COMMENCEMENT WEEK.

Tawas City High School and Iosco County Normal 1911 Classes Held Exercises.

On Thursday evening of last week occurred the class day exercises of the Senior class of the city schools: The court house was tastily decorated with the class colors, blue and white, and potted plants. The exercises of the class were of the nature of a "Friendly Contest," in which the four young ladies opposed the four young men in their contention commencing certain features of our form of government. Excellent vocal and instrumental music helped to make an enjoyable evening's program.

The members of the class are, J. Atlee Mark, Joseph A. Brabant, Luke Murray, Stephen S. Nisbet, Leota Johnson, Hazel McLeod, Isabell McKrae and Ruby Laidlaw.

Friday evening the class day exercises of the Iosco County Normal were held. The blue and white decorations of the night before gave away to the green and white class colors of the normal. The evening's entertainment was a very pretty play entitled "Warwick Hall," written by the members of the class, together with vocal and instrumental music.

Fourteen young ladies, and one young man were members of the class, as follows: Leo Halleck, Mary E. Stang, Zedena Horton, Alice Vargason, Madge R. Noble, Saima J. Haglund, Edith L. Tuesday evening occurred the joint commencement exercises of the classes.

C. Frank Vreeland, of Chicago, gave the commencement address, his subject being "Why Don't You Laugh." It was an address of helpful kind, and was handled in a most pleasing and entertaining manner.

The music for the exercises of the week was all of an excellent character and was greatly enjoyed.

The next case was that of William Thayer charged with the desertion of his wife and children. This was given to the jury at 11 o'clock Thursday, and after an hour's deliberation a verdict of guilty was rendered.

The case against William Sourwine on the charge of incest was the next. The case was given to the jury at 4 o'clock. They returned a verdict of guilty after about 30 minutes deliberation.

East Tawas Commencement.

The 1911 class of the East Tawas High school was composed of three young men, viz.: Elmer F. Kunze, Thomas T. Cramer and C. Frederick Applin. The annual commencement exercises were held at the opera house on Thursday evening of last week.

Rollin A. Nichols, of Youngstown, Ohio, delivered the commencement address, his topic being, "The Making of a Man," and was a most masterly effort. A vocal solo by Miss Selma Hagstrom, and selections by the high school orchestra, were other pleasing features of the occasion.

After the commencement exercises were over the junior class gave the graduates, their parents and members of the board of education and their wives and a few other guests a most enjoyable reception at the pleasant home of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. King. The time was enjoyably spent with music and social games. After refreshments had been served, Burdon Dimmick, as toastmaster, called the guests to order and several pleasing toasts were responded to.

Edwin Rawden, president of the board of education responded to "Our Seniors," while "Our Juniors" were toasted by C. R. Jackson, and "Our Teachers" by E. E. Kunze. Others were called upon for impromptu remarks, all of whom responded in a happy manner.

All in all, it was one of the most pleasing commencements in the history of the East Tawas Schools, and one long to be remembered by the three young men composing the "Class of '11."

Shocking Accident at Pinconning.

Mrs. John Stay, who lived about two miles north of Pinconning, died last Monday. She was helping her husband on the farm and while driving the horses fell in front of the mowing machine. Before she could arise one of the knives struck her in the left leg, above the knee, severing an artery. A physician was immediately summoned but before he arrived she had passed away.

She is survived by a husband and five children who were working in nearby fields when the accident occurred and helped their father in his futile attempt to prevent the victim from bleeding to death.

Use Kerosene for Flies and Insects

Do you know that by pouring kerosene over the garbage of the kitchen and refuse of the barnyard that flies and insects will depart from your premises? If not, it is recommended by the workers of sanitary and civic beauty to do it and see what quick results would be obtained. The kerosene is perfectly harmless from combustion, the secret having been tried in metropolitan cities and by the workers of civic improvement in St. Joseph.

FOR THE BRIDESMAIDS

EVERY OPPORTUNITY IS GIVEN THEM TO LOOK LOVELY.

Bewitching Hats, Hair Bands, Beaded Caps and Jeweled Ornaments Are Prepared for Them by the Milliners.

