Obituary.

McCORMBS.—At the home of his son Phil J. McCormbs, in this city, on Friday, November 4, 1910, James F. McCormbs.

The deceased was born at Clayton, Jefferson county, New York, December 1, 1839. He served nearly three years during the Civil War as a member of the 14th N. Y. heavy artillery, and for six months and 22 days was a prisoner of war in the Danville prison. He came to Michigan in 1866, and with the exception of three years in California, has since been a resident of this state, residing for 40 years in Bay City. He has for many years been a member of the First Baptist church of that city. He suffered a stroke of apoplexy Thursday morning, becoming immediately unconscious and never rallied.

He is survived by four children, Miss Ethel and Pierce, of Bay City, Phil, of this city, and James W., of Oakland, Cal. Also two brothers, Theodore, of Rushville, N. Y., and Eugene, of Muskegon, Mich.

The remains were taken to Bay City, the funeral being held from the home of his son Pierce McCormbs, Sunday and the remains laid at rest in the Elm Lawn cemetery, of that city.

Notice to Passengers.

The D. & M. Ry. desires to announce that their direct connection at Bay City, the Pere Marquette R. R., is now running its passenger trains into the Union Passenger Station at Toledo, O. This arrangement does away with all transfers inasmuch as all railroads entering Toledo now use the Union Passenger station.

Money.

Money is nothing more nor less than the measure of value, and therefore the medium of exchange. It may consist of anything—gold, silver, copper, iron, paper, bark, shells, pebbles—anything that shall be decided on by the parties concerned. It is the fiat of the community, and that only, that makes a certain piece of matter "money," and the fiat being manifested, any kind of material will answer for the symbol of value. The wampus of the Indians was just as much money as is the gold and silver coin of the civilized peoples.

He Knows What's What.

"Say, we've come to ask you to be our candidate for congress."
"Oh! Well, well! Thank you, boys, I'll run if the Old Guard will let me."
"Hold on. You're not as much of a hidebound partisan as that, are you?"
"Partisan? Of course not. I'm talking about my wife."

Supervisors' Proceedings.

To the honorable board of supervisors: Gentlemen—Your committee on Public Buildings, Supplies and Repairs respectfully report that they have examined the plumbing job let to A. Merschet, and find that the proper plumbing has been completed as per contract and that the work has been satisfactorily performed. Fremont F. French, Fred W. Rollin, Nelson Brabant, Committee.

Moved by French supported by Rollin, that report of committee on public buildings, supplies and repairs be accepted and adopted. Carried. Yeas 19, nays 0.

Pure Wool The lower part, dipped in boiling caustic potash, was entirely dissolved, proving it to be pure wool.

Part Cotton When boiled in caustic potash the wool inside the squares was dissolved, leaving only the cotton bars.

Clothcraft Stands the Acid Test

YOU always find in your Clothcraft suit a regularly signed, legal, binding guaranty that the suit is pure wool. That guaranty could not be given if the makers and we ourselves did not absolutely know the goods to be pure wool. This is the test: Pure wool boiled in caustic potash completely dissolves. If there is any cotton in the mixture, it remains. Every piece of cloth coming from the mills must be able to stand this test before it is accepted for Clothcraft. Wool lasts. Wool keeps its stylish shape and color. When you can have all-wool guaranteed at $10 to $25 it is foolish to take anything less. Then come in today and pick out your Clothcraft suit or overcoat.

THE ELECTIONS

Democrats Make Great Gains Throughout the Nation.

NEXT CONGRESS DEMOCRATIC
The general election throughout the country Tuesday resulted in large democratic gains in almost every state, and complete victories in many. The "stand pat" policy of the republican party of the nation has been dealt a just rebuke, and what republican victories reported are where the progressive element of that party have controlled the nominations. The result in Michigan has been "stand pat" by a somewhat reduced majority, for state officials and the loss of two congressmen. The state administration has been endorsed by about 45,000 majority, by the election of Chase Osborn as governor and the entire republican state ticket.

