The first half the score was 7 to 7, and thirty seconds before the end of the second half the score stood 14 to 12 in favor of T. C. H. "Something Besides Celluloid in His Backbone."

Hon. Woodbridge N. Ferris has been governor for one month, and nobody has accused him of murder, theft, or feeble-mindedness. Other governors of Michigan have been variously, and usually vicariously, accused of killing politicians by causing them great mental anguish, of benefiting by the manipulation of state funds, and of being somebody's tool. However aggrieved the republicans may feel themselves by the defeat of the last campaign, however disappointed the optimistic bull moosers may be over the small number of legislators they elected, however hungry the jobless members of the governor's own party now are, Mr. Ferris is coming to be accepted in all quarters as a competent administrator.

Grumbling can still be heard in the ranks of the original Wilson democrats because Governor Ferris, himself a Wilson man, has recognized so many other kinds of democrats in the distribution of the loaves and fishes. It has eventuated that some of these original Wilson men, though advertised from the beginning as disinterested patriots inspired exclusively by altruistic motives, have shown themselves as earnest a lot of piehunters as ever sought standing room in this ancient and honorable seat of government. But with the passing of the last order on the state cashier this mild rebellion will still itself. At no time has it gone far enough to make an open revolt in the democratic ranks a serious possibility.

Republicans who have long been confident of the inability of democrats to do anything in the right way begin to take on an awkward and significant silence when you ask them what is the matter with Ferris, while the bull moose find him radical enough to fit most of their numerous specifications.

Governor Ferris has arrived at this strange and unexpected point of vantage by simple and direct methods. There is no great secret about his kind of statesmanship. He starts out with the broad and well-defined theory that the people ought to be able to do anything they like with their government, and to do it as often as they like, and as easily as they like. In that way they will have to pay for their own mistakes and educate themselves by experience. If they choose to be foolish, in the opinion of wise men, or wise, in the opinion of foolish men, it is all their own affair, and they should not be handicapped in following their own sweet will.

This is not to say that Governor Ferris is indifferent to constitutional or orderly government. In the administration of his own college he is a martinet of discipline. Whatever the rules are they must be observed. So, too, with his administration of government. Whatever the laws are they must be observed; but the people, in his opinion, ought to have the opportunity of speedily changing the laws. For this reason he believes in the initiative and referendum, in the direct nomination and election of important officials, and in a legislative record that will contain useful information.

Starting with this broad faith in the right of the people to do what they will with their own, he conceives it to be his bounden duty to administer the government for all the people rather than for any section, class, party or faction, his own party and his own faction included. To make the public service as responsive and efficient as possible, under his various limitations, is his clear purpose. Once inaugurated, he made a personal call on each of the other elected state officers, all of them republicans, offered them his co-operation in doing what ought to be done for Michigan, and asked theirs. He has told the democrats of the senate and house that he does not want them to support or oppose a measure simply because it originates in the ranks of some one party. He is for a state civil service bill that will wipe the slate clean and fill the state departments with clerks chosen for competence only. He is for the short ballot because it admits of a more cohesive and responsible government.

But Governor Ferris could not have attained his present standing by these means alone. He is something more than an idealist of broad faith and sincere purpose. He is a perspicacious Yankee. He is a long, thin Yankee, too, with a balance wheel and a sense of humor and a pair of sharp brown eyes that have peered thro all the open spaces in the heads of approximately 4,783,692 students at the Ferris Institute. Hence he can see a very small hole in any proposition, and can tell what ought to be in it. He has had human nature under the X-Ray all his life. He knows how it is likely to behave under such-and-such circumstances. Schoolmen call this psychology. The politician calls it politics. Call it what you will, Ferris has it. This makes him a tactician. He understands, for instance, that the people of Michigan are very much disgusted with the condition of the Poor Marquette. He wants the affairs of that railroad aired. So he drops a bomb into the situation by suggesting that Michigan might buy and operate the system on state account. Within a few days the two major parties in the legislature are fighting to see who will investigate the Poor Marquette first.