If ever there was a time when bridesmaids had better opportunities to look bewitching, than in this present season, no record has been preserved of it in song or story or on canvas. Consider the long beautiful lines of this summer's gowns, revealing the youthful figure as it is; the supple and exquisite materials with their soft luster, the veiling of lace and other fabrics with chiffon and the wonderful colors and embroideries! They make possible effects that are enticing, and pretty bridesmaids may well rejoice at their opportunities.

But gown makers have not excelled the milliners, and hats are a fitting climax to the beauty of gowns. Besides hats, there are any number of hair bands, beaded caps, jeweled ornaments and quaint arrangements of the coiffure for those who prefer them. Little lace bonnets and short veils have been recently used by brides looking for the quaint and picturesque in the costuming of their maids.

Our illustration shows a model which Gainsborough or any other artist would certainly admire. It is shaped so as to silhouette the face. It is of black Zagal faced with velvet. The brim lifts at the front and has a decided upward curve at the left revealing the coiffure of puffs and curls.

A splendid color of ostrich in coral shades from pale to deep pink sweeps all about the hat. At the left a plume, in the same shades, provides just the requisite dash to the finish of this model. The shape is such that the entire profile, including the neck and shoulder, stands out like a cameo.

This is an example of the superb in millinery. But thanks to the latitude in fashions, maids who may not indulge in such costly headwear may look as lovely in the jeweled Greek bands, the empire turbans or the Juliet caps made of beads. Then there are the garlands of flowers and the wreaths of blossoms made of ribbon with occasional spangles of little dew-drop jewels.

PLENTY OF CHEAP TRIMMINGS

Many Effective Varieties This Season Which a Woman Can Fix Up for Herself.

Of inexpensive trimmings that a woman can manage for herself there is almost no end this season. The old-fashioned cross-stitch has entered the lists against the more elaborate embroideries, and has won a place of its own in its first season. It is effective, inexpensive and very easy, says the Delineator. You can work in bright colored wool on chiffon and other transparencies, or in ordinary embroidery floss on your cotton blouses. It works up in no time even in inexperienced hands, and it has all the best houses in Paris to vouch for its good character from the fashion standpoint. It makes a very good looking trimming for the bottom of tunics and flounces, and for the edges of surplus waists and oversleeves. A wool cross-stitch answers the same purpose as bead, embroidery, giving a little weight to sheer materials, and it costs even less than the porcelain beads.

A Deep Pennsylvania Well.

Reaching the depth of 10,289 feet the diamond drill at the bore hole of the Locust Gap and Klumpont Water company at Ashland broke through a ledge of flinty rock which proved to be the roof of a mysterious subterranean cavern or waterway. Soundings have proved the water to have a depth of more than 80 fathoms.

The DAIRY

FILLER FOR MILK BOTTLES

Device Invented by Massachusetts Man Provides for Filling Several of Them at Once.

A device for filling milk bottles, by which several of them can be filled at a time, has been invented by a Massachusetts man. Of course, the apparatus can be used for other liquids than milk, but was primarily designed for the latter. A lateral pipe running from the tank in which the fluid is kept has openings at intervals along it. Under these openings are tiltable spouts, removably attached. The bottles are sent in a row under these spouts, and in a pan with a slatted tray in the bottom, so that the overflow from the bottles can drop through, and not be wasted. The flow of milk into the pipe is regulated by a spigot just as the flow of water is through the pipes of a house. In large dairies, where thousands of bottles of milk are filled daily, the use of an apparatus of this nature will save a great deal of time.

FROM THE CALF TO THE COW

First Few Months' Care Will Largely Determine What the Grown Animal Will Ultimately Be.

In order to make a good dairy cow we must start with the calf of some good dairy type. The care that the calf or any farm animal for that matter gets for the first few months will largely determine the quality of the adult animal. Giving the calf a good, strong, healthy start is one of the prime essentials of success in growing it.

The calf need not be kept rolling fat, but it should be kept thrifflily growing from start to finish.

Except for beef production with the beef type, it is best to raise the calf by hand method. When it is a day or two old take it away from its dam and teach it to drink milk.

For the first feed take some warm milk fresh from the cow and place some with the hand on the calf's mouth. It will lick this with its tongue and of course find that it is good. Then place the pail up to its mouth so that the warm milk will touch its lips.

Be patient for the first time. It will require several minutes and possibly nearly an hour, but when once it learns what is in the pail and how to take the food there will be no further trouble in urging it to eat.

