HAPPENINGS OF THE WEEK

Local, Personal and General News Furnished in Condensed Paragraphs for the Convenience of the Busy Reader

This is the day we celebrate.

A. W. Black, court house, fire insurance of all kinds. adv.

Joe Minor came up from Bay City Wednesday to remain over the Fourth. Farmer's feed barn at the rear of the Bay Side hotel, Tawas City. adv.

Leon Randall of Oxford, visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Jahrans a few days the past week.

Victor Ackerson returned to his home at Jackson Monday, after a weeks visit at the home of Jos. Boomer.

Miss Lizzie Zellmer of Detroit came Saturday for a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Julius Zellmer.

Arthur Steinhurst of Detroit, arrived Saturday for a two weeks visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Steinhurst.

Dick Walker was in town last Friday and Saturday for a visit with his mother and a try at the trout in Silver Creek.

Mr. and Mrs. John Reed of Millersburg were in town Wednesday enroute to Hale, where they will visit relatives.

Chas. Birney of Jackson came Tuesday afternoon to be present at his sister's wedding and visit his mother for a couple of days.

A number of Royal Arch Masons from Alpena came down to East Tawas last Friday evening and conferred the mysteries of that degree on several candidates.

Miss Anna McNair left Saturday for Bay City, where she will spend the summer vacation.

Mrs. Vinnie Cox is prepared to do French dry cleaning at reasonable prices. Satisfaction guaranteed. adv.

Frank Laidlaw returned Monday to Detroit, after a weeks visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Laidlaw.

Miss Edith Walker returned last Thursday evening from Jackson, where she has been teaching in the city schools.

Miss Florence Stickney left Tuesday morning for Bay City, where she will visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Robinson for a week or so.

Mrs. Henry Stickney and two children of East Tawas left Monday for Rogers City where they will make their home. Mr. Stickney has an excellent position at Calcite, near Rogers City.

If you want that suit of clothes cleaned and pressed in a first class manner, take it to Edw. Woizeschke, sr. He does good work and his prices are reasonable. Give him a trial. adv.

Rev. Blatchford requests us to announce that there will be no evening service at Christ's church next Sunday. The other services will be held as announced in the church notes.

John Myles returned last Friday from a three weeks visit in the southern part of the state. He was accompanied by his mother, Mrs. Sarah Myles of Pontiac, who will visit here for a time.

The annual school meeting will be held on Monday, July 14. There should be a good attendance at this meeting as there are several matters of importance to be considered, one of which is the question of free text books for our city schools.

More traveling libraries and loan collections of pictures were issued by the state library to school districts this year than ever before. Already applications are being filed for the loan of framed pictures for next year, the supply being limited.

The past week has witnessed the hottest weather recorded for the past eighteen years. In the cities the thermometer has registered as high as 105 degrees and deaths and prostrations from the heat have been extremely numerous.

Chas. T. Prescott attended the good roads meeting at Alpena Monday evening. He reports a good meeting. Among the resolutions passed was one to allow $500 to be used on the trunk line highway through Iosco county and another to secure a large number of split log drags to be used on the trunk line road, the association to pay the farmers for work done with the drags.

Miss Bernice Bradish returned to Mt. Pleasant Thursday.

G. A. and C. T. Prescott were at Bay City on business Wednesday.

Mrs. L. B. Smith returned Wednesday from a two weeks visit with friends at Detroit.

Mrs. N. Nordstrom and son, Emil, of Detroit came up last Sunday evening for a couple of weeks visit with friends at East Tawas.

Mr. and Mrs. Noah Myers and family of Springfield, Ohio, arrived Thursday to take up their residence at their summer home, the M's.

In a letter from Jas. O'Brien asking us to change his address, he informs us that he has accepted a position with the Alpena Meat Co. at Alpena.

Mrs. M. Kehoe and Mrs. Thomas Oliver and children returned Thursday from Traverse City, where they attended the Moylan-Kehoe wedding June 24th.

As today is a holiday for the rural mail carriers our rural subscribers will not receive their paper until Saturday. We regret the delay, but it was impossible to get the Herald out in time for the carriers on Thursday.

