 Every government is as good as the average of those helping to make it. When every good citizen attends to his civic duties a government is bound to advance, but when careless he has only himself to condemn if officials are corrupt.
 The exhibition by "Rollo, The Limit," in his most sensational, death-defying whirl through space, will be the big attraction at the fair Sept. 27th, 28th and 29th. This is a feature which is seldom secured for county fairs and our society has been fortunate in securing it.

But three tickets were sold to the Odd Fellows picnic at Millersburg yesterday from this station.
 Tuesday evening the young people of the Baptist Church gave a pleasant reception to the Bay City young people, who have been camping here, on the lawn at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Waterbury.
 Mrs. Luella DeVoll of Redfield, South Dakota, who has been visiting Mrs. H. C. Bristol, left Thursday for Chicago. Her daughter, Miss Gracie, left the same day for South Branch to visit her grandparents.
 Nina Belle, the seven-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wilkins, of East Tawas, died from typhoid fever at Mercy hospital, Bay City, Monday morning. The child had been taken there for treatment but the disease had gained such headway that nothing could be done to save her young life. The funeral was held from the home Wednesday afternoon Rev. T. H. Martin officiating. The bereaved parents have the sympathy of all in their hour of sorrow.
 Pity the poor saloonkeepers. They will be mighty hard hit in September by the operation of the Warner-Crampton law. September 4 is Sunday. The saloons must be closed. September 5 is Labor Day. The saloons must be closed. September 6 is primary election day. The saloons must keep closed. Therefore, Saturday, September 3, should be a big day, as the wet goods must be stored up to last from 12 midnight Saturday until 6 a. m. Wednesday. It is about the longest period of drought the liquor dealers have ever brought up against in a wet county.

The annual rally and Grange picnic of the Iosco County Granges will be held at Watts' grove, on the Hemlock road, Friday, August 12. Hon. George S. Ladd, past master of the state Grange, of Massachusetts, and other speakers of state reputation will be present and deliver addresses. Each Grange in the county is expected to render a short program. Everybody, especially the farmers, and their families are invited to come and enjoy a feast for both mind and body.
 A nine composed of a number of former Tawas City ball tossers and some of the high school team went up to Tawas Beach Wednesday afternoon and played a game with the Cincinnati Y. M. C. A. boys who are camping there. It proved an exciting contest going 14 innings to a tie, each side scoring 10 runs. Phelix Stepanski, for the locals, pitched an excellent game. It is expected that another game will be arranged for next week.
 That the work of the Northeastern Michigan Development bureau is being appreciated by the people of this section of the state was apparent at a monster meeting of the directors of the bureau, the North Eastern Michigan Press association and the public domain commission of the state which was held in Cheboygan Tuesday afternoon. Such a galaxy of state lights has not been gathered together in some time and the meeting was a real boost for the work which has been quietly going on in this section of the state in an organized, systematic form for the past few months. —Saginaw News.

Chamols Belts.
 The belts of chamols, dyed to match cloth or velvet suits, are covetable, to say the least. A barbaric ornament of dull silver or gold, set with enamel or colored stones, is the buckle most worn. The leather has been treated to an embossing process by the application of velvet flowers and leaves. Altogether, the separate blouses need fear no harm from these necessary girdles, but as they appear in all shades and degrees of ornamentation, they are indeed fortunate and happy mediums in the street costume.

Gentle Pats from a Powder Puff.
 Remember that powder works its way into skin and leaves the pores much enlarged and coarsened. A puff is not antiseptic, according to one of the medical authorities, and endangers the health of the skin. It is wiser to use little pads of sanitary cotton, when one essays to obliterate the shine, so that when they become even slightly soiled they can be thrown away.
 Avoid the highly-scented and colored varieties of face powder. They are both harmful and in poor taste.

When the Nose is Red.
 The digestive trouble is sufficient to account for the rose tint of your nose. It will be wise for you not only to adopt a simpler diet, but also to take an inventory of your habits in relation to bathing, sleeping and so on. Every detail of your method of living has an important bearing on your digestion.

