Next to the wife beater comes the horse beater and it is to be regretted we have one or two in this community. A horse is the most noble and faithful of animals and the man who would abuse his horse has something lacking in his manhood.
L. H. Klenow, the East Tawas grocer, is making his cash customers presents of some elegant premiums. The premiums come to you absolutely free for cash dealing. He sells you goods just as cheap, and perhaps cheaper than you can get them elsewhere, and gives you the premium.
Wilfred Grise was taken to Mercy hospital, Bay City, last evening to have his leg treated. The leg was broken nearly two months ago when his horse ran away, and for some reason it has not healed as it should. Fred's many friends hope to see him around again soon. Dr. C. A. Wakeman accompanied him.
Any person having rooms to rent, or wishing to board or take a girl to work for her board, is requested to send a postal card to Supt. M. E. Valentine. Several girls who expect to attend the County Normal and some who will attend the high school need accommodation. Last year there were more calls for rooms than could be secured. Deputy Superintendent of Public Instruction Keeler says that inquiries regarding the tuition law are pouring in from all parts of the state. Many parents who desired to send their children to some high school or institution of learning outside of the district in which they reside, failed to file with the board of education prior to the fourth Monday in June. This makes it impossible for them to participate in the fund set aside for tuition purposes and has caused considerable confusion.

Miss Nina Crandall left Wednesday for Monte Vista, Col., where she will teach again during the coming year. She was accompanied as far as Detroit by her mother, Mrs. E. C. Crandall, where they will visit for a few days.
Word from Chicago announces the arrival of a fine little daughter at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Ballard on Sunday last. The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Ballard in this city will unite with us in extending congratulations.
Vol. 1, No. 1 of the Brooks Banner, published at Brooks, Alberta, has reached our table. The name of our old friend Calvin Goss appears at the mast head as editor and proprietor. Brooks is a new farming town on the C. P. Ry. and is growing very rapidly and the Banner has a very healthy and prosperous appearance.
We note that there are many Canada thistles and other noxious weeds being allowed to go to seed in some localities in this county. The highway commissioner who neglects to see that the noxious weed law is enforced lays himself liable. It is important that this law be enforced and the highway commissioner who fails in this respect is the wrong man for the office.
We do not laugh enough. There is nothing more pleasant to the ear than the merry laugh of a happy, joyous person, and nothing drives away gloom and care like a good hearty laugh. Laughter and good humor make a happy, pleasant home and a cheerful bright home is the greatest safeguard against the temptations of the young. Parents should guard against this and spare no pains to make home a cheerful spot.
Fred Gaul, of Saginaw, and Miss Hannah Asal, of Traverse City, were united in marriage in the latter city on Thursday of last week. Both young people are well known here, the groom being a son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Gaul, of the Hemlock road, and now employed as a fireman on the P. M. Ry., while the bride is the daughter of Rev. William Asal, formerly pastor of the Emanuel Lutheran church of this city. The Herald unites with their many friends in extending congratulations.
Pull together, brethren. We are all here for the same purpose. Then live and let live. The best way to build up a town is for each and every man to pull together and not strive to rend and tear down. All the residents of a town are partners, not opponents. In all likelihood the more business done by your rival the more you will do. Every merchant who treats his customers honestly and fairly will get his share and the more business that can be secured by united effort, the better it will be for all.
How Elmer Barlow, the 10-year-old grandson, of Charles Brown, of the Townline, escaped death is hard to understand. Last Monday morning the lad started on horseback to drive the cows to pasture and when crossing the D. & M. tracks at Kings Crossing was caught by the Tawas Beach special, the horse the boy was riding was instantly killed, being cut in two, one cow was also killed, yet young Barlow escaped practically without an injury. He was thrown about 20 feet and slightly dazed but got up and walked home. The only injury sustained was a slight scratch on forehead and a small bruise on ankle.
The farmers of Iosco county are urged to bear in mind that the Northeastern Development Bureau is preparing to make exhibits at two of the largest expositions in the central west this year, namely, the Michigan state fair and the Chicago land and irrigation Congress. If our country is to receive its share of the honors it must come to the front with a generous portion of such exhibits. The local director is ready and anxious to receive and prepare all samples that may be brought in. In addition the Bureau will duplicate all first premiums received at the state fair by exhibitors within the territory. This is surely a sufficient incentive to our people to insure a large and varied assortment of Iosco county products. Don't wait until the last moment, but let the director know what can be expected, so that proper plans can be completed for handling the collection.

