Listen, Girls.

Stop a moment, my girl. I've just a few words I would say to you. I've known for years—old friends so to speak—and I think you will pardon these few words of advice.

I saw your mother trundle a baby carriage along the street just a few days ago it seems. Then I saw you with book and tablet going back and forth to school, and now I see your mother has lengthened out your dress until it almost touches your shoe tops. You've got a ribbon at your throat and a flower in your hair; you've dropped the playthings of your girlhood and you are watching out for the sterner things of life—in fact you are almost a woman.

And as I look into your sweet, girlish face, unmarked and unmarred by the sins of this old world, I want to tell you some things. The vultures of human character are flocking on street corners; their black wings fan your innocent cheeks as you pass. God made them in the shape of men, but somehow or other the devil must have had charge of the soul factory when they were created, and your slightest act or word will be caught by the mortal vampires and woven into a web of slander that will blight your young life and darken your days. And remember, my girl, that a blot on your name, a stain on your character, can only be wiped out by the pat of the grave diggers' shovels. And remember also, my girl, that it is these human hyenas, these bone gnawers of woman's morals, the flop winged bats that gather on corners and crossings that help to make public opinion—and an innocent, thoughtless act on your part is to them a murder of morals in the first degree.

Let me tell you what to do—make a 'chum' out of your old mother. She may not know as much about Greek and Latin as you do, and possibly she didn't graduate and get a diploma and box of white flowers at some college commencement, but she's forgotten more about the men and women of this world than you can get crammed into that little 'nicker' head of yours in the next ten years. Within her arms you are safe, my girl; beyond them you are in deadly peril. She is the best friend you have, and her opinion should be the supreme court decision of your life. And next Thursday night when the parlor is filled with your gay young friends, and the song and laughter fills the air, I want you to steal away from your gay companions, go down into the family room, and throw your arms about her shrunken form, and say, "Mother, I love you best of all." And watch and watch a color rush across her tired face and the tears steal down her cheeks. You had better do it, my girl, for some of these days six strong men with bare, bowed heads will tramp heavily through the hall, and a coffin with cold, white handles, will rest for a moment on that porch. As you stand by an open grave over on the hill the bitterest thought that will come to you will be that mother died and didn't know that I loved her.—Selected.

Announcement.

To the Republican Electors of Isosco county:

I desire to announce my candidacy for the office of Prosecuting Attorney on the republican ticket, which will be nominated at the September primary, 1910, and shall greatly appreciate your assistance in so nominating me.

In support of my candidacy I wish to call your attention to the following facts: Mr. Jahraus held the office of Prosecuting Attorney for three consecutive terms, a total of six years. Mr. Rawden also held the office for two consecutive terms, a total of four years, thereby giving the firm of Jahraus and Rawden the office of Prosecuting Attorney for nearly ten years.

I have served the county as circuit court commissioner for two terms, which as you know is an office that has no salary attached to it, and believe that I am correctly placing myself in line for the office of prosecuting attorney.

Tawas Paper Company

Why You Should Buy Stock in the Tawas Paper Company.

If you were to see a pile of wood four feet high and four feet wide and 115 miles long, you would declare you had seen one of the wonders of the world. If you were to see a train of freight cars 25 miles long, each car loaded with 20 cords of four foot wood, you would say that you had seen one of the world's wonders.

The TAWAS PAPER Co. has been organized to make paper out of an amount of wood which if arranged in a solid pile four feet wide and four feet high would be 115 miles long. If loaded on freight cars, each car containing 20 cords of four foot wood, it would make a train 25 miles long, and if used in a cooking stove at the rate of two cords per month, would last nearly 4,000 years.

This wood is the filling of six docks on Lake Huron at Tawas City and East Tawas, Michigan. These great docks were all built about thirty years ago, during the palmy days of white pine lumbering when nothing but the best trees were cut down and only the very best logs brought to the mill. Spiles were driven in the lake bottom from the shore out to where, in some cases, the water was 20 feet deep, and over large areas. In the case of the Prescott dock at Tawas City an area of ten acres of lake bottom was spiled. As the slabs and edgings were cut at the saw mills on the docks, they were carried out and piled in the water between the spiles in regular order, as cordwood is piled. In the course of time all the space between the spiling from the lake bottom to the top of the water was entirely filled with wood. When the surface of the water was reached sawdust, chips, bark, lumber trimmings and other mill refuse was dumped on top of the slabs and edgings. By this means room for piling lumber was made out in the lake so far, that deep water vessels could come along beside the lumber piles and receive their loads.

