A. Loud, republican, 8771; L. P. Coumans, democrat, 2308; Roy O. Woodruff, progressive, 342. These figures give Congressman Loud a majority of 403 over Frank Buell for the republican nomination.

The Michigan Equal Suffrage Association objects very seriously to the effort recently made to connect them with the progressive party. This association rightfully takes the position that they cannot afford to be a partisan association, as its supporters come from all parties and it has from its inception refused to support or oppose any party. The association's sole object is to secure the ballot to the women of Michigan, and it is receiving most enthusiastic support from many quarters.

Luncheon was served at midnight, after which the guests left for their several homes wishing him many happy returns of the day.

The implicit confidence that many people have in Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy is founded on their experience in the use of that remedy and their knowledge of the many remarkable cures of colic, diarrhoea and dysentery that it has effected. For sale by all dealers.

WHY GREEK REPUBLIC FELL

Work of Corruptions and Dissensions Rather Than of the Man of Macedonia.

The old world has already revealed to us, in its unsealed books, the beginning and end of all its own marvelous struggles in the cause of liberty. Greece, lovely Greece, "the land of scholars and the nurse of arms," where sister republics, in fair procession, chanted the praises of liberty and the gods—where and what is she? For two thousand years the oppressor has ground her to the earth. Her arts are no more. The last sad relics of her temples are but the barracks of a ruthless soldiery. The fragments of her columns and her palaces are in the dust, yet beautiful in ruins. She fell not when the mighty were upon her. Her sons were united at Thermopylae and Marathon, and the tide of her triumph rolled back upon the Hellespont. She was conquered by her own factions. She fell by the hands of her own people. The man of Macedonia did not the work of destruction. It was already done by her own corruptions, banishments and dissensions.—Judge Story on "Our Duties to the Republic."

JOKE ON ARTHUR BRISBANE

Wilton Lackaye, the Actor, Was Astonished to Learn of Editorial Conferences With Hearst.

Arthur Brisbane, who is Mr. Hearst's close confidante in the management of the New York Journal, was in company with Wilton Lackaye, the actor, on upper Broadway one afternoon. The time passed quickly and it was nearly six o'clock when the editor suddenly bestirred himself and said he would have to start downtown. Lackaye urged Brisbane to accompany him to the Lambs' club and be his guest at dinner.

"I would like to," said Brisbane, "but there is an editorial conference called at six o'clock every evening and it is imperative that I be there."

"What is the idea of this editorial conference?" asked the actor.

"A conference between various heads of departments," explained Brisbane. "We get together and shape the plans for the next day's paper."

"Do you mean to imply," said the actor, "tending amazement, 'that you and Hearst get out the Journal deliberately?'"

State Fair.

Detroit, Sept. 17.—The Northeastern Michigan Development Bureau is making a splendid showing at the State Fair. It has a comprehensive exhibit with agricultural and horticultural products from everyone of the seventeen counties embraced in the territory, and the wonderful diversity of our showing is an educator of great value.

The exhibit this year was planned to show that Northeastern Michigan is not a one crop country. Diversity of crops means no crop failures, which is a potent argument against the one product lands which are now greatly before the public eye.

The ignorance of outsiders concerning Northeastern Michigan is also beyond comprehension, and one can only realize it by hearing the questions which are propounded to those in charge of the exhibit. As an educational proposition eradicating false ideas, showing our splendid accomplishments and yet greater opportunities, the exhibit is doing great work.

Every manner of root and vegetable is on display, a great variety of clover, alfalfa, timothy and other grasses, oats, wheat, barley and similar grains, both in the seed and straw, together with apples of many varieties, which make a tempting display, as well as pears, plums and grapes, show what we can do in fruit raising. An attractive array of fruits in glass is no small feature. Surrounding the whole of the large space which the bureau occupies is a neat white picket fence, having for a top rail a display of seeds and grains contained in a shallow tray about 8 inches wide and covered with plate glass. This feature has attracted much favorable comment.

Some of the very best specimens of plums, apples, pears and grapes which the bureau has on display were received from M. E. Friedman, of Tawas City. The specimens were exceptionally fine and the methods by which they were packed left them in the very best condition for display.