Animal Study.
 The study of animal behavior, which is now being so vigorously pursued in America by our great field naturalists, will provide, perhaps, the most likely channel along which the main stream of advance will be made toward the fuller comprehension of the mysteries of mental life.—Lancet.

Independent Politics.

All over the United States the sentiment in favor of independent politics and the man more than the party is steadily growing. James R. Garfield, former secretary of the interior department, has accepted the appellation of "insurgent," and presented his view on the problems now confronting the people with respect to the national government. Mr. Garfield will be a candidate for governor of Ohio on a "progressive" platform. In a recent speech before a representative gathering he heartily indorsed all that the "insurgent" element in congress had done and was trying to do for the people. He repudiated such as Aldrich, Cannon and Payne and asserted that if the republican party is to survive and be the servant of the people their power must be broken. The former secretary did not spare the present leaders of either the republican or democratic parties. He pointed out the fact that when the democrats were in power they had similar associations with the privilege seekers in Wall street. The keynote of his address was that if the people are to have the kind of government they want it will be necessary for them to put away the servants of the corporations. Mr. Garfield and Colonel Roosevelt are firm personal and political friends each having the confidence of the other and being in hearty accord with each other as to the rights and interests of the public.—Cadillac Globe.

Right and Wrong.

Though I try to be square as I toddle along, though I try to be decent and white; but oh, its so easy to live your life wrong, and often it's hard to do right! A man can go wrong without sweating a hair but if he would stick to the right, he has to be watching with vigilant care, and never let up in the fight. I find it so easy to spread a report that darkens the fame of a man! But it costs me an effort to pull myself short, and praise him the best that I can. I find it so easy, in making a trade to say that my junk is "jo," but it's hard to confess that it's old and decayed and not worth a kopeck a throw. I find it so easy to brag and to boast, and swell myself up like a joss; but I hate to admit that I'm merely, at most, no more than a fierce total loss. I try to be decent, and humble and fair, and never have I understood, as I journeyed the pathway with vigilant care, why it takes such hard work to be good.—Petoskey Independent.

Buy From Advertisers.

When a store advertises it shows that it values your trade enough to ask for it; your convenience is considered to the extent of making it easy for you to know what is offered in needed goods; the store shows its willingness to go on record in its statements about its stock and service; the advertising of an article as being of a certain quality, and at a stated price is, in a sense, a contract between the seller and the prospective buyer; the prices of advertised goods must be so low that competition cannot meet them; advertising increase sales, enabling the store to accept smaller profits. These are some of the reasons why you should buy from stores that advertise. There are other reasons, and although not stated, you profit by them.

Newspapers in Trouble.

Special agents of the postoffice department are traveling around the country dropping into newspaper offices when least expected to examine subscription lists, to ascertain if the regulation requiring payment of subscriptions is being observed. Several Iowa newspapers have been in trouble and here is a case told of by the Des Moines Capital:

"Editor Fay of Lyons, Ia., has been called to Washington city because his subscription list is not as well paid up as the law requires. He will have to explain to the government officials why he has not compelled his subscribers to pay up according to the postal rules. An inspector had visited him two months previously and his list was said to be pretty thoroughly paid up, but evidently it was not sufficiently so. It seems a little tough that country editors have to be hauled up before the government under the charge of violating federal laws just because they do not eternally keep dunning their subscribers for the small sum they owe on subscriptions, but it is like the end of the world, no one knows when it cometh, and no editor knows what day an inspector may pop in and ask to see his list. If too many subscribers are behind on their paper it means trouble with the government. It puts an editor in such shape that he is compelled to force his collections unless he has an unusual prompt paying list of subscribers.

Simplifying the Work.