The slabs and edgings under the water are white pine and are ideal material for paper manufacture. The saw dust, chips, bark, trimming blocks, etc. piled on top of the slabs is very good fuel.

In these six docks there are about 75,000 cords of four foot wood under water. On top of this wood above the water is piled the saw dust, trimming blocks, etc., enough to supply fuel for many years for a large paper mill. The slabs, edgings and mill refuse that accumulated during the run of six large lumber mills for about thirty years is retained in these six docks.

Something About Wood.

Wood, generally speaking, is made up of two parts. One part is known as the fibre or cellulose and the other is known as the lignin or cement that holds the fibres together. The paper maker must separate these two parts. In order to do this he, using ordinary wood, must remove the bark from it, cut it into chips and cook them in a chemical solution. In some mills a solution of Caustic Soda is used, in others Bi-sulphite of Lime is used and in others a solution of a mixture of Caustic Soda, Sulphite of Soda and Sulphate of Soda. After cooking, the chips are so soft that a handful can be squeezed out between the fingers. This pulp is then made into paper.

White Pine as a Wood for Paper.

Paper made from pine wood is worth about $100 per ton at the mill. It takes about two cords of wood to make a ton of paper. A good sized paper mill will use about 24 cords of wood in 24 hours. Out of this more than 12 tons of paper worth $100 per ton, can be made.

No other wood equals white pine as a fibre producer. Its fibre is longest, strongest, silkiest and most velvety. If you will reflect a moment you will understand why soft, white pine, should produce a better fibre than any other wood. No other wood has so much fibre and so small an amount of lignin. Beyond question, it is, in every way, far ahead of any other kind of wood as a fibre producer. So long as pine wood was cheap it was used by paper makers. When it became expensive, spruce and other woods were used in its place. Spruce has just one advantage over white pine. It yields a whiter fibre. Spruce has become scarce and paper makers are using hemlock and in some cases they are driven to use hard woods.

Some Facts About This White Pine Dock-filling.

In the first place it is soft white pine wood cut from logs, largely free from knots and therefore the most valuable wood for paper making. It yields far the most desirable fibre and also a greater amount of fibre than any other wood.

In the operation of a pulp mill the taking off the bark from the wood is a large item of expense. There is no bark on these slabs or edgings. The water has soaked it off and has left the wood as clean as water can make it.

The Soft Water of the Lake has Partly Digested the Wood.

Many years ago paper was made from straw and the inner bark of the mulberry tree. These were soaked in soft water for a few weeks in order that the fibres might become loosened. After this, the fibres were beaten into pulp and made into paper.

These slabs and edgings have been in the soft water of lake Huron for about 30 years and all that time a process of loosening the fibres has been going on. Soft water is one of the greatest solvents known to chemistry. It has, in the case of these slabs, leached out nearly all the matter that bound the fibres together and has left, practically, pure fibre or cellulose. If you were to pick up a large dry slab taken from one of these docks you would be surprised at its lightness. It would weigh only about one-half as much as air dry pine wood, because, about one-half of its substance, the lignin, has been removed by the soft water.

Ordinarily, the most expensive operation in the manufacture of paper is the cooking of the wood. In the form of chips it is cooked in closed boilers under pressure.

The chemical solution cannot readily get into the pores of ordinary air dry wood chips, because they are full of lignin. A pressure of about 100 pounds per square inch must be used to drive the chemical into the wood in order that it may dissolve the matter holding the fibres together. Strong alkalis or acids are necessary and it takes from 12 to 30 hours.

In the case of THIS WHITE PINE wood the soft water has done so much of the work of dissolving the lignin that a weak chemical solution, applied under low pressure for about three hours, will remove every remaining bit of lignin. This means a wonderful saving in the manufacture of paper. The fibre or cellulose of wood is not affected by soft water. The water acts on the cement substance, or lignin, only. Only nitric acid and hydrochloric acid, and a few other reagents will affect the cellulose.

No freight to Pay.

All the paper mill companies that I know of, have to buy their wood at considerable distances from the mills and pay freight on it to the mills. This freight runs from $1.00 to $3.00 per cord. Some mills are paying $4.00 per cord freight on spruce put on board vessels at points in Quebec, Canada, and carried to Detroit and Port Huron.

