He remains were taken to his former home at Romeo for interment.

The Record-Breaking Sale which was advertised in the Herald last week by M. E. Friedman is the talk of the town. Mr. Friedman took six columns of space in this paper to tell the buying public of what he had to offer. Despite unfavorable weather conditions, the sale has been liberally patronized and drew trade from almost every section of this portion of the country where the Herald circulates. Mr. Friedman will continue the sale another week—his big ad tells you all about it.

Because the Grange movement is not so conspicuous and not so active in politics as it was years ago, many think that it has died out. That is a mistake. For in a number of states it is active and flourishing, and during the past year, it has made a rapid growth. There is no doubt that in cultivating the social spirit among farmers by its gatherings, and in the vast fund of useful information it imparts, the Grange is doing excellent work, and in so doing it is helping to popularize country life.

Christina Hanson, the old gentleman who was so badly frozen at Emery Junction, on Wednesday of last week, died Monday afternoon as the result of the exposure. The deceased was 63 years of age, and is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Elijah Russell, with whom he resided at Emery Junction; Mrs. Fay Jacobs, of Fort Dodge, Iowa, and Miss Emma, teacher in the schools at Alabaster. The deceased was one of the best-known pioneer citizens of Iosco county, having been one of the earliest settlers of Oscoda, where he resided until the big fire last July, which destroyed all his property. Since then, he has resided at Port Huron. It is reported that worry over his loss had much to do in hastening his death. He is survived by nine children.

A card received from Rev. Hugh McCarroll, of Port Huron, announces the death of Mrs. H. M. Gamble, at her home in Mt. Morris, N. Y. The deceased was a most estimable lady who made many friends in this city, when she spent several months last winter at the home of the Rev. and Mrs. McCarroll. She was 66 years of age, and a member of the Baptist church from childhood, having spent several years as missionary in the south. Her maiden name was Wisner, she being a niece of former Gov. The federal grand jury has found six counts against the bath-tub trust. They can't be these foreign counts, for they never need a "bath," being so much in the swim when they come over here.

Persons troubled with partial paralysis are often very much benefited by massaging the affected parts thoroughly when applying Chamberlain's Liniment. This liniment also relieves rheumatic pains. For sale by all druggists.

A MISSOURI STENOGRAPHER WINS PRIZE AS MILKMAID

Miss Elizabeth L. Miller of Vandalia, Mo., did not have any idea of contesting for the honor of being the best milkmaid in America when she went to the National Dairy show in Chicago, but she was brought up on her father's farm, near Vandalia, and knew how to milk, so she entered the contest, and won the gold medal.

Miss Miller is 22 years old, and until three years ago, she lived on the farm of her father, J. L. Miller, near Vandalia. Then she went to a business college in Quincy, after which she went to Wellsville, Mo., and filled the position of cashier in a store, and did typewriting for a real estate firm and a bank. Later she went to Chicago, where she obtained a position as a stenographer.

PERSONALITIES.

Demetra Vaka, author of "In the Shadow of Islam," is a Greek by birth, but was reared in Turkey. She is now the wife of Kenneth Brown, an American writer.

Mrs. Winnie Ream Hoxie, whose life-size bust of President Lincoln first attracted attention to her as a sculptress, is working away at the age of 64 with all the energy of her younger years. Her latest works are busts of American patriots for Cornell University.

Samuel Parsons, said to be the oldest soldier in the British army, has served 67 years, and since 1859 has been royal gunner at Windsor Castle. He was born at Morval, East Loos, Cornwall, in 1825, and at the age of 19 joined the army.

Dr. Basil Laneau Gildersleeve, who has just celebrated his eightieth birthday, is a professor of Greek at Johns Hopkins University, and has been a member of its faculty since its foundation in 1786. He has been in active service for 55 years, and is still young in mind and body, and as a writer his sparkling wit lends added interest to his technical productions.

Three Milkings Daily.

According to some experiments noted by the department of agriculture, it was found that where cows were milked three times a day, morning, noon and evening, the milk was richer at noon and the poorest in the morning, when milked morning and evening, the milk was slightly richer in the evening.

Keep Horse Comfortable.

A horse is a good deal like a man. If you keep him bundled up in a heavy blanket in the barn, he will be almost frozen when you take him out of doors. You would not think of wearing an overcoat in the house, would you? If you blanket your horse at all in the stable, let it be with a light stable blanket.