It pays to take stock, now and then of one's household ways and means, to find out whether each piece of work is being done in the best and quickest way. Often it is not; and, in tasks that have to be done over and over, every useless stroke counts. Simplified work means more leisure for reading, visiting or doing whatever one likes to do; and to keep in good condition, physically and mentally, everybody needs to do for a part of the time what they enjoy doing. Ironing can be simplified in some families; and time can be saved in dishwashing by having a pan of water in the sink, and when preparing a meal or clearing a table, slipping soiled dishes into it to soak, so that when ready to wash they need little done to them. Many very good housekeepers, after putting away the food left at supper, and washing the silver, leave the dishes soaking till morning, when they can be easily washed while the breakfast is cooking; and thus it is practicable to dress before supper, and to have the whole evening free. Look around to see where you can economize work without loss to your family, and you will find the work more interesting if you vary your ways in the effort to learn better ones, and by the thought you must give to do this.—Farm Journal.

Alfalfa.

Let us consider for a moment the case of alfalfa. Everybody regards this plant the most useful to Nature's gifts to agriculture. Its value to the dairy is incalculable, and its worth as food, either green or cured, for other stock is scarcely less important; and while in some respects too high a value has been accorded alfalfa in some of its form, as, for instance, in a ground or meal state (the Experiment Station of Massachusetts having proved by actual feeding tests that the much vaunted meal has an efficiency somewhat less than that of bran, which it was intended to supplant), the fact nevertheless remains that it is the most valuable forage plant known to the American farmer, a conviction that will remain unchanged in spite of the fact that patent medicine venders, quick to hoist their sails to catch the favoring breeze, are exploiting alfalfa as a panacea for human ills.—Farm Journal.

Base Ball Excursion to Detroit.

Sunday, August 7. Special train leaves Tawas City at 6:50 a. m., arriving Detroit at 12:00 noon; returning leave Detroit at 7:00 p. m. Fare $3.00; children between 5 and 12 half fare. American league game between New York and Detroit. Parlor car to Bay City and return. See D. & M. agents and hand bills.

Stagers Skeptics.

That a clean, nice, fragrant compound like Bucklen's Arnica Salve will instantly relieve a bad burn, cut, scald, wound or piles, staggers skeptics. But great cures prove it a wonderful healer of the worst sores, ulcers, boils, felon, eczema, skin eruptions, as also chapped hands, sprains and corns. Try it. 25c at J. M. Wuggazer & Co. and James E. Dillon.

Madam Cow.

The dairy cow, if able to express herself in a way which the human family would comprehend, might well lay claim to being man's best friend. She might establish such a claim by calling attention to the fact that from her product and from her carcass man manufactures more of the necessities of life than from any other similar course. She furnishes these necessities to him from infancy until such a time as temporal things are no longer associated with his existence, and she does it ungrudgingly and constantly.

In addition to contributing to man's necessity and his pleasure, the prosperity of an agricultural community is more closely identified with her than with any other of the domestic animals. The horse is quite essential in tilling the soil, but where necessity requires it the sturdy son of the cow can take his place, as he has done in every agricultural section on earth. The horse can only furnish labor and can only return a profit to his owner when conditions are right for returning satisfactory grain crops. It is a well-known fact that the dairy cow is the salvation of the farmer in times of poor crops as she is able to convert the rough crops which are never a total failure, into dairy products which always have a cash value.

In addition to this she furnishes skim milk and buttermilk for the calves, pigs and poultry and fertility for the soil, without which a farm becomes less valuable each year and the whole country less prosperous.

The elimination of the dairy cow would necessitate an almost revolutionary readjustment of man's tastes and requirements. It would mean untold suffering and hardship. Of course she will not be dispensed with but her value can perhaps best be appreciated by contemplating such a loss.

She will continue to be man's best friend as long as the human family exists and will keep on supplying him with his greatest needs just as she has done through the ages.—The National Dairy Union.

No More Lumber on S. G. M. Gates Holdings.

The last load of logs from the extensive Gates lumber land holdings near South Branch, owned by Mrs. S. G. M. Gates, of Bay City, has been "toted" over the Gates branch to the Detroit & Mackinac railroad and is now being delivered at the mill. The Detroit & Mackinac has a crew of men at work tearing up the branch, which can serve no further purposes in the vicinity, and its disappearance marks forever the passage of the gaily clad shanty boy from the once vast lumber holdings. The brave days of South Branch's "blazed trail" are over and now the community will devote itself to other things than bringing out the timber. The Gates branch was laid about 11 years ago. The country is fine for farming, orchard raising and cattle raising, and Mrs. S. G. M. Gates, of Bay City, has been gradually transforming much of the land into fine farm land as the lumber disappeared. She will continue her farming interests in that section.

