They are associated in this deal, as they own jointly a very large grazing section of land in Northern Michigan, not far from Tawas, which was formerly pine land, which has been cleared, and is now used for grazing.

Mr. Prescott lives at Tawas, while Mr. Gaige resides at Jonesville, in that state.

These men came to Kansas City last Monday, and remained here through the week making the purchase, which will be loaded out this evening. They will be shipped through Chicago in making the long trip named.—Kansas City Drovers Telegram, June 29.

The Ever Faithful Dog.

The dog is the only animal that is capable of disinterested affection. He is the only one that regards the human being as his companion, and follows him as his friend; the only one that seems to possess a natural desire to be useful to him, and from a spontaneous impulse attaches himself to man.

We exact from the dog the service that is required of him, and he still follows us. He solicits to be continued as our companion and our friend. Many an expressive action tells us how much he is pleased and thankful. He shares our abundance and he is content with the scantiest and the most humble fare. He loves us while living, and has been known to pine away on the grave of his human master.—Our Dumb Animals.

School Meeting.

The annual school meeting for district No. 7, was held at the high school building Monday evening. Whether the very warm weather or the lack of interest was the cause we are not prepared to say, but the attendance was very light, only about 25 being present.

The reports of the officers show the district to be in excellent condition, all indebtedness being paid and a balance of about $1,000 on hand, besides the primary money which will come in this month.

The election of trustees passed with practically unanimous consent. Three trustees being elected, one to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Trustee Waterbury. Those elected were: L. J. Patterson, two years; Stephen Ferguson and John B. King, three years.

TAWAS CITY, MICH., July 12, 1912

"Under the Oaks" at Jackson is where the progressives of Michigan have been called to meet on the 20th inst. to organize their new party.

Senator Dixon has issued the call for the national convention of the Roosevelt party. It will be held in Chicago August 5, and is signed by representatives from forty states.

It will keep Gov. Osborn busy to get his mind settled as to whom he will vote for in November. He has to date declared he would support Taft, Roosevelt, Wilson and now Roosevelt—providing he has not changed his mind since this morning.

If there is any doubt as to where the Wall street interests stand in the coming presidential campaign, it may all be easily removed by reading a copy of their official journal, the American Economist, which attack Wilson and the democratic platform in the most rabid stand-pat manner.

The democratic platform adopted at Baltimore promises all that the most ardent progressive in any party could ask for, and with Woodrow Wilson as the standardbearer, there should be no reason why progressive men who are sincere should not unite in supporting both the leader and the platform.

William Jennings Bryan may never get to be president, but he is right. He stands as the greatest exponent of democratic and progressive sentiment and champion of the people's rights in any party. His successful fight at Baltimore for a progressive leader and platform for the progressive democracy is the biggest event in his eventful life.

Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, who is making a round-the-world tour for equal suffrage, is quoted as saying: "When I pause to think that I have seen Mohammedan, Hindu, Parsee and Buddhist women who have voted and are voting, and that in our enlightened Christian country I and my American sisters are not, I feel pretty rebellious. This world is surely a curious mixture and no one country, I find, has all the virtues or all the liberality."

Modern Woodmen Advertising.

It is observed from our exchanges that many Camp Clerks are following the advice of the Head Clerk to advertise the Modern Woodmen of America in the local newspapers. Some are using display ads, others smaller cards and still others reading notices with heads, while in a few instances all three methods are employed. And this advertising is bringing results. The new plans of the Modern Woodmen offer the best propositions in life insurance now before the public and the local newspaper is the very best medium for bringing an article that will bear close examination to public attention.

Celebrated Armorer's.

In olden times the armorer's work was not of a rough and ready description, but generally bore the signs of highly wrought workmanship. The various pieces of a suit fit into their positions to a nicety, there are no rough edges, and as a rule very little that is merely careless decorative work. Fashion and reputation have left their hall mark on the armor of each period, and like most other industries it had its distinguished masters. The name of Jacob Topf is, for example, still famous in England, and such names as those of Lorenzo Colman of Augsburg, a German armorer of the sixteenth century, Lucio Pincino, a Milanese, and the Wolfs of Landslut, a family of armorers that are supposed to have worked for Phillip II. of Spain, are celebrated in their own countries.