The democrats have elected 14 members of the two branches of the state legislature, and have gained many county officials in the state.

The solid republican delegation in congress has been broken by the election of Frank Doremus, democrat in the first district, over Edwin Denby, and Edward F. Sweet, democrat, defeats Congressman Diekema, fifth. The following congressmen are elected:

- First—Frank Doremus, d
- Second—W. W. Wedemeyer
- Third—J. M. C. Smith
- Fourth—E. L. Hamilton
- Fifth—Edward F. Sweet, d
- Sixth—S. W. Smith
- Seventh—Henry McMorran
- Eighth—J. W. Fordney
- Ninth—J. C. McLaughlin
- Tenth—G. A. Loud
- Eleventh—F. H. Dodds
- Twelfth—H. O. Youngs

Ohio elects Judson Harmon, and the entire democratic state ticket, and has a majority in the state legislature. Harmon's majority is upwards of 60,000 the largest ever given a democrat in that state. The democrats will elect a United States senator from Ohio.

In New York the entire democratic state ticket is elected with J. A. Dix as governor, by big majorities. A democrat will succeed Senator Depew in the U. S. Senate.

The democrats carry Alabama, Connecticut, Florida, Indiana, Massachusetts, Missouri, Nevada, New Jersey, New York, Ohio, Oklahoma, South Carolina, South Dakota and Texas, and probably Iowa and Kansas.

The republicans carry California, Colorado, Delaware, Idaho, Michigan, Minnesota, Nebraska, New Hampshire, North Dakota, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Tennessee and Wisconsin.

The next congress will be democratic by a majority of 30.

The democrats have made a gain of ten in the United States senate, leaving a republican majority.

Speaker Joe Cannon, of the 18th Illinois district, was re-elected by a much reduced majority.

William B. Thompson, democrat, defeated Proctor K. Owens as mayor of Detroit by about 3000 majority.

W. T. Yeo, of West Branch, is re-elected to the legislature from the Iosco district, by a greatly reduced majority.

Iosco County Results.

The election in this county was very quiet and the vote somewhat less than two years ago. The returns, based on the vote for secretary of state shows the republican majority to be 492. Osborn, for governor, carried the county by 384. Below the state ticket the vote in the county was as follows:

Congressman,	Loud,	906—360
	Miller,	546
Legislature,	Yeo,	830—213
	LaBerge,	617
Sheriff,	Hadwin,	994—525
	Vaughan,	469
Clerk,	Mark,	884—303
	Patterson,	581
Treasurer,	Dimmick,	823—177
	Hanson,	646
Register of Deeds,	Stickney,	842—223
	Force,	619
Prosecuting Attorney,	Black,	832—201
	Widdis,	631

N. C. Hartingh, for circuit court commissioner, Belknap, for county surveyor, Schroeder, for county drain commissioner, Armstrong and Miller, for coroners, are elected by the normal majorities.

Arenac County.

Based on the vote for secretary of state the republican majority in this county is 241, which is the majority given Martindale for that office, with Moffett township missing. This township will undoubtedly give a small republican majority, but will make no difference with the general results. Osborn for governor carries the county by 162. Loud, for congress has a majority of 165, while Yeo, for the legislature has 226.

In the county the democrats elect W. H. Hasty sheriff by 64, Scott Cilley clerk by 333, and D. J. McLean treasurer by 59. The balance of the republican county officers are elected. F. B. TENNYSON'S LOVE FOR PIPE

Poet Laureate Smoked a Long Clay and Hated Florence Because the Tobacco There Was Bad.

