Sparkling mead is made by boiling fourteen pounds of honey in six gallons of water for half an hour, breaking into it four eggs; then stir into this a half ounce each of cinnamon, cloves, mace and bruised ginger, and small bunches of marjoram, balm and sweetbrier; boil a quarter of an hour longer and pour out to cool. No Room For Strangers.

A lady making a journey observed on the train a man whose genial good nature cast a glow over everything. He spoke freely to all the passengers as though he had alwas known them, and before the journey was over he had chatted with everybody on the train. Meeting the lady later, the lady asked: "I have noticed how you speak to everybody. You don't seem to treat any person as a stranger."

My dear madam, he said, "this world is too small to hold strangers."

Now there's a spirit that might well put all dark things to rout.

Considering the common fortune and the common destiny of mankind, all of us plying the same loom of fate, all of us walking the same little road between the cradle and the dreamless dust, with William Henry, that such painting the same hopes and fears, regrets and doesn't pay. I am in the sere and yellongings, what a bad provision of life's low and my life's not worth a darn; I purpose it seems to withhold heart and am working as a butler in a fourthrate hand from one another, What a spiritual waste in that silence which we build up between man and man, not walk hand in hand.

Bores.

One fellow leans upon my shoulder, when he would talk to me; and then i wish I had a bolder to soak him two or three. It makes me hot as a hyena when I'm used as a prop by some cheap human concertina who only longs to errands; we are doing childish things, yawp. If I killed bores, and had to choose 'em, that bore I'd surely slay, who always paws my manly bosom, when he has ought to say. I do detest the bore who claws me, familiarly as death, the while he questions me or jaws me, or stuns me with his breath. I hate the bore with funny story, or prehistoric fibs, who, as he springs his legends hoary, must prod me in the ribs. Of all the weary bores I'm knowing, the one who breaks my heart, is he who says he must be going, but never makes a start. Some bores are dense, and others cunning, some sad, and others gay; some lean to song, and some to punning, and some to repartee; some run to brains and some to gristle, some always slam the doors; some bores will preach and others whistle but bores are always bores. -Petoskey Independent.

Nation's Coal Production.

The United States Geological Survey has issued its annual coal chart, showing the production of coal by states from the year 1814 to 1910. The figures relate a wonderful history of growth. In 181 a total of 22 tons of coal was produced in Pennsylvania. In 1815 the percentage of increase was good but still only 50 tons were taken out. By 1825 over 100,000 tons were mined in the two states producing. In 1850 the figures had reached 7,018,181 tons. In 1876 it was 53,280,000 tons. At the end of the century it was 269,684,027 tons. In 1905 it was 392,722,635 tons. In 1907, would have fallen on any one who hated Manhattan island and its inhabiand a quarter billion tons.

TAMMANY.

Tammany-Indian war chief, sagamore, sachem and friend of the white man-is best remembered today by "The most interesting feature of the the society that bears his name. But exhibit to me, gentlemen, is the pre- he was famous a century before Tammany Hall was built.

Historians were few and amateur romancers were many in the Pennsylgot fifty-five agricultural college boys vania wilderness of olden times. So for one true story of the great Tammany there are 20 fanciful legends. And oftentimes it is hard to separate fact from fancy in telling of the old sagamore's career.

Tammny was ruler of the Delaware Indians early in the seventeenth century and was leader of the Lenni-Lennape confederation of New York and Pennsylvania tribes which in those days waged eternal warfare against the fierce "Six Nations" and the savages who lived on and around Manhattan island. He was a king, rather than a chief, and ruled his wide domain wisely. In various native dialects he is called Tamenand, Temane, Taminent and Tammany. His huge "palace-wigwam" is reported to have stood upon the site of Princeton college.

Welcomed William Penn. When William Penn and his fellow Quakers landed in Pennsylvania, with a charter to settle that region, it was Tammany, according to most accounts, who first greeted the great Englishman and who made him and his companions welcome guests of his "nation." Tammany it was who smoothed the way for the newcomers and induced the neighboring tribes to receive them peacefully. He is said to have been a party to Penn's celebrated treaty with the natives, and to have cemented so close a friendship between Quakers and red men that, while English-Indian wars waged constantly in nearly all the other colonies, Pennsylvania was immune from bloodshed.

