Famed as a Parliamentarian.
Although appearing for the first time in the house as a member, few men of the Sixty-second congress will be better known to the general membership than Asher C. Hinds of Maine. He will be one of the recognized leaders on his first day there, because he has been in immediate touch with congress for more than twenty years. Mr. Hinds is slated as one of the four minority members of the committee on rules, a place for which his previous training eminently fits him.
Those who know say that Mr. Hinds is the foremost parliamentarian in the United States, if not in the world. Not only is he familiar with the rules, precedents and usages of deliberative bodies in this country, but he has an intimate acquaintance with those of the leading foreign nations. He is the author of "Hinds' Precedents," a work of eight volumes of about 1,000 pages each. This work is used by the national house and senate.

Mr. Hinds is a native of Maine and is forty-eight years old. Before going to Washington in 1890 as clerk to Thomas B. Reed he was a newspaper man. When Mr. Reed was elected speaker in 1894 he made Hinds "clerk at the speaker's table," a position he held until Speaker Cannon's retirement at the close of the Sixty-first congress.
Chiroprapist With a Grievance.
Miss Emily A. Chapman was a chiroprapist of Los Angeles who was rejected by a chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution. She maintains that it was because she earns her living in such a way. Miss Chapman was formerly a member of the Quaker City chapter in Philadelphia, but could not get three women from that chapter to indorse her when she went west. She says she will bring the matter before the national body, and the result is being watched with interest. Members of the D. A. R. say there must have been some other reason than that assigned, as many of the daughters work for a living.

CIVIC IMPROVEMENT

Conducted by the Twentieth Century Club of Tawas City

This column is devoted to the interests of civic improvement. For the benefit of those who have not thought much about this subject we wish to say that the object of civic improvement clubs is three fold. First, the betterment of mankind; second, the beautifying of the homes; third, the general improvement of the city.
The civic improvement this winter began with the admirable way in which our streets were kept clean and the care taken in draining the water from the streets. We trust the good work thus begun will be continued, and care taken to keep the streets free from waste paper and other rubbish that detracts from the appearance and beauty of the city. Also that an early attack will be made on the weeds to keep them from getting such a start that summer will find them beyond control.
Let us do all we can to beautify the places in which we are specially interested.
Paint and putty are weapons that can be wielded to good advantage on many of the public and private buildings of the city, and cost little compared to the value and beauty they would add to the property.
We would also call your attention to a few of the things our city needs: An auditorium; water works; street lights; improvement of water front; a park; a rest room. These, and more, are needed.
National League of Veterans and Sons.
L. A. L. Gilbert, general commanding, Frank S. Pratt, quarter master general, of Bay City, and P. H. Andrews, adjutant general, of Flint, of the National Camp of the National League of Veterans and Sons, came to East Tawas last Saturday and mustered Isosco Camp, No. 29, with a charter list of 20. The following officers were elected and installed for the ensuing term:

O. of G.—J. A. Frasier.

Has Millions of Friends.
How would you like to number your friends by millions as Bucklin's Arnica Salve does? Its astounding cures in the past forty years made them. It is the best salve in the world for sores, ulcers, eczema, burns, boils, scalds, cuts, corns, sore eyes, sprains, swellings, bruises, cold sores. Has no equal for piles. 25c at J. M. Wuggs & Co.'s and Jas. E. Dillon's.
Mr. Farmer
If you wish to sell your farm write us, as we have a number of calls for farms and we wish to advertise your farm in this, our new list, which will appear in ten days, and for which we wish some fifteen farms yet. We are selling farms from the fact that we have sold many before.

Attacks School Principal.
A severe attack on school principal, Chas. B. Allen, of Sylvania, Ga., is thus told by him. "For more than three years," he writes, I, suffered indescribable torture from rheumatism, liver and stomach trouble and diseased kidneys. All remedies failed till I used Electric Bitters, but four bottles of this wonderful remedy cured me completely." Such results are common. Thousands bless them for curing stomach trouble, biliousness, and for new health and vigor. Try them. Only 50c at J. M. Wuggs & Co.'s and Jas. E. Dillon's.

