If every voter in the district could hear the convincing argument of Mr. Coumans, our friend Loud would be very shy of votes next Tuesday.

TAWAS CITY, MICH., Nov. 1, 1912

Mr. Bryan Makes Votes for Wilson.

Mr. Bryan made an effective speech in Saginaw in support of the democratic national and local tickets. The afflictions of the divided republican party offer him an unexcelled field for his great gift of satire, and he makes the best of it. Mr. Bryan appeared at strong advantage. His address was a powerful criticism of both Taft and Roosevelt, more damaging to the former than the latter, we think. Perhaps Mr. Bryan's best point was his withering rebuke of the republican party for hatching the panic bug every four years. Strange as it may seem, this buncombe is still swallowed by many ignorant and thoughtless persons. There are still those so blinded by party fetish that they will take to heart the ridiculous and extravagant utterances of republican alarmists who cry "panic" whenever there is a possibility of their being turned out, and try to fool the people into the belief that the G.O.P. is the sole dispenser of all prosperity. It was perhaps to be expected that a man like Hilles would resort to this deception, but it is rather disappointing to see Mr. Taft himself descend to it. It ought not to be necessary to take notice of the panic bug, but unfortunately it is, and Mr. Bryan disposes of it to the very last pest.

The calamity howler has been working overtime as the desperation of Mr. Taft's candidacy became clear and election day drew near. Paid advertisements of a silly character attributing every blessing of the present to the Taft administration, and every evil of the past to democratic administration are littering up the pages of newspapers all over the country. Some have been printed in this newspaper. In many of them reference has been made to the panic of 1893 in the hope of frightening a few of the timid. As a matter of fact Mr. Cleveland's administration had nothing to do with the panic. It was in full process of development a year before it broke, and it fell upon the nation before Mr. Cleveland was inaugurated. It had its origin under republican administration and was unquestionably due principally to the Sherman act, passed in 1890, which instructed the secretary of the treasury to buy 4,500,000 ounces of silver bullion a month and to issue treasury notes in payment. The wisdom of the financial policy was soon demonstrated in an unsettling of values, accompanied by an era of low prices. Mr. Cleveland's first act, almost, was to summon congress in special session upon a public demand for repeal of the purchasing clause of the act, which was done.

The panic of 1893 was purely financial in its origin and growth, as have been practically all the panics this country has had. Such were the panics of 1837, 1857, 1873 and 1907. The two latter, as Mr. Bryan pointed out, occurred in the midst of long periods of republican administration and are not for obvious reasons referred to by the politicians who try to work the calamity tarce for Mr. Taft's benefit. The panic talk is made only the more nonsensical when it seizes upon a prospective revision of the tariff as its basis. As a matter of fact the United States has never in its history had a tariff panic, and probably never will. Sorely in need as the country is of genuine downward revision, it would be still more in need of it if to give the consumer just relief would mean an assault upon prosperity by the privileged interests and Wall street as an act of revenge.

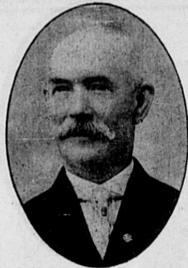

Mr. Bryan made a strong point in his analysis of Taft's administration and his personal characteristics, particularly when he pointed out the president's distrust of the people and his opposition to reforms which would give them larger control of the government. His eulogy of Wilson was dignified, sincere and impressive. He must have made many votes for the democratic nominee. — Saginaw News.

For Judge of Probate.

James LaBerge, of East Tawas, democratic candidate for Judge of Probate, has been a resident of Isosco county for 41 years. He has held many offices of trust during his long residence in East Tawas, including township treasurer, alderman, four years as collector of customs during Cleveland's administration, is a member of the board of supervisors, and is serving his fifth consecutive term as mayor of East Tawas. The duties of all these offices were discharged with great satisfaction. He is in every way qualified to fill the office of Judge of Probate, and if elected will give the office his personal attention. He therefore solicits your support at the November election.

Flagged Train With Shirt.

Tearing his shirt from his back an Ohio man flagged a train and saved it from a wreck, but H. T. Alston, Raleigh, N. C., once prevented a wreck with Electric Bitters. A trial will convince you of their matchless merit for any stomach, liver or kidney trouble. Price 50 cents at J. M. Wuggazer & Co.'s, Tawas City, and Jas. E. Dillon, of East Tawas.