YOUNG BUFFALO'S WILD WEST COMING!

Big Aggregation of Daring Rough Riders, Cowboys, Cowgirls and Indians Show at East Tawas, Saturday, August 20.

EXHIBIT ON SHOW GROUNDS.

Exciting Program Replete With Great Thrills and Spills Will be Presented.

HERALD'S TREAT FOR THE CHILDREN

A feature that will gladden the hearts of the youngsters of this territory is a free ride on Indian ponies to be given to the children who cut out coupons appearing in The Herald by special arrangement with the management of Young Buffalo's Wild West Show. Bring the coupon with you to the show. It entitles you to the pony ride inside the big arena.

With a program replete with thrilling exhibitions of rough riding, the subjugation of vicious bronchos, feats of daring in the saddle, expert work with the lariat, realistic Indian fights, dances and massacres, a portrayal of the historic Deadwood stage-coach holdup, work by a marvelous trained equine, an exhibition of sharpshooting in which a young woman risks her life as a near-target and other exciting events, Young Buffalo's Wild West and Texas Rangers will show in East Tawas, Saturday, August 20, at the show grounds.

Early life on the frontier as it was when the hardy spirits laid the foundation for the peace and prosperity which has replaced lawlessness and bloodshed, will be portrayed by the show's big aggregation of cowboys, cowgirls, Indians, roughriders, and other daredevils, from Montana, Wyoming, Texas, Oklahoma and New Mexico. In 20 big cars the 300 performers, with more than 150 range horses, bronchos, burros Indian ponies, oxen, wild cattle and steers will arrive in East Tawas Saturday morning, August 20.

Shortly after the arrival of the show it will parade through the principal streets, starting from show grounds at 10 a. m. The performance will be given rain or shine.

One of the features of greatest interest in the street parade is the 20-ox team driven by Col. Henry Stevens, the noted driver.

All interested in having a course of entertainments during the fall and winter of 1910 and 1911 will please meet with the Citizens Entertainment Association at the office of John A. Mark in the court house on Monday evening Aug. 15th at 7:30 standard time.

So he knocks and knocks—poor lonesome devil, Trying to drag others down to his level.

Oh! give me the booster—that man with a smile, Who gives you a glad hand without any guile.

Who'll go out of his way to show you around, And tell of the good things found in his town.

When he gets to heaven, at the bright pearly gate, He'll find a choice welcome, early or late.

While the poor old knocker, so sour and crusty, Will find the gates closed and the hinges all rusty.

He Got No Fish.

Rev. C. T. Jack, Baptist minister at Mt. Pleasant, took to Clare county water Monday, not by immersion, sprinkling or pouring, but just waded from Farewell to Clare in the Tobacco river, whipping the stream for trout. He had the regulation fisherman's togs, jointed pole, reel and all, but did not have much success. Whether the dominie's poor luck was because he had been swearing, or did not have the right kind of bait for Clare county streams, your scribe was not able to learn.—Clare Sentinel.

From the above it will be seen that Rev. Jack still retains his love for wholesome sports, as in days of yore when pastor of the Baptist church at East Tawas.

Back, Back, Back to the Farm.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 9.—Unofficial reports from the census bureau seem to indicate that the drift from the country to the city is less marked than it was 10 years ago.

There are no official figures out yet to prove this, but government statisticians who are working on the tabulation of the current census, say that comparison with the figures of 10 years ago lead to the belief that the tide is at the turn, that the cities will soon cease to draw such comparatively heavy tolls from the red blood of the rural districts as they have in the past.

There are several factors that bear on this change of drift. One important factor is the rapid growth of what may be called the "interurban" population, those who work in cities and live in the country, going back and forth as steam or electric road commuters, or in automobiles or motor yachts.

Another factor that has a big influence in favor of the rural districts is the spread of the rural free delivery, which was in its infancy a decade ago. In the past 10 years the R. F. D. has ramified everywhere, carrying the daily paper to remote and lonely neighborhoods, and going far toward making farm life less irksome and depressing to those not in sympathy with the quiet of the old regime. The rural telephone lines, now spreading rapidly, must eventually exert an influence in this direction perhaps even more marked than that of the rural mail.