SNAPSHOTS AT CELEBRITIES

Congressman John J. Fitzgerald of New York.

© 1911, by American Press Association.

Congressman John Joseph Fitzgerald of New York, who is slated to be chairman of the appropriations committee in the Sixty-second congress, has had twelve years' experience in the national legislature. Among his colleagues he is regarded as a hard worker in committee, an able parliamentarian and a ready debater. For a number of years he has been a member of the appropriations committee and has taken a prominent part in the debates over the big supply bills. Mr. Fitzgerald won sudden fame a couple of years ago when he joined with the Republicans in voting for the Cannon rules and brought twenty-two other Democrats to the support of the speaker. For this he was denounced by many members of his party, but the affair seems to have been forgotten.
Mr. Fitzgerald represents the Seventh New York district, Brooklyn, where he was born and has always resided. He is a lawyer by profession and has just celebrated his thirty-ninth birthday. He was a delegate to the national Democratic convention in 1900 and first went to Washington as a member of the Fifty-sixth congress.

No one is responsible for what he cannot do, but he is responsible for all the good that is within the range of his abilities.

Most slang terms are unnecessary and inelegant. To use words in season and out of season destroys their force and meaning.

Don't get soured in life. It never does good but does do lots of harm. Sunshine and sweetness are needed everywhere.

Recent events have caused a great searching of hearts with many politicians and a purer political atmosphere may now be expected.

The age of selfish monopolies of all kinds is bound to pass as the result of the increasing sense of justice, right, and human brotherhood.

The undecided man, the man without a real purpose in life is like the character of whom it was said that "he was everything by turns, but nothing long." It is the decided, purposeful man who has an aim and keeps to it through weal or woe who wins out.

The exit of so many prominent senators and representatives from Congress will not cause the heavens to fall. However notable any man may be he is not essential to the continuance of government or national life. Men may come, and men may go, but the nation survives and government continues to perform its functions.

Ideals of character are not always as broad and high and positive as they might be. The man who limits himself to abstaining from falsehood, dishonesty and violation of law is content with a negative character. What is needed in addition to abstinence from wrong doing is a positive right doing revealing itself in a broad, active, generous attitude towards others.

For the past two or three years nothing has been heard of the bugler that sounded the charge of Balaclava. Previous to that time his death was recorded regularly about every six months, and his bugle was kept simultaneously and sacredly in about half a dozen different places several hundreds or thousands of miles from each other. Is the bugler really dead at last?

For years Abe Ruef of San Francisco has tried every expedient to keep from going to prison to serve out the sentence imposed on him, and with some success, but he now seems to have reached the end of his tether. The persistency which he has shown in all this is characteristic of what evil men will do to gain their end. If good men in the furthest reaches of their ends would more often show similar enterprise and persistency, civic and other righteousness would make greater progress.

A banker very recently paroled from prison after serving a penitentiary term of several years, says that his health improved in prison, and he ascribed it to plain, wholesome food and regular hours. This leads to the reflection that if many people who now suffer the consequences of too much wine and dining and late hours would curb their appetite, take simple food, and go to bed at reasonable hours they would enjoy the great blessing of good health. But some people are so foolish that it would require a term in prison to make them do it.

Ministries in France are usually short lived and that of M. Monis will probably be no exception. They begin office with a vote of confidence carried by an overwhelming majority, and they leave office after a short experience because of a vote of what practically amounts to no confidence. This is bound to be the case when the deputies are split up into a number of groups instead of being concentrated into two large opposing parties. Fortunately the nation is so attached to a republican form of government that no serious effects are likely to follow the repeated rising and falling of ministries.