JIMPSEY DAVIS ESTATE OF $30,000 AWAITING HEIRS

No heir, as yet, has appeared to claim the estate worth $30,000 left by James Davis, late of Peabody, Kan., who was killed by a fall Oct. 30, 1910. Mystery surrounds both the death of Davis and the non-appearance of heirs.

"Jimpsey" Davis, as he was commonly called, after a pleasure trip to Kansas City, suddenly appeared in the vicinity of his property in East Branch township, Marion county, northwest of Peabody, acting in a queer manner. He was adjudged insane and confined in a private institution at Atchison. He had been there but a few days when information was given out to the effect that while out with a guard he attempted escape and was killed in falling.

The estate consists of 400 acres of fertile Marion county land, worth at the lowest $100 an acre, and $10,000 cash on deposit in a Peabody bank, inherited by Davis from his father.

Since "Jimpsey," who was 40 years old at his death, was 15 years old the father and son had lived to themselves on their farm, allowing the presence of no woman there, working hard and leading a miserly existence. In the Kansas language they "bached."

Shortly after his father's death "Jimpsey" moved to Peabody and took up his residence at a small, low-priced hotel. He lived most penuriously and had but one confidant, Hamilton Lowman, an invalid. To the latter he said that he would like to marry, but any girl who would marry him would not do so from motives of love but to gain his property. He told Lowman that the only woman he would marry was after his money was Seattle Bush, a negro girl of good reputation. He often remarked to Lowman that regardless of color, Miss Bush would make an industrious man a good wife. Such unions are within the Kansas law, though not looked on with favor. The Bushes were tenants on the Davis farm and for weeks at a time Jimpsey made his home with them. Mrs. Bush took an interest in "Jimpsey," keeping his buttons sewed on, his socks mended and his clothes repaired. No woman had ever taken an interest in "Jimpsey" before, and naturally he wanted to confide in her. The Bush family knew "Jimpsey" Davis better than other persons in Kansas. The senior Davis had often mentioned the existence of a sister who came to this country and married in Washington state, and of a son, a half-brother of "Jimpsey," who went from England to Australia. The elder Davis, who was 80 years old when he died, had kept up no communication with either relative and trace of them has not been found.

The Kansas law provides that if no heir makes proof of claim within three years the estate becomes the property of the state of Kansas. James Davis Sr. came to Marion county, Kan., from Cardiff, Wales, in 1874.

Working One's Own "Thinks."

The children in a New York public school were set one day to write their answer to the question: "What is the difference between an educated man and an intelligent man?" and one little Polish girl replied: "An educated man gets his 'thinks' from some one else; an intelligent man works his own 'thinks.'" Now the fundamental aim of modern education is to abolish this distinction between an educated man and an intelligent man; to train people not to borrow or inherit their ideas, but to get them for themselves, by personal and continuous work.—F. G. Peabody in "Sunday Evenings in the College Chapel."

Feminine Epicureanism.

"How do you know Mr. Meepton is under the domination of his wife?" "By the way he pretends," replied Miss Cayenne, "to thoroughly enjoy olives and mayonnaise dressing."

Democratic Policy.

A. R. Canfield, writing from Washington to the Clare Courier, says:

"Occasionally, with professed loyalty of the tenets of the democracy, is heard to utter disapproval of the present attitude of the house upon the question of the tariff reform, and to declare that schedule by schedule, the free list should be enlarged, and without reference to the needs of the government which, under long continued republican rule has assumed obligations which absolutely forbid a material reduction in revenue until such changes in administration can be wrought as will reduce expenditures to a point where economy will be practiced, instead of being regularly declared for and as often forgotten. To refresh the recollections of the discontents at this time let us examine the platform of the party twenty-three years ago, and note the familiarity of its declarations with those of the present House leaders:

