The Christmas entertainment given by the Baptist Sunday school Monday evening was of a most pleasing nature, the little people taking their parts in an excellent manner, and the singing by the choir being of a high order. Each pupil was presented with an Indian basket of nuts and candy, the baskets being furnished by Rev. and Mrs. John Tadgesong, of the Indian Settlement. The school was also presented with a handsome fancy basket woven by Mrs. T. Lands.

An important and interesting effect upon the scientific work of the Geological Survey has resulted from the work Anthony Lubawy came up from in land classification. The constantly increasing demand for both completeness and exactness of information regarding the mineral resources of the public lands under classification have developed methods and scope of view in this economic work that have exerted a marked influence on the geologic work in other areas.

Thus, the training and methods developed in the course of the classification of the coal lands have brought about higher standards of refinement in stratigraphy, as well as in economic work, in other regions of the country. Another very notable illustration of scientific results springing from the study of economic problems is found in the administration of the Weeks Act, providing for the purchase by the Federal The Herald extends to its patrons the Government of certain forested lands which may affect the flow of navigable perimental studies carried on in order actually to show, in accordance with the terms of the law, the degree of protection afforded by forests to soil and water as national forests have resulted in empirical determinations and demonstrations of high scientific value as well as of tangible economic importance. TO OUR PATRONS AND FRIENDS:

At the close of the year 1912 we take occasion to extend to our patrons our sincere appreciation for the most liberal and satisfactory trade given us. Our business has steadily increased during the year now closing, and we feel that our efforts to give the people of Iosco and adjoining counties the best possible goods at low prices is fully appreciated.

For the coming year of 1913 we shall lend our best efforts to keep the standard of our goods up and the prices down. Our long years of business experience has taught us what our patrons want, and these wants will be supplied if in our power to do so.

Thanking all for their liberal patronage, and extending to all our best wishes for prosperity and happiness for the coming year, we are,

Sincerely Yours,

Let the Panic Come.

President-elect Wilson has bearded the panic-lion in his den. In his speech in New York at the banquet of the Southern society he defied Wall street. He dared the interests to use their admitted power to precipitate a panic in retaliation for legislation which may curtail their privileges and reduce their bounties from the government. In this courageous stand he raises the issue whether the government or Big Business is supreme in this republic. He is the first president-elect, or president for that matter, to do it. Mr. Roosevelt assumed to do it, but whenever Wall street put the screws upon the United States treasury to squeeze out money for speculation and stock exchange gambling it got it, and when this gambling had gone to such riotous extremes that it brought the inevitable crash, the government meekly rushed to its rescue,

Of course the power of Wall street is largely due to the banking and currency New York City the surplus money of the entire country for use in manipulating fictitious markets which it creates As the New York World says, the stock exchauge is a wholly irresponsible institution, yet it exercises powers over finance that the nation has denied to responsible bankers. And this institution, allied with enormous banks in New York and other cities, penetrates, thru pools, incorporated trusts, interlocking directorates and other devices, the great ndustries and the transportation of the whole country. Mr. Wilson, therefore, frankly recognizes the power of Wall street and the interests to manufacture an artificial panic at will.

But he serves notice on them that if they attempt such a thing during the time he is president they will find themselves in collision with the government of the United States, instead of stampeding and carrying it along with them. This is putting it up strongly to the money power which has ruled the finances and prosperity of the country so long that it has grown insolent, but it is a challenge the people will applaud. Mr. Wilson promises that if a manufactured panic is sprung because of tariff or other legislation which cuts into special interest graft, he will drag those responsible before the nation and figuratively hang them on a "gibbet as high as Haman's." And he can do it. He can show the Morgans and the Rocke fellers that they are not the government of the United States, and that its sovereignty is above theirs.

It never has been decided, for the simple reason that the government backs down every time the interests afford it. But ever it feels disposed to press the issue. He will utilize the powers of government, which are supreme, to their full extent in forcing this money oligarchy to bow its knee and recognize its master. And that is the kind of a president the United States of America needs; one that is not afraid to put a bridle in Wall ing the destinies of 90,000,000 citizens. of these malacies no time should be who is not to be frightened they still thousands have found this to be Dr. rule. The Food Supply.