The most common cause of indigestion is disorder of the stomach. Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets correct these disorders and enable you to sleep. For sale by all dealers.

Some things must always be taken for granted. Some of them are—that when a train in motion meets with an accident it is always going "a mile a minute;" that "the woman in the case" is always pretty, beautiful or attractive; that when a man is rescued from drowning it is just as he is going down for the last time; and when castaway parties attempt to light a fire every match but the last fails to ignite; that the man who takes the other side in a controversy is wrong; that prominent violators of the law are innocent; that important witnesses in great corporation and other trials suffer from imperfect memory; and that wealthy criminals are insane until they are acquitted, when they miraculously recover their sanity.

There is a renewed talk of the three Scandinavian nations forming a union or confederation. It would be a good thing, and good policy would seem to demand it in view of the enormous strength of the adjoining nations. Each Scandinavian nation standing alone has no chance against a strong, aggressive power, as Denmark learned to her cost in the war with Prussia in 1863 over Schleswig-Holstein. But Denmark, Sweden, and Norway would present a formidable front to an enemy. With the feeling caused by the separation of Norway from Sweden happily subsided, and with the close ties of race, religion, language and customs, to say nothing of the sense of self-preservation, distinguishing the three countries such a union or alliance ought to be easily reached.

The substitution of oil for coal on ocean-going steamers promises to become quite general within a few years. It is said that no serious disadvantage, as against coal, is to be found in the use of oil, while it presents very many advantages, among them being cleanliness, economy of fuel and space, thus allowing more room for cargo and passengers, in the ease with which the ships can take on their supply of fuel, and in the automatic feeding of the oil to the burners which does away with the heavy expense and hard work of stoking coal fires. On the Clyde in Scotland a 5000-ton vessel is now being built which will in effect be a motor boat. There will be no funnels, boilers nor coal bunkers. The engines can be started in five minutes instead of the fifteen hours necessary to raise steam with boilers, and it is estimated that 100 tons of oil will carry the boat as far as 300 tons of coal. These improvements, if realized, will add greatly to the comfort, convenience and speed of ocean travel.

Keep the Premises Clean.

The old story of what was called Queen Anne fronts and Mary Jane backs in architecture has passed away, but too often is it still the case that all the ornament and beauty appears on the front of the house and the rear of the house is bare, with the backyard given over to old cans, bottles, boots and shoes, and other rubbish to offend both the eye and the nostril.

And it is just here where for esthetic and sanitary reasons the utmost vigilance should be displayed. Most people are proud of their front lawns and gardens, but they do not "point with pride" to the backyard with its unsightly conglomeration. Yet such premises are not only unattractive but form a breeding place for vermin and disease.

All manner of evils, and with good reason, are charged up against flies, rats and mosquitoes. They are carriers of typhoid fever and other diseases, yet oftentimes people who keep their houses spotlessly clean and who take pride in well trimmed shrubs and mown lawns will allow rubbish heaps to accumulate behind the house or in the alley, where flies and vermin germinate to spread their deadly work.

Notice to Real Estate Dealers and Land Owners.

The Detroit & Mackinac Ry. desire to secure the names and addresses of real estate agents and others having lands for sale in North-eastern Michigan along and adjacent to its line, to publish in advertising matter which will be issued at an early date for distribution in Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, New York and a number of other states; no charge will be made for this service. The railway company wishes to direct the attention of prospective settlers to Michigan lands and its purpose in compiling a list of reliable real estate agents and owners of land is for the convenience and guidance of such settlers. Interested parties are requested to kindly send their names and addresses at the earliest possible moment to W. G. MacEdward, G. P. A., D. & M. Ry., Bay City, Mich.

The Boosting Spirit.

Talk about the Boosting Spirit in Northeastern Michigan! A person might have witnessed the following within the last few days:

On Wednesday, the Northeastern Michigan Development Bureau Executive Committee met in Cheboygan. These men prominent all over this district in conference with one of the leading officials of the Michigan Central Railroad, a leading official of the Detroit and Mackinac, having been delayed by a wreck, were to be found earnestly engaged in talking over plans for boosting this district.