Tennyson's passion for a long clay is well known. He smoked Milos and afterwards Dublin clays; mild bird's-eye was his favorite tobacco. The story that he never smoked the same pipe twice is absurd, for, like all smokers, he detested new pipes. He entertained the liveliest hatred of Florence, because he could not get any decent tobacco there, and on this account promptly returned home. Carlyle, describing Tennyson, said, "Smokes infinite tobacco." His devotion to the herb became so intense that literally he could not exist without it. On one occasion, at a soiree of the Royal society, he declared he must have a pipe. A friend said he should smoke up the chimney of the library or on the roof. Tennyson chose the latter, and, with his body thrust half way through the skylight, puffed away in peace, descending in a quarter of an hour greatly refreshed. Wherever he went he must be allowed to smoke. Accepting an invitation to visit Mr. Gladstone on 1876, he wrote: "As you are good enough to say you will manage anything rather than lose my visit, will you manage that I can have my pipe in my room whenever I like?"

"I am pleased to recommend Chamberlain's Cough Remedy as the best thing I know of and safest remedy for coughs, colds and bronchial trouble," writes Mrs. L. B. Arnold of Denver, Colo. "We have used it repeatedly and it has never failed to give relief." For sale by all dealers.

Saves an Iowa Man's Life

The very grave seemed to yawn before Robert Madsen, of West Burlington, Iowa, when, after seven weeks in the hospital, four of the best physicians gave him up. Then was shown the marvelous curative power of Electric Bitters. For, after eight months of frightful suffering from liver trouble and yellow jaundice, getting no help from other remedies or doctors, five bottles of this matchless medicine completely cured him. Its positively guaranteed for stomach, liver or kidney troubles and never disappoints. Only 50c. at J. M. Wuggazer & Co.'s and Jas. E. Dillon's.

CITIES GROWING NOISIER

It is One of the Penalties of Civilization, But No Man Could Endure Continual Silence.

No doubt all cities are growing noisier. This is one of the penalties of civilization. There is now no Sybaris, where the sound of a hammer was never heard. Even Paris is said to be as noisy as it is now dirty. But in the Paris of 20 years ago Mr. Adolphe Rette was so disturbed by the din, which would now be considered in comparison only an agreeable bustle, that he dreamed a dream. There was a singular silence. Men and women moved as a procession of shadows. Cartwheels were inaudible. The city was under cotton wadding. And the thought came to the dreamer, "Noise is dead!" and he burst out laughing at the deduction that the earth was henceforth doomed to eternal silence. Then came a letter of ceremonial invitation: "You are begged to be present at the funeral of Monsieur Noise, who died this evening. Killed by contemporary excess, he was held in horror by the Eternal himself. On the part of his widow, Humanity."

Yet who could endure the silence that crazed the man in Poe's tale, the tale told by the Demon, the tale more wonderful than any in "The Iron-bound melancholy volumes of the Magi." And the Demon laughed but could not, and the Demon cursed him because he could not laugh. And even the lynx that dwelt forever in the tomb looked at the Demon steadily in the face.

Off the List.

"What are the ladies of your suffrage club going to do with that member who offended you?" "I don't know," replied Mrs. Votey Gumm. "But I'm sure it will not be the silence protest."

Far From Upright.

Reilly and Coran were "having it out." They had been deadly enemies for years, but neither had offered to lay hands on the other up to now, both of them somewhat afraid of the issue.

Before they commenced it was stipulated that it was to be a fair "stand-up" fight, and with this they started. Coran had it all his own way from the beginning; he kept knocking Reilly down and down again, until that worthy was about sick of it. He turned to the bystanders and said: "Sure, an' wasn't it to be a fair, stand-up fight?"

"It was," returned an outlooker. "An' now, thin, can he be expectin' me ter 'out' him fairly if he do be knockin' me down all the 'ime'—Ideals."

There is little danger from a cold or from an attack of the grip except when followed by pneumonia, and this never happens when Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is used. This remedy has won its great reputation and extensive sale by its remarkable cures of colds and grip and can be relied upon with implicit confidence. For sale by all dealers.

Fair Exchange.

The military maneuvers. All afternoon the attackers had attacked, and the defenders defended, with conspicuous lack of incident or bravery. Operations were beginning to drag horribly, when the white flag went up. The officer in command of the attackers stared in amazement. "A flag of truce!" he exclaimed. "What do they want?" The sergeant-major endeavored to cover up a smile. "They say, sir," he reported, "that, as it's tea time, they'd like to exchange a couple of privates for a can of condensed milk—if you can afford it!"