SICK PEOPLE SHOULD INVESTIGATE

I Know the Diseases of Both Sexes Like an Open Book. I have Been Curing Them for 49 Years. In fact, My Entire Life Has Been Devoted to Curing Where Others Have Failed.

I Have Changed Hundreds Upon Hundreds of Nervous Wrecks Into Fine, Strong Men and Women. I Accept No Case I Cannot Cure.

I ESPECIALLY invite all discouraged and dissatisfied ones who have been treated without a cure to write me fully and frankly about their case. It will cost you nothing to write me, and I will gladly tell you your condition, truthfully, honestly—accepting no case that I cannot cure—holding out no false promises. I have spent my whole life in the study and cure of chronic diseases, and my study and investigation have been blessed by the discovery of many new and marvellous methods of treating disease. Forty-nine years ago I graduated from the Western Homeopathic Medical College of Cleveland, O., for many long years as a specialist, treating chronic diseases of all kinds with wonderful success, and am now owner of one of the largest sanitariums in both sexes. I cure the worst forms of Epilepsy, St. Vitus Dance, Par-

My long experience in diagnosing cases and my understandings of the different diseases that I treat enable me in almost every case to prescribe by mail a perfect, thorough cure. All correspondence in plain envelopes and sacredly confidential.

I CURE NERVOUS TROUBLES—Wasting Away, Loss of Vitality in Both Sexes. Whether from excess or over-work, I promptly and positively cure, no matter of how long standing.

I CURE BLOOD POISON—I cure Blood Poison in the first, second and third stages—driving the poison from the system, the taint from the blood; curing pimples, copper spots, sores in the mouth, tumors and ulcers.

I CURE FITS—Epilepsy, St. Vitus Dance, Paralysis, etc., by striking direct at the cause, restoring the diseased nerves to perfect health.

I CURE PILES—in 30 days to stay cured and to never return.

I CURE CONSUMPTION, the Great White Plague, in the first and second stages. Have made a special study of this disease for fifty years. Have cured hundreds given up by home doctors. Those I cannot treat at home by seeing or by mail, I will take to my Sanitarium, where best of medical skill, nursing and private rooms are given, for Ten Dollars a week.

I GUARANTEE TO CURE, to stay cured, liquor, morphine, cocaine, nicotine or cigarette habits. Most cases treated at home.

Call and see me or write to either Sanitarium as below.

No matter what disease you are suffering from, write me fully today. I will answer at once, and my advice, which costs you nothing, may be worth hundreds of dollars—life itself—to you. If I cannot cure you I will tell you so. WRITE TODAY.

STATE SCRIBES GUESTS AT CHEBOYGAN

Northeastern Michigan Press Association In Frolic at "Hub City."

MARTINDALE IS OPTIMISTIC

In Lengthy Address, He Predicts Great Things For Northern Counties. Cites Necessity For Good Highways.

BY DORA M. RAMSAY.
 Monday night Al H. Weber and Vet S. Moloney took a run down the D. & M. road to personally escort to Cheboygan the visiting editors who were to come by that road. Each visitor was properly tagged with the official badge of the day, strips of leather of various colors, green predominating, inscribed with gold letters and the official insignia of the "Hub City." Trains and boats from that time on continued to bring in parties interested in newspaper work in this section of the state.

Among the prominent men present as special guests of the occasion were Hon. H. K. Gustin of Alpena, State

O. PALMER.

Land Commissioner Huntley Russell of Grand Rapids, Congressman George A. Loud of AuSable, Secretary of State F. C. Martindale of Detroit, Junius E. Beal of Ann Arbor, regent of the U. of M.; William Kelley of Vulcain, member of the board of control of the Michigan School of Mines; Frank D. Scott, candidate for state senator from this district, and Hon. Frank Buell, who has congressional aspirations.