"The democracy pledges itself to purify the administration from corruption, to restore economy, to revive respect for law, and to reduce taxation to the lowest limit consistent with due regard to the preservation of the faith of the nation to its creditors and pensioners. Knowing full well, however, that legislation affecting the operation of the people should be cautious and conservative in method, not in advance of public opinion, but responsive to its demands, the democratic party is pledged to revise the tariff in a spirit of fairness to all interests. But in making reductions in taxes, it is not proposed to injure any domestic industries, but rather to promote their healthy growth. From the foundation of this government, taxes collected at the custom house have been the chief source of federal revenue; such they must continue to be. Moreover, many industries have come to rely on legislation for successful continuance, so that any change of law must be at every step regardful of the labor and capital thus involved. The process of reform must be subject to the execution of this plain dictate of justice; all taxation shall be limited to the requirements of economical government. The necessary reduction and taxation can and must be effected without depriving American labor of ability to compete successfully with foreign labor, and without imposing lower rates of duty than will be ample to cover any increased cost of production which may exist in consequence of the higher rates of wages prevailing in this country. Sufficient revenue to pay all the expenses of the federal government, economically administered, including pensions, interest and principal of the public debt, can be got under the present system of taxation from the custom-house taxes on fewer imported articles, bearing heaviest on articles of luxury and bearing lightest on articles of necessity. We therefore denounce the abuses of the existing tariff and, subject to the preceding limitations, we demand that federal taxation shall be exclusively for federal purposes, and shall not exceed the needs of the government, economically administered."

"The present House has inaugurated a series of most searching investigations in every department of government, and for two purposes, namely: To ascertain whether public funds have been wasted, misapplied or stolen, and to learn in what directions economy can soonest be put into practice. Entirely confident that the result of these inquiries will make possible material reductions in the tax levy, the reform of the tariff schedule by schedule has been commenced, by at first making radical reductions in the cost of the necessities of life, and which products are most completely in control of the trust. The fair-minded citizen will admit that the policy adopted is in entirely in harmony with all previous declarations of the party."

Every time they file Roosevelt's name on a primary ballot it sets his teeth on edge.

The infant son of the conductor of the Chicago Grand Opera Co. has been christened, Mme. Schumann-Heink acting as godmother. If the lady will let the kid cut his teeth on her phonograph records, it might improve the effect of her canned musical renditions.

And word comes from Washington to the effect that there are 125 pounds of water in a ton of coke. Big business is reversing the order of things to such an extent that we will soon be burning ice in the winter time, and keep our lemons in the coal bin during the summer to keep them from souring.

Surely the court house was the proper place chosen in which to hold that old maids' and bachelors' leap year convention which is to be held soon in La Grange, Georgia. To give added zest to this meeting, the county clerk, who is also a druggist, will offer cut-rates on marriage licenses. The bashful couples want to see that they get the genuine article and not have something palmed off on them that will be "just as good."

Wrong Road System.

Thirty-seven counties in Michigan have adopted the county road system. A county tax is levied and three commissioners are elected to expend the money thus collected upon permanent improvement of the main traveled highways. For every mile of macadam road thus built; the state pays to the county a reward of a thousand dollars, and five hundred dollars for each mile of gravel road. Thus if a county builds ten miles of good roads the state presents it with enough money to build approximately two and a half miles more.

Other counties of the state retain the township system, by which each little locality attempts to look after its own roads. Estimates show that all the money spent last year under the township system, about seventy-five per cent went for merely patching up poor dirt roads, so as to make them more or less passable for some months longer, when the same amount will have to be expended over again for more patching; while of the money expended under the county system, ninety per cent went to make permanent roads that can be kept in good condition at comparatively small expense. The patching up plan would bankrupt any railroad in a few years.—Saturday Evening Post.

Primary Enrollment.

Under the primary law as amended by the last legislature it is necessary for every elector who desires to take part in the nominations of his party candidates next fall to re-enroll this year. Enrollment days will be January 27, and April 1.

The elector who neglects or refuses to give the name of his party cannot be enrolled. It is important that every elector enroll under his proper party heading. Under the present law all county, legislative, congressional, and part of the state nominations of all parties are made at the primaries, and candidates must receive at least 15 per cent of the vote cast at the preceding general election for the candidate of secretary of state of his party, otherwise no certificate of nomination will be issued and the place on the party ballot will be left blank.

It will be seen that under the provisions of the new law it will be necessary for the voters of all parties to enroll and take part in their party primaries.

A Hero in a Lighthouse.

For years J. S. Donahue, So. Haven, Mich., a civil war captain, as a lighthouse keeper, averted awful wrecks, but a queer fact is, he might have been a wreck himself, if Electric Bitters had not prevented. "The cured me of kidney trouble and chills," he writes, "after I had taken other so called cures for years, without benefit and they also improved my sight. Now, at seventy, I am feeling fine." For dyspepsia, indigestion, all stomach, liver and kidney troubles, they're without equal. Try them. Only 50 cts. at J. M. Wuggazer & Co's, Tawas City and James E. Dillon's, East Tawas.