In the evening two hundred and fifty of Cheboygan's leading business men met and conducted the ceremony of opening a new hostelry for their city, and for hours were earnestly engaged in boosting.

On the following day at their end of the district, six hundred of Bay City's leading business men spent the forenoon in boosting by taking a trip over the D. B. C. & W. to Akron and Caro, which road was on that day thrown open for traffic.

Returning to Saginaw, a sight of fifteen hundred men composing the Saginaw Board of Trade busily engaged in boosting could be seen.

On the following day, March 17th, fifteen hundred of Akron and Caro people came over to Bay City to boost.

Thus it goes all up and down the district. It is boost, boost, boost, and with such a spirit in the air, there is no question that "Things are doing" in North-eastern Michigan.

A Fierce Night Alarm.

is the hoarse, startling cough of a child suddenly attacked by croup. Often it aroused Lewis Chamblin of Manchester, O., [R. R. No. 2], for their four children were greatly subject to croup. "Sometimes in severe attacks," he wrote "we were afraid they would die, but since we proved what a certain remedy Dr. King's New Discovery is, we have no fear. We rely on it for croup and for coughs, colds or any throat or lung trouble." So do thousands of others. So may you. Plain Talk to Parents.

Do not fail to make allowance for slight exaggerations when hearing of pranks in school.

Do not accuse the teacher of undue favoritism. If she is kinder to one child than to another it's because that one does not take advantage of the liberty allowed him. This is simple justice.

Do not tell the teacher that Willie will not lie. She may know better.

Do not condemn the teacher without a fair hearing. This is accorded to even the worst criminal. There are usually two sides to the story.

Do not send a scathing note to the teacher by Nellie, the contents of which she knows. Her aggressive look of triumph is not soothing and the teacher is only human.

Do not make unfavorable comment upon the methods of the teacher in the presence of your child. Send him to carry in wood while you are doing so, if it must be done.

Do not expect the teacher to understand Jimmie's disposition the first day. You have studied it for six years and there are still kinks in it which you have failed to straighten out.

Do not plead the lack of time to visit the school. There is no excuse for shirking a duty.

Do not reproach the teacher with the fact that "Tommy has not learned a single thing the entire year." She is not responsible for his lack of brains.

Do not expect the teacher to manage without friction a child whom you yourself have never been able to control.

Do not insist that the teacher is keeping your child back through spite. She will hardly risk her reputation as an instructor to gratify a personal grudge, however disagreeable the child may be.

Do not forget that the parents owe a duty to the teacher just as surely as the teacher does to the child.

Attacks School Principal.

A severe attack on school principal, Chas. B. Allen, of Sylvania, Ga., is thus told by him. "For more than three years," he writes, "I suffered indescribable torture from rheumatism, liver and stomach trouble and diseased kidneys. All remedies failed till I used Electric Bitters, but four bottles of this wonderful remedy cured me completely." Such results are common. Thousands bless them for curing stomach trouble, female complaints, kidney disorders, biliousness, and for new health and vigor. Try them. Only 50c at J. M. Wuggazer & Co.'s and Jas. E. Dillon's.

Here's Sin and Some Others.

"The Semitic races were the half breeds, from semi, half."
"The Sanhedrin was composed of 70 men of declining years and great learning."

With respect to the conversation recorded in John, chapter 3, Nicodemus began the harangue, but could not take it all in one green.

A Notable Painting Reproduced

In each copy of the March number of Woman's Home Companion will be embodied a copy of the painting "Auburn and White," by Hilda Belcher, which won highest distinction in the exhibits of the New York Water-Color Club and other exhibitions.