JUST A MINUTE—
NOVEMBER.
Mr. Taft, who rules the nation. Offers this, his proclamation: Whereas, providence continues Blessing us from day to day, And the boon of Independence Has, we take it, come to stay; And whereas, indulgent nature Lavishes upon us still Bounty in excess of what the Weather and the bugs can kill; And whereas, the republic Couldn't be improved upon, Notwithstanding everybody Gets to run it off and on; Therefore, I, as delegated Now and for a short time hence President, decree that turkey Shall go up to 20 cents.

That's about all there is to it. Once the country raised its own, and the White House proclamation was not greeted with a groan. Father simply grabbed the hatchet, mother got the water hot, father read the proclamation to the turkeys in the lot, all the young and female turkeys promptly fainted from the shock, and after due farewells the gobble laid his head upon the block.

No one telephoned the butcher, asking what a turkey cost. No one in his deep resentment wished the Pilgrims had been lost. No one while the feast proceeded, knew the torment of the rack figuring upon his napkin what the day had set him back.

Everybody was provided, as the founders pre-supposed. No one can be very thankful, if the truth should be disclosed, paying what we pay for turkey, and, for all of Heaven's gifts, feeling that the day was founded for the Armours and the Swifts.

November gets its name from the Latin novem (nine), and was originally the ninth month of the year. This brought Thanksgiving around two months earlier than we have it now, and it became very unpopular. The insurgents, who constituted a majority in the agricultural districts, were bitterly opposed to it. They make two contentions: First, that young turkeys were not old enough to market; second, that crops had not progressed to the point where it was possible to make out whether there was anything to be thankful for or not. In 713 B. C. the storm broke. The insurgents carried Gaul, Britannia and 17 other doubtful states, and the Forum immediately assembled and made November the eleventh month of the year.

The festive colt will sniff the air and don his heavy undergar, and the frenzied candidate will jump and hop around upon the stump. He'll point with pride and view with fear, and suck and blow the atmosphere, and then, together with his cult, await with prayer the result.

Does reason happily hold its sway, or is it madness for a day will tell the people what to think and put the country on the blink? One cannot tell, but must abide the count that sees him justified in courage, confidence or doubt, according as it may turn out.

One thing alone is sure, it seems, and that is this: No one esteems a patriot in politics. We only trust him while he sticks war, with all its thrill and throb. The moment that he wants a job somewhat conspicuous for pay, by Jove! we don't know what to say.

But whether we do ill or well, election day alone can tell, or whether love for us and fear did any good, will then appear. We have to judge men as we may, and where the candidates all say about the same thing in the end, one scarcely knows who is a friend.

At any rate, the snow will fly, and the wild duck spin across the sky with both eyes focused on the ground, and his tail-piece going round and round. The eager hunter will deploy and supplement the live decoy, and the pneumococcus, while he toots, will perforate his rubber boots.

A little shooting now and then is relished by a lot of men. They like to gallivant about and let the farmers run them out. It does them good to feel, by jing, that Morgan don't own everything, and if he came in consequence, and also tried to climb the fence, together with his dog and gun, he, too, would also get the run.

November will be unusual this year for the reason that there will be no full moon. This is because there will be a total eclipse of the moon on the night of the 16th, when it would otherwise be full. This eclipse will be visible in the United States and in Wall street, and it will send bacon down a couple of points.

The breath of Winter will distill upon the outer window sill, and the chilling calf will hump his back and burrow deeper in the stack. The hired man, with wintry spurts, will put on both his undershirts, and the plutocrat who sells us coals will pry our bodies from our souls.

Then let us all embrace the chance and be as many as we may, for whether we desist or dance, the fiddler is for all to pay. The gentle autumntime will pass, the countryman will kill his hogs, the cotton-tail will weave the grass around the obfuscated dogs, the honking geese will ride the heights with that weird hollering of his, and the wolf will sit around o' nights and tell the moon how thin he is.