There is no freight to pay on the wood owned by the Tawas Paper Company. It lies at the door of the mill.

No Danger From Fire.

A pulp and paper mill usually tries to keep on hand, piled in the mill yard, about one year's supply of wood. There is constant danger of fire and to meet that danger, insurance policies must be kept up.

The wood of the Tawas Paper Company is under water and there is no danger of its burning. Insurance policies on it are altogether unnecessary. This means the saving of a big item of expense. Consider the amount of wood used by a large pulp mill in a year, the danger of losing it all by fire and the insurance premiums that have to be paid to protect the company against loss.

What Others Have Been Doing With This Wood.

THE MICHIGAN SULPHITE FIBRE COMPANY, of Port Huron, has manufactured into pulp many car loads of these slabs that I have shipped to them. They will buy all that I care to sell.

THE DETROIT SULPHITE FIBRE & PAPER COMPANY, of Detroit, also, has manufactured a considerable quantity of this wood into pulp and paper.

THE INTERNATIONAL PAPER COMPANY, of New York City, N. Y., asked me to send to its Bureau of Tests at Glens Falls, N. Y., a sample of this wood. After testing it they reported that a "good average grade of sulphite pulp was obtained from it." This company has been buying it in car-load lots and it has been shipped to the mills of this company at Niagara Falls, N. Y.—FOUR HUNDRED MILES FROM TAWAS CITY. Now, the officers of the International Paper Company, which is the largest paper manufacturing company in the world, know what they are doing every minute. They see that they can well afford to pay a good price for the wood on the cars at Tawas City and pay freight on it to Niagara Falls. Why? Because the wood is half digested and requires only a half cook in a weak chemical solution, under a low pressure, for a short time, to reduce it to pure cellulose. This half digested condition means that there is very little lignin remaining in the wood. Consequently, it is very light and the freight is not as much as it is on other wood. There is no bark on it. One-fifth of the wood usually purchased by pulp mills is bark. They pay for this bark the same price as they pay for the rest of the stick. Then they pay freight on it and after it arrives at the mill they have to remove the bark from it. Because there is no bark on this wood they save one-fifth of the cost of wood, one-fifth of the freight and also the expense of removing the bark. Then again they have very little or no borer from knots. The wood that pulp mills usually get is small second-growth spruce, poplar and hemlock. These woods are full of knots that have to be sawed, chopped or bored out before the wood should be cooked. The wood of the Tawas Paper Company was cut from the cream of the forest years ago when a tree having many knots in its trunk was passed by as worthless and the tops of the trees containing the limbs and knots were left in the forest.

Up to the present time, I have been shipping this wood to others, but now, I had rather spend $12.50 on every cord and make paper of it worth $50, than sell it to them. This is the reason for organizing the Tawas Paper Company.

Fuel.

Pulp and paper mills have to buy coal for fuel. The Tawas Paper Company has enough lumber mill waste on hand to furnish sufficient fuel for its mill for 30 years. The fuel value of this material has been proved by the fact that the city lighting plant has used it. Lumber mills all over the country use their own waste for fuel. Pine saw dust never decays. A battery of boilers such as are used in lumber mills and designed to be fired by the mill waste would leave nothing to be desired in this line.

Mill Site.

Ordinarily, a company starting out to manufacture paper must first buy a mill site and yard. The Tawas Paper Company owns two desirable mill sites on its docks, one at Tawas City and one at East Tawas, which is one and one-half miles from Tawas City. Which of these locations will finally be chosen I cannot tell. Each mill site in itself offers advantages and each city is anxious to have the mill located within its borders.

Docks and Slide Tracks.

The building of spur railway tracks from the main line of a railway to a mill site and the building of deep water docks necessary for lake transportation add greatly to the initial expense of installing paper plants.

In the case of the Tawas Paper Company the side tracks and docks were built years ago as part of saw mill plants.

Freedom From Taxes.

There is every reason to believe that no matter whether the East Tawas or the Tawas City location is chosen for the mill, freedom from taxation will be given. Naturally, each city is anxious to add to its list of industries.

A good sized pulp mill will use about one cord of wood per hour or 24 cords in every 24 hours.

THE WOOD IN THESE DOCKS WILL LAST MORE THAN TEN YEARS, USING 24 CORDS EVERY 24 HOURS.

Every Kind of Wood can be Made Into Paper.