One of the most important, if not the nost important, questions of today is: Valuet shall be done to make the food supply of this country adequate to the Statisticians tell us that the day is nearly here when the United States will have to depend upon other countries for at least a portion of the food supply. We now use 98 per cent of the corn we grow and 91 per cent of the wheat. In ten years the population of the country increased fifteen millions. Ten years ago there were 90 head of cattle for every 100 persons. Today there are but 68. In 1900 there were 84 hogs for 100 persons. In 1910 there were only 61 The same conditions apply to sheep.

At the rate the country is growing, in fifty years the population will be doubled. Think what it means. If we must begin to import foodstuffs for our present population, what an enormous mount must be brought in to feed our children fifty years hence.

There are today approximately only o acres of farm land to every person in the country. Only half of this is in cultivation. The rest is waste, pasture, etc. This means that there are under cultivation but five acres per capita. Fifty years from now the indications are that there will be only two and one-half acres per capita under cultivation. If the five acres per capita does not produce more than enough to feed the system, which enables it to attract to population, what will two and one-half acres do when the population has

It isn't a very encouraging outlook for he future generations, is it?

Something must be done. Everybody of intelligence can see what the results will be fifty years hence unless we move rapidly. If our people are to be fed, we must double the output of our farms within the next fifty years.

Our National Congress has made arge appropriations for farm manage ment work in the various states. Michigan will have eight or ten men who will ing into use. The county commission-Agricultural College, engaged in work in various parts of the state.

our high schools, which has made such rapid progress in Michigan, has the same object in view.

Perhaps no movement, however, will do more to increase agricultural producion than the development of the Short Winter Courses at our Agricultural College. Four hundred young men were enrolled in these courses last year. Every young farmer and every farmer boy should arrange, if possible, to take one of these courses. They begin immediately after the holidays and continue for eight weeks; the entire expense is only about $50.00.

Farming must become a business; old methods must give way; the coming generation must discard to a large degree the methods followed by the preceding generation; they must bring to bear directly upon their work the great That is the whole issue in a nutshell, discoveries made along scientific lines

RYE CONFERENCE.

A Meeting of Farmers to Consider Ways and Means to Obtain More Bushels of a Better Quality-How to Grow the One Best Variety So That all Rye Shipped From Any One Station Will Be Free From Mixture of Weeds or Other Seeds.

By F. H. Demaree, Agronomist, J. I. Case Plow Works,

[National Crop Improvement Service.] The business side of farming attracts more attention every year. The discussion of farm problems has proven of so much benefit that the institutes and farmer clubs are holding meetings to compare notes as to best methods. A rye meeting covers the following subjects:

1. Methods of preparing ground. 2. What rotation and what should rye follow.

3. Building up soil. 4. Preparation of seed bed.

5. How to select one best type of

6. Where and how to get it. 7. How to induce neighbors to grow one variety. 8. When to apply manure.

9. Experiences with seeding. 10. Depth of plow and when.

11. Spring working. 12. The seed grader.

14. How much seed to acre. 15. Best time for seeding.

13. Treatment of seed for diseases.

16. Effect of frost after seeding. 17. Cutting for hay.

18. Rye as feed.

19. When to harvest. 20. Threshing.

ROAD BUILDING.

The Auto Truck the Most Efficient Power Machine For this Purpose -A Mile and a Half a Day of Good Road.

By E. R. Bowen, of Avery Company, Peoria, Illinois.

[National Crop Improvement Association.] The auto truck used as motive power to pull graders and drags or other road making devices is fast comers and road overseers in many counties in Illinois and other states have already purchased from agricultural implement dealers the auto truck The introduction of agriculture into for this purpose and in all cases have found it to be of great service in road building. It is found that no difficulty is encountered in descending or ascending grades and maintaining a uniform pull and at the same time making a finished job.

The auto truck will run at from 1 to 15 miles an hour, will carry three tons of material and facilitate the work of building concrete culverts and other road drains.