Governor Ferris has something besides celluloid in his backbone and mayonnaise dressing under his hat. He has come thro the trying weeks of organization and pap-peddling with a skill and diplomacy altogether surprising in one who has never been interested in or trained in the petty, yet menacing, problems of executive political business. If he can maintain the gait he has struck for some eighteen months more, Hon. Patrick Henry Kelly will need to discover some wonderful issues to defeat him in 1914. Mr. Kelley is not sure he wants to try, but he has discussed it with his friends. It is, of course, inevitable that Patrick should run for something, and if the legislature screws up its courage to reapportion the state, Patrick will not be able to run again for congressman-at-large.—Nimmo in Detroit Saturday Night.

IN THE OLD-FASHIONED WAY

Domestic Woman Gives Young Housekeeper Valuable Points on Making Soda Biscuit.

The old-fashioned domestic woman was telling the young housekeeper how to make soda biscuit, according to the New York Evening Sun. "You take," said she, "some milk or sour cream."

"How much?"

"As much as you can spare," said the old-fashioned domestic woman.

"Then you sift your flour with your baking powder—if you use it."

"How much flour?" asked the young housekeeper.

"That depends, of course, on the amount of milk and the number of people you are baking for," said the old-fashioned domestic woman.

"Then you make a dough that is stiff enough—"

"How stiff is that?"

"Well, that you have to learn by experience."

"Rub in the butter just before you add the milk, and while you mustn't scrimp the butter you must be careful not to use too much. Then you either drop the dough with a spoon or cut it with a biscuit cutter. The oven must be just hot enough, and not too hot; and be sure to take the biscuits out the moment they are done."

"How can I tell when they're done?" asked the young housekeeper.

"Why, they'll look just right when they're ready," said the old-fashioned domestic woman.

WAS QUITE WILLING TO GROW

Applicant for Diplomatic Position Thought He Would Be Big Enough If Given Job.

During McKinley's administration Senator Carter of Montana told this story at a Washington gathering:

A Chicago man appeared at the White House one day with a petition containing 7,000 names recommending him for appointment as Brazilian minister. He was a picture framer, and when he was canvassing for orders he took along his petition and asked everybody in the picture frame business to sign it. Almost everybody did.

The man was insistent and finally reached the president. Always gentle and considerate, President McKinley explained to the candidate that he would have to consult the Illinois senator and representatives about the matter before making the appointment.

"You know," said the president, "we have to select big men for these big places."

"Well," asked the picture framer, "won't I be just as big as any of them if I get the job?"—Saturday Evening Post.

SHAVING AMONG THE CHINESE

Barber Carries His Equipment About the Streets on a Pole Looking for Customers.

Chinese people have very light beards, and their practice for untold years has been to patronize the native barbers, who carry their equipment suspended at the two ends of a coolie pole across the shoulder and stroll about the native streets seeking customers. Comparatively few Chinese have adopted the plan of shaving themselves, and these consist entirely of those who have imbibed western ideas. With the abandonment of the queue becoming general, the habit of self-shaving, it is expected, will be promoted, for when a Chinese employs a native barber the latter shaves the front part of the head as well as the face, brushes the hair, and replaits the queue. The shaving of the head and the care of the queue are things which a man cannot well undertake for himself, and with its abandonment the main objection to self-shaving will have been obviated.

FASTS THAT ARE OF RECORD.

Many long fasts undertaken voluntarily have been reported, but it is possible that longer ones, involuntarily or enforced, may have occurred without being reported, as of shipwrecked mariners or entombed miners. There are well authenticated cases of persons living thirty to forty days without solid food, but taking water. Some thirty-odd years ago Dr. Tanner of Minnesota went full forty days without food, but frequently taking a swallow of water. This experiment was made under the supervision of medical guards, and Dr. Tanner, though greatly emaciated, suffered no ill consequences. In 1854 a Frenchman who was buried at the bottom of a well was rescued on the thirtieth day still alive, but did not live long. Probably Dr. Tanner's case is the longest on record.

HOUSEHOLD IMPROVEMENTS.

Yeast—I see they are cooking by electricity now.

Crimsonbeak—Yes, I noticed that. "And now an electrically driven machine that weighs less than fifty pounds has been invented to scrub floors."

"Why, if it keeps on a man may have all the comforts of home without getting married!"

ENDLESS CHAIN.

"Wombat had five daughters. The week after the last one married off the first one got a divorce and came back to him."

"Well, did he start again?"

"Yes; he's on his third time around now."

JUST ABOUT THAT.

"What do they mean by platonic love?" asked the first half of the parlor sketch.