Michigan is beginning to realize the economy of better school buildings. In 1911 Michigan erected 98 new school houses at a cost of one million dollars. It is estimated that the United States spends seventy million for public school buildings, exclusive of normals, colleges and universities.

The Athletics go to Alabaster today to play the team of that village. They leave on the E. & M. train which leaves Tawas City at 8:12. As the last game between these teams on the Athletics' diamond was a closely fought contest today's game should be more than worth the effort of going to Alabaster to see.

The board of supervisors were in session here Monday and Tuesday. No business of special importance was transacted, except the resolution to submit to the voters of Iosco county a proposition to bond the county for the sum of $100,000 for good roads. The proposition is explained more fully on another page.

A week from Sunday, July 13, the Blue Joe ball team comes here to play the Athletics a return game. A week ago Sunday the Athletics won by the close score of 14 to 12. The home boys are going to a great expense to get the Dam boys down and are sure of a good contest. Get out and see the game and help toward the expenses.

It is very obvious that some of our citizens do not know the law relative to the destruction of noxious weeds, or else makes no pretense of living up to it. On several streets of the city may be seen large numbers of Canada thistles, which if left to go to seed will soon overrun the whole roadway. This is one of the worst of the weeds with which we have to contend and the proper authorities should see to it that the law is complied with in regard to having them cut and destroyed before they go to seed.

The project for an auditorium for Tawas City seems to have been consigned to oblivion for the time being at least. It should not be so, however, for something of the kind is badly needed and the interest should be kept up until the building becomes an established fact. If the idea is allowed to lag this summer we will be no farther ahead than ever and the construction will have to be postponed another year. It really seems as though there should be interest enough to accomplish something toward an improvement as greatly needed as this.

Nuptial Narratives.

BIRNEY—OTTO

One of the prettiest weddings of the season was solemnized at a high mass at St. Joseph's Catholic church at eight o'clock Wednesday morning, July 2, when Jennie E., eldest daughter of Mrs. Anna Birney, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Mr. George H. Otto of Port Huron, in the presence of about fifty relatives and invited guests.

The bride wore a gown of white laces, down, trimmed with pearls and real lace, and carried a shower bouquet of pink roses tied with white ribbon and trailing through a white prayer book. She was attended by her sister, Grace, as bridesmaid, who was attired in pink voile over a pink silk drop and wore a corsage bouquet of pink roses and maidenhair fern. The groom was attended by his brother, Mr. Lawrence Otto of Saginaw, as best man.

A bridal hymn was sung by Miss Blanche Berube of East Tawas, and the music throughout was exceptionally fine.

After the ceremony the company proceeded to the home of the bride's mother, where a five-course wedding dinner was served at high noon, covers being laid for thirty. The dining room was handsomely decorated with flowers and smilax, the bride's favorite colors, pink and white, predominating. The bride's table was made beautiful with streamers of smilax extending from the ceiling to each corner of the table, while over the center hung a large white wedding bell with a bouquet of carnations for a clapper. Mrs. Felice Benedict of East Tawas acted as toastmistress and many bright and witty toasts enlivened the occasion. Mr. Claud Bean furnished music through the dinner, and an orchestra composed of Messrs. Frank and Claud Bean and Frank Moore entertained the company with music during the afternoon.

A reception was given in the afternoon to the bride's classmates and girl friends and at six o'clock an elaborate luncheon was served to about thirty of the young ladies.

The happy young couple departed on the evening train amid a shower of rice and confetti, and with their baggage so plainly marked as to unmistakably designate them as newlyweds. Following a short wedding trip they will be at home to their many friends after July 11, in Port Huron, where the groom has a position as mail clerk on the P. M. railroad. They were the recipients of many handsome and useful presents and their hosts of friends in the Tawasites unite in wishing them a pleasant and happy voyage over the sea of life.

The out of town guests at the wedding were: Charles Birney of Jackson; Lawrence Otto of Saginaw; and Mrs. Wm. Bean and Claud Bean of Bay City.

