The remains were taken to King's undertaking rooms, where they are being held until relatives can be communicated with.

The National Tribune, of Washington, makes an appeal to the Sons of Veterans to organize and assist in perpetuating the memories of their fathers and carry out the principles of the Grand Army of the Republic. There are probably not less than three hundred men in Iosco county who are eligible to the order of Sons of Veterans, and it would seem that a good live camp of this order should be organized in the county. The editor of the Herald would like to hear from all those interested.

One of our subscribers doesn't like some of the things he reads in this newspaper. Neither do we. But he is at liberty to pick out what he does like and leave the rest for some one who is less fastidious. Does he know what they call the man who sat down to a first-class hotel dinner, began at the first item on the bill of fare and tried to eat every dish mentioned thereon? This newspaper presents a varied bill of fare every week, but there is no law compelling you to devour every portion of it. Just put aside what you don't relish and say nothing about it. And don't swear at the editor. It's both wicked and foolish.

The Northeastern Michigan Development Bureau is rapidly overcoming the difficulties within its own territory with which it has had to contend since its organization three years ago. Nearly all of the "knockers" are getting their eyes open to the benefits which every county can derive if they show the inclination, and are rapidly joining the ranks of the "boosters." Those counties that do not reap the benefits have no one to blame but themselves. Much greater benefits could have been already gained had it not been for the unprogressive element of the territory who have fought the Bureau thru ignorance and short-sightedness. The greatest difficulty which now confronts its future is a possible danger that it may fall into the hands of a few men who hold self-gain above honest endeavor. It behooves the directors of each county to watch with a jealous eye the active management and see that the affairs of the Bureau are handled in the interests of entire Northeastern Michigan. This being done, the great work will go on even more successfully than in the past.

For Road Commissioner.

I wish to announce that I am a candidate for the position of county road commissioner, and solicit the support of the republican electors at the primary election on March 5, next. I believe that my long residence in the county entitles me to consideration, and if nominated and elected I shall, to the best of my ability, administer the duties of the office to the best interests of the taxpayers of the county.

Tuesday forenoon the following persons were granted naturalization papers: Leander Kronlund, Albert Norman Murchison, Otto Charles Fuerst, Peter Pfeiffer and Emil Makinen.

Tuesday afternoon the case against Harry Kooperman, charged with selling diseased meat, was commenced. The case was finished Wednesday afternoon and the jury returned a verdict of guilty as charged. Sentence was deferred, and the court adjourned until Friday.

The New Womanhood.

The new education must meet the needs of womanhood as well as of manhood. How strange that only within a generation have we really begun to provide natural education for girls. This is not so surprising, however, in view of woman's position of relative inferiority down even to the present hour. Many a man, the born of woman, still unconsciously holds his own mother in such contempt as to class her, in the eyes of the law, with infants, imbeciles and convicts, and therefore incompetent to participate in the government of the race she bears!

To keep woman in that position is not only unjust and illogical, but it is against nature, and therefore must and shall be reformed. And you men, my readers, will yet be the leaders in this reform.

Nor will you, who abolished black slavery 50 years ago, wait another half century before abolishing white slavery. Set up NOW the single standard of conduct for both sexes. Welcome woman to her true position as the equal of man in all the relations of life! Why?

Child, maiden, blushing bride,
Wife, mother, rich in pride
Of husband, daughter, son.
Striving to make them one
Family, with that health
Of purpose which forms wealth
In body, mind and soul.

Where she is, the real home
For one and all who come
Within its portals is,
The dwelling place of His
Virtues, here, now, on earth.
Her life, love, work and worth,
The making of the world.
—Herbert Myrick in Farm and Home.

TAWAS CITY, MICH., Feb. 21, 1913

Postmaster-General Frank Hitchcock has issued orders to paint everything red—with a capital "R." Wine colors and pale, sickly reds will not do. Every delivery wagon, city, parcel post and rural free delivery vehicle must be red. All mail boxes thruout the United States must be red. The postmaster wants to leave a uniform color, something like the tail of a comet, when he goes out.