It may be necessary the first few times for you to wet two fingers with milk and allow the calf to suck up the milk with the hand partly immersed in the liquid.

Feed whole milk warm from the cow about two weeks and then gradually substitute skim milk for the whole milk at the end of the fourth week nothing but skim milk is given.

Always warm the milk, as it is most natural for the young animal and demands less energy from the digestive organs.

After the third month the calf will begin to want extra water, and some may be mixed with the milk.

The calf at this age should be allowed access to drinking water every day. At the end of four months milk may be withheld and other feeds substituted, as the calf will then begin to nibble on hay and other feeds.

From this stage on place some fine well cured and prepared hay where it can reach it. When it is six weeks old give it a handful of shelled corn, or give corn meal in the milk feed.

TAWAS CITY, MICH., June 23, 1911

What a man learns is important, but what he can do, and what he is, is still more important.

Men should do with time what they do with water—use it while it lasts. The water may ultimately give out, and time certainly will.

Whatever in life is worth doing is worth doing well, and what is not worth doing should be left undone. The world is already too full of half-completed lives and half-completed work.

It is the man with one worry who helps to fill lunatic asylums. The man who has so many worries that he goes chasing them around as a cat does its tail finds the variety a good mental corrective and not only keeps his sanity, but actually enjoys life.

No man is above the law, and no public official is by virtue of his position above public criticism for the manner he discharges his official duties. If any other view should prevail it would result in an oligarchy or the establishment of the principle underlying despotic monarchies that a king is above the law.

In business and politics a "gentleman's agreement" is apt to be a very ungentlemanly affair. It certainly is when in business it is an understanding between the members of a combine to evade the law and fleece the public, and equally so in politics when it has for its object the stifling of enquiry into alleged wrongdoing, or the defeat of legislation designed to benefit the public.

Our old friend, the sea serpent, has again made his appearance after an unaccountable absence of several years. As was to be expected in this age of progressiveness in fashions and other things, the serpent recently seen displayed some new features. Not only had it the customary head as "large as a barrel," but also wings several feet in length. How highly developed in some people is the imaginative faculty.

That Carrie Nation was a good woman with good intentions but of misdirected zeal is the general verdict. It goes without saying that the temptation to resort to physical violence to rid of evils is sometimes very strong. But such methods are neither wise nor right. It does not do to create one evil to destroy another, nor to break the law that other people may keep it. The destruction of evils will be brought about by better laws, education and a higher standard of morals.

When a weak nation has had to pay indemnities more than once to stronger nations for real or fancied damage or insult, how it must rejoice when its turn comes to demand payment by some still weaker nation. In territory and money China has had to give liberally to Japan, Britain, Germany and France. But now China in its demand that Mexico pay it a large indemnity for outrages upon Chinese subjects in Mexico is itself playing the big fellow. How true it is that big fish swallow little fish when they get the chance.

The laws of nature by which we sometimes suffer are always working for man's advantage. We sometimes forget that when a ship goes down, an earthquake occurs, or a flood comes. Yet for every ship that sinks a thousand cross the sea in safety, for every destroying flood there are thousands of streams carrying merchandise, irrigating land, and operating machinery of mills, and for every earthquake taking lives there are innumerable areas of land supporting millions of people in peace and plenty.

It is an old saying, and as true as it is old, that if one marries in haste one can repent at leisure. The other day a woman sought release from marriage on the ground that she had married her husband to win a bet and that she was disappointed in him. That woman was but one of thousands, both men and women, who fail to understand the importance, solemnity and sacredness of the relation into which they enter. No wonder that so often marriage is a failure. Most certainly the man or woman who marries as a joke or for a wager will find that married life itself is no joke.

The speed auto races like that held recently in Indianapolis serve no good purpose, but rather the reverse. It is notorious that many of the spectators attended because they expected to see any number of accidents. In all this a morbid curiosity and a callous indifference to suffering revealed itself. It is a lamentable fact that betting as to the number of deaths and other accidents was freely engaged in and that many people were greatly disappointed because but one man was killed. Such exhibitions are destitute of true sport and they have a degrading influence both upon those who participate in them and those who witness them.