"If you would know the wealth of the peninsula, look about you."

This is a translation of the words, "Si Quaeris Peninsulam Amoenam, Circumspice," engraved below the shield on the great seal of the State of Michigan. Did YOU know that?

Michigan has ever been a wealthy state. When it was still a territory the two peninsulas were rich in natural resources. Everywhere wealth could be seen. There were the great black forests, the magnificent waterways, and the vast areas of fertile lands awaiting but the plow of the husbandman.

Then, to know Michigan's wealth, it was only necessary to "look about you."

The treasures of that day have been TRANSFORMED into USEFUL WEALTH by the tilling of the soil of many rich farms, the operation of mines, the building of factories and railroads.

The Protective policy of the REPUBLICAN PARTY has made this transformation of wealth possible. The protection afforded the farmer and the industries has kept the proud boast on the great seal.

The aggregate wealth of the state today must be figured in billions. The assessed valuation, only a portion of the total actual wealth of the state, is nearly TWO BILLION DOLLARS.

Now, it has never YET been necessary to change Michigan's motto. But ONCE in 50 years did it seem PROBABLE the words would turn to empty jest. That was in the days of 1892-1896 under the tariff policy of the Democratic party.

During the brief period following the rise of the Democrats to power in national affairs, Prosperity was working on half time at about half pay. The value of farm property alone in Michigan dropped over FORTY-FIVE MILLION DOLLARS. No trifling sum.

But the people soon returned the Republican party to power. What effect did Protection have on farm values?

According to the U. S. census of 1910, the value of ALL Michigan farm property increased, under Protection, in ten years FOUR HUNDRED MILLION DOLLARS.

That's an increase of 57.7 per cent.

Due to other causes, you may say.

Strange, is it not, that farm property values in this state should DROP from approximately $648,000,000 in 1890 to $603,000,000 immediately after the passage of the Democratic tariff? Then, is it not peculiar that, with the REPEAL of the measure, values should begin a STEADY RISE, increasing $86,000,000 in six years and $400,000,000 in the following ten years?

Ganderbone's Forecast. NOVEMBER. "Who is the candidate ahead, And gaining rapidly?" they said. "The one who dashes down the track With the others howling at his back?" "Why, that," said Hilles, Hopeful still, "Why, that's our man, I reckon—Bill."

"The one in running tights," they cried, "With a smelling bottle at his side, His backers greeting him with cheers, And his knee-caps fanning at his ears?" "Why, that," said Mr. Bryan "Yes—Why, that's our Jerseyman, I guess."

"The fast man raising all the dust?" They said in evident distrust. "The fellow showing them his heels Like a farmhand going to his meals?" "Why, that," the Rooseveltians said, "Why, that's our lion hunter, Ted."

November is from the Latin Novem, nine. It was formerly the ninth month of the year, but Numa, who was running for a third term, refused to issue the regular Thanksgiving proclamation until he knew how he was coming out, and pushed it along to eleventh place. He was defeated, and did not proclaim any Thanksgiving at all, but the one and two-termers got together, and the day was celebrated over his head.

The field at Armageddon throbs with the heat of battle on it, and the red bandanna blithely bobs above the royal bonnet. The golf club rises on the air from each new-spattered noggin, and the Jerseyman is everywhere with his bloody pogamoggan.

Lay on, thou warriors athirst, With neither let nor comma, And fie upon the one who first Shall bellow for his mamma. The country will survive the row, However it's decided, And it can't much matter, anyhow, The way we are divided.

The hunter's horn will rouse the morn with mellow music of the chase, and waking day will look the worn and cold duckshooter in the face. The pneumococcus will devise a few wet inlets in his boot, and at the end he will arise and calmly massacre a coot.

Meanwhile, the farmer will pursue the bold quail hunter on his manse, and having deftly worked him through a few wire fences, get his pants. The chilled trespasser, with his knees in rapid contact in the blast, will hurry homeward while disease pursues him hotly to the last.

The frightened men, this last time out, Will cast their votes for President, And the women, loitering about, Will voice their growing discontent. They'll get the men in such a state Before the voting has commenced, They'll sometimes help the candidate That like as not they bet against.