O woe is us that could enjoy the autumn time for aye and aye, and what with growing soul employ its witchery from day to day. The phosphorescence in the sky, the quail soft-piping on the hill, the blackbirds ever bobbing by, and the wind soft-sighing where it will.

But happiness can never last, as Antony could apprehend, and holding Cleo to him fast, destroyed himself before the end. The summer cometh after spring, and winter, merciless withal, as truly must succeed the sweet and gentle bandishments of fall.

At any rate, upon a day
Deciphered in the almanacs,
December, desolate and gray
Will come to whistle through the cracks.

President Waters on the Chicago Stock Show.
Pres. H. J. Waters of the Kansas Agricultural College, on a recent occasion expressed himself as follows: "The International Live Stock Exposition, which will this year be held from November 26th to December 31st, is the court of last resort in all matters pertaining to the improvement of live stock. It is the place where all controversies regarding superior merit are settled for the year, and as such contributes more to live stock improvement than any other single agency in America. As an object lesson it is unequaled on the continent. As a means of awakening interest in improved live stock, it and similar shows are indispensable. It is a liberal education in live stock production for any farmer, breeder or student to attend the International."

Her Successful Failure

After Fanstock arrived, Jessamine more than ever regretted her absurd inability to "do things."

Fanstock was the sort who was always doing something. When he was not riding horseback or swimming he was perspiring on the tennis courts or tramping after a golf ball or engineering a baseball game. Between times he went canoeing and played bridge.

Jessamine shuddered at a canoe as at a dynamite bomb, loathed a horse, couldn't beat a six-year-old at tennis, and considered golf an idiotic pursuit. Moreover, she became panic stricken in water over her depth and bridge got on her nerves. In spite of all this she was really an interesting young woman, and people usually liked her.

What was more to the point, she liked Fanstock from the moment she first saw him. Therefore it was irritating to see him beam upon the other girls who excelled in the various sports he affected. Soon Jessamine became merely one vivified longing to be a "shark" at something, and thus gain his approval. She could paddle around in shallow water, so swimming seemed the most sensible thing to attack.

She took her resolve suddenly one day when everybody was down on the pier in swimming attire. Fanstock had paused besides her.

"Do you dive?" he inquired casually.

Now, if he had inquired of Jessamine if she was in the habit of entering the cages of tigers and eating her luncheon there it would have seemed just as sensible to her. To plunge deliberately headforemost into the unseemly terrors beneath the lake's surface, where she was morally certain that she would sink to the bottom and strangle to death, had never appealed to her as an alluring diversion. Yet as in a flash she recalled how Fanshaw had cheered Helen the day before when she dived from the high post at the end of the pier.

"Oh, yes," Jessamine to her horror heard herself saying, carelessly.

Fanstock looked surprised. "I never had noticed you diving, so I didn't know."

"Well," Jessamine hastened to say, "I haven't dived much lately. I don't seem to care about it any more!"

"Nonsense!" Fanstock said. "It's a great exercise! You should keep it up! Come out to the end of the pier and go in with me!"

It was 12 feet deep at the end of the pier. Jessamine in a cold agony trotted along beside him, conscious that the other girls were watching her enviously. It was a great thing to have Fanstock notice one. Now that she had his attention should she win nothing but his contempt and disgust for her lack of nerve?

In that instant Jessamine resolved to risk it. Other girls dived and still lived, so there was a fighting chance for her.

"Come along!" Fanstock shouted as he took a run and flying leap. Jessamine watched him come up a few yards out and swim back with powerful strokes while she stood shuddering on the pier.

"Aren't you coming off?" he asked.

"Oh, yes," she said.

She shut her eyes, threw out her hands and felt herself shooting into space. She struck the water like an arrow and then the bottom of the world fell out and she fell after it. She went like a shot to the bottom and stopped there. She had sat on the lake's cozy bottom for years when something grabbed her shoulders, elevated her to the surface and yanked her up to the pier. There she became aware of Fanstock, who surveyed her with a look of annoyance.