Double His Assessment.

"Would you," inquires the Greenwood Journal, "give the deaf man a verdict, if you were on the jury, who is suing for damages because he alleges that he is paying for preaching he can't hear?"

Personally we'd be inclined to render a verdict after the fashion of the immortal Paddy Divver. As the story goes, a loyal henchman of the clan, named Danny, was arrested for an enthusiastic and successful assault upon an innocent third party. It was just before election, and Danny sent for his leader. The leader heard Danny's story and went to see Paddy Divver.

"Judge," he said, "I wish you'd be tight on Danny. He's a good fellow, and can help us a lot in the election." "All right!" said Paddy, "I'll give him thirty days!"

"But that will keep him in jail over the election!" the leader protested.

"H—," said Paddy, "I mean the plaintiff!"

Gives Reasons for Supporting Buell.

Auburn Mich., June 4, 1912. To the Editor of The Industrial Herald, Bay City, Mich.

In connection with the coming nomination of a republican candidate for congress from the Tenth district, I herewith submit my reasons for supporting Frank Buell and some of the reasons why I believe he should receive the support of the people at the polls on August 27th next.

I know from long acquaintance with him that he stands for a "square deal" for all. I believe that his heart is more with the great bulk of the people, viz: the laboring people and farmers, than any other person whose name has been mentioned for the position. In proof of my assertion I submit the substance of his progressive platform of two years ago, upon which he ran before some of the so-called progressives had been heard of.

Two years ago he said— He believed in a tariff that would not foster monopolies and build up trusts or permit the consumer to be exposed to extortionate prices.

He believed in making the national house of representatives amenable to the wishes of the people.

He stood for conservation of the nation's resources under government regulation, that the many might be benefited, not the few.

He stood for curbing centralized wealth and greed, even to the extent of advocating government ownership, if that became necessary in the accomplishment of this purpose.

This platform was published in the newspapers of the district and widely circulated in other ways.

In the Bay county republican convention held in Bay City on February 17, 1911, at a time when the farmers of this country were threatened with the iniquitous reciprocity proposition he, as a member of the committee on resolutions, of which I was chairman, was one of the most insistent among those asking for the following resolution:

"We, the republicans of Bay county, in convention assembled, again reaffirm our confidence in the republican party and its principles, and we particularly reaffirm our allegiance to the republican principles of a protective tariff, and we view with apprehension and alarm any tendency or measure which seeks to take away from any class of people and especially the farming interests, the benefits of this well established policy of the republican party."

Mr. Buell here stood for the interests of the farmers when the republican administration was fighting for its measure and when many leading politicians and some U. S. senators were on the fence.

Two years ago as today, he stood on progressive principles. He has shown his willingness all his life to give the other fellow a "square deal" and in the past has shown himself the friend of labor and the farmer. I therefore believe he is deserving of our confidence, and I, as one who has always been a hearty supporter of Theodore Roosevelt, believe that the people of this district can do no better than support this man who stands for progressive principles.

WM. J. BIERD,

Representative, Second District, Bay County, Michigan.

COLLIE JOHNSON.

Tawas City, Apr. 19, 1912.

For Sheriff.

I desire to take this opportunity to announce to the republican electors of Iosco county that I am a candidate for sheriff at the coming primary election. I have been a resident of the county for 23 years and a tax payer a larger share of that time. If nominated and elected I will give the office my most careful attention and I respectfully solicit your votes at the coming primary.

LOUIS PRINGLE.

For Sheriff.

William McMurray of East Tawas, deputy sheriff and county trustee officer, announces that he is a candidate for the office of sheriff on the republican ticket, and respectfully solicits your support for that office in the August primary election. Mr. McMurray has served in the capacity of deputy sheriff for the past eight years, and county trustee officer since the enactment of the law in 1905 creating that office. He was also city marshal of East Tawas prior to that time for a period of nearly five years. In every capacity he has proved himself a capable officer. He is a good citizen, a taxpayer of Iosco county, and is worthy of your support.