So mighty was Tammany and so deeply revered that his tribesmen in later years were wont to bestow his name upon any person on whom they wished to confer special honor. The Indians looked on him as a sort of god and would travel hundreds of miles to bring him their troubles for adjustment. It is probably to some of these worshipping Indians rather than to any really authentic facts that we owe the following tale of Tammany's prowess, a story that used to be told and retold at a thousand native camp-

The "Evil Spirit" (or some powerful and malicious Indian chief who became known by that name, because of his crimes) coveted the wealth and peace and easy life of Tammany's dominions, and sought to gain foothold swer one of those advertisements that there. Tammany knew that if the "Evil Spirit" should once establish a home in Pennsylvania the justice and kindly feeling that had been so carefully fostered among the local Indians must give place to strife and sin. So he forbade the "Spirit" to set foot in the realm. The "Spirit" insisted, and Tammany had to use force to check his advance.

> Battle With "Evil Spirit." A long and terrible battle ensued, lasting several months and dyeing the green forests red. At last Tammany overcame his foe and drove him forth in utter defeat. The "Evil Spirit" fled to Manhattan island, where the godless natives received him enthusiastic-

The trut. of the story-if truth there was-probably lay in a war between Tammany and some rival chief who was forced, by the Pennsylvanian's victory, to fly for safety to Manhattan. The Fuel Supply Needs Attention Only Three Times Each Day

The makers of Cole's Hot Black Heater guarantee this stove to hold fire with soft coal 36 hours without attention. Your old stove and imitation stoves leak air and waste fuel because they are not air-tight, because they have putty joints.

Cole's Original Hot Blast Heater

-by means of the patented Hot Blast Draft and other patented features which make it tight, doing away with the use of stove putty-requires less attention than any other heater made.

All fuel-Soft Coal, Bland Coal, Elemite, Wood or Corn Cobs-contains a large amount of gas. Fully one-half of the heating power (carbon) in soft coal is gas. This is the part of the fuel this wonderful heater caves, by burning it with the Top Hot Blast Draft. This makes Cole's Hot Blast Heater the most satisfactory, the most economical, the most convenient heater you can buy. Imitations and other ctyles of stoves allow this gas-half of the coal to pass up the chimney with the smoke, unburned. Thousands of these stoves are in use and the sale continues to increase year after year. This hecter will give you more comfort than you ever thought possible by using any kind of a stove which uses soft coal for fuel. Right now is the time to decide and select the size you should have. Come in and see complete line of styles and sizes.

No Other Jungles in Asia Are as Extensive as Those of Southern Foothills and Marshy Taral of Himalaya Mountains.

Poona, British India.-Already the announcement is made that the maharajah of Nepal is to use 500 elefor Iosco county will be held in the phants for the King of England's tiger hunt in his highness' dominions next

> While King George is in Nepal Queen Mary will be sight-seeing in Rajpootana. When the king and queen visited India six years ago as Prince and Princess of Wales the maharajah invited his royal highness to Nepal and made vast preparation to provide a royal hunt in his jungle preserves, but the plan was upset by a virulent outbreak of cholera in the region where the hunt was to be. The disappointment was keen to the English prince, but not less so to the maharajah.

Next December the same royal personage will come to India in the exalted rank of king-emperor and his entertainment will be on a corresponding scale of grandeur.

No other jungles in Asia are as extensive as those of the southern foothills and marshy taral of the central and eastern Himalaya mountains. They swarm with wild beasts, which seldom are disturbed, because foreign sportsmen are excluded, except when leives he has saved many lives in his they come at his highness' invitation. 25 years of experience in the drug | The shooting done by the maharajah and his nobles is not enough to make an impression on the game, which includes wild elephants and rhinoceroses, with many species of tigers, bears, leopards, deer and pigs.