MURPHY—ROBINSON

A very pretty wedding was celebrated at the home of Rev. Victor F. Brown of Bay City, on Thursday, June 26, when Hazel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Murphy of this city, was united in marriage to James Robinson of Whittemore. The young couple stole a march on their friends by taking the morning train to Bay City without letting anyone know of their purpose, the first intimation being had the next day when the news of the wedding was received here.

The bride is well known here, having lived in the city all her life. She is a graduate of the county normal and has spent the past two or three years teaching in the country schools in this vicinity.

The happy couple were the recipients of many beautiful and useful presents after their marriage was known. They will make their home in Whittemore, where Mr. Robinson is the proprietor of a meat market.

The Herald joins with their many friends in extending heartiest wishes for a long and happy married life.

MOYLAN—KEHOE

The wedding of Miss Margaret Moylan and Leo Kehoe was solemnized Tuesday morning, June 24th, at a nuptial mass at 8 o'clock in the church of Immaculate Conception, Rev. Father Sheehan officiating. They were attended by Miss Bernice Murphy and Frank Nelson. The church was decorated by the members of the Young Ladies' Sodality in the colors of the Sodality, blue and white. Banks of cut flowers and ferns were everywhere. The music was furnished by the boy choir. The bride wore a white crepe net gown with duchess lace and tulle veil and carried a prayer book bouquet with a shower of lillies of the valley. Miss Bernice Murphy, the maid of honor, wore a pale blue silk and carried white carnations. Directly after the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Murphy. The young couple will be at home in Petoskey in the near future.—Traverse City Record-Eagle.

GOODROW—GRABOW

At the homes of Henry Grabow in Baldwin township on Wednesday, July 2, occurred a pretty wedding, when Miss Mabel Goodrow of Bristol was united in marriage with Charles Grabow, Elder M. A. Summerfield of the L. D. S. church officiating. The bride was attended by Miss Jennie Swansen and Miss Minnie Grabow as bridesmaids, and Otto Grabow and Oscar Swansen acted as groomsmen.

The young couple received many beautiful and useful gifts from their numerous friends. They will take a honeymoon trip to the northern part of the state.

Annual School Meeting.

Notice is hereby given that the annual school meeting of Fractional School District No. 7, Tawas City and Tawas township will be held at the high school building, Tawas City, Monday, July 14, 1913 at 7:30 o'clock p. m. for the transaction of such business as may come before it, including the reading of the annual reports and the election of one trustee. And Further Notice is hereby given, that the question of free text books in said district, will be submitted to the qualified electors at said meeting for adoption or rejection.

Dated at Tawas City, July 2, 1913.

LEN J. PATTERSON,
adv. Sec. of Bd. of Education.

To Vote on Bond Issue for Good Roads.

At the session of the board of supervisors held this week at the court house, a resolution was offered and passed to submit to the qualified electors of Iosco county at a special election to be held August 11, a proposition to bond the county for the sum of $100,000 to be used in constructing good roads.

This is a proposition which should receive the active support and co-operation of every citizen of the county. A good system of highways will do more to advance the interests of this territory and secure the opening up of unimproved lands with the attendant increase in values than any other agency. One of the first questions asked by prospective land purchasers is about the condition of the roads and if they find that good roads make it easy for them to transport their products to market, a sale may be much more readily made. There are thousands of acres of excellent farming land in Iosco county which if cleared up and put under cultivation would add an immense sum to the assessed valuation of the county.

It is earnestly to be hoped that the electors of Iosco county will give this matter careful study and consideration and that when the time comes to vote upon the question they will give a big majority in favor of it. The Herald will have more to say upon the subject at a later date.

Teachers for Next Year.

Following is the list of teachers who have been engaged to teach in the city schools for the year 1913-1914:

Superintendent, Ford Bradish; principal, Miss Annie M. Brown; grammar room, Miss Lillian Crandell; second intermediate, Miss Annie MacNair; first intermediate, Miss Myrtle McKenna; second primary, Miss Ina Bradley; first primary, Miss Lucy B. Louch; ward school, Miss Lulu Murphy.

Don't fail to visit the Ladies' New Ready-to-Wear Department at H. N. Butler & Co.'s, East Tawas. New Dresses arriving daily. H. N. Butler & Co. adv. East/Tawas, Mich.