For the Legislature.

At the solicitation of numerous friends I have decided to become a candidate for the republican nomination for representative from the Iosco district, and I most respectfully solicit the support of the enrolled members of that party at the August primaries. If nominated and elected I promise to give my time in the interest of the people of the district and the state. I believe thoroughly in the principles of progressive republicanism.

Hale, Mich., June 5, 1912.

Candidate for Judge of Probate.

To the Electors of Iosco County: Through the solicitation of a large number of the electors of Iosco county, and after due deliberation, I hereby announce that I am a candidate for the office of Judge of Probate on the republican ticket at the August primary election. I do not believe I need an introduction to the citizens of Iosco county, and if the administration of the affairs in the probate office during the past few years has been satisfactory enough to meet your approval and merit a continuance in this office, I shall be pleased to receive your support.

ALFRED K. WEIR

For Judge of Probate.

To the Electors of the County of Iosco: Gentlemen—I desire to take this opportunity to announce to you that I am a candidate for the office of Judge of Probate on the republican ticket to be voted for at the coming primary election to be held next August.

I respectfully solicit the support of the republican electors of the county.

Should you honor me with the nomination and election to this office I assure you that my time and my best efforts shall be given to the duties of the office.

Yours respectfully,

John W. Tait.

For Judge of Probate.

The undersigned has been a resident of Iosco county 42 years, a tax payer for 36 years. I am a candidate for the nomination of judge of probate on the republican ticket and respectfully solicit your support at the August primaries for that nomination. If nominated and elected I will not be a candidate for a second term.

JOHN SULLIVAN.

For Drain Commissioner.

I desire to announce myself as a candidate for the nomination of County Drain Commissioner for a second term, subject to the approval of the republican electors of Iosco county at the August primaries. If nominated and elected I will give the office the same careful attention in the future as in the past year and a half.

CAN YOU ALWAYS EAT ALL THAT YOU "CAN?"

After the work of "canning" do you find much of your fruit spoiled? Then, why persist in using old-style, narrow-necked, tin-topped, screw-capped jars? That was the old way of "canning." The new way, the better way is called "jarring," preserving in the all-glass E-Z SEAL JAR

It has the sanitary all-glass cap—no metal at all. No twisting and turning—the cap clamps with a spring seal. It closes and opens with a touch of the finger. And your fruit keeps.

The Seed in the Four Kinds of Soil, Mark iv:1-20

Golden Text—Receive with meekness the engrafted word, which is able to save your souls. Jas. 1:21

(1.) Verse 1—What was the particular charm in Jesus which attracted to him such great crowds?

(2.) Is preaching from a boat just as holy and acceptable to God as from a pulpit in a cathedral or a church?

(3.) Verse 2—Why did Jesus teach in parables and what are the advantages or disadvantages of that method of teaching?

(4.) Verse 3—In what respect is the teaching of religion like the sowing of seed?

(5.) Verse 4—How would you regard a gardener who deliberately sowed seed on the highway?

(6.) Should a christian sow the seed of the gospel in those hearts that are not prepared to receive it?

(7.) Verses 5-6—What class of people are those who resemble the stony ground?

(8.) When emotional or shallow minded people hear the gospel and are moved by it are they or not as likely to develop into strong Christians as those under like influences who are not so easily moved and think more deeply?
Give your reasons.

(9.) Verse 7—What effect does preaching the gospel have upon those who will not give up their sins?

(10.) If a person is ever so much influenced by the gospel, but still holds on to some sin or sins, how much Christian fruit is he likely to bear?

(11.) Verse 8—How may it be possible for every person who is exposed to the gospel to become a "good ground" hearer? (This is one of the questions which may be answered in writing by members of the club.)

(12.) How do you account for the different degrees of fruit bearing from those who answer to the "good ground" in this parable?

(13.) Verse 9—Is it a fault or a misfortune, and why, to have dull or no spiritual hearing?

