillowed on his shoulder he would give that head a good punching, that's what he would do.

The stout man's wife said: "Sh-sh-sh, James. Don't get so violent." "Violent?" said the stout man. "I've a right to be violent. I'm no pillow. I'm no feather bed. If anybody thinks I am, just let him come on and I'll show him."

At the next station two women came in and found seats near the stout man. Presently the younger and prettier of the two began to nod. Lower and lower drooped her head, and soon it found a substantial resting place. The stout man sat still; so very still did he sit that his wife wondered what had happened to him. She leaned over and looked past his bulky frame to find out. Her face flushed.

"Why, James," she said, indignantly, "don't you remember what you said a little while ago about punching heads? There's a head on your shoulder now."

"Is there?" said the stout man meekly. "I hadn't noticed it." It was apparent then that if there was any head punching to be done somebody besides the stout man would have to do it.

"James!" said his wife significantly. He wriggled uneasily until the head was gently dislodged, then the stout man and his wife changed places.

TRIBUTE TO GREAT WRITER

Japanese Accords Deserved Honor to the Memory of Good Friend of His Race.

We Japanese have been regenerated by Hearn's sudden magic, and baptized afresh under his transcendental capture; in fact, the old romances which we had forgotten years ago were brought again to quiver in the air, and the ancient beauty which we purled under the dust rose again with a strange yet new splendor. He made us shake the old robe of bias which we wore without knowing it, and he gave us a sharp sensation of revival. However, what impressed us most was that he was a striking figure of protest. He wrote to Mr. Otani: While this rage for wasting time in societies goes on there will be no new Japanese literature, no new drama, no new poetry—nothing good of any kind. Production will be made impossible, and only the commonplace translation of foreign ideas. The meaning of time, the meaning of work, the sacredness of literature, are unknown to this generation." He was, indeed, the living proof of the power of solitude with which he tried to master these problems, and with which he succeeded.—Yone Noguchi, in the Atlantic.

In Fig-Leaf Days. First Prehistoric—Where did Adam get such an awful grinch? Second Ditto—He's kicking because his spring clothes don't make him look as broad shouldered as the fellows in the advertisement's.—Puck.

WAIL OF THE MARRIED MAN

He Explains Why in His Opinion Separate Prayer Meetings Are Advisable.

A Kansas City preacher is experimenting with a separate prayer meeting for men and women, and the experiment will be watched with interest. He argues that the men are afraid to come out and ask the Lord for what they want, their wives being present to hear; that they will be more free if only men are present. "There is something in that," writes a mean man to the Globe. "I want the Lord to change my wife's disposition. She nags and is extravagant, and is always watching me. If I were to take such a prayer to the throne of heavenly grace, with her kneeling beside me to hear, there would be a row when I got home that would shake all the mottoes off the walls. I would also like to ask for a lot of things I want no women to hear about. I have noticed that if a man at prayer meeting sidesteps in his prayer, and asks for anything material, the women talk about his worldly ambition next day. I have a notion that a lot of us men want things we don't want the women to know about."—Atchison Globe.

DR. HALE A FRIEND IN NEED

Proof That He Lived Up to the Principles of "Lend-a-Hand" Societies He Founded.

The late Dr. Edward Everett Hale, the founder of the "Lend-a-Hand" societies, practised what he preached. He lent his own hand time and time again. Once, says the Woman's Home Companion, his travels brought him to a town where a friend of his was editing a daily newspaper. When he called on him, this friend unfolded a tale of woe. His wife was seriously ill. She had gone into the country, believing that a change of air would do her good. She was pining for her husband, and he was pining for her, but he had no assistant, so if he took a vacation the paper must stop.

Dr. Hale listened and, returning to his hotel, sat down at his desk. Before he got up he had written with that ready pen of his enough articles on topics of contemporaneous interest to fill his friend's editorial columns for a week. Returning to the sanctum, he threw his copy on the editorial desk, with the remark: "There, now you can go and visit your wife!"

Poet Had a "Cinch."

Poets, as a rule, are not good business men, but an exception is one of a little group of writers and artists who dine every evening together and talk shop. The poet very often reads the verses he has composed, and sometimes the comments are not exactly flattering. "That's rotten," exclaimed an artist on hearing one of these effusions recently. "I'll bet you five dollars I can sell it to a magazine," replied the poet. The wager was made, and the artist lost. Since then the poet has made several similar bets with his scoffing friends and has won them all. He was chucking over it to an outsider the other day. "You must have wonderful confidence in the merit of your work," said the rank outsider. "Confidence, nothing," laughed the poet. "I couldn't lose. I never read a poem to those fellows until I have first sold it!"