In advertising the national woman suffrage meeting held in New York February 17th, ten young women represented the equal suffrage states. The first returns of the November, 1912, election proclaimed through the associated press that Michigan had given her women the ballot, and New York suffragists rejoiced at this advance of a sister state. Later returns reversed the news, but New York women are reluctant to count out Michigan women, and continue to claim her among the free states of the country, in anticipation of the victory for woman suffrage Michigan voters will surely give in April, 1913.

Senator Smith is endeavoring to secure an appropriation for a 15-foot channel for Grand river, over at Grand Rapids, and quotes the great benefit derived by Bay City and Saginaw by the $350,000 spent in dredging the Saginaw river. If Smith knows of any benefit derived by either of those cities by the expenditure of this money he would do well to come up and tell the people of the Saginaw Valley about it, as there is no one there who has been able to figure it out. Neither city has seen a boat that could not have come up the old channel, and if one of the big fellows should happen to stick her nose up the Old Saginaw she would have to back out, as it would be impossible to either land or turn around. Such fool appropriations as these look well on paper, but there is nothing practical about them.

Republicans Renig.

On Tuesday, the 11th day of February, the state convention of the republican party at Lansing unanimously adopted the following resolution, which had been unanimously recommended by the committee on resolutions:

We favor a verbatim daily report of all proceedings in both houses of the state legislature, which shall be distributed as the legislative journal is now distributed.

On Wednesday, the 12th day of February, 36 of the 54 republicans in the house of representatives voted against the Murtha resolution which had already passed the senate, and which would have put, this avowed policy of the republican party into immediate effect.

The republican platform was not twenty-four hours old before a majority of the republican representation in the house boldly repudiated one of its most progressive clauses. Of what value is the rest of this progressive republican platform as far as legislation in the house of representatives is concerned? Is the plank endorsing the initiative and referendum to be taken seriously? If so, how can the initiative and referendum be made effective without adequate publicity? If it takes only one day for the republican majority in the house of representatives to repudiate one clause, how many days will it take for them to repudiate all clauses?

This record of pledge-breaking came on a motion by Mr. Taylor of Kent, a democrat, to take from the table the Murtha resolution, where it had reposed since its arrival from the senate. Because of the general ignorance of the house on the facts developed in the senate debate, and because of the feeble presentation of their case by the proponents of the measure, the Taylor motion was beaten by 52 to 36.

Mr. Flowers, of Detroit, declared that "no one knows anything about the expense" of a verbatim record; whereas, Mr. Flowers might have obtained from more than one senator a carefully prepared and accurate estimate of the cost.

something Mr. Warner admits is almost worthless.

Mr. Charles H. McBride, Holland's handsomest man, who utters himself frequently, confided to the house that "the most valuable work is often done by the men who do not say anything." Mr. McBride's idea apparently being that the verbatim record is designed for the glorification of such eloquent gentlemen as himself and only incidentally as an embodiment of public opinion in Michigan.

If the people of Michigan could have stood as eye witnesses of Wednesday's debate on the Murtha resolution in the house of representatives, they would have seen how little one branch of the legislature knows of the proceedings in the other branch, and they would have demanded the publication of verbatim reports for the enlightenment of the legislature itself. — Detroit Saturday Night.

The Value of House Cleaning.

One of the advantages of a change of national administration on which a good many voters had their eyes when they cast their ballots last November is the possibility of a general house cleaning in all the administrative departments of government, says the Detroit News. In the last four years more than one cabinet member has dwelt amid storms raised over the methods in vogue in his particular department and the spirit in which his work was being prosecuted.