Teachers' Attention!

The eight grade examination in reading for May, 1912, will be based on Longfellow's "The Courtship of Miles Standish."

Reading for teachers' examination in April will be based on "Hudson's Introduction to the Study of Literature. This is an especially strong book. It is very comprehensive and of especial interest and value to all teachers.

One half of the second grade examination in botany will be based on Warren's "Elements of Agriculture."

The third book of the Reading Circle Course is "The Personal Equation," by Lawrence McTurman. This book will inspire for better work; not only teachers, but all who read the book.

In addition to credits given above, 100 per cent will be allowed in Theory and Art those taking this course.

Respectfully,
J. A. CAMPBELL
Commissioner.

Primary Enrollment.

Notice is hereby given that in accordance with act No. 281, Public Acts of 1909, as amended by act No. 279, Public Acts of 1911, the board of enrollment of the city of Tawas City, state of Michigan, will be in session on SATURDAY, JANUARY 27, 1912, at the city hall (the above location being the place of holding the enrollment for the several wards of said city) for the purpose of enrolling the names of all persons, members of whatever political party, who make personal application for such enrollment.

HOW ELECTORS MAY SECURE ENROLLMENT

The following is a brief statement of the different ways in which enrollment can be secured:

1. By personal application on enrollment days—Jan'y 27 and April 1.
2. By a written request accompanied by affidavit, an elector can enroll any day, but cannot vote at any primary held within two months. This affidavit and application must be delivered to the city clerk or other officer in charge of the enrollment book.

3. An elector who was sick or unavoidably absent on enrollment day or who became 21 years of age or an elector after enrollment day can have his name enrolled on primary election day and vote at that election by taking the necessary oath.

4. If an elector who has been duly enrolled as above changes his residence from one precinct in the state another he can be enrolled in the new precinct by obtaining a proper certificate from a member of the enrollment board of the precinct where he is formerly resided stating that he is duly enrolled in the precinct from which he has moved and is entitled to enrollment in the new precinct, or by taking oath.

No person can vote at any primary in Michigan unless his name has been enrolled under act 279.

All enrollment prior to August 2, 1911, is void. An entirely new enrollment is required.

An elector who neglects or refuses to give the name of his political party cannot have his name enrolled.

Said board of enrollment will be in session from 7 o'clock a. m. until 5 o'clock p. m. of said day of enrollment.

Dated this 9th day of January A. D. 1912.

There is no mortgage on the Elks temple at Cheboygan. The document was burned with appropriate ceremonies last Wednesday evening.

Four weeks more and the chicory season will be ended, and though it was not up to the standard set in former years, the companies in this section feel satisfied.

Official notification of the mandamus directed in the Alcona county jail case has not yet been served on the sheriff or clerk. There will be no meeting of the board of supervisors until this is done.

The Oscoda Press of last week announces that terms have been agreed upon between the citizens of that place and Henry Lewis of Buffalo, whereby a furniture factory will be erected there. The work on the buildings will be commenced just as soon as the weather permits.

An Alpena township milk dealer says that the proposed milk ordinance in that city is all right, but if the dealers were forced to buy small mouth milk cans, metal tickets, pay licenses, etc., the price of milk will go so high, that it would be beyond the reach of the average family.

Presque Isle County News says it has it on good authority that Prosecutor Morris of that county has been doing some quiet work in securing evidence of violations of the local option law throughout the county, and that he has the goods on a number who have been harboring the animal known as the blind pig.

Statistics completed by Game Warden Oats show that there were fewer deer licenses issued in Michigan last fall than the year before, and the fees received fell accordingly. In 1910 there were 220 non-resident licenses issued as compared with 109 last fall. The total amount of fees received last fall was over twenty-six thousand dollars.

The Onaway Inter-Lake says: "We sometimes wish we had a linotype, and there other times when we can't afford it. For instance in speaking of "Men and Religion Forward Movement," the linotype makes the Alpena News say: "Get into the spirit of this by attending the service to cases of scarlet fever, cases in the night at the Methodist church."

According to old settlers, Lake Huron is now lower than ever before. According to the following report from the U. S.