Each picture is eleven by sixteen inches in size, done in full colors on rough art paper ready for framing. By means of a new art process, used exclusively in the Woman's Home Companion these copies of the painting have a marvelous beauty of color a faithfulness to the original never before obtained in magazine illustrating.

Artificial Nests for Bass.

The government fisheries bureau has discovered that black bass culture is greatly aided by artificial construction of nests.

The male small mouthed bass builds his nest by sweeping the stones of a lake bottom bare of sand in a three-foot circle. Using his nose and tail alternately, he makes a saucer-shaped nest ready for the eggs of his mate. But he will readily use a nest that is prepared for him, and so the men of the fisheries are expediting his home building.

For the large mouthed bass nests are made of moss imbedded in concrete, as this species prefers a fibrous bed for its eggs. Ponds with basins six feet deep in the center and with shallower water elsewhere are so prepared. Wild fish caught by hook are put in to mate here, to the great increase of reproduction. Proper assortment of the fish and the prevention of crowding accomplish excellent results. —Youth's Companion.

Paris Green.

Always use lime with Paris green. It makes the poison stick better, besides greatly reducing the danger of burning the foliage.

From spraying from a barrel, the writer has found the following method very useful:

Place from one-quarter to one-half pound of good lump lime, or unslaked lime, in each of three or four tin pails which will hold about three quarts or less. Old cans or crocks will answer just as well. Add enough hot water to slake it into a thin cream or paste. Now add to each lot one-quarter pound of Paris green, previously weighed out and placed in paper bags. Stir while the lime is hot and allow to stand for some time. Now measure out about forty-four gallons of water in your spraying barrel and make a mark that will show how high it comes in the barrel. Add the contents of one tin pail (viz., one-quarter of a pound of Paris green and one-half pound of quick-lime slaked) into the forty-four gallons of water in the barrel. Stir well and spray. The pails or crocks can be used one at a time and refilled occasionally so that the stock is always on hand and ready for use.

Kedzie Mixture. This mixture, originated by the late Dr. R. C. Kedzie, is cheap, but it has the disadvantage of lacking a warning color. It is a good substitute for Paris green, but must be made with care, solved in three or four times its bulk of hot water before diluting with cold water. If the water is at all hard, "break" it by adding a little sal-soda before putting in the soap.

Strong Lime-Sulphur.

This is a contact insecticide which should be used preferably just before growth starts; in any case, before the buds swell in the spring. If used when the foliage is on the trees, the foliage will be killed. It is made in several ways, one of which is as follows:

Lump lime 20 pounds.
Sulphur (flour) 15 pounds.
Water (hot) to make 50 gallons.

The lime is slaked with a small amount of hot water and the sulphur is sifted in, fifteen or twenty gallons of hot water is then added, and the mixture is boiled. It should take three-quarters of an hour or an hour of good boiling with frequent stirring. When done the liquid should be amber colored and fairly clear. Strain, dilute with hot water to make fifty gallons, and apply warm, through a coarse nozzle.

If small quantities are required, use an iron kettle to boil it in. If larger quantities are to be used, live steam is preferable for boiling purposes, either in a tank or in barrels.

Applied just before the buds swell it coats the branches in such a way as partially to hinder insects from settling down.

The advantage in using the home-made concentrated lime-sulphur wash is that a quantity of it can be cooked in advance and often at time when the actual work of spraying is not pressing.

Grapevine

and stored in well-labeled jugs. Dr. Kedzie in giving directions for its preparation says: "Dissolve the arsenic by boiling with carbonate of soda, and thus insure complete solution; which solution can be kept ready to make a spraying solution whenever needed. To make the material for 800 gallons of spraying mixture, boil two pounds of white arsenic with eight pounds of sal-soda in two gallons of water. Boil these materials in any iron pot not used for other purposes. Boil for fifteen minutes, or until the arsenic dissolves, leaving only a small muddy sediment. Put this solution into a two-gallon jug, cork tightly, and label 'Poison, stock material for spraying mixture.'