On occasion, when investigation into departmental affairs went deep enough, it was revealed that the secretary himself was not so much to blame as the sub-heads, the petty chiefs, the second or third or eighth assistant, charged with the detail of administration. The people found that the real mischief was proceeding from a McCabe, a Dunlay, a Lawler, sheltered by his obscurity and comparatively low rank. In the present congressional investigation into the expense of the department of the interior reclamation service, charges were laid against some more subordinates.

The cabinet members themselves hold high political and honorary place. The spirit which they bring to their departments, of course, molds in the large the policy of administering the law. But with reticence to the vast amount of detail to be supervised or ordered by any one department, the secretary himself has to depend on his subordinates, each in charge of a particular division of the work. The subordinate thus is invested with great responsibility, involving opportunity for good work and opportunity for bad. He can further a law, or, by exemptions, by mitigations, by interpretations, by secret hints, practically set it at naught.

There is a feeling among the people that some of the subordinates at Washington have held place altogether too long. Many of them, of course, are excellent public servants. President Wilson can improve matters a great deal by insuring, at the same time that he appoints his cabinet ministers, the retention of the right subordinates and the removal of the mischief-makers.

Two Ways of Looking at It.

A group of masked men, with pistols drawn, stop you at night and take away your watch and money.

That's highway robbery.

Every little while we read of a highway robber convicted and sentenced to prison for years.

A group of men, federated together in a pool, hold you up with trade agreements and take your money by destroying competition.

That's big business.

It, too, is against the statute law and has been for more than 20 years—it has always been against the common law. But how many men who have done it have ever seen the inside of a jail? You can count them on the fingers of one hand.—Bay City Times.

New D. & M. Railway Sleeping Cars.

The Detroit & Mackinac Railway has placed in service new 16-section sleeping cars. These cars have sixteen lower berths and sixteen upper berths, but no drawing room, and replace the 12-section drawing room cars which have heretofore been in service. There has been but little demand for the drawing room, and the railway company figured that the eight additional berths would be more advantageous to the traveling public than the drawing room. Orders for these cars were placed over two years ago, but there has been such a heavy demand for them it was not until the present time that they were available. The cars are of the latest design, have all modern conveniences and are lighted by electricity, each section being equipped with electric lights which will admit of passengers reading, if they so desire, after they retire.

Washington Letter.

Special to the Herald.

Washington, Feb. 17.—Not a few of the men who have been nominated for office by President Taft have an idea that they will succeed in winning the favor of the incoming President in case the senate refuses to confirm them before March 4th. Just now there is no likelihood that they will be confirmed. Whether they are justified in expecting, or even hoping, that Gov. Wilson thinks of keeping them in office is something no man can find out. The governor has made the sphinx look communicative in comparison, by his monumental display of reticence. It is a very open secret in Washington that a good many public officials expect to be retained in office under the next administration. There is Secretary of the Interior Fisher, and Assistant Secretary Adams, and some of the President's clerks at the White House, and—but what is the use of calling the roll of officialdom? They are all casting sheep's eyes at the man who will be boss after March 4th. And it's really surprising, now that you come to look over the list, how very many democrats there were holding office under Taft. They admit it themselves,—they were democrats all the time, and we all thought they were good old stand-pat republicans. But then, a man in office doesn't have much time to be telling just where he stands politically.

Champ Clark gave a little lecture from the Speaker's chair the other day on the subject of attending the sessions. There is always trouble enough to keep a quorum, and now that so many members are going out and don't care a tinker's tynp whether business moves along or not, it's getting almost impossible to do. Any member who happens to have a freakish impulse to obstruct business can do so pretty effectually by raising the point of "no quorum," and then bells ring and messengers scurry to round up enough heads to be counted.