WHITELEY.

An article that has real merit should in time become popular. That such is the case with Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has been attested by many dealers. Here is one of them. H. W. The Parcels Post.

The clerks in the postoffice department at Washington, under the direction of their superiors, are taking steps to put into execution the parcels post law on the first day of next January.

The introduction of the system in the United States will be on a comparatively small scale. The service will be limited. Articles that do not weigh more than eleven pounds and do not exceed 72 inches in combined girth and length will be accepted.

There is much to be done in preparation before the law becomes operative. The articles acceptable for transportation must be classified. The equipment for handling them must be provided for.

The rates for the transmission of articles by post are: Flat rate of 1 cent per ounce up to four ounces, regardless of distance.

The postmaster-general may make provision for indemnity in insurance and collection on delivery with additional charges for such service, and may, with the consent of the interstate commerce commission, after investigation, modify rates, weights and zone distances.

Constitutional Amendment

The following statement of the proposed amendments to the state constitution has been issued by Secretary of State Martindale:

Proposed amendments to Section I, Article III, and Section 21, Article VIII of the Constitution will be submitted to the electors at the election to be held on Tuesday, Nov. 5, 1912.

The effect of the proposed amendment to Section I, Article III, is to extend the right to vote to every woman, a citizen of the United States and of the state of Michigan, above the age of twenty-one years.

The proposed amendment to Section 21, Article VIII, of the Constitution, is as follows:

Section 21. Under such general laws, the electors of each city and village shall have power and authority to frame, adopt and amend its charter and to amend an existing charter of the city or village heretofore granted or passed by the legislature for the government of the city or village, and through its regularly constituted authority, to pass all laws and ordinances relating to its municipal concerns, subject to the Constitution and general laws of this state.

The effect of the proposed amendment to Section 21, Article VIII, is to give a city or village power to amend an existing charter through its regularly constituted authority, without making a general revision of the old charter or framing of a new charter.

A Country Editor's Mail List.

"You might think," said a country editor, "that only the great city newspapers would have a mailing list covering a wide territory, but the fact is that every long established country newspaper has a mailing list which, while it may not be as large as that of the city newspaper, may be as varied and as widespread."

"Sons of the old town go out into the world seeking fortune and they scatter the world over."

"Many of these men, wherever they may be, retain their interest in their old home. In the city to which they have gone all their substantial interests now lie; there they are absorbed in their work and there they may come to be men prominent in and identified with the community. There is, indeed, now their home, and there their children are born, these, to be sure, to be interested in their home town, the city; but the man of the family, busy city man as he may now have come to be, still finds an interest in the old town whence he came, in what its people, the people he knew, are doing, in everything that is going on there; and so it may be that he will sit down after dinner, light a cigar the like of which could not be bought in the old place, and tear the wrapper from the old familiar country weekly received in that day's mail."

"He will read not that stocks or bonds have done this or that, but that So-and-So has painted his barn, or that the Presbyterian church has a new minister, and that So-and-So has sold his lot on the west side of Main street just south of the postoffice, or that someone else has bought a new reaper. He reads this all with a real interest; it's about people and scenes he knows and that still appeal to him."

"And he is not the only busy man in the city who takes and continues to read a country paper. It might surprise you if you could know the number of country papers sent regularly to any great city, say, for instance, to New York. Country papers come into New York from all parts of the country, mailed regularly to subscribers who have gone out from the old town to settle in the big cities, but who still preserve their interest in their old homes."

"So it may be that the mail that goes weekly from the country newspaper office down the tree-arched village street to the postoffice in a country store may contain papers not for the country subscribers alone, but as well papers going to the four quarters of the globe. The country editor's mailing list is, perhaps, not as big as that of the city daily, but it may be as far flung."—New York Sun.

REV. ANNA SHAW.

The Rev. Anna H. Shaw, though born in England, was reared in Michigan and in the pioneer days. The country was wild and she breathed in the spirit of freedom and is today as crisp as the frosts of those northern forests in which she wandered in her childhood.