This county has an almost inexhaustible supply of wood that can be had after the wood on hand has been used. A mill located here has just as much territory to secure timber from, as has the Detroit, Port Huron, Alpena or Cheboygan paper mills.

A MILL USING 24 CORDS OF WOOD PER DAY IS DESIRED BY THE TAWAS PAPER COMPANY.

Recapitulation of the Advantages Under Which The Tawas Paper Company Will Build its Plant.

$2,000 for mill site. The company owns two desirable mill sites.
2,000 for railway tracks and docks. The necessary tracks and docks are now in existence having been part of the equipment of the lumber mills that at one time occupied these mill sites.

$4,000

Recapitulation of the Daily Advantages Under which The Tawas Paper Company, will Operate its plant.

$100 per day saved through not having to buy any wood. The Alpena, Cheboygan, Port Huron and Detroit mills are paying $4.00 per cord for green, heavy, small, second-growth, knotty timber with the bark on it.

$ 25 per day saved through not having to pay freight on 24 cords of wood. This allowance of only about $1.00 per cord for freight, is very low.

$100 per day saved in labor because the timber is free from bark, and nearly free from knots and black spots. All of this has to be removed by other mills.

$ 90 per day saved because the wood is partly digested. The biggest expense in the preparation of wood for paper is incurred in the cooking of it. Ordinarily this costs about $15 per ton of paper. The wood of the Tawas Paper Company has been under water so long that not over one-half of this expense is necessary to reduce it to the refined state. And, in a mill making 12 tons per day, this would amount to a saving of $90.

$ 30 per day saved because it will not be necessary to buy any fuel. There is plenty on hand to last many years. Ten tons of coal at $3.00 per ton is a low estimate of cost of fuel used by a fair sized pulp mill in 24 hours.

$345 saved every day.

In addition to the saving in the construction of the plant and the daily savings, no insurance on the 10 years supply of wood on hand, will have to be paid. It is under water. Also, freedom from taxation has been promised by the citizens of Tawas City and East Tawas. At least 50 men will be employed at the mill all the year round.

All that the company needs in order to manufacture $1200 worth of paper (12 tons) a day of 24 hours, at a cost not exceeding $300 is a building and machinery costing about $40,000, and working capital of a few thousands of dollars.

This will leave a net-daily profit of $900.

A good sized pulp and paper mill, such as the one at Port Huron, after buying a site, building tracks etc., can spend $125 per day for wood and freight on it, $100 per day for removing the bark from it and cutting out the knots, and sorting out the undesirable chips obtained from small wood, and $30 a day for coal and in the end secure a fibre worth less money than white pine fibre and still make big money.

What should the Tawas Paper Company do in the way of making dividends, not having any of these expenses to meet?

Only 450 shares of the capital stock of the Tawas Paper Company is for sale. The price is $100 per share. The company is capitalized at $100,000.

$40,000 for a building and machinery and $5,000 working capital is needed.

In order that you may satisfy yourself further in regard to the claims made in the foregoing prospectus, you are invited to come to Tawas City and look over the properties. If they are not found as represented all your expenses will be paid by the company.

Concerning the value of this wood as paper material—its half digested condition, its advantages because of its freedom from bark, freedom from many knots, etc. and its value over other woods because it is white pine and the value of the paper made from this wood—I cannot do better than refer you to The Michigan Sulphite Fibre Co., of Port Huron, Mich., The Detroit Sulphite Fibre & Paper Co., of Detroit, Mich., and The International Paper Co., of New York. In the latter case I refer you to Mr. Chas. Rhodes, Superintendent of tests of The International Paper Co., Glens Falls, N. Y. These parties all know this wood from personal experience.

No arrangement has been made, with any of the gentlemen connected with any of the above named companies, to answer any questions concerning this wood, but I believe that any inquiry along this line will be courteously answered.

Letter from J. M. Wuggazer, Mayor of Tawas City.

Tawas City, June 22nd, 1910.

The Tawas Paper Co.,

Tawas City, Mich.

Gentlemen:—In answer to your inquiries I wish to say that in common with other citizens of Tawas City, I earnestly hope that you will see your way clear to locate your pulp and paper mill at Tawas City, Mich. The thousands upon thousands of cords of wood that you have on hand here and also the quantity of fuel that you have here, seem to argue strongly in favor of Tawas City as the most desirable locality.