A Profitable Department.

The state's insurance department is a rather profitable institution for the state of Michigan, according to figures presented in a section of the annual report which Commissioner Palmer gave out Saturday. The total receipts were $673,339.09 as compared with $594,614.95 the previous year, an increase of $78,725.14. It cost $28,113.99 to run the department for the year, while the department collected $48,678 in retaliatory fees from insurance companies, which goes into the general fund for the maintenance of the department, giving a net balance on the profit side for the year. The expenses of the department were $5,200 less than the preceding year. Of the $673,339 collected in taxes, etc., the greater share goes into the primary school fund.

There are 77 life insurance companies, 71 casualty companies, 30 co-operative companies and 84 fraternal societies doing business in Michigan, sufficient to furnish life insurance for all who want it.

Michigan Petitions Congress.

Another instance of the aroused sentiment for good roads in this country is the resolution which was adopted by the recent legislature and forwarded to Michigan senators and representatives at Washington. Following is the text of the resolution:

Whereas, In the course of our national existence the total expenditure of the national government on public buildings, rivers harbors, reclamation, forestry, public lands and Panama Canal have been several thousand million of dollars; and

Whereas, there are about 2,300,000 miles of road in the United States, of which more than 2,000,000 miles are unimproved; and

Whereas, More than 90 per cent of the traffic on these roads is confined to less than 20 per cent of their length; and

Whereas, A system of not more than fifty thousand miles of national highways (only about 2 per cent of the total United States road mileage) will give adequate interstate main, trunk and link lines connecting each state with its adjoining states and through them with all the states of the Union; and

Whereas, To favor, foster and further the development of national highways in the length and breadth of these United States of America will secure the benefits, social, moral, commercial, industrial, material, educational and personal in the progress and uplift of the American people which follow in the train of easy and free inter-communication and transit between the great centers of population and distribution, and the great productive area of the nation; and

Whereas, Such a system of national highway will encourage and accentuate the building of good roads everywhere by states, counties, cities, townships, and towns as the collecting and distributing medium of these national highways; therefore, be it

Resolved by the House of Representatives of the State of Michigan (the Senate concurring), That we urge upon the Congress of the United States the necessity of the early designation, construction and maintenance of a system of national highways; and, be it further

Resolved, That the Secretary of the State of Michigan is hereby instructed to forthwith transmit copies of these resolutions to all the members of the United States Senate and House of Representatives from this State and clerks of these respective bodies at Washington, D. C.

Pure Food Well Cooked.

There is some truth in the assertion that neither states' rights nor slavery, but the frying-pan, brought on the Civil War; for frying encapsulated the food in a layer of fat impervious to the digestive juices, and the resulting indigestion aroused the mutual enmities and the berserker rage of our fathers. America is preeminently the land of the deadly hot bread, the sinker, the flap jack, the Bingo frankfurter, the quick lunch, dyspepsia, with its consequent neurasthenia, and the stomach bitters, which often approximate whiskey in alcohol content. It would not be difficult to prove that "bad cooking has driven many a man to drink." Not only are our meats often badly cooked, but often vegetables are frequently boiled in such a way which deprives them of their characteristic odor and their toothsome. We make other dietetic errors when we sugar our salads and salt our fruits. There would seem to be among our people, in larger measure than elsewhere in civilization, a contempt for the culinary art, as if it were beneath notice, or decadent, or savoring of the effete old world. Yet what in life can be more essential than the right preparation of the substances which are to keep the human machinery going, in order that the best may be got out of it, with fewest slowings down or interruptions?