The "high cost of living" is held to be another factor that has contributed to this end. For the farmer, least of all, is affected adversely by advances in the prices of the necessities of life. On the contrary, it is he most of all, outside those drawing dividends from the big interests that control the supply of foodstuffs, who profits by the prevailing high prices. So naturally the farm is desirable in proportion as prices go up.

Other factors having a like bearing with these are the automobile, which offers the farmer a handy mode of rapid transit, and the influence of the state agricultural schools. And, of course, the "back to the soil" slogan that has been raised in the cities, mostly by folks who never knew the soil has had its effect.

So it would seem that the decline of rural America has ceased and that the upturn is at hand.

Still other interesting facts have been developed by the partial census returns thus far available. For instance, it is evident that at least 60 cities will be added to the list of towns of 25,000 or over. Ten years ago there were 160 of them. It also develops that two-thirds of these new "cities" are in the north central states.

The national capital shows a comparatively small increase in population. The census of 1900 showed an increase of 21 per cent. Now it has fallen to 18.

Columbus, O., made a big stride, gaining 44.6 per cent, as against 24 per cent, 10 years ago. Lynchburg, Va., did even better, showing an increase of 56.1 per cent.

Texas promises to be the big sensation of the decade. Fifty-two counties now in show a population of 827,008, an increase of 48.7. If the ratio is maintained in the Lone Star state there will be perhaps five more congressmen from thence in the next congress, and then, Oh, joy!—there will be a singing am paens from the Panhandle to the gulf—for then Texas will go ahead of Ohio in ranks of the sisterhood of states.

KEEP DUST AT A DISTANCE

Dress Protectors Should Have a Place In the Wardrobe of Every Woman.

Most people are very slow to realize the vast amount of harm which is done to one's dresses, especially when they are of pale, delicate colors, by allowing them to hang in a wardrobe or cupboard, where the dust is sure to penetrate, and where, also, they frequently "catch" in the hooks and trimmings of other dresses, and in that way get torn and shabby.

Linen bags are useful in their way as dress protectors, but they often seem to crush and crumple the hems of the skirts, and it is very awkward to get the dresses out of them.

We, therefore, give a suggestion for a loosely hanging cover or wrapper, to be made in linen or brown holland, very much in the shape of a large cloak, with a square yoke to fit closely, but not tightly round the upper part of the skirt. This cover is kept in position by means of three buttons, so that it can be easily and quickly unfastened. It has its own separate loop, from which it hangs to the hook, so that there will be no need to take the wrapper down from the wall when the dress is removed for wearing. The dress will, of course, hang from the hook in the ordinary way.

NORTHEASTERN MICH. PRESS ASSOCIATION

What It Is, and How It Came to Be Organized.

BY LEN J. PATTERSON.

The organizers of the Northeastern Michigan Development bureau early came to the realization that the success of that organization depended largely upon the press of the seventeen counties included in that organization. Finding that among the organizers of the Development bureau a number of the progressive newspaper men, they were appointed as a committee to undertake the organization of the press association.

How well they succeeded is shown by the fact that in response to the call issued for a meeting at the Hotel Wenona, Bay City, on March 16, 1910, twenty-four of the fifty-four papers in the territory were represented, and letters from a majority of the others were received endorsing the project. The organization was completed by the election of the following officers:

President—A. R. Canfield, Courier, Clare.

Vice President—Oscar Palmer, Crawford Avalanche, Grayling.

Secretary—Len J. Patterson, Herald, Tawas City.

Treasurer—Al H. Weber, Democrat, Cheboygan.

The association at the present time has a membership of forty-five active members, four associate and eighteen honorary members.

The association meets twice a year, the annual meeting being held on the second Tuesday in January, when the business is attended to and the boys talk "shop." The summer session is intended as an outing when, with their wives, sisters and sweethearts, they lay aside for a few days the trials of newspaper worries and enjoy themselves at some of the many beautiful resorts in northeastern Michigan.

The first summer outing was held at Cheboygan, the "Hub City," July 26th and 27th. A more delightful two days would be difficult to imagine. The people of that city, under the leadership of President Maloney of the development bureau and Al Weber of the Cheboygan Democrat, forgot nothing that would aid in the pleasure of the occasion.

There were thirty-two members present, and with the members of the executive committee of the development bureau, the members of the public domain commission and the ladies of the party made a gathering of about one hundred guests for the city.

The press association is proving a strong factor in the development work in northeastern Michigan and is composed of as live a bunch of newspapers as can be found anywhere.