Mile and Half a Day. For the work the rear wheels are equipped with side rims which have great steel lugs. These teeth bite into the soil and give the tractor its purchase. Marks left by the lugs, however, are slight and do not disfigure the surface of the roadway. There is nothing fragile or breakable about the truck. It is built along the lines of power, as can be seen from its appearance. Tire trouble is entirely prevented, the rims being of steel in which wooden plugs are imbedded. The roughest surface of the worst country roads can have no effect on

By practical demonstration it is proven that a machine can finish a mile and a half of road a day under ordinary conditions.

RYE IN WISCONSIN.

Rye a General Crop and Can Be Grown on a Wide Variety of Soils.

[National Crop Improvement Service.] "We have two pedigreed varieties of rye which I think are the best strains in the United States today. One party after testing the pedigree sin could produce of this strain at an advanced price. We will have a large quantity of it grown this year so we will be in position to supply this pedititles about August 1st," said R. A. Moore, agronomist, Wisconsin Experiment Station. "The rye should be sown the last week in August or first week in September in order to do its very best. Rye does well on soils that are too light to grow wheat, oats Rye Fine Cover Crop. "Rye is a general crop and can be grown on a wide variation of soils. It can be grown to advantage on low mucky soils, clay, sand or prairie soils. It makes an exceedingly fine cover Frequently he changes from one post crop and affords good pasture for stock in the late fall and during the winter and early spring. It can be pastured heavily without much detriment to the crop. As soon as the stock is taken off the rye comes on exceedingly well.

Pickands Is a Sorry Sight.

Detroit, Dec. 24.-The steamer Pickands, weather-beaten, frozen over with cil of the city of Tawas City, held in the ice and now partially burned, has lost council rooms Friday evening, Dec. 6th, in her hard fight to complete a late trip 1912. from above the Soo to Buff lo. For nearly thirty days the steamer h s been battling with the ice, wind and waves to make the late trip and now lies ; artly sunk at Fairport, Ohio, and presents a sorry sight.

The boat left here last week in tow of the tug Hackett. She put into i airport presented the following report: Saturday evening for shelter, and whenall the crew was in bed with the excep. The Hon. The waterlogged barges Donaldson and C. G. King, the Pickands' tow, are also having their troubles on their trip across Lake Erie, in tow of the tugs Reid and Manistique. They were expected at Cleveland Sunday, but put in for shelter at the islands.

The Reid and Donaldson stranded on Starve Island yesterday, and the Manisique and King put in at Huron. The Manistique then went to their assistance and succeeded in releasing them but lost her own rudder. The boats were all at Huron last night, and Capt. Reid said that another start would be made for Cleveland today.

The Pickands' license was suspended here, and she was obliged to proceed as a tow barge.

rice of Government Maps Increases.

After January 1 the standard topographic maps of the United States Geological survey will be sold at 10 cents a purchaser to the reduced rate. These Mrs. Lange being indigent. maps have heretofore been sold by the Director of the Geological Survey, under JOHN B. KING, N. C. HARTINGH, authority of Congress, at 5 cents retail and 3 cents wholesale, but for some time it has been recognized that this price has been too low. The constantly increasing refinement in the field work of the topographic surveys, the immense amount of detailed information which is put upon the maps, requiring the most expert and tedious drafting and copperplate engraving, the great care necessary in insuring the exact register for the three or four color lithographic printings, and the largely increased cost of labor and paper have made the increase in charge not only justifiable but necessary. As a matter of fact, 10 or 6 cents for one of the standard 15-minute topographic sheets of the Geological Survey, which is in effect an almost exact reproduction of about 230 square miles of territory, is a merely nominal price. No comparable maps are issued by any private map-printing house, but if they were they would be sold at $1 to $3 apiece. The field surveying alone of some areas covered by a single map costs more than $5,000, and even $7,000 in very difficult country, while there are few maps which represent an expenditure for held work of less than $3,000. All the maps are printed in three colors and some in four colors. The water features, including seas, lakes, ponds, streams, canals, swamps, etc., are shown in blue. The relief-mountains, hills, vales, cliffs and slopes—is shown by means of brown contour lines, which graphically portray the shapes of the plains, hills and mountains, and also show the elevation of every part of the area. The works of man are shown in black, in which color all lettering also is printed. Boundaries, such as state, county, city, land grant, and reservation lines, are shown by broken lines of different kinds. Principal and inferior roads are shown by other kinds of lines. Houses are indicated by small black squares which in the densely built portions of cities and towns merge into blocks. Other cultural features are represented by conventional signs which are easily understood. Many of the maps show also forested areas, which

The Director of the Survey at Washington will be glad to furnish an index map, covering any area desired, which shows the particular quadrangles, as they are called, which have been surveved and the corresponding maps issued for sale. ORIGIN OF FAMOUS PHRASE

Bellef that Common Political Term Sprang From a Horse Hace Held In Tennessee.