"Don't you do that again!" he commanded. "You may be able to turn that trick of holding your breath and swimming up to the surface when you choose, but you don't do it when I'm around! You've got to dive shallower—it isn't so hard on my nerves!"

Jessamine sat in a little shivering heap and regarded him with what looked like the calm unconcern of a Chinese idol. In reality she was paralyzed with fright and astonishment at being still alive. Suddenly it dawned on her that Fanstock thought she had acted that way because she was exceptionally bold and skillful! How did one dive shallower? She thought it over slowly.

"Turn your hands up the minute you hit the water!" Fanstock ordered.

Jessamine burst into tears. "I'm not going to hit the water any more!" she quavered. "I—I hate it! I'm scared half to death! I never dived before in my life, and I just did it because I was afraid you'd laugh at me if I d-d-didn't!"

"Great guns!" Fanstock gasped as the truth dawned on him.

Even in a bedraggled bathing suit and weeping heartbrokenly, Jessamine was very attractive. It's easy to feel sympathetic and protecting when a girl is both appealing and pretty.

"See here," said Fanstock, when he got his breath, "you and I'll get up early mornings and I'll give you lessons in diving—how'd that be? I'd like to ever so much!"

As Jessamine glanced up at him through her tears life suddenly looked rosy. She heaved a sigh of relief.

"That would be splendid!" she said.

KEEPING THE WINDOWS OPEN
Citizen Followed the Doctor's Advice in Winter and the Plumber Paid Over the Percentage.

One upon a time a citizen complained to a physician that he was troubled with a feeling of lassitude on arising in the morning, and after half an hour spent in deep reflection the healer of men replied:

"Although it is winter, I think you suffer from the want of fresh air in the house. Go home and open your cellar windows and let the ozone sweep through the house at its wild pleasure."

"But the thermometer stands below zero," protested the citizen.

"So do you. Let her stand. Leave the windows open all night. That lassitude will be gone when you get up in the morning."

The citizen did as directed, and at six o'clock next morning the cook was borne from earth away by the explosion of the kitchen range. Four burst water pipes also went into the cascade business with unqualified success, and two children were overhauled to find that their toes were frostbitten. Five days later, when the plumber had presented his bill and received the long green, he entered the office of the physician and said:

"Twenty per cent. of $90 is $18, and here is the same. If you will only advise the old chap next door to leave all his windows open some night to cure his asthma it will mean at least $40 to me and $8 for you."

Moral—In helping other people we must always help ourselves.

We Started a Good Many People with our Heater Offer Did You Read It?

We put some statements about heating stoves down in black and white that stove users never heard before. We want to repeat them! Remember, we are backed up by one of the grandest stove manufacturing concerns in the world—yes, backed by a concern that makes and sells more soft coal heaters each year by three times than any other maker anywhere.

So there are millions of dollars behind what we have to say about heaters this year!

To us alone is given the right to make the most unusual guarantee ever made on a heating stove.

Cole's Hot Blast Guarantee

Here is our authority from the President of the Cole Manufacturing Co.—the strongest guarantee ever made on a heater.

"You are authorized to sell the Original Cole's Hot Blast Heater this year on the most rigid guarantee ever made by any stove manufacturer. Our guarantee to every customer of yours is—

"1—A saving of one-third in fuel over any lower draft stove of the same size, with soft coal, slack or lignite.

"2—That Cole's Hot Blast will use less hard coal for heating a given space than any base burner made with same size fire pot.

"3—That the rooms can be heated from one to two hours each morning with the soft coal or hard coal put in the stove the evening before.

"4—That the stove will hold fire with soft coal from Saturday night until Monday morning.

"5—A uniform heat day and night, with soft coal, hard coal or lignite.

"6—That every stove will remain absolutely air-tight as long as used.

"7—That the feed-door is and will remain smoke and dust-proof.

"All we ask is that the stove shall be operated according to directions and set up with a good flue.

