Why Women Read the Advertisements.

It is a fact undisputed that the women of this country spend 80 per cent of the family income.

it also is a fact that the average woman buys more with $15 than the average man does with $25.

There's a tendency on the part of men to buy what they want when they it, and hurry out.

A woman, with a given sum to last given time, thinks twice at least before she makes her purchases. Where she formerly visited several stores on a "shopping" tour and priced what she had decided to buy, she now sits down in a comfortable rocker, reads the "store news" of the various firms advertising in the Herald, and seven times out of ten finds just what she wants in an "at home" shopping expedition which consumes but little time, saves the crush of a crowd, and she often makes her purchase by phone. When she does go down town she goes straight to certain stores for certain goods, gets them, and as a result has no shopper's headache, isn't "tired to death," and has time for recreation.

Women read advertisements because the practice saves them time and money.