The political term "dark horse" is thought to have had its origin in the following circumstances:

In the last century there lived in Tennessee a "character" named Flynn, speedy nag or two for racing purposes held at Ellake on Sunday last, Rev. if he could arrange for "a good thing" J. B. Brown, of Grant, officiating. during his peregrinations throughout

> The best of Flynn's flyers was a coal black stallion named Dusky Pete, almost a thoroughbred and able to go in the best of company.

One day Flynn visited a town where a race meeting was in progress. He entered Pete. The people, knowing nothing of the horse's antecedents and not being over impressed by his appearance, backed the local favorite heavily against the stranger.

Just as the beasts were being saddled for the race, a certain Judge Mc-Minamee, who was the "oracle" of that part of the state, arrived on the course and was made one of the race

As he took his place on the stand he was told of the folly of the owner of the strange entry. Running his eye over the track the judge instantly recognized Pete. "Gentlemen," said Mc-Minamee, "there's a dark horse in this race, as you'll soon find out."

He was right. Pete, "the dark horse," lay back until the three-quarter pole was reached, when he went to the front with a rush and won the race.

DISSOLVE BONE IN THROAT

Use of Lemon Juice at Critical Time is a Thing Worth Keeping In Mind.

Sitting at a planked shad dinner in Yonkers, a laughing guest drew a bone into his throat and he began to strangle. Some one suggested that the sufferer swallow a fragment of dry

HOW TO GROW RYE.

Mrs. Elmer Barrett is the guest Climate Soil, Seed, Tillage and Car of Rye-Rye a Money Crop.

By C. P. Bull.

[National Crop Improvement Service.] Some important factors in the grow ing of rye set forth in brief by C. P. Bull, Agricultural Experimental Station, University of Minnesota:

Kinds of soil best adapted to growng rye: Any soil not depleted of its fertility, though it will do better on impoverished land than any of our cereals; sandy loam and loam or clay loams are best.

Climate best suited to growing rye: Any spring wheat region will be found suited to rve. It will also grow well in winter wheat districts, but in the latitude of the 45 degree parallel will probably grow best rye.

Methods of preparing the ground: Plowing (sub-surface packing if dry), rolling and disking if lumpy; harrow. Depth to plow for rye: Depends on the soil; 5 to 7 inches for sandy to Preparing the seed bed: Depends on conditions of soil. Make it fine and Best fertilizers for rye: Barnyard manure used with a good 4, 5, 6 or year rotation of crops. Disking for rye: Good crops of fall rye have been grown on cereal stubble (crop harvested) when the land was disked and seed sown; not to be recommended but can be done. Selecting seed rye: Same as for wheat—with fanning mill and graders. Varieties best adapted to soil and climate of various states: Native winter varieties for Minnesota and northern climates: Minnesota No. 2 for Min-

Best time for seeding: Sept. 1 Oct. 5th; best about Sept. 15th. and the northwest get a seed stock of Minnesota No. 2 from Experiment Station, University of Minnesota.

Farmers should grow one variety. But practically speaking, there is but one variety commonly grown. Effect of freezing in winter and spring: Winter rye is perfectly hardy.

Best treatment for rye diseases: Smut does not bother rye. Ergot is bad. Use pure seed stock. Grade seed and rotate crops and use grading mill most vigorously and long. Insect enemies of rye-how to comany appreciable extent. How to take care of crop after harvest: Shock; thresh at once as soon as dry, or stack. It will not pay to stack if it can be threshed from shock. Rye as food for animals: A little heavy-laxative.

bat: Does not seem to be bothered to Rye as human food: O. K. More of it should be used. People have a false idea of what is best for health and fashion.