What woman's right can haply be occasions many grave disputes, but once the women folks agree, they'll get them, you can bet your boots. As like as not another Fall or such a matter will suffice, and in the new arrangement all the men can ever be vice.

At any rate, we'll vote this time, and till that imminent event, the wondrous beauties of the clime will not occasion much comment. The sassafras will waste its frail and fragile beauty on the blind, and the sweet cadenzas of the quail will perish on the Autumn wind.

Old King Corn and all his men Will tent upon the fields again, And in a few contested states Will succor all the candidates. They'll make their military round Wherever hungry people sit, And see that credit shall redound To everybody claiming it.

The doughy little Balkan states will measure courage with the Turks, and keep the harvester of dates attending strictly to his works. They'll make him pile his blooming rugs as high as Ham for defense, and we'll be picking out the slugs a year or such a matter hence.

The only damage to accrue will be to fill the rugs with lumps, and buying them, as we will do, we'll wonder if they have the mumps. The baby every now and then will dig a bullet from the nap, and having paid the doctor ten, we'll all exorcise the scrap.

The calf will show a redder plush, and take a tail-hold in the stack. The end will meet the center rush, and spring the hinges in his back. The hired man will bawl for more and thicker blankets in the night, and the wind will pry around the door to see if everything is tight.

For the first twenty-two days November will be under the influence of Scorpio, the eighth sign of the zodiac. Any boy born in this period can be President without the usual formalities. Scorpio people are the rulers of the earth. They always have a good toe-hold at the kick-off, and if they once get the ball it is impossible to take it away from them. Luther, Von Moltke and Bwana Tumbo are typical Scorpio people, all of them having been born under this sign.

The last seven days of November will be under the influence of Sagittarius, the Archer. The best anyone born in this period can hope for is the vice-presidency. Still, these folks have tremendous foresight, and can usually see where they aren't going to jail, which is a great help to a big business man. Carnegie and Croker are typical Sagittarians, and were both born under the sign.

The President's regular Thanksgiving proclamation, advancing turkey about ten cents a pound, will be issued right after the election. And then December's winds will rout The last leaf clinging to the tree, And the cider will become about What apple cider ought to be.

Don't waste your money buying strengthening plasters. Chamberlain's Liniment is cheaper and better. Dampen a piece of flannel with it and bind it over the affected parts, and it will relieve the pain and soreness. For sale by all dealers.

YOUR SPOKESMAN, NOT YOUR MASTER. Here are the closing words of Woodrow Wilson's address which brought to their feet the great audience in Carnegie hall, New York, on the night of Oct. 19: It is not merely a matter of candidates. I should be abashed if I supposed that it was a matter of the wisdom or the discretion of individuals. I do not believe in government that depends upon the ability and discretion of a few individuals. [Applause.] If I am fit to be a president it is only because I understand you. [Applause.] And if I do not understand you I am not fit. If I am not expressing in this speech tonight the aspirations and the convictions of the men who sit before me I beg that they will not vote for me. I DO NOT WISH TO BE THEIR MASTER; I WISH TO BE THEIR SPOKESMAN. I rejoice to say that as I waited for your gracious applause to cease I realized that in that sentence I summed my whole philosophy and my whole desire. I thank you for your attention.

OIL IN TAWAS.

This Question Is to Be Settled During the Coming Year—Leases Being Secured.

Several days ago Secretary Carton, of the state public domain commission, came to East Tawas and met some fifteen business men of the two cities, to whom he told the plans of an oil company which has been organized to bore for oil in this locality. This company is organized with sufficient capital to carry out successfully the largest oil operations, and has been in the course of organization for over a year. It is headed by one of the most successful developers of oil wells in the United States. A man who has had years of experience in Texas, Colorado and other western oil fields.

Their work is already under way. Men are now canvassing the territory securing from land owners oil leases, and as soon as a sufficient number of leases are secured the work of sinking the first test well will be commenced, which will be this fall. One well will be sunk on the old sugar factory site, and the other at some point in this city or vicinity.

No local capital is being solicited. The only thing that is asked of local people is the leases, and these leases are such that they will be of vast benefit to the land owner in case oil is secured. The company is prepared to spend $200,000.00 in developing this field, which is sufficient guarantee that they believe oil exists here. It is not expected that it will be found under 3,000 feet, and the expense of each well is estimated at $15,000. Our land owners have everything to gain and nothing to lose by the proposition, and should be ready to sign the leases when presented, if found fair and equitable.