Miss Shaw has repeatedly spoken before congressional and legislative committees whenever women have a "case in court"—that is, a bill before a legislative body—she send for Miss Shaw to speak. She is a born orator; has a magnificent voice, which she never spares, but which endures without impairment most severe usage.

MICHIGAN WOMAN

Returns to Champion the Cause of Michigan Women.

All recognize the eminence of Rev. Anna Shaw among the prominent women of the world.

It is because of her devotion to her old home state that Miss Shaw agreed to return long enough to take an active part in the campaign favoring the constitutional amendment to give Michigan women the right of suffrage.

The cause of equal suffrage in Michigan is especially favored in having this noted woman for a champion, and in order that all who may be so fortunate as to hear or read what she has to say may also have a more intimate acquaintance with her an extract is given below from what she has written about her early life in Michigan:

"We went to northern Michigan when I was only twelve years old. The country was very wild and very unsettled. Neighbors so far apart that we seldom saw each other. There were very little good schooling opportunities, but I made the most of every chance that was given me and was considered by the authorities—save the mark—fit to teach school when I was fifteen, and so my career of a self-supporting woman began at that age and I have kept it up ever since. I taught five years in district schools, all the time making every possible preparation for college, but before starting for college I had become interested in the work of the ministry and was licensed as a local preacher. Then I began my college work, and after attending the college at Albion, Mich., for two years I went to Massachusetts and entered the Boston university, where I afterward took a degree in both medicine and theology."

"I have always considered my life in Michigan to be among those of the best preparation for my work. Those early hard times were admirable training times for endurance in life. "Of course at the time that we were living that life in the woods it seemed to be very dull and very stupid to us, and yet now I realize that it was laying the foundation of health and strength which has enabled me to carry on more than thirty-five years of hard work and still keep a young spirit and growing interest in all lines of progress. Then the freedom of that life made the freedom of thought possible. It made it possible for me to break away from established customs for women and to be among the very first women to start out in the study of the ministry. The first year that I preached I spoke under the supervision of our presiding elder, and at the spring conference of 1872 I was licensed as a local preacher at the annual conference of that district at Big Rapids, where my parents then lived. There was a great deal of opposition to my preaching, a great deal to my doing public work. It was not so easy in those days as it is now, and yet my parents were no more conservative than other people. They shared the general attitude of men and women against public life for women, but through the influence of the preceptress of our high school, where I prepared myself for college, I was encouraged to take the stand which I did in regard to the ministry. I entered heartily into the temperance crusade and worked with the temperance women, and so very early in life I began to have an active interest in public affairs which has grown with the growing years."

"This is not at all interesting, but the interesting part of a pioneer life is its daily conditions, which one needs to be a philosopher to understand, and while the experience is not one which I think I would advise anybody to undertake, and I should be sorry for anybody who did undertake it, yet I shall never regret it. I think it has helped me to live a very vigorous and active life and to do some kinds of hard work which I could not otherwise have done."

Honesty Increasing. On her return from marketing, the young matron of the upper West side said to a caller: "I believe the sense of honesty is increasing in New York, at least in this locality. This morning I called the attention of a salesman to a small mistake he had made in giving me change, the mistake being in my favor. The proprietor, who was standing near, said to me: 'You're honest. You'll get along all right.' Not so many years ago the thought that seemed far too prevalent in this country was that only some clever form of dishonesty could get along all right. The merchant who could trick a customer was supposed to be the smart fellow, and it was assumed an honest person was sure to get the little end of everything. I am delighted to find even one man who realizes that honesty is actually indispensable to success, and it is especially pleasing to find him in a place where I can deal with him regularly."—New York Press.

as heads of large enterprises are men of great energy. Success, today, demands health. To ail is to fail. It's utter folly for a man to endure a weak, run-down, half alive condition when Electric Bitters will put him right on his feet in short order. "Four bottles did me more real good than any other medicine I ever took," writes Chas. B. Allen, Sufferer, Ga. Many Driven From Home.