Early Tuesday morning groups of intellectual looking people were seen straying about the streets, gazing with pleasure upon the attractions of the city. At 10:30 a. m., at the City Opera House, Mayor F. E. Brackett in behalf of the city formally welcomed the visiting delegation. Hon. Oscar Palmer of Grayling, in the temporary absence of A. R. Canfield, president of the Northeastern Michigan Press association, took charge of the meeting. He called upon T. W. Crissey of Midland to respond to Mayor Brackett's address of welcome. The morning's program was decidedly informal, but nevertheless inspiring. Hon. Huntley Russell of Grand Rapids, state land commissioner, was called upon to sing. At 1:30 p. m. the association reconvened. Interesting papers and talks were given by T. F. Marston, Hon. J. E. Beal and Hon. Fred C. Martindale. All of which were suggestively helpful, entertaining and instructive.

Mr. Martindale's paper is quoted at length and will be found of great general interest to the people of northern Michigan. His stand on state aided roads meets the needs of this section admirably.

The boat ride down the Inland Route as far as Topinabee proved a rare treat to Cheboygan's guests, few of whom had ever taken it. A beautiful fleet of private launches turned out, each vying with the other in extending hospitality. The committee in charge of this part of the entertainment had matters well in hand, and everything passed off delightfully. The party returned to the city at 7:30 p. m. and proceeded at once to the Elks' temple, where an informal reception was held. Tables were set attractively in the Elks' dining hall, and after lunch was served, during which the Pleasure Orchestra furnished music, a program of impromptu toasts was responded to most cleverly. President A. R. Canfield acted as toastmaster, and his witty introductions and quick replies to thrusts made by his victims occasioned a great amount of laughter and kept the feeling of jolly good fellowship continuous throughout the evening.

Wednesday morning the association held a business meeting at the City Opera House. At 11:15 the party embarked on the steamer City of Cheboygan for Michigan's "Enchanted Isle." The committee in charge again rose admirably to the occasion. There were flowers and boxes of candy for the women, and cigars and favors for the men. A hastily gotten up mock trial in which A. R. Canfield was charged with having been "charged with soda water," furnished great amusement.

Having arrived at the island, the party had dinner at the several hotels and then enjoyed a ride around the beautiful national island park. The ride back to Cheboygan was enlivened by music and other forms of entertainment. Automobiles, furnished by our citizens, carried the members of the press association and their guests to and from the boat, and it was the verdict of all present that each had been treated most hospitably and generously by Cheboygan people.

Mr. Martindale's address follows:
 Mr. Chairman, Members of the Northeastern Press Association, and Gentlemen:

"On behalf of the public domain commission I wish to most heartily thank your press association for your request to participate in this meeting.

"The subject assigned to me is a broad one, and necessarily must be considered from many viewpoints. I do not believe that any one person is capable of mapping out a plan of action that will best subserve the promotion of the agricultural and horticultural possibilities of north Michigan. This is a problem that can only be worked out by combining the best thought of the many who are making a thorough study along this line. It is a problem to be worked out by the individual, the press, the development associations, the public domain commission, the state, all working harmoniously together with a united front with one common end in view, namely, the good of all the people. The public domain commission stands ever ready to co-operate in any way within its authority with the local authorities, the press, the citizen. In whatever will rebound to the benefit of our great state of Michigan and her people.

"I had the pleasure of being present at a meeting called for the purpose of organizing the Northeastern Michigan Development bureau during the latter part of last year. I was much impressed by a motto which adorned the stage at that meeting, the wording of which is as follows: "Now, all together." This sentiment if adhered to will overcome seemingly insurmountable obstacles and will make light and pleasant work of that which would otherwise seem burdensome.

"Having to deal with the subject assigned to me for discussion almost wholly from the viewpoint of a state officer the suggestions that I will make here to day will be mainly confined to the attitude of the state toward the promotion of the agricultural and horticultural possibilities of northern Michigan.

"While opinions may differ as to the feasibility or desirability of some of the suggestions which will be presented by me, yet I feel that if any one thought of mine will, if acted upon, serve to accelerate the settlement of our agricultural lands of north Michigan, then my presence here will not have been in vain.