Her Successful Failure

After Fanstock arrived, Jessamine more than ever regretted her absurd inability to "do things."

Fanstock was the sort who was always doing something. When he was not riding horseback or swimming he was perspiring on the tennis courts or tramping after a golf ball or engineering a baseball game. Between times he went canoeing and played bridge.

Jessamine shuddered at a canoe as at a dynamite bomb, loathed a horse, couldn't beat a six-year-old at tennis, and considered golf an idiotic pursuit. Moreover, she became panic stricken in water over her depth and bridge got on her nerves. In spite of all this she was really an interesting young woman, and people usually liked her.

What was more to the point, she liked Fanstock from the moment she first saw him. Therefore it was irritating to see him beam upon the other girls who excelled in the various sports he affected. Soon Jessamine became merely one vivified longing to be a "shark" at something, and thus gain his approval. She could paddle around in shallow water, so swimming seemed the most sensible thing to attack.

She took her resolve suddenly one day when everybody was down on the pier in swimming attire. Fanstock had paused besides her.

"Do you dive?" he inquired casually.

Now, if he had inquired of Jessamine if she was in the habit of entering the cages of tigers and eating her luncheon there it would have seemed just as sensible to her. To plunge deliberately headforemost into the unseemly terrors beneath the lake's surface, where she was morally certain that she would sink to the bottom and strangle to death, had never appealed to her as an alluring diversion. Yet as in a flash she recalled how Fanshaw had cheered Helen the day before when she dived from the high post at the end of the pier.

"Oh, yes," Jessamine to her horror heard herself saying, carelessly.

Fanstock looked surprised. "I never had noticed you diving, so I didn't know."

"Well," Jessamine hastened to say, "I haven't dived much lately. I don't seem to care about it any more!"

"Nonsense!" Fanstock said. "It's a great exercise! You should keep it up! Come out to the end of the pier and go in with me!"

It was 12 feet deep at the end of the pier. Jessamine in a cold agony trotted along beside him, conscious that the other girls were watching her enviously. It was a great thing to have Fanstock notice one. Now that she had his attention should she win nothing but his contempt and disgust for her lack of nerve?

In that instant Jessamine resolved to risk it. Other girls dived and still lived, so there was a fighting chance for her.

"Come along!" Fanstock shouted as he took a run and flying leap. Jessamine watched him come up a few yards out and swim back with powerful strokes while she stood shuddering on the pier.

"Aren't you coming off?" he asked.

"Oh, yes," she said.

She shut her eyes, threw out her hands and felt herself shooting into space. She struck the water like an arrow and then the bottom of the world fell out and she fell after it. She went like a shot to the bottom and stopped there. She had sat on the lake's cozy bottom for years when something grabbed her shoulders, elevated her to the surface and yanked her up to the pier. There she became aware of Fanstock, who surveyed her with a look of annoyance.

"Don't you do that again!" he commanded. "You may be able to turn that trick of holding your breath and swimming up to the surface when you choose, but you don't do it when I'm around! You've got to dive shallower—it isn't so hard on my nerves!"

Jessamine sat in a little shivering heap and regarded him with what looked like the calm unconcern of a Chinese idol. In reality she was paralyzed with fright and astonishment at being still alive. Suddenly it dawned on her that Fanstock thought she had acted that way because she was exceptionally bold and skillful! How did one dive shallower? She thought it over slowly.

"Turn your hands up the minute you hit the water!" Fanstock ordered.

Jessamine burst into tears. "I'm not going to hit the water any more!" she quavered. "I—I hate it! I'm scared half to death! I never dived before in my life, and I just did it because I was afraid you'd laugh at me if I d-d-didn't!"

"Great guns!" Fanstock gasped as the truth dawned on him.

"See here," said Fanstock, when he got his breath, "you and I'll get up early mornings and I'll give you lessons in diving—how'd that be? I'd like to ever so much!"

As Jessamine glanced up at him through her tears life suddenly looked rosy. She heaved a sigh of relief.

"That would be splendid!" she said.
