Is Flagrantly Ignored.
The notices posted by the township highway commissioner with the regard to the cutting of noxious weeds seem to received little or no attention either in the city or country surrounding, as one can see any amount of Canada thistles and other noxious weeds growing along the roadside or on private lands. The law is very plain on this subject, stating that the weeds shall be cut twice each year, and designating the dates before which they shall be cut. The neglect of this important business will cause greater trouble the longer it is let go, and some one should make it their business to see that the law is enforced.

TAWAS CITY, MICH., Aug. 2, 1912

Washington Letter.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 29.—The river and harbor appropriation bill which was signed by President Taft on Thursday carries in round numbers $35,259,000, the senate having added to the bill as it passed the house $8,054,000 and struck out $233,000, making a net increase of $7,821,000.

The general consensus of opinion is that much of the increased appropriation was well advised, especially that portion dealing with the Mississippi river for levee work, an imperative demand having been made upon congress by the thousands affected by the floods of last spring which not only destroyed millions of property but lives as well.

The signature of the president to the river and harbor bill makes more certain the policy of an annual waterway bill, which has been one of the cardinal principles of the National Rivers Congress since its organization ten or more years ago.

An absorbing question to those who seek out curious possibilities in politics and election results is what would happen in the event no candidate for president should receive a majority vote in the electoral college, and the election should, under the constitution, be imposed upon the house of representatives, in which the states in such cases vote severally as units. The two great political parties being a tie in the unit control of the states, an election, with the representatives adhering to party lines, would be impossible, unless by reason of death or resignation there should result such a change of the unit complexion as to permit an election. Of course, it is an extremely remote possibility, but the existence of the possibility exposes a defect in our grand scheme of republican government.

The uppermost question in the minds of senators and representatives just now is, "When can we get away?" That very fact indicates eagerness to find a way to get away. The house leaders claim they have about cleared up all essential work they intend to do this session, or that may not be concluded by the first week in August, and are waiting upon the senate. In that body haste has been made slowly despite the spurring of the leaders. Views on important pending measures have developed so much divergence that it is quite likely that most of the big bills other than the supply measures will go over to the next regular session. That in itself should promote an early adjournment in accord with the house program. So, it looks as though adjournment day should come somewhere between the 10th and 20th of August.

The remarkable changes that visited the domain of national politics within the past year is accountable for the unwonted anxiety of the congressmen to get back to their constituencies, with a view of learning how they stand with each other. It is to be a great election year, unprecedented in its possibilities since the party break-ups of 1860. More senators and more representatives than ever are to be elected, 32 of the former and 435 of the latter with an electoral college to be chosen. The indications are that there will be a greater change than ever in the personnel both of both senators and representatives. The number of tickets in the field backed by earnest supporters will bring out a larger vote than ever—probably considerably over 15,000,000. The largest vote in any presidential election was in 1908, when 14,418,798 ballots were cast, but that was perhaps a less percentage of the aggregate of qualified voters than at any previous election.

Flying Men Fall

victim to stomach, liver and kidney troubles just like other people. with like results in loss of appetite, back-ache, nervousness, headache, and tired listless, run-down feeling. But there is no reason in feeling like that as T. D. Peebles, Henry, Tenn. proved. "Six Bottles of Electric Bitters," he writes, "did more to give me new strength and good appetite than all other stomach remedies I used." So they help everybody. Its folly to suffer when this great remedy will help you from the first dose. Try it. Only 50 cents at J. M. Wiggazer & Co., Tawas City, Jas. E. Dillon, East Tawas.

POLITICAL ADVERTISEMENTS.

Frank Buell for Congressman

The congressional race is on. The usual prediction of the success of this or that man are in the air, and as the race grows warmer speculation arises as to the support each will receive in the respective counties of the tenth district.

Mayor Woodruff is seeking the support of the people largely on the strength of his Rooseveltian attitude, and in the face of the positive statement that he would not be a candidate unless Roosevelt was nominated by the republican party. This statement Mr. Woodruff personally made to the editor of the Advance on his first visit to Gaylord. He does not even stand well with the people of his own county. He is a too recent arrival into the political game and while he stands for progressiveness along certain lines, we believe that the platforms of both his opponents are more complete and consistent than his and are looked upon with much more favor by the people or this district.

George A. Loud has been seeking and receiving favors from the voters of this district for the past 10 years and he again asks for their support. In what way does Mr. Loud justify his solicitations at this time? Are the people of this district indebted to him in any particular sense? Does he deserve re-election? Mr. Loud has accomplished some good things during his term in office. This we cannot deny. But the men are few who serving the public a like length of time have not proven at least a like right to their offices as Mr. Loud. Congressman Loud's usefulness as a legislator is waning. The tenth district owes him no debt of gratitude, and he has served so long. Another man steps out and asks for the honor which he has enjoyed, and the privilege of representing the people at Washington.

The name of Frank Buell, the other republican candidate for congress, is quite familiar to the people of Oscego county. There are not a great many people in the county who are not personally acquainted with Mr. Buell, and there are not a few who have received courtesies at his hands when he has been in position to bestow them. His greeting to the poor man is as hearty and sincere as to the well-to-do. Mr. Buell is a product of Oscego county; the biggest part of his life he has lived among us. We have seen him struggle long and valiantly adversity and have watched him rise to a position of honor and power among his friends. We have admired his pluck, applauded his nerve, and sympathized with him in times of dis-

er. We know Frank Buell. We make no mistake when we give him our loyal and active support. Nor will any voter in Oscego county error to cast a ballot in his favor. But Mr. Buell will have more than the mere vote of the people of this county. He will have their open endorsement. They believe in Frank Buell and will not hesitate to tell the people of other counties that they believe in him. An open avowal of our faith in Mr. Buell may go far to impress the quality of the man upon other sections.—Oscego County Advance.

Seven new barns built this year in this immediate vicinity are now being filled with hay, and several others are being started. A number of these are built on cement foundations. Our farmers are making other improvements and as a whole are in a prosperous condition. Our village is keeping pace with the farming community, and our wide-awake merchants are making it one of the best trading points in this section. Those who predicted that Hale would die with the lumbering were certainly false prophets.

The Ludington Daily News says: Charles McIntyre, who for several weeks past has been working as head lineman on the Cartier survey of Hamlin Lake met with an accident this morning which came near proving fatal. The accident occurred three miles east of the Cartier cottage.

While carrying an axe over his shoulder his foot caught in some brush. He stumbled pulling the blade of the axe forward against the upper part of his neck and cutting a small gash sufficiently deep to partial sever an artery. He was brought to Ludington as soon as possible, but before reaching here he lost an amount of blood estimated at a gallon. It seemed incredible that a man could lose as much blood as he actually did and still live.

To bring him to Ludington it was necessary to row two miles on the lake and then drive here. Every effort to stop the flow of blood proved fruitless and all efforts meantime were made to get McIntyre help.