Every year, in many parts of the country, thousands are driven from their homes by coughs and lung diseases. Friends and business are left behind for other climates, but this is costly and not always sure. A better way—the way of multitudes—is to use Dr. King's New Discovery and cure yourself at home. Stay right there, with your friends, and take this safe medicine. Throat and lung troubles find quick relief, and health returns. Its help in coughs, colds, grip, croup, whooping-cough and sore lungs make it a positive blessing. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free. Guaranteed by J. M. Wuggazer & Co., Tawas City, and Jas. E. Dillon, of East Tawas.

If you knew of the real value of Chamberlain's Liniment for lame back, soreness of the muscles, sprains and rheumatic pains, you would never wish to be without it. For sale by all dealers.

Obituary.
Peter J. Schuster, formerly of Pike county, Ohio, departed this life at Emery Junction, state of Michigan, on the 21st day of August, A. D. 1912. The deceased was born in Pike county, Ohio, on the 5th day of December, 1857, and was united in marriage there on the 22d day of January, A. D. 1880, to Louisa Brust.

To this union were born seven children, four boys and three girls, George and Charles, of Toledo, Ohio; Herbert, of Pinconning, Mich.; Katie, Berlin Heights, Ohio, and Dorothy and Simon, who are at home with their mother. One daughter, Rosa, preceded her father to the silent grave that never outward turns.

The deceased was well and favorably known in Pike county, where he had many friends and relatives. His body was brought here to his old home and there tenderly laid to rest by kind friends at the U. B. church, near Given Station, under the divine ministrations of Rev. John Moore.

The deceased was a successful business man and held many trusts, one of which was postmaster at Emery Junction for the period of eight years, and, in the discharge of all his duties, was noted for his diligence, fidelity and sterling integrity.

In early life the deceased united with the church, and ever thereafter was a true and faithful follower of Christ, and died in the faith of Him who came upon earth to save men.

He was an affectionate and tender husband, a kind and solicitous father, and a generous neighbor, so that his memory is now appreciated and cherished by them as one that was gentle, benign and true.

Besides his widow and children, he leaves one brother and two sisters, and many friends and relatives to mourn their loss.

We weep not in sorrow
That our loved one's dead;
We'll meet him on the morrow—
"He lives," the Master said.

Crop Improvement
Mix brains with sweat and your acres will produce more.

A LARGER YIELD OF BETTER RYE

(By Prof. L. C. Burnett.)
[National Crop Improvement Service.]
It would seem advisable to first consider just what purpose we are endeavoring to raise rye. Rye is now being used largely for feeding as well as distilling purposes. For the farmer who feeds his crop, the yield per acre is of first importance. If on the other hand the crop is to be sold, attention to a few usually neglected items will make several dollars difference in the value of every acre.

What is desired of the rye crop? The interest of everybody concerned in the rye crop is in the production of a high yield of uniform grain. Let me repeat, "high yield and uniform grain;" more bushels of one type of kernel, one size of kernel, one color of grain.

How to Start a Rye Center.
Any man interested in obtaining the best results in rye should circulate the following agreement and get a hundred or more signers.

Whereas, The rye of the United States having become badly mixed, and the wide variation in the price of rye is largely due to this mixture,

We, the undersigned, of _____ County, _____ hereby agree to cooperate with the agricultural department of our state college, the Crop Improvement Committee and with each other, in growing and disseminating pure bred seed grains.

To attend a called meeting of all the signers hereto, and to agree one with the other to sow the number of acres set forth in the agreement for the season of 1912, of the kind, type and variety of rye best adapted to the soil and climate of this county.

To keep this grain pure and unmixed, and when harvested to demand a graduated price at the elevator, according to the quality of the grain when delivered.

That we will apply to the agricultural department of our state college, for information as to where the best available seed may be obtained.

That we will do everything in our power to induce every farmer to raise the same variety so that eventually all the rye shipped from this station will be uniform and free from mixture.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto signed my name and the names of the signers to this agreement.

For further information address Crop Improvement Committee, Chicago, Illinois.

COST OF POWER.

A Wide Difference in the Cost of Horses and Mechanical Power on the Farm.
By Raymond Olney, M. Ramsey Co., La Porte, Ind.