Rye as cover crop: A good cover

Value of rye as green manure: One of the best—the best not counting the Profits in rye growing compared to other grains: A top notcher. Just as good as any when properly grown. Rye as a forage crop: Excellentoffers great opportunities as a green pasture both fall and spring, and will afterward produce a profitable seed

[National Crop Improvement Service.] Many farmers have much to learn about growing rye. This is shown by the large number of poor rye crops reported on every hand, and yet good crops of rye can be grown without much trouble and expense. The essential thing is to use the right kind

RYE IN ROTATION.

Rye Takes the Place of Winter Wheat In Rotation.

By L. C. Burnett, Agronomist.

[National Crop Improvement Service.] The place of rye in rotation is an mportant factor. In some parts of Rheum vanish before it. It cures sore the East, rye takes the place of winter wheat in rotation. Every careful farmer soon comes to know that a burns, cuts and bruises. Unequaled certain tilth or condition of soil may be expected from certain crops. The rotation must adapt itself to the gazer & Co.'s., Tawas City, and Jas. farmer's business-to the support of live stock, if he is a dairyman or stock farmer, to the demands of the grain trade, if he is a grain farmer, etc. It must adapt itself to the soil and fertility problem. The chief purpose of a rotation is to recuperate They are excellent. For sale by all worn and depleted lands. In such case, the frequent recurrence of luguminous crops is preeminently desirable. Rye serves excellently as a rotation crop.

RYE IN COLD CLIMATES.

Rye Hardler Than Wheat-Will Grow in Cold Weather When Wheat Lies Dormant in the Ground.

By H. E. Krueger.

[National Crop Improvement Service.] Rye is the typical grain of the cold temperature climate. For its germination the minimum heat requirement ls 33 to 36 degrees Fahrenheit; the maximum 86 F., and the best temperature 77 degrees F. When the soil temperature is 39 to 41 degrees Fahrenheit, rye germinates in four days. It withstands cold down to 13 degrees F., and it grows in winter when the temperature is a few degrees above freezing point (32 de-

Rye is much more hardy than wheat. When wheat lies dormant from cold, rye grows readily.

RYE AS FORAGE CROP.

[National Crop Improvement Service.] The great tendency of late years has been to grow more forage of the plants of the grass family and their use for this purpose is likely to increase as grain feeds become more expensive. Forage cropping affords opportunity for a more complete system of crop all stock or dairy farming, rotation should be arranged so as to include grasses and smaller cereals and grow grain for silage or for grain. A valuable rotation on dairy tarms will be found to be a six years plan consisting of: First, rye sown after grass with clover as a cover crop. Second, corn with a corn crop of rye or clover. Third. oats. Fourth, clover and mixed grasses to be continued for three years. VARIETIES OF RYE.

Prof. V. C. Plummer. [National Crop Improvement Service.] Rye cross-pollinates so readily that but very few varieties have become well established. Named varieties frequently appear, but they do not remain as fixed market varieties for any length of time. But little effort has been made by seedsmen to introduce or promote good varieties of rye; and experiment stations have been slow to develop new varieties from the stocks at hand. The Minnesota Experiment Station has had numerous varieties under trial since 1900, and has given considerable attention to breeding and selecting superior strains. One nursery bred variety has been introduced widely in the state, and has met with considerable favor.

SEED PLATS.

[National Crop Improvement Service.] There is a great difference in the grain grown in the same field and under the same conditions, and the farmer should learn the importance of selecting sound, he althy plants from all over the field in all cases. Even where they have not a mixture of other varieties, there will always be a great variation arnong the plants. The best procedure, however, is to make constant use of a regular seed Since an average crop of rye (say plat which is simply a small space of

KILL THE WEEDS.

By Manson Campbell, Manson Campbell Co.

[National Crop Improvement Service.] The best way to kill weed, is to first, before planting fan or grade your seed so there will be no danger of planting weed seeds. All small grain contain more or less weed seeds and Every farmer can do this work on his own farm with his own grader. If he has no grader, get one. It does not pay to plant weeds. Weeds that are already in the soil and come up may be eradicated by sprinkling with a solution of iron sulphate, which will not injure the rye.