The territory which this company desires to develop is a strip along the shore extending from a couple of miles above East Tawas to the vicinity of Mc-Ivor. Leases have already been secured on several thousand acres of land, and the solicitors are now busy securing more.

The oil proposition is about a 100 to 1 shot, but if it proves a success it means that the land owners in this vicinity will at once become wealthy and this section will boom as it never has before. Our people should do what they can to help the project along.

In this connection the following Lansing dispatch will be of interest to all:

"Yes, oil has been found in Michigan, and for that reason citizens should not become too much enthused, and spend their good money on prospectors equipped with well-boring devices, who are sure to swarm into the state," said Assistant State Geologist R. A. Smith.

"I personally think that the prospects for oil in the state are good, but it is at this time when there are certain people who will swarm into the state and bleed the people of their money. You might term it a wildcat speculation. Boring for oil is a wildcat speculation. Sometimes you win, more often you lose."

The assistant state geologist displayed a stack of letters two feet high which have been pouring into the department for the last three weeks. They come from all sorts of people, and from all sections of Michigan. Farmers letters are in the majority, and it is no uncommon occurrence for a ruralite to write the department stating that he has seen oil on top of a spring on his farm, and wants the department to rush a man to his place and tell him how far he will have to bore to tap the hidden well.

At the present time there is oil excitement at White Cloud. Citizens of that locality have for years fostered secrets of the oil that has made its appearance at various times in that region. Now that oil has been discovered at Saginaw, they are more than ever awake and are anxious to be up and doing.

"Don't get into the oil or gas prospecting business unless you have plenty of money, and don't become discouraged after drilling one hole in the earth and finding no oil."

These are two favorite expressions used by the state geological department in answering letters from people who think they have discovered oil.

"There are several sections in the state where oil and gas appear on the surface in small quantities," said Mr. Smith.

The Car Shortage.

The following circular has been issued by the D. & M. Railway Co.:

The entire country is threatened with a serious car shortage which is already being felt in some localities, and which must of necessity prove alike disastrous to both the public and the railroads. We must have the co-operation of shippers and consignees and all employees who are concerned in handling equipment to prevent such a situation.

Shippers and consignees can assist by loading and unloading cars as soon as possible after they have been placed and by loading all cars as nearly to full capacity as possible. Cars are built for transportation, not for storage. If you don't have to have free time, don't take it. Some one needs the car.

Agents and yardmasters can assist by showing an active interest in cars loading or unloading at stations. It will help. Every day a car is delayed makes the prospects of a serious car shortage that much greater.

This company has increased its equipment several hundred cars of large capacity this fall to provide against a car shortage. Other railroads also have increased their equipment and many new cars are now in service. Still, regardless of this increase of equipment, a car shortage is imminent, unless we all unite to keep the cars moving.

Porto Rico's New Wonder.

From far away Porto Rico come reports of a wonderful new discovery that is believed will vastly benefit the people. Ramon T. Marchan, of Barceloneta, writes: "Dr. King's New Discovery is doing splendid work here. It cured me about five times of terrible coughs and colds, also my brother of a severe cold in his chest, and more than 20 others, who used it on my advice. We hope this great medicine will yet be sold in every drug store in Porto Rico." For throat and lung troubles it has no equal. A trial will convince you of its merit. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free. Guaranteed by J. M. Wuggazer & Co., Tawas City, and Jas. E. Dillon, of East Tawas.

Woodrow Wilson's Message to the American People

Sea Girt, N. J., Oct. 19, 1912.

To the Voters of America:

I am glad to have an opportunity to state very simply and directly why I am seeking to be elected President of the United States. I feel very deeply that this is not an ambition a man should entertain for his own sake. He must seek to serve a cause, and must know very clearly what cause it is he is seeking to serve.

The cause I am enlisted in lies very plain to my own view: The Government of the United States, as now bound by the policies which have become characteristic of Republican administration in recent years, is not free to serve the whole people impartially, and it ought to be set free. It has been tied up, whether deliberately or merely by unintentional development, with particular interests, which have used their power, both to control the government and to control the industrial development of the country. It must be freed from such entanglements and alliances. Until it is freed, it cannot serve the people as a whole. Until it is freed, it cannot undertake any programme of social and economic betterment, but must be checked and thwarted at every turn by its patrons and masters.