In preparation for the king's visit a tract of this jungle, perhaps fifteen miles long and half as broad, will be selected, and all the beasts in a much wider area will be slowly and patiently driven into it by men mounted on elephants, making just noise enough to induce the game to move on without alarm.

By this means, in the course Get a trial bottle free, or regular | weeks, twenty or thirty tigers, with other beasts in proportion, will be gathered into the selected area, which then will be surrounded by a ring of watchmen, with the addition of fires by night. The space being so large and well supplied with the tigers' nat ural prey, the beasts will not seek to escape, nor even to approach the circle of watchmen's huts and fires. This state of things will be kept up until the time for the great hunt arrives.

The shooting will be done from the backs of elephants. These stately pachyderms move through tangled brushwood and shrubbery as an ox walks through grass. Only a person who has seen them can credit the quickness with which they obey any word or sign of the driver seated on their neck, and he has to be on the alert to guide his beast so that the overhanging branches of trees will not sweep the sportsman to the ground.

California Couple Find First Ceremony Is Not Legal and Hurry to Have Another Performed.

Santa Ana, Cal.—It took a clergyman and a justice of the peace to tie the knot for Bert Theodore Wilkie, aged twenty-seven, of Los Angeles, and Sadie Whelchel, aged twenty-two, of Long Beach. The two ceremonies were performed eleven days apart. The second was made necessary because the first lacked legality.

The license was issued by the county clerk of this county July 19. Wilkie did not know that a marriage license can be used only in the county in which it is issued. On that point the Rev. Robert Renison, rector of St. Mark's Episcopal church of Los Angeles, was as ignorant as Wilkie. Mr. Renison performed the ceremony in Los Angeles county.

Wilkie and his bride had no doubt that they were as thoroughly married as any couple could be and they knew no different until they learned that the recorder of Los Angeles county had refused to record the certificate. Hearing that, Wilkie seized the document and with Miss Whelchel took the first car for Santa Ana, and on their arrival were married by A. B. London.—Some one has been playing a joke on Aviator Grahame-White, John Jordan was a business visitor who is now in the United States.

A group of members of Parliament calling themselves the Parliamentary committee of aerial defense, organized a big demonstration of flying at Grahame-White's aerodrome at Hendon. Arthur Ducros, M. P., and Grahame-White arranged that First Lord of the Admiralty McKenna should take a passenger flight with Grahame-Detroit, where he expects to spend White. Arthur James Balfour also took a trip.

Some weeks later a practical joker got some business note-paper printed, place a pinch of salt and small pinch spent Saturday and Sunday with with the heading "Grahame-White of pepper. If fond of onions, a small Aviation Company," and on it sent a shred of onion, also. Fold the meat bill to the government for $150-$75 over so that seasoning is in center. CRINOLINE IS BIG FAILURE Idea Is Scorned by London Leaders of Fashion-Narrow Skirts Form Keynote for Season.

London.-The attempt by a Bond street modiste to introduce a modified form of crinoline skirt among the fashions for the fall has been a failure. The idea has been even more laughed at than was the model who ventured out on the West end streets to test public opinion on such a skirt. Designers of women's modes now admit that crinoline or any form of unnaturally expanded skirt is dead. As a matter of fact, narrow skirts will form the keynote of fashions here for the fall and winter. The designers say they are only just beginning to recognize the possibilities of displaying the beauties of the female figure by tight dresses, and they now will depend on the beauty of form rather than as hitherto on the charm of artistic drapery. London is also learning at last something from New York, and much brighter colors will be worn. No one color will hold predominant sway the coming season. Royal purple is disappearing, and its place is the marked feature of women's dress will be taken by vivid colors.

The leading materials to be used will be rich velvet, with costly embroidery embellishments and fur trimmings. Fashionable dresses will be in every way the most expensive ever yet devised.

Complete banishment has been declared against the vogue of black, but black and white will hold its own, especially later in the season. Some modistes are producing exquisite models of this style.

HUNTING SHARKS NEAR MAINE

Three Large Denizens of the Deep Were Captured by Several Philadelphians-Used Wire Cable.