And now it is said that Washington could on occasion tell a lie, and thus another fond tradition is shattered. Coming after the assertion that he sometimes indulged in full round oaths, and that he was a tax dodger, it will all come as a painful shock to those hero worshippers who imagined, of thought they did, that Washington was superior to all human weakness. But level-headed, sensible men will not think the less of the great American. Not that they approve of aporal infirmities, but for the reason that in spite of limitations, which all men to some extent possess, he was so great, so exalted and so noble, and that his service to his country and to all mankind was of so transcendent a character.

A business ebbs or flows, goes up or down, in proportion as the business man lets people know what he has to sell them. To act on the idea that what people want they will come and seek after, might do if all business men followed it. But the shrewd, up-to-date business man will not follow such fossilized methods, but through judicious, attractive and generous advertising tells the public what he has, and the public reciprocates by trading with him. In truth, people do not want to bother themselves with wondering where they can get an article when the fact can be brought to their notice through an ad in the local paper. The invariable rule is, no advertising, little business; fair advertising fair business; generous advertising, prosperous business. Why that rule works out so infallibly is clear to every intelligent mind.

Poor Thing To Tie To.

The mail order concern does not give credit to anyone, it does not contribute a dollar to the maintenance of the community in which its goods are sold nor pay a cent of taxes. The farmer wants a little accommodation until he markets his crop, but he gets no consideration from the mail order concern unless he sends the cash. It is simply a blood-sucker, which by purchasing the cheap-quality of goods in immense quantities is able to palm them off for cash at a little lower rate than a better class of goods can be sold for by the home dealer.

A Charming Woman

is one who is lovely in face, form, mind and temper. But it's hard for a woman to be charming without health. A weak, sickly woman will be nervous and irritable. Constipation and kidney poisons show in pimples, blotches, skin eruptions and a wretched complexion. But Electric Bitters always prove a godsend to women who want health, beauty and friends. They regulate stomach, liver and kidneys, purify the blood; give strong nerves, bright eyes, pure breath, smooth, velvety skin, lovely complexion and perfect health. Try them. 50c at J. M. Wuggazer & Co. and J. E. Dillon.

Some Reasons Why.

"Why should I support my own town?" is a question every one should put to himself and honestly consider. The result would be beneficial both to the individual and the town. Here are a few of the many reasons he would be sure to find.

The town is his home and a man's first duty is to his communal home as well as to his domestic home. Again, local patriotism demands it. Love for and pride in one's town is the duty as it should ever be the joy of every citizen, and that patriotism should find constant expression in furthering its interests. His town affords him the protection of its government and laws and guards his property against fire and other losses.

A man should trade in his town. Its business men are courteous, willing and progressive, their stock of goods is large and varied, and if there is something one wants which they do not carry they are always ready to secure it. Unlike catalogue houses, the home merchants help to pay the taxes of a town, they contribute to churches, improvements and entertainments. Without the business men the town would stagnate and property decrease in value.

The schools of a town provide ample and satisfactory education for one's children, and its churches meet and satisfy his religious needs and conserve the moral and spiritual interests of the community.

Its newspapers keep him informed on local matters, enlarge his knowledge, help him in business, minister to his enjoyment and that of his family, and promote every wise effort put forth to help the best interests of the town.

July Woman's Home Companion.

The July Woman's Home Companion contains the first of a series of articles describing intimately the girlhood of some of our most famous singers. The first article is Lillian Nordica. Other artists to be included are: Mary Garden, Bessie Abbott, Emmy Destinn, and Schumann-Heink.

The July Companion contains a number of articles which convey information of value to housekeepers in the summer season. Among these are articles on "How to Cook Summer Vegetables" and "Good Salads for Summer." These articles, in addition to numerous contributions to the fashion, household, home decoration and handicraft department, make a great collection of useful and interesting reading.

There are ten stories in the number, which are varied and entertaining. Some of the contributors of fiction are: Zona Gale, Charles Battell Loomis, Grace S. Richmond, Jeannette Lee, C. N. and A. M. Williamson and Mary Hastings.

A special feature is the color work in the July Companion. One notable illustration in color is a full page reproduction of a painting by F. Hopkinson Smith entitled "The Leaning Tower of San Castello."

"Do Women Want to Vote," "Tennis and Canoeing," "My Happiest Vacation," and "The Canvas Villa" are the subjects of further interesting contributions.

The Newspaper and Business.