In practically every speech that I make, I put at the front of what I have to say the question of the tariff and the question of the trusts, but not because of any thought of party strategy, because I believe the solution of these questions to lie at the very heart of the bigger question, whether the government shall be free or not. The government is not free because it has granted special favors to particular classes by means of the tariff. The men to whom these special favors have been granted have formed great combinations by which to control enterprise and determine the prices of commodities. They could not have done this had it not been for the tariff. No party, therefore, which does not propose to take away these special favors and prevent monopoly absolutely in the markets of the country sees even so much as the most elementary part of the method by which the government is to be set free.

The control to which tariff legislation has led, both in the field of politics and in the field of business, is what has produced the most odious feature of our present political situation, namely, the absolute domination of powerful bosses. Bosses cannot exist without business alliances. With them politics is hardly distinguishable from business. Bosses maintain their control because they are allied with men who wish their assistance in order to get contracts, in order to obtain special legislative advantages, in order to prevent reforms which will interfere with monopoly or with their enjoyment of special exemptions. Merely as political leaders, not backed by money, not supported by securely entrenched special interests, bosses would be entirely manageable and comparatively powerless. By freeing the government, therefore, we at the same time break the power of the boss. He trades, he does not govern. He arranges, he does not lead. He sets the stage for what the people are to do; he does not act as their agent or servant, but as their director. For him the real business of politics is done under cover.

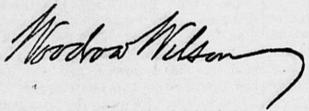

The same means that will set the government free from the influences which now constitute control it would set industry free. The enterprise and initiative of all Americans would be substituted for the enterprise and initiative of a small group of them. Economic democracy would take the place of monopoly and selfish management. American industry would have a new buoyancy of hope, a new energy, a new variety. With the restoration of freedom would come the restoration of opportunity.

Moreover, an administration would at last be set up in Washington, and a legislative regime, under which real programmes of social betterment could be undertaken as they cannot now. The government might be serviceable for many things. It might assist in a hundred ways to safeguard the lives and the health and promote the comfort and the happiness of the people; but it can do these things only if its actions be disinterested, only if they respond to public opinion, only if those who lead government see the country as a whole, feel a deep thrill of intimate sympathy with every class and every interest in it, know how to hold an even hand and listen to men of every sort and quality and origin, in taking counsel what is to be done. Interest must not fight against interest. There must be a common understanding and a free action all together.

The reason that I feel justified in appealing to the voters of this country to support the Democratic party at this critical juncture in its affairs is that the leaders of neither of the other parties propose to attack the problem of a free government at its heart. Neither proposes to make a fundamental change in the policy of the government with regard to tariff duties. It is with both of them in respect of the tariff merely a question of more or less, merely a question of lopping off a little here and amending a little there; while with the Democrats it is a question of principle. Their object is to cut every special favor out, and cut it out just as fast as it can be cut out without upsetting the business processes of the country. Neither does either of the other parties propose seriously to disturb the supremacy of the trusts. Their only remedy is to accept the trusts and regulate them, notwithstanding the fact that most of the trusts are so constructed as to insure high prices, because they are not based upon efficiency but upon monopoly. Their success lies in control. The competition of more efficient competitors, not loaded down by the debts created when the combinations were made, would embarrass and conquer them. The trusts want the protection of the government, and are likely to get it if either the Republican or the so-called "Progressive" party prevails.

Surely this is a cause. Surely the questions of the pending election, looked at from this point of view, rise into a cause. They are not merely the debates of a casual party contest. They are the issues of life and death to a nation which must be free in order to be strong. What will patriotic men do?

A large attendance was had at the harvest festival last Friday evening. The exhibits were many and of a very high quality. A number of our business men had booths in which their goods were displayed. The Whittemore Elevator had one of exceptional interest. It was advertising Universal Portland cement, and each visitor was given a guess on the number of sacks of cement turned out by that company during the month of August and the winner will be presented with a valuable prize. It looks as though this fair was to develop into larger things, as our farmers got together and are arranging to hold a larger one next fall.