With difficulty about getting the regular appropriation bills through, it seems very unlikely that the bill giving $2,000,000 for a government exhibit at San Francisco will be brought up again. No money has been asked for San Diego, which plucky and resourceful city is going right ahead with its exposition plans and asking no government subsidy. Not that the government ought not to help. It should by all means, give something for exhibits of the reclamation and irrigation work, forestry, conservation and all of the things that will be featured at San Diego throughout the calendar year 1915. Perhaps congress will do this. Perhaps it will need to be jogged up by the friends of San Diego all over the United States. A few letters might help. The San Diego Exposition is making great headway, no other in history having been so far along two years before the date of opening. Foreign nations are vying with each other over securing space, and the states are securing locations. Only last week both Virginia and West Virginia announced that they would send commissioners to select sites at San Diego for state exhibits. Some of the western states had better hump themselves or they will be among the last to choose sites.

The chief of the weather bureau, the man who invented the flareback which signaled the inauguration of President Taft, wants to be Secretary of Agriculture. If he produces good weather for inauguration day, perhaps he will have some support.

Democratic Nominees.

A large number of enthusiastic democrats from all sections of Michigan gathered at Lansing last Friday and selected an exceptionally strong set of nominees for the spring election. The convention was one of the largest and most harmonious ever held by Michigan democracy. The platform adopted was along the most progressive lines, and the administration of Governor Ferris was warmly endorsed. The following ticket was nominated:

N. E. Mich. Development Bureau Notes.

At a meeting of the executive committee, held at the office of the Bureau February 4th, it was determined that the traveling exhibit should be sent out to exhibit in Michigan at the earliest opportunity; the opinion being expressed that Michigan having long proved a most prolific field for agents from other territories, the Bureau could not do better than show Michigan citizens that as good or better opportunities are presented at their own door than can be obtained elsewhere.

The secretary was instructed to get the exhibit started at the earliest possible moment, and therefore made plans to begin February 11th and remain the balance of the week at Bad Axe.

The exhibit will be in charge of Mr. S. H. Spencer, and as in the past the policy will be that all real estate members of the Bureau are not only welcome but are urged to be present with the Bureau, either in person or by representative, so that as prospective purchasers become interested some one will be on hand to talk definite locations, for the Bureau can work in a general way only.

The work in Bad Axe seemed to create quite a little interest, judging from reports and from the number of inquiries received. The weather was rather cold, but the attendance at the various meetings was quite satisfactory. It is expected to make Caro, Vassar, Brown City, Port Huron and Flint, though not necessarily in that order.

Most of the views shown in the stereopticon pictures are properly labeled as to where taken, but we need even more pictures from which slides can be made. This applies to every county with the exception of Otsego. Otsego boosters have furnished us with so many pictures that the Bureau in self defense must call upon other counties to do likewise, else the Otsego flavor will be almost too strong.

In addition to photographs we would like to have some short, terse sentences in regard to the various counties or localities of the district; something that is particularly claimed for that district; statement of some particularly large yield; value of the land or special inducements offered. We would have these printed on slides and thrown on the screen in place of the pictures, occasionally. Remember that in some places the Bureau gives six or more of these illustrated lectures in a week and consequently can use a lot of varied material.

Old Age.

Old age as it comes in the orderly process of nature is a beautiful and majestic thing. It stands for experience, knowledge, wisdom, counsel. That is old age as it should be, but old age as it often is means poor digestion, torpid bowels, a sluggish liver and a general feeling of ill health, despondency and misery. This in almost every instance is wholly unnecessary. One of Chamberlain's Tablets taken immediately after supper will improve the digestion, tone up the liver and regulate the bowels. That feeling of despondency will give way to one of hope and good cheer. For sale by all dealers.

Destiny of America.

A nation is not a conglomeration of voters, to be represented by hungry politicians empowered to partition the spoils of office, but a people animated by a common impulse and seeking to work out a common destiny. The destiny of America is mutual service; labor is the corner stone of our nationality, the labor of each for all.—Ralph Waldo Emerson.

Ancient Use of Cork.

Cork was known to the Greeks and Romans, and was put to almost as many uses as at present, although there is no mention in Rome of flinoleum, notwithstanding its Roman sound. Glass bottles, with cork stoppers, for wine and beer, did not come into use until the middle of the fourteenth century.