Of course, you know your business best and what I stated is not intended as advice. It sprung from a hope that this city may have this factory locate here and is based upon my personal observation of the immense amount of paper material that is here.

This city, through its council, can be depended upon to do all that it can do, lawfully, to secure this industry.

Yours truly,

J. M. WUGGAZER, Mayor.

It is the intention to make this an enjoyable day for the farmers and they are invited to come.

Independence Day was fittingly celebrated here last Monday with a good crowd in attendance. The day was all that could be asked as to weather conditions, and the people began arriving early. The program was carried out in good manner and a more orderly celebration could not be asked for, no trouble of any kind occurring to mar the festivities of the day. The Turner band furnished excellent music. The ball game in the afternoon between Maple Ridge and Turner was won by Turner by a score 12 to 3. Kannell pitched an excellent game for the home boys, while Harvey for the visitors was touched up freely.

TACT SHOULD BE CULTIVATED

Not a Hard Thing to Do, and Its Possession It a Wonderful Help to Success.

It is generally conceded that tact is a quality which serves us well at times and in all circumstances. And while all regard it as a thing to be desired, many fail to recognize that it may be consciously cultivated. If we analyze tact we find that it is made up of certain elements:

A sympathetic knowledge of human nature, its fears, weaknesses, expectations and inclinations.

The ability to put yourself in the other person's place and to consider the matter as it appears to him.

The magnanimity to deny expression to such of your thoughts as might unnecessarily offend another.

The ability to perceive quickly what is the expedient thing, and the willingness to make the necessary concessions.

The recognition that there are millions of different human opinions of which your own is but one.

A spirit of unfeigned kindness such as makes even an enemy a debtor to your innate good will.

A patience that supplants accusation with the opportunity for self-discovery.

A recognition of what is customary in the circumstances and a gracious acceptance of the situation.

Gentleness, cheerfulness and sincerity—and such variations as the spirit of these may suggest.

TWAIN'S EULOGY OF HAWLEY

One Speech Humorist Was Known to Make Certainly a Gem in Its Way.

It is said that Mark Twain has made only one public appearance as a political speaker, which was during a presidential campaign some years ago. While visiting in Elmira, N. Y., in the fall of that year, he made a short speech, introducing Gen. Hawley of Connecticut to a Republican meeting. Among other things he said:

"Gen. Hawley is a member of my church in Hartford, and the author of 'Beautiful Snow.' Maybe he will deny that; but I am here only to give him a character from his last place. As a pure citizen I respect him; as a personal friend of years, I have the warmest regard for him; as a neighbor whose vegetable garden intimately adjoins mine, why—why I watch him."

"As the author of 'Beautiful Snow,' he added a new pang to winter. He is a square, true man in honest politics—and I must say that he occupies a mighty lonesome position. So broad, so beautiful is his character, that he never turned a tramp empty handed from the door—but always gave him a letter of introduction to me."

"Pure, honest, incorruptible, that is Joe Hawley. Such a man in politics is like a bottle of perfume in a glue factory; it may moderate the stench; but it can't eliminate it."

"In conclusion let me say that I haven't said any more of him than I would of myself. Ladies and gentlemen, this is Gen. Hawley."—The Sunday Magazine.

SOME REMARKS FROM MARIA

Mrs. Dorkins Ails Her Grievances, While the "Head of the House" Just Listens.

"You've got to listen to me, John," she said, "whether you want to hear me or not!"

She was right. John couldn't escape. He was standing by the window, shaving himself, having just begun the operation.

"What is it, Maria?" he asked.

"I'm getting tired of playing second fiddle in this house!" she exclaimed.

"Get a graphophone."

"And I'm not going to do it any longer, either! I am going to assert my rightful prerogative and have something to say hereafter in the business affairs of this household. Who made you the absolute dictator of the family? The apostle Paul? I think not, John Dorkins. When Paul appointed the husband as the boss of the home he was writing to the Corinthians. I never thought much of those Corinthian women, anyway. They were poor coots. Do you think he'd dare to tell the women nowadays to keep silence in the churches and to learn wisdom from their husbands at home? Not much! He'd be on their side. The time has come, I tell you, when women are going to declare themselves. They intend to have their say whenever there is anything to be done. What right has the man of the house, just because he has a bass voice and wears the trousers, to set himself up as a grand mogul, or a czar, or a sultan? You call me your 'better half' in a joking way, but it's no joke! I'm the submerged half, and you know it! I can't even rise to a point of order. It's contrary to the old parliamentary rules established by St. Paul and adopted by all husbands. There's going to be another set of rules adopted, let me tell you! You are not going to have things all your own way hereafter! Just as sure as you live, John Dorkins—"

"Maria," interposed Mr. Dorkins, proceeding to lather the other side of his face, "you talk like a campaign orator."