"The permanent and continued prosperity of any considerable region must depend upon its agriculture, and with a partial and continued failure of the food supply our great centers of population would wither like vegetation swept by the simoon.

"The time is fast approaching when it will tax the energies of our people to produce the necessary agricultural products for home consumption. Our home demand has now almost overtaken our production, and in consequence our exports of agricultural products have been reduced to a minimum. The result of this shortage is that the general trend of prices is upward and, no doubt, will so continue under present conditions. The population of the country is increasing by leaps and bounds. According to our best authorities children that are born today will see our population of 90,000,000, or thereabouts, increased to the enormous sum of 130,000,000 to 140,000,000 before they have attained their majority. To properly provide for this vast number of people will tax the agricultural resources of the country when pushed far beyond our present standard of efficiency in agricultural pursuits.

"The people of the cities will be the ones to suffer most if our agricultural resources cannot be sufficiently augmented to meet the demands of this unprecedented increase in population.

"I, therefore, take it that it is the duty of every good citizen to see that the agricultural lands of this country be brought under cultivation in order that the day may be postponed, indefinitely if possible, when the average citizen will be compelled through scarcity of food products and consequent excessive prices to lower his present high standard of living and gradually descend to the low standard of living now prevalent in many of the older countries. Our average high standard of living has been, and is, the glory of our American republic, for only upon a sufficient, varied and proper diet can the highest physical and mental attributes be developed.

"For still other reasons it is of great interest to the people of the state of Michigan to have the agricultural and horticultural lands of the northern counties devoted to their proper purpose. Every additional acre placed under cultivation means just so much additional value placed on the tax rolls of the state, thus contributing so much additional to the support of our state government and just so much decreasing the burden now borne by other property. There is no doubt that if the available agricultural lands in northern Michigan were placed under the value of lands in certain sections of Michigan that have proven themselves to be the most valuable in the country for agricultural and horticultural products. The many millions brought into the state each year by the sale of the horticultural and other commodities in southern and western Michigan is a palpable refutation of the doubters of a few years ago. The same doubts have existed in the past as to the agricultural possibilities of many of our oldest and richest countries. Fortunately, there no longer remains a doubt as to the great agricultural and horticultural possibilities of north Michigan, and with her advantages properly presented to commercial bodies, farm land congresses, chambers of commerce, farmers' institutes, co-operation associations, etc., prospective buyers and settlers will surely avail themselves of the great opportunities afforded.

"In displays of agriculture and horticultural products (and I believe that it is one of the best ways of educating the public to her possibilities) north Michigan has already shown the advocates of the settlement of our western irrigated land and other lands that she far outstrips them in many of those products. And education of this character will gradually teach the American citizen settler that it is not advisable for him to emigrate to the frozen regions of the Canadian northwest, there to undergo the discomforts of an unendurable climate and to lose the protection of the flag which we all love so well, but that right here at home in Michigan, with an equable climate, opportunities are afforded to the settler that are unsurpassed anywhere.

"I believe that good, servicable highways are of vital interest to the proper development of the agricultural interests of the north counties. The proposition of getting the farm crops to the nearest home market or to the siding or station with the least labor and in the shortest time is of vital interest to the grower of fruits, vegetables or general farm crops. The state, recognizing the necessity of good roads, has passed laws giving to certain municipalities rewards for building roads meeting certain standards of perfection. This law is good so far as it goes, but I believe could be improved in certain respects.

"I believe that in the newer developed counties where the total assessed valuation is necessarily less than in the older, more thickly settled and richer counties, that the township should get a state reward for building a good, servicable, well-drained road meeting to requirements as to travel of the locality where constructed.

"When these communities become older and richer it will be time to enforce them to build a road equally as expensive as in the more populous and more highly assessed counties.