Great Convenience.

"You find that an automobile helps you to keep your engagement?" "It does better than that," replied Mrs. Chuggins. "If you don't want to keep them, it enables you to explain everything by saying you broke down."

Reasonable Stipulation.

"Shall we admit Wombat to our Sublimated Order of the Kibosh? He already belongs to seven secret societies." "I'm in favor of admitting him if there's enough of him left to work our ritual on."—Kansas City Journal.

Dr. King's New Discovery

Pay the State a Big Sum.

Lansing, Feb. 14.—Railroad, telegraph, telephone, car loaning and express companies will pay into the state treasury $4,969,141.96 in state taxes this year, according to the completed assessment made by the tax commission of the state on an assessed valuation of $236,867,225.

While this is but $56,145 more than those corporations were assessed in taxes last year, the amount is really a great deal more, inasmuch as the commission reduced the assessed valuation of the Pere Marquette $3,900,000 from what it was a year ago. The average rate of taxation as figured by the commission under the ad valorem taxation system is $20.80 per $1,000 assessed valuation, as compared with $20.71 last year.

Basket Willow.

The department of agriculture is getting ready to fill requests for the basket willow cuttings grown last year on its experimental farm at Arlington, Va. Distribution of these cuttings takes place early in March each spring, to farmers and others who wish to make trials of basket willow on lands too wet for other crops. From 50 to 100 cuttings are given each person.

The distribution is not a mere giving away of government material to persons who desire to get something free; because it is required that each recipient of cuttings shall make a report of the treatment given and the results obtained. Several select varieties are included in each set that is distributed, and the aim is to secure information as to the best variety for each locality, since no one kind can be relied upon to yield maximum results over a wide range of territory.

In the basket willow investigations carried on at the Arlington Farm, Arlington, Va., and at Ames, Iowa, by the Forest Service, particular attention has been given to the development of American species for basket making purposes. The European species now commonly used have never proved themselves entirely adapted to American conditions, and are as a rule less thrifty than the native species. At present there is at Arlington a willow garden containing nearly 500 lots gathered from all parts of the country and representing practically every species and variety found in the United States and Canada.

A system of selection which has been carried on for several years is already indicating which strains show the best basket willow characteristics for American conditions.

"Who Eats—Pays!"

No indoor worker can continue to eat meat thrice, or even twice daily, after middle life—and middle life, mark you, begins with the thirty-fifth year—without paying the penalty in an attack of gout, rheumatism, Bright's or an allied disease, a few years later. This "few years" may, in special cases, stretch itself to a score—but, inevitably, "who eats, pays!"—Dietetic and Hygienic Gazette.

Where Caraway Seed Abounds.

Caraway seed is extensively grown in Holland. Groningen, in the northeast corner, produces more than any other province, next being north Holland, in which Amsterdam is situated. In these two provinces more than half the caraway plant acreage is found. In the whole country the number of acres devoted to caraway growing was, in 1911, 20,337.

Woman.

To think of a part one little woman can play in the life of a man, so that to renounce her may be a very good imitation of heroism, and to win her may be a discipline!—George Elliot.

Wise Precaution.

Shopper—I want to buy a necktie suitable for my husband. Salesman—Sorry, madam, but we are not permitted to sell neckties to women who are unaccompanied by men.—Puck.

FACTS ABOUT FLOUR

If the wheat is not fully ripened, the flour will not act right in baking.
 The loaves will be heavy, sour and apt to ferment, or will turn dry and hard a day after baking, and have little taste.
 We take every precaution to buy properly matured wheat for milling.

STOTT'S FLOUR

Then we go further and store the wheat in huge tile tanks to mellow and condition it for grinding.
 So that Stott's Flour makes good, wholesome bread, which remains fresh and palatable for a long time.