"It means," replied the other half, "that the young man is not making enough to support a wife."

A HUMAN DYNAMO.

"If you work like this, you'll never live to be old."

"I don't care to live to be old. It takes up too much valuable time."

THE SCRAP BOOK

Man Power and Coal Power.

Does any one realize the power of coal as a worker? A man was set to work to pump as hard as he could all day, and at the end of ten hours it was found that he had done just as much work as a little less than two ounces of coal could do, says Answers.

Taking all the energy put forth by a hard-working man during one whole year, the same amount of force would be furnished by thirty-six pounds of good coal, or say forty pounds of average coal.

We produce six tons a head of population, and this contains the energy of 336 men working for a whole year.

Of course even in our best engines the greater part of the working energy of coal is wasted. But even if only one-tenth is turned to account, one and a half hundredweight of coal is equal to a man working for 300 days of the year.

A horse can do as much work as ten men, but one and a quarter pounds of coal has as much working force as a horse expends in one day. So that a ton of coal, if we could use all its force, would do as much work as six horses working for a whole year.

The Supreme Court.

For the supreme court of the United States there is no exact precedent, either in the ancient or the modern times. In making the great Constitution, the "Fathers" availed themselves of all past knowledge and experience, but it was probably from the French publicist Montesquieu that they got their idea of the Supreme Court. In his book, "The Spirit of the Laws," Montesquieu, after making a masterly analysis of all forms of government, used these words: "There is no liberty if the judicial power be not separated from the legislative and the executive." The framers of the Constitution knew Montesquieu's book well, and there is not any room for doubt about getting the idea of the Supreme Court from that source.

Perilous Ride.

Two sailors going from London to Glasgow had a perilous ride one recent night on buffers on the Scotch express. They concealed themselves at Euston, and got on the buffers of a passenger carriage. The train left Euston at midnight, and its time to travel at a mile a minute, Crewe, a distance of 150 miles, being the first stop. When the express pulled up the men seemed terribly frightened, and more dead than alive. They said that the journey was piteously cold. As they passed through three long tunnels the hot cinders emitted from the engine fire scorched them, while they were nearly suffocated by smoke. They presented a woeful appearance when taken into custody at Crewe charged with traveling without tickets.

The Rain.

About three-quarters of the rain which refreshes the continents of the earth is due to the condensation of the vapors rising from the soil and not to those coming from the oceans.

Elaborate estimates, based on all available data as presented in Germany, show that the annual rainfall for the entire globe is equivalent to a layer of water enveloping the earth to a depth of about three feet. The quantity of rain water and melted snow falling in a year is put at 11,000 cubic miles. More than two-thirds of this fall upon the sea. South America is, it is said, the only one of the continents on which the annual rainfall on land exceeds that on the surface of the sea.

Helen's Age.

Marriage was certainly not always contracted at an early age in ancient or classical days. We cannot recall an instance of a Biblical woman being married young. The glory of the classical age around which so many famous romances gather, Helen of Troy, the beautiful wonder of her time, was forty-seven when she married Menelaus, fifty when she eloped, and over sixty when she re-captured Melanels by her beauty and induced him to take her back. This was in a land where women now grow old soon. Yet none of the ancient Greek writers seem to have thought the story remarkable on account of her age.

Rhodes.

Rhodes, recently brought to the public notice by the Italian attack, is said to have been peopled from Crete as early as B. C. 916. Rhodes, its chief city, was built about B. C. 420, and had its most flourishing time from 350 to 200 B. C., after which it began to decline. It was at Rhodes that the famous Colossus stood, for a long time one of the "Seven Wonders" of the world. The island and city are replete with history, especially in connection with the celebrated orders of knights, chief among which were the Hospitallers and the Knights of St. John. It fell into the hands of the Turks about 1522.

Dr. A. B. Spinney, of Detroit, a specialist of 53 years' experience in treating chronic diseases, will give free consultation.

SICK PEOPLE SHOULD INVESTIGATE

I Know the Diseases of Both Sexes Like an Open Book. I have Been Curing Them for 49 Years. In fact, My Entire Life Has Been Devoted to Curing Where Others Have Failed.

I Have Changed Hundreds Upon Hundreds of Nervous Wrecks Into Fine, Strong Men and Women. I Accept No Case I Cannot Cure.