"The spraying mixture can be prepared whenever required, and in the quantity needed at the time, by slaking two pounds of lime, adding this to forty gallons of water and pouring into this a pint of the stock arsenic solution. Mix by stirring thoroughly, and the spraying mixture is ready for use.

Arsenate of Lead.

This poison is coming into general use throughout the country, and has several advantages; it shows where it has been applied, and it does not easily burn the foliage. Its action is slower than that of Paris green, but the fact that it does not readily burn the foliage is an advantage when spraying various kinds of delicate trees with one mixture. It is used at the rate of from one to five pounds to fifty gallons of water or bordeaux or the lime-sulphur sprays.

Kerosene Emulsion.

Place two gallons of ordinary kerosene in a warm place, either on a warm roof or in the sun, and allow to become as warm as possible without danger of fire. Boil one pound of laundry soap or whale-oil soap in a gallon of soft water until completely dissolved. Remove the soap solution from the fire, and while still boiling hot, add the kerosene and agitate vigorously for ten minutes, or until the oil is emulsified, with a spraying pump by forcing the liquid back into the vessel from which it was pumped. When the liquid is perfectly emulsified it will appear creamy in color and will flow evenly down the side of the vessel when allowed to do so. Care should be taken to completely emulsify the oil, and this is accomplished much more easily when the mixture is hot. This strong emulsion may now be readily diluted with water and used, or it may be stored away for future use. When cold it becomes like sour milk in appearance and should be dis-

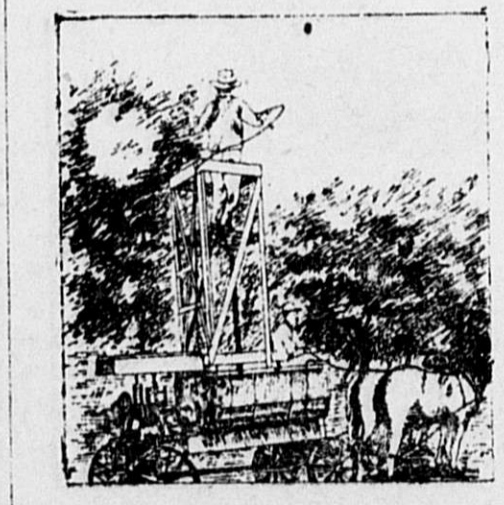

Spraying.

The great disadvantage about it is that every lot cooked has to be tested with a hydrometer, to determine its strength, and then diluted accordingly. As yet no definite way has been found to make it of uniform strength, or composition. The difficulty of getting a wash of uniform strength apparently lies with the lime, which varies in composition and strength. Lime that contains more than five per cent of magnesium oxide and less than 90 per cent of calcium oxide does not combine in the cooking with the sulphur in a way to make a good mixture. There are several brands of commercial, concentrated preparations of lime-sulphur wash on the market. They are now reasonable in price, and when a limited amount of spraying is to be done it may be desirable to purchase one rather than to go to the trouble of preparing a small quantity at home.

Dydrated Lime.

Finely slaked lime is often useful because of its slight caustic properties. Against such larvae of saw-flies and beetles as are sticky, for instance, those of the cherry-slug and asparagus-beetle, it may be used as a substitute for poison, if the latter, for some reason, is undesirable.

Stone lime may be slaked with a small amount of hot water, using just enough to turn it to dry powder. Such slaked lime is as fine as flour and very soft to the touch, having very little grit. Use a metal pail or kettle to slake in, as the heat may set fire to wood. Do not use too much water, and, where possible, use freshly burned lime.

Hydrated lime may be used in making bordeaux mixture, but it is not as reliable as good, fresh, lump lime. It is less adhesive, not as strong (so more should be used) and more expensive. The one advantage is that it is a little easier to use.

Ground lime for making bordeaux mixture acts exactly like lump lime, if fresh, but this is difficult to determine as it is already in a powder,