Collier's Weekly is running an interesting series of articles about newspapers. It would be well if these articles could be read generally. Among other things they point out that a newspaper is a vital part of a system of exchange service which we call business.

The paper pursues news which may have a great bearing on the future of local business. While men follow their business pursuits the newspaper relieves them of the necessity of looking out for matters here and there which may work for or against the interest of these local institutions.

The newspaper is more important than any other element of civilization save institutions which provide food, light and heat," we read and we believe the newspaper is a great factor in connection with those three institutions if one stops to consider the many benefits derived through its columns.

An honestly conducted newspaper should be the pride of the community. They should glory in its honesty and fearlessness. It should thrive on the good will of its patrons. It should prosper in proportion to the service it renders its patrons. If it is a readable paper and dependable, its advertising columns are valuable and well worth the money invested in a contract for space.

Things you get for nothing or even for half price are worth that much and no more. No one in business, no matter what his line, can afford to give away valuable assets. The fact that a man gives away his goods proves that they are not salable. If he could get his price for them he would never give them away for every business man desires to hold his own, to advance and be more and more of a credit to himself and his town.

A newspaper is a commercial institution and commercial institutions thrive on good will. The newspaper that suppresses news cheats its patrons in the same way as the store that gives short measure. A newspaper that is published for any other purpose than the printing of news and the carrying of legitimate commercial advertising will not succeed.

A newspaper belongs to the community in which it is published. If it stoops to selfish or vindictive purposes it ceases to fill its mission. It is the principal medium of thought communication among its readers and its aims should be progressive and inspiring. The people of a community and the newspaper should work together in harmony for the upbuilding of every righteous cause, the prosperity of the people and the advance of high class citizenship.

SICK PEOPLE SHOULD INVESTIGATE

Know the Diseases of Both Sexes Like an Open Book. I have Been Curing Them for 49 Years. In fact, My Entire Life Has Been Devoted to Curing Where Others Have Failed.

I Have Changed Hundreds Upon Hundreds of Nervous Wrecks Into Fine, Strong Men and Women. I Accept No Case I Cannot Cure.

ESPECIALLY invite all discouraged and dissatisfied ones who have been treated by a doctor, but who have failed to get a cure, to write me fully and frankly about their case. It will cost you nothing to write me, and I will gladly tell you your condition, truthfully, honestly and accurately. I cannot cure—holding out no false promises. I have spent my whole life in the study and cure of chronic diseases, and my study and investigation into the cause of these diseases, and the discovery of many new and marvelous methods of treating them. I have spent two years in the study of the most advanced methods of treating chronic diseases, and I have spent many long years as a specialist, treating chronic diseases of all kinds with wonderful success, and am now owner of one of the largest sanitariums in the country, giving my entire time to the treatment of Nervous Diseases of both sexes. I cure the worst forms of Epilepsy, St. Vitus Dance, Paralysis, etc.

My long experience in diagnosing cases and my understandings of the different diseases that I treat enable me in almost every case to prescribe by mail a perfect, thorough cure. All correspondence in plain envelopes and strictly confidential.

I CURE NERVOUS TROUBLES—Wasting Away, Loss of Vitality in Both Sexes. Whether from excess or overwork, I promptly and positively cure, no matter of how long standing.

I CURE BLOOD POISON—I cure Blood Poison in the first, second and third stages—driving the poison from the system, the taint from the blood; curing pimples, copper spots, sores in the mouth, tumors and abscesses.

I CURE FITS—Epilepsy, St. Vitus Dance, Paralysis, etc., by striking direct at the cause, restoring the diseased nerves to perfect health.

I CURE PILES—in 30 days to stay cured and to never return.

I CURE CONSUMPTION, the Great White Plague in the first and second stages. I made a special study of this disease for fifty years. Have cured hundreds of cases by local doctors. These I cannot treat at home by seeing or by mail. I will take to my own home, where best of medical skill, nursing and private rooms are given for Ten Dollars a week.

I GUARANTEE TO CURE, to stay cured, liquor, morphine, cocaine, medicine or drug habits. Most cases treated at home.

Call and see me or write to either Sanitarium as below.

No matter what disease you are suffering from, write me fully today. I will answer at once, and my advice, which costs you nothing, may be worth hundreds of dollars—life itself—to you if I cannot cure you I will tell you so. WRITE TODAY.