ESPECIALLY invite all discouraged and dissatisfied ones who have been treated without a cure to write me fully and frankly about their case. It will cost you nothing to write me, and I will gladly tell you your condition, truthfully, honestly—accepting no case that I cannot cure—holding out no false promises. I have spent my whole life in the study and cure of chronic diseases, and my study and investigation have been blessed by the discovery of many new and marvelous methods of treating disease. Forty-nine years ago I graduated from the Western Homeopathic Medical College of Cleveland, O., for two years, Head Physician at the Alma Sanitarium, Alma, Mich. I have spent many long years as a specialist, treating chronic diseases of all kinds with wonderful success, and am now owner of one of the largest sanitariums in the country, giving my entire time to the treatment of Nervous Diseases of both sexes. I cure the worst forms of Epilepsy, St. Vitus Dance, Paralysis, etc.

My long experience in diagnosing cases and my understandings of the different diseases that I treat enable me in almost every case to prescribe by mail a perfect, thorough cure. All correspondence in plain envelopes and secretly confidential.

I CURE NERVOUS TROUBLES—Wasting Away, Loss of Vitality in Both Sexes. Whether from excesses or overwork, I promptly and positively cure, no matter how long standing.

I CURE BLOOD POISON—I cure Blood Poison in the first, second and third stages—driving the poison from the system, the taint from the blood; curing pimples, copper spots, sores in the mouth, tumors and ulcers.

I CURE FITS—Epilepsy, St. Vitus Dance, Paralysis, etc., by striking direct at the cause, restoring the diseased nerves to perfect health.

I CURE PILES—in 30 days to stay cured and to never return.

I CURE CONSUMPTION, the Great White Plague, in the first and second stages. Have made a special study of this disease for fifty years. Have cured hundreds given up by home Doctors. Those I cannot treat at home by seeing or by mail, I will take to my Sanitarium, where best of medical skill, nursing and private rooms are given, for Ten Dollars a week.

I GUARANTEE TO CURE, to stay cured, liquor, morphine, cocaine, nicotine or cigarette habits. Most cases treated at home.

Call and see me or write to either Sanitarium as below.

No matter what disease you are suffering from, write me fully today. I will answer at once, and my advice, which costs you nothing, may be worth hundreds of dollars—life itself—to you. If I cannot cure you I will tell you so. WRITE TODAY.

Some Parcel Post Don't's Worth While.

We print the following from the R.F.D. News by request of a rural carrier:

•Don't try to use ordinary stamps; the distinctive parcel post stamps must be used.

•Don't seal your package, wrap and tie securely.

•Don't forget that the name of the sender must be on the outside of the package.

•Don't forget to mark your package 'Perishable,' when the contents are perishable.

•Don't forget to mark your package 'Fragile,' when it contains breakable articles.

•Don't forget to buy insurance for 10 cents; it insures up to $50.

•Don't try to send a package weighing over eleven pounds or measuring more than seventy-two inches in combined length and girth.

•Don't try to register a parcel post package.

•Don't forget that the parcel post now supercedes fourth-class matter. It is in fact fourth-class matter and requires the distinctive stamps.

•Don't try to send whiskey or dynamite by parcel post. One is too tempting, perhaps, to the handling force, and the other too dangerous.

•Don't forget that the prohibition against pistols and revolvers has been raised.

•Don't forget that you are on the safe side when you refrain from mailing by parcel post those things which are denied in the mails by statute.

•Don't forget that eggs must be securely packed, in the covers at least, when mailed for a distant point.

•Don't forget there is no C.O.D. or Special Delivery feature yet in the parcel post.

•Don't forget that both postal employees and patrons are human. Let both have patience until the parcel post gets well started.

•Don't forget, rural carriers, that all business originating on your route rebounds to your individual credit and the credit of the rural carrier body in general.

•Don't forget, rural patrons, to set your box parallel to the road and have it in good condition. The rural carrier's labors are now increased.

•Don't forget to place letters and packages for the rural carrier in position easily accessible to him. He has no time to wait.

•Don't forget to ask questions regarding the parcel post when you are in doubt. All postal employees are expected to give mutual assistance.

•Don't forget that parcels weighing four ounces and under are available at 1 cent per ounce regardless of distance.