[National Crop Improvement Service.]
The first cost of a tractor as compared to that of horses necessary to supply an equal amount of power must always be considered in the growing of crops. An engine which will do the work of 15 good horses sells for $1,700. Fifteen horses at $150 each (which is a low price) would cost $2,250. In this case the advantage of the tractor is that it can be worked to the limit of its capacity, and not be materially injured in so doing, which is not possible with horses.

According to Government figures, in southeastern Minnesota, taken some time ago, the cost of feeding a horse for one year is $73.89, and for 15 horses it would be, in round numbers, $1,100.00. These horses average 948 work hours per year. A 15 H. P. tractor working for 1,000 hours will burn about 3,000 gallons of kerosene, which will cost about 6 cents per gallon. This gives a fuel bill of $180.00. Oil, grease and minor items would not exceed $100.00. This shows a large balance on the tractor side.

RYE IN THE POTATO ROTATION.

Rye Better Than Wheat in Potato Rotation—No More Care Than Wheat or Barley.

By F. H. Demaree, Agronomist, J. I. Case Plow Works.

[National Crop Improvement Service.]
There is a decided tendency among potato growers to substitute rye in the potato rotation in the place of wheat. The original Terry rotation was wheat, clover and potatoes. This rotation is theoretically and practically correct for potato growers and is widely used throughout the whole country. Since wheat is more uncertain than rye, however, many growers are using the last named crop as they cannot afford to lose one crop out of three, especially since that crop is the one that nurses up the young clover.

Many uses can be made of the rye crop. Statistics show that the yield of grain in the United States has been somewhat higher per acre than wheat and practically of the same farm value. It is no more trouble to care for than bearded wheat or barley. The crop can be pastured early and is especially good for brood sows. The grain may also be allowed to ripen and then be hogged down instead of cut and threshed. For the potato grower, however, perhaps the best method would be to cut and thresh the crop.

FIVE AS FOOD.

[National Crop Improvement Service.]
Stature in European and American peoples no doubt is the result of consumption of the two balanced grains, wheat and rye.

Rye is even superior to wheat in this respect, and the diet specialists of the world are urging its greater consumption as the grain of highest value for a human food.

Deeper Than Highest Mountain.

The depth of 9,780 meters to which the founding line of a German survey ship is said to have sunk in the Pacific ocean near the Philippine Islands is some 1,000 meters deeper than the previous deepest sounding. Of the total water surface of the globe, 145,000,000 square miles, about one-third stands more than three miles above the bottom of the sea, but until now no part of the great oceans has been discovered deep enough to submerge Mount Everest. But if there is no mistake about this depth of 9,780 meters (32,088 feet) the world's highest mountain could be sunk there until its highest peak was 3,000 feet below the water's level. The deepest soundings have all been made in the Pacific; 23,250 feet is the record of the Atlantic, in proximity to the West Indian Island of St. Thomas; while the North sea only averages 300 feet, or about one-tenth the maximum depth of the icy waters of the Arctic ocean.

REAL FOUNTAIN OF PUNCH

Provided by a British Officer in 1694 for the Entertainment of Six Thousand Guests.

Some of the papers have recently devoted attention to the origin of punch, that famous seventeenth century drink which has long lost its popularity in this country, though it still survives to some extent in Europe.

Owing to its intimate connection with rum one might easily have imagined that punch originated in the West Indies. In fact, however, it actually came from the East Indies and the name is said to be derived from the Sanskrit "panscha," five, on account of its five ingredients—arak (afterward rum), tea, sugar, lemon and hot water.

The most magnificent bowl of punch the world has ever seen was probably that provided by the Right Hon. Edward Russel, who, when commanding the British forces in the Mediterranean in 1694, entertained 6,000 guests at Alicante, where a large marble fountain was filled with the liquor, the ingredients being:

Four hogsheads of brandy, a pipe of Malaga wine, 2,500 lemons, 20 gallons of lime juice, 8 hogsheads of water, 5 pounds of grated nutmegs in weight, 300 toasted biscuits and 12 hundredweight of fine white sugar.