"It may be said that it is not desirable to lower the standard for receiving state rewards in the more thickly settled and richer counties. This is, perhaps true. Their roads by reason of their proximity to cities and by reason of the heavy traffic necessarily incident to getting the crops to market in these thickly settled districts, must be built of a more durable nature. This could be taken care of by allowing the townships in counties having an assessed value of less than some reasonable specified amount to receive a state reward for building, as I have stated, a good, servicable, well-drained road answering the requirement as to travel of the locality where situated. These localities are contributing by state tax for the building of roads in the more thickly settled and richer counties, and it only seems fair that in turn they should receive some benefit from the state.

"One other subject I will speak of before closing, that is the wonderful inheritance your north counties have in the water power of your rivers. The honest development of this power will no doubt work wonders for the growth and development of your agricultural interests. Success in raising of many crops to advantage almost entirely depends on a handy and speedy means of transportation to the centers of population. With an abundant and cheap supply of electricity it seems that at no distant day the northern counties will be threaded by electric lines which will furnish the connecting link in your transportation facilities.

"And in all, the future seems most bright for northern Michigan. With its equable climate, its fertile soil, its proximity to the great centers of trade, its wonderful water power, its timber supply, it is indeed destined to become the home of a teeming, prosperous population."

the plow, millions upon millions of additional wealth would be placed upon our tax rolls.

"So also the settling up of these lands would mean an increased prosperity along many other channels. The transportation companies, both rail and water, would be among the first to reap the benefit. The city would be greatly benefited, for there the settler must buy his machinery, his clothing, many articles of food, and other necessities incidental to farm life. In fact the building up of our agricultural lands goes hand in hand with a greater prosperity for the city and town already established and with the building up of new and prosperous centers of population for a mutual sale and exchange of commodities.

"The settlement of the agricultural and horticultural lands of north Michigan should therefore not be considered as wholly a local question to be solved by local authorities at local expense, for it is a matter which vitally affects the people of our entire country and state. The United States government has already awakened to the impending gravity of the food situation and is expanding untold millions in reclaiming arid and other waste lands for agricultural purposes.

"Many states are expanding vast sums for the same purpose. The state of Michigan, however, seems proverbially backward in taking a forward step to induce settlers to take up her undeveloped agricultural lands. This is a question of vital interest to the whole commonwealth, and no state can afford to neglect that which is of vital interest to her citizens.

"Many of the states have boards or bureaus for bringing to the attention of prospective buyers and settlers the advantages of lands within their borders for agricultural and horticultural purposes. And some of these states spend considerable sums of money in this manner. From reports issued by these bureaus it may be seen that great progress has been made by them in inducing the settlement of their agricultural lands.

"As a general proposition I do not believe in the creation of new state boards, nor do I believe it is necessary to create any new board to carry out the purposes of immigration boards of other states. With slight changes in the present law creating the public domain commission authority could be given that commission to collect and publish the necessary data setting forth the advantages of the whole state and of its different sections for agricultural purposes and to bring these advantages to the attention of prospective buyers and settlers.

"The desirability of settling in your counties should be brought to the attention of the prospective buyers and settlers in some manner, and no better method could be devised than through a regularly constituted board acting in conjunction with the local authorities, bureaus and the press of the state. But whether the power of collecting and disseminating information with reference to our agricultural advantages be placed in the hands of the public domain commission or in the hands of some other person or persons there seems to be no doubt that from the experience of other states the move would be a wise one. If thought advisable to vest this power in hands of other than the public domain commission, the commission would lend every possible aid and assistance within its power to make the work eminently successful. It is not the particular agency achieving the required result that interests us, but it is the achievement of the result in which we are all vitally interested. This work, however, should in no way supersede the work now being performed by the development bureaus and local authorities, for that work has already proven

"The land area of the thirty-three counties of the southern peninsula north of the south line of Bay county extended across the state is 11,472,522.85 acres, approximately 18,000 square miles. This is in itself a small empire. It contains a great deal of the finest developed farm lands in Michigan; other large areas of land in this section available for agricultural purposes have been totally neglected as to this use, and still other large tracts that have until recently been thought unavailable for agricultural purposes have through tests, experiments and changed conditions become valuable for this purpose. And we must remember that grave questions arose as to