•Don't forget that seeds, cuttings, bulbs and roots are available under a special rate: One cent for two ounces.

•Don't forget that cut flowers, dried plants, not susceptible of propagation, go under the regular rates.

•Don't forget that parcels collected on Star routes must be deposited in the first postoffice at which the carrier arrives.

•Don't seal package or otherwise close it against inspection. In this event it will be treated as first-class matter.

•Don't forget that a parcel containing two or more classes of mail is available at the higher rate.

•Don't forget that in measuring a package to do so at the extreme ends and at its greatest girth.

•Don't accept turpentine for parcel post mail. It is prohibited by statute. The same applies to matches, kerosene oil, benzine and denatured alcohol.

•Don't accept anything for the parcel post with a bad odor, such as guano. That is prohibited by statute also.

•Don't try to send fresh meat out of the first zone. This is another prohibition.

•Don't stop parcel post matter lacking sufficient postage in transit. That is somebody else's trouble.

Quite So.
"I beg your pardon," sang out the convict as the governor passed his cell.

Old Age.

Old age as it comes in the orderly process of nature is a beautiful and majestic thing. It stands for experience, knowledge, wisdom, counsel. That is old age as it should be, but old age as it often is means poor digestion, torpid bowels, a sluggish liver and a general feeling of ill health, despondency and misery. This in almost every instance is wholly unnecessary. One of Chamberlain's Tablets taken immediately after supper will improve the digestion, tone up the liver and regulate the bowels. That feeling of despondency will give way to one of hope and good cheer. For sale by all dealers.

HALF LOVE ONLY HINDERS AMBITION

"Does love help or hinder an ambitious man?"

Jeanette asked me that question after telling me that Jimmie had come home in a rather depressed state of mind, because Tom Jenkins had confided to him that since his marriage to Daisy he had been unable to pursue the ambition of his life—to become a successful stock broker.

It seems Daisy is jealous of Tom's business. She complains whenever business takes him away from her for an evening or keeps him downtown late, and rather than have a scene when he reaches home, Tom tells prospective customers that it is impossible for him to see them after 4 o'clock, or to call upon them in the evening. So dear little Jeanette is worried for fear Jimmie will think his love for him a hindrance to his ambition.

"Jeanette, dear," I said, "you have no cause to worry, even if Jimmie is grumpy. It depends largely upon the love and the lover whether love will be a help or hindrance in life.

"Just because some grouchy old codger has said that 'love slays ambition' is no reason to believe it, and close observation shows it to be a pretty poor ambition that ever suffers extinction."

"But Cousin Daisy wants Tom to take a position in a bank, where he will have regular hours, and she can always look for him to be home shortly after 3 in the afternoon. Couldn't he be ambitious in a bank as well as selling stocks and bonds?"

"Surely he may, my dear," I answered. "Love may transform the goal aspired to. It may even change a man's aims; but the man who is truly ambitious to make a name for himself, like Jimmie, will assuredly be more ambitious, not less, because his successes will bring happiness to you, whom he loves, as well as to himself."

"Then why should Tom not be satisfied to do as Daisy wishes?"

"The fault, my dear Jeanette, lies with Daisy, not with Tom's love or her love. It is always so when the so-called 'love' hampers rather than helps a man to rise in the world. It is not 'love,' dear child, but selfishness and jealousy can wreck any man's ambitions if allowed to interfere with them."

"Do you think Daisy is selfish and jealous of Tom's ambition? Isn't it because she loves him so dearly that makes her want him with her every minute he can be there?"

"Jeanette, you love Jimmie, do you not?"

"Why, of course, cousin, I—"

"That's what I thought. Well, would you put your own social pleasures before Jimmie's work?"

"No."

"Would you be angry if he were detained a little late at the office, especially if you had planned an early dinner so you could go out in the evening?"

"No—no. I should be sure Jimmie would get home as early as he possibly could under such circumstances."

"Are you interested in your husband's business?"

"Of course I am—you know that. He always talks things over with me when he has any interesting news or problems to decide."

"Very well, then. That is as it should be. You need have no fear, and neither need Jimmie, that your love will ever hinder him in his advancement. It is only the self-centered, foolish, selfish woman who will in any way interfere with her husband's ambition. Hers is not 'love,' but rather selfish greed for all her husband's time and all of his money, too, forgetting that to make the money necessary to satisfy her wants he must spend many hours outside those prescribed by banking houses as 'business hours.'