(14.) Verses 10-13—Why did Jesus speak in parables that he knew some would not understand or would misunderstand?

(15.) What is the only way by which we may understand the teaching of Jesus?

(16.) Verse 14—What is "the word" which all Christians must sow?

(17.) Verse 15—What class of persons are "wayside" hearers?

(18.) Verses 16-17—Do these stony ground "hearers, who receive the word with gladness" and afterward fall away, actually get converted? Give your reasons.

(19.) Verse 20—What reward will they who are "good ground" hearers get?

Progress rides on the air. Soon we them. That's why Dr. King's New popular medicine in America. "It

HOSPITALITY OF PRIMITIVE PEOPLE

VILLAGE IN CENTRAL AFRICA

ONE of the most unique traveler's tales heard in New York for some time was related by an Englishman at luncheon downtown recently.

"You have done so much for me, Mr. Black, since I have had to be here on this steel business," he said, "you have put yourself out to be so hospitable that I shall always think of you as worthy to be a Society Islander."

"How's that? Why unless they have changed very much since I was in the middle of the Pacific some years ago, the Society Islanders are the most hospitable people in the world. Of course, their way of doing things isn't just like New York or London. But it's right from the heart."

"Very often, when it comes to the test, the 'heathen in his blindness' evens up pretty well with the white man in taking care of his guests," remarked another member of the party. "Here on Fifth avenue or Broadway what they do sounds queer, but on the spot it feels good. If I should tell you that a North American Indian tribe I dropped in upon late one afternoon gave me a Turkish bath to remove the dust and fatigue of a long day's journey through the desert, you'd say I was crazy, wouldn't you? Well, that is exactly what happened."

"The Indians were the Havasus, or the Havasupais, whichever way you want to call them. When I arrived at this village of theirs, hot and covered with grime, I was as complete a stranger as there ever was. The chief motioned me to a seat beside him, and I was well satisfied in being received kindly and allowed to rest.
No Indian, as you know, ever talks much, and hence no warning of what was to come was given me. It could hardly have been much over half an hour before a youth beckoned me. I found out afterward that he was a son of the chief, entrusted with these special rites of hospitality toward strangers."

"He led me to a tent. Later I learned that was known as the 'first guest house.' It was practically airtight, its entrance covered by a double flap of blankets. In it women of the village had, ever since my arrival, been placing red hot stones, under the direction of the lad. By now it was filled with heat and steam."

"The boy told me it was part of his duty to care for my clothes while I went inside. I made a record in getting them off. There never was a bath as delightful as that."

Odd Custom of African Tribe.
"My story will seem tame after those of you two," put in the man who was giving the luncheon, "but there's a tribe in Africa, the Ovambos, whom Stanley or Livingstone or Lord Kitchener or Roosevelt—somebody, at any rate—called the 'Merry People,' that have your Tahitians and Indians beaten a mile when it comes to oddities of hospitality. Their way isn't nearly so pleasant as those we have been hearing about. What do they do?
Hold water in their mouths as soon as you are seated at a meal and squirt it in your face. You are expected to be greatly delighted at this, and then your host comes around to you and rubs your face and head with fresh butter. If a white guest protests he is looked upon with suspicion."

"There is another African tribe, you may like to know, the Nuebrs of central Africa, that have a custom very like this. They greet those they are about to entertain by spitting, yes, spitting, on your hands and face. It is the most gross and bitter insult if you do not spit back. One traveler, it is said, who didn't know of this custom, became terribly angry at being spat upon. His first thought was to knock the negro down. Then, in his rage, a better way suggested itself. He spat in the man's face good and hard. To his astonishment the ruler of the tribe, groveled before him. 'Now I know,' he said, 'that you are a great chief!'"

The whimsicalities of hospitality are unending, though civilization is clearing them away piecemeal. It may not be true, as some have predicted, that a New Zealander will ever stand and look on the ruins of London bridges, because by the time that famous structure does fall there will not be any New Zealanders left, but, as witness the Japanese transition from picturesque garments to frock coats and top hats, expanding commerce levels and gradually does away with oddities. Returned missionaries, explorers and those who travel in out of the way regions of the globe keep constantly bringing back tales of the strange ways much of mankind still have with their guests.