GAMBLING HOUSE IN THEATER

Famous Resort of Rich New Orleans Idlers Had to Be Abolished by Law.

"The old French theater which was patronized by the Four Hundred of New Orleans in the days when my father was a young man was a unique institution," said Dr. J. L. Devonne, to the Baltimore American.

"In those days not only was it the scene of the finest acting in America, but the big building was devoted to other pleasures far outside the thespian entertainments. It had a spacious ballroom, and nooks where the best caterers of the day served exquisite suppers, and there was beneath the same roof a great apartment where gambling was in full blast during the progress of a play. I have heard my sire tell how the rich young creole bloods would slip out between the acts and win or lose thousands before returning to their seats. Some of them, of course, got too fascinated or too deeply involved ever to return. The acting of the greatest artist was a tame show by contrast to the excitement of the gambling tables. Many a young fellow squandered his patrimony in this old place, for then, as now, the manipulators of the roulette wheels and the faro dealers had a shade the best of the public."

"The losses were so many and ruinous that eventually the matter attained the proportions of a public scandal, and long before the civil war legislation was enacted that made gambling a felony and freed the historic old opera of the degrading partnership in games of chance."

HER HAPPIEST TIME OF LIFE

When the Dutch Housewife Sees Life with Her Own Instead of Husband's Eyes.

No, not even for the Tartjes would I care to be a Dutchwoman, unless, from the very beginning, I could be an elderly Dutch widow with a fortune.

One day I went to lunch with such a lady, and I think, when I myself am very old, and memories of earth are growing hazy in the sunset which lights the way to that other land beyond, I still shall see that tiny old Dutch Mevrouw standing in one of the rooms of her large old merchant mansion, her dress of fine black cloth, her little apron of silk with a flourish of rare old lace, her eyes bright and merry as a girl's, her face eager with the joy of living, her voice laughing out her welcome.

These old Dutch ladies make one marvel. They are like pears kept close that they may mellow when brought to the light. When their men, as they call their husbands, are too old or too wise with years to bother over everything as they do in their youth, or are gone to a country where for once their "ja's" and "neens" are second, these ladies seem to develop and expand, and their understanding to blossom. They are then very spontaneous. They laugh much, they chuckle over stories they could not have even whispered in their youth, they talk most entertainingly in many languages and often play the piano with skill and lively enjoyment. The dust-rags have ceased to interest them, the perambulators are empty, and they seem to be taking a joyful inspection of the world and its life which they have heretofore seen only through the eyes of a husband.—Harper's Weekly.

Had One Reason to Make.

"The things I say may not be very clever," says the Philosopher of Folly, "but I call the attention of the much-bored public to the fact that I haven't made a North Pole epigram yet."

REGAIN YOUR NERVE FORCE FREE

It is the natural desire of every man to be vigorous and strong. If you are devoid of that strength and virility that is your rightful heritage, let me aid you. You are not always a bar to recovery. I am 73 years of age and enjoy the good health and vigor that I did at 40.

I have spent 32 years in the continuous study and practice of medicine and am, therefore, fully qualified to advise you upon all ailments peculiar to man.

I have two prescriptions that I base my reputation upon as a physician and specialist. The one is for men under 50, and the other for men over 50. These stand today, in my opinion, absolutely unrivaled in their curative properties. I believe there is no treatment that has more genuine restorative powers or more cures to its credit than the one I submit you.

For loss of vigor, chronic diseases, all forms of nervous debility, loss of memory, lack of energy, ambition, etc.

In placing your case in my hands, you may have the utmost confidence that you will be given the personal benefit of a lifetime of study in the special disorders of men. Do not be discouraged by your past failures in search of health; for I am confident that should you entrust your case to me I can give you that benefit you have so long sought in vain.

My medicine acts as a perfect tonic to the nerve centers, upbuilding and toning up the system. Regain that vigorous constitution and nerve force that is the physical and natural attribute of man. If you are seeking lasting results that will make the future a life of pleasure instead of a burden that it has been in the past, consult the MAN WHO KNOWS.