"Remember, my dear child, that if Daisy loved Tom more truly his desires and ambitions would become so wholly hers that she would naturally be a help to him."

"It is only the half lovers and the self-lovers that ever hinder a husband's ambitions. Now run along home and tell Jimmie what I have said to you and see if he doesn't agree with me."

Cotton Duck for Motor Tires.

One million yards of high grade duck, to be made from sea island and Egyptian cotton, has recently been sold by a Georgia cotton mill to a manufacturer of automobile tires.

The quality of this material is of the highest grade, used only in the larger tires, the lower grade of goods being available for the smaller tires. One million yards of cotton duck, one yard wide, is a pretty big order to go from one mill to one tire manufacturer.

It illustrates, however, the ever broadening market for cotton and the reason why a big cotton crop has been so promptly absorbed. Every year sees new uses for the south's cotton. Not only is it being used in the manufacture of automobile tops, and the wider use of automobiles the greater will be the demand for cotton.—Manufacturers' Record.

The Best Cough Medicine.

"I have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy ever since I have been keeping house," says L. C. Hames, of Marbury, Ala. "I consider it one of the best remedies I ever used. My children have all taken it, and it works like a charm. For colds and whooping cough it is excellent." For sale by all dealers.

Hadn't Missed It.

Little Virgil, aged five, traveled in California with his parents just prior to the earthquake and felt there was nothing in the state that he hadn't seen. Upon his return home a neighbor said: "Well, Virgil, you just missed the earthquake." To which he replied: "Oh, no! We saw it, but it hadn't gone off yet."

The friends of George Jackson gave him a delightful surprise Tuesday evening, when about forty gathered at his home to help him celebrate his birthday. After spending the evening in games and fun, a fine supper was served by the hostess. Aeroplane flights by the guests was one of the features of the evening.

Our mild spring weather was caught by a cold wave, also several were caught by that dread disease, la grippe.

Insatiable Ambition.
"I hope our ambitious friend is satisfied," said the philosophic observer. "He has prospered so that he can do as he pleases." "Yes. But that doesn't content him. While he is doing as he pleases he wants everybody to quit work and applaud him for doing it so nicely."—Washington Star.

Are You a Cold Sufferer?
Take Dr. King's New Discovery, The Best Cough, Cold, Throat and Lung medicine made. Money refunded if it fails to cure you. Do not hesitate—take it at our risk. First dose helps. J. R. Wells, Floydada, Texas, writes: "Dr. King's New Discovery cured my terrible cough and cold. I gained 15 pounds." Buy it at J. M. Wuggazer & Co.'s, Tawas City, and James E. Dillon, of East Tawas.

Old Age.
Old age as it comes in the orderly process of nature is a beautiful and majestic thing. It stands for experience, knowledge, wisdom, counsel. That is old age as it should be, but old age as it often is means poor digestion, torpid bowels, a sluggish liver and a general feeling of ill health, despondency and misery. This in almost every instance is wholly unnecessary. One of Chamberlain's Tablets taken immediately after supper will improve the digestion, tone up the liver and regulate the bowels. That feeling of despondency will give way to one of hope and good cheer. For sale by all dealers.

Happiest Home.
But the happiest home is built when the twain together meet the trials and catastrophes that come from the outside world with the good health, the common sense, the humor, the patience and courage that will rout them. It should not be necessary for these qualities to be used by the one to combat the faults of the other.—Barbara Boyd.

Softening Granite Slabs.
It has been observed that, under certain conditions which have not been explained, granite will warp like wood. A slab set in a wall has been under observation in Switzerland, and a perceptible distortion has made itself apparent.—Harper's Weekly.

Impossible.
"A person should think twice before speaking." "Perhaps so, but if some people were to think twice before speaking they would be so exhausted they couldn't speak."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

That Occasional Chord.
There are chords in the human heart, strange, varying things, which are only struck by accident; which will remain mute and senseless to appeal the most passionate and earnest, and respond at last to the slightest casual touch. In the most insensible or childish minds there is some train of reflection which art can seldom lead, or skill assist, but which will reveal itself, as great truths have done, by chance, and when the discoverer has the plainest and simplest end in view.—Charles Dickens.