With the Apling tribe of Africa just below the equator the essence of hospitality is to include among the presents of food handed over to the visitor a fat slave. "He is young and tender," the donor says, thinking that no one can fall to approve of this gift, so much better than the fowls, etc., that have been thrown in. "Kill him for your evening meal." On the other hand, the Navajo Indian considers the finest tribute he can pay is to have his wife shampoo the head of the passing traveler with amole, the root of a plant grown in Mexico and some parts of the southwest, that is a very good substitute for soap. The Papua of New Guinea in the Pacific have an even more novel way of showing great friendship for the stranger.
Water signifies peace and satisfaction with them, so when a boat approaches bearing people of whom they approve at first sight they sprinkle water on their heads and dance wildly and gayly in the shallow water around the boat.

The average traveler would much rather not become friends with a Terra del Fuegian, for the people of that nationality know of no better way of expressing liking and showing honor than by hugging the stranger. As these savages of the tip end of South America are very nearly the dirtiest on record, and as their bodies are covered with grease, clay and vermin, such hugging is most offensive. It is not to be avoided, though, if any native of high rank takes a strong liking to his visitor.

There is a Siberian tribe that makes a practice of eating a guest whom it much admires or whose virtues it greatly desires to emulate. In order, so the story goes, that his virtues might abide—"in their midst." The tourist, however, is, generally speaking, safe in this Russlandian country.
If he visits the Tehukhtel close to Berling's straits and gets into one of their big tents he will find a family almost completely nude. The women will not mind at all. If he passes muster they will honor him and make him feel at home by putting strings of glass beads in their hair that has been copiously covered with grease.
Then, of course, having been shown this courtesy, he must stay in the smoky, stifling atmosphere and sup on hot boiled reindeer.

The visitor to an Abyssinian village must first sit under a tree and let himself be observed. Then some important individual will step forward and give him the freedom of his home.
The Ashangos meet the traveler with dishes of red paint, and the man who does not paint himself at once is definitely "queered" in that village. The Zunis of New Mexico and Arizona offer their guests a "cocktail." It is made of mesquite beans pounded in an earthen jar, parched corn and flour, and is reported to be a very superior appetizer.

The black Batokas of the Zambesi roll on their back and deal themselves resounding slaps on their naked skins.
If the rolling is prolonged and the slaps and the attendant yelling very loud the guest is high in favor. Some New Zealanders squat on the ground and weep. The Nubians wait anxiously for the coming visitor and are eager to entertain. A jar of fresh water is always ready in each house of the tribe for the stranger and no one else.
The Kafirs assure each white visitor that he ranks as a chief and make good in the way they entertain him.

An extraordinary custom prevails among one South Sea nation. It allows, as a great favor, its superannuated men and women to invite as their guests for a final feast those who will make a meal of them when they are killed. This is a novelty in the way of banquets. The hospitable Gani of Africa have strangers met by the village chief. He heads a procession of his councilors and women. One of the women carries a white chicken, another a plant with flowers growing on it, yet others vessels of intoxicating liquids.

It was evening on the Hemlock

In the lovely month of June An ideal time for courting And all nature seemed in tune, Three brave knights came riding horse back

Over land of sand and stone But two turned their horses homeward

And the one was left alone.
 After resting a few minutes He still journeyed on his way
 'Til another mile was covered

On a road of mud and clay.
 Poor old horse became discouraged So they soon retraced this mile Then his master thought he'd hide him

And go in the house awhile.
 He may have thought the boys were sleeping

But this was a bad mistake For with such amusement in the town

Those boys were wide awake
 But the boys were full of mischief And had no thought of going to bed

So the horse was loosed at midnight From the back stall of the shed.
 Very quietly they led him Down the road a half a mile And the saddle tired of waiting Climbed upon the fence awhile.

The saddle fell from off the fence And shook its sides with laughter For he found the horse tied to a post But the saddle three days after.