In the Old World the relation of zest and fragrance to food is held vital, and justly so. Great Europeans, indeed, have seriously interested themselves in such matters. It is a dictum on the Continent that the saucier is born, not made. On numerous occasions the elder Dumas invited friends to dinner, personally prepared the most succulent dishes, and then, exchanging his cook's attire for his dress clothes, regaled his cronies with the products of his "noble art." Montaigne wrote a notable book on the science of cooking. Frederick the Great praised his cook in verse—the former being much better than the latter. Lord Bacon thought it no shame to bend his mighty intellect to the problems of the kitchen. The composer Rossini composed salads as symphonic in their way as his operas, and regretted by reason of his neglected early education he could not have made cooking, rather

TAWAS CITY, MICH., July 4, 1913

Another instance of the flagrant abuse of a public trust has just evidenced itself at the national capital, where the supreme court justices have adjourned court and gone on a four months vacation at the expense of the people. It appears that there is no provision made by law for a vacation for this branch of the government, but neither is there any law to prevent them from taking as long a vacation as they like, a fact which they have taken advantage of by taking one-third of the year. The salary of the chief justice is $13,500 per year and that of the associate justices $12,500, and their salary goes on whether they are in session or not. The chief justice is therefore being paid $3,375 and the associate justices $3,125 each for taking a jaunt to the mountains or the seaside or wherever their fancy calls them, besides the expense of the dozens of clerks, reporters and other attendants of the court, whose salaries also go on during the time that court is adjourned. Meanwhile there are 604 cases on the docket of the court, some of which have been dragging along for from two to five years. There has been much complaint of late years of the impossibility of obtaining speedy justice in our higher courts, but one does not need to go far to find the reason when the members of the supreme tribunal of the land so far ignore their duties to the people to whom they owe their position and who pay their salaries. The laws of honor and fidelity to public trust should militate against such practices, even though there is no statute on the question.

Fifty years ago this week the famous battle of Gettysburg was fought and the Federal and Confederate veterans who participated in that struggle have been celebrating the semi-centennial of the battle with a big reunion on the scene of the strife. The factional feeling and animosity that will be eliminated by the getting together of these 40,000 survivors of that great encounter will more than repay for the money expended by the government to make the reunion possible.

Ex-President Taft thought he was putting one over on the democrats when he issued his civil service ruling with regard to postmasters, but now the democrats propose to turn the tables and the republicans are putting up an awful holler.

A Timely Warning.

With the coming of hot weather the following warning from the state health department is very timely and proper observance of the precautions mentioned therein may result in prevention of serious injuries or the saying of lives.

A general public warning against hydrophobia (rabies) is in order at this time. Reports from over the state show that there are more than the usual number of cases this season.

While hydrophobia can be communicated by other animals than dogs, yet the dog is the most important animal to consider in relation to this disease. Effective muzzling of all dogs is the only method to prevent spread of this fatal disease. All worthless tramp dogs should be killed; all others should be secured, but humanely, muzzled. The state law (Act 306, P. A. 1909) authorizes township boards of health to establish quarantine and to order all dogs in the township or any part thereof, restrained, confined or muzzled. This law should be taken advantage of now, under conditions over the state warrant it. Village and city ordinances providing for restraining or muzzling dogs should be strictly enforced.

All persons bitten by dogs suspected of being rabid (mad) should be taken immediately to the Pasteur Institute of the State University at Ann Arbor for treatment. This treatment, if taken advantage of, will absolutely safeguard the patient. There has never been a death from hydrophobia among all the patients treated at the University Pasteur Institute.

A dog suspected of having rabies should be securely tied and observed for developments. If for any reason it is necessary to kill the dog he should not be shot in the head as that renders it impossible to make the necessary laboratory examination to determine whether or not he had rabies. The dog's head should be packed in ice and sent to the Pasteur Institute, Ann Arbor, for examination. No charge is made for such examinations.

Let us have a general muzzling of dogs in Michigan the balance of the summer months and a wholesale doing away with worthless, tramp dogs.

R. L. DIXON, Secretary,
State Board of Health.

Forest Notes.

The Balkan war has brought about a rise in certain lumber prices in Europe because of the big demand for wood for ammunition boxes.

Dogwood, the principal source of shuffles for use in cotton mills, is growing scarcer and scarcer year by year, and various substitutes are being tried, but with no great success.

The officials of the Yosemite National Park are co-operating with the forest officers of the Stanislaus and Sierra national forests for fire prevention and control in both the park and the forests.

Experiments with a tree planting machine at the Utah Agricultural Experiment Station indicate that it may be used to advantage in reforesting old burned areas on the national forests.

The leading forest schools of the country not only have their own forest tracts for continuous experiments, but give their students actual experience in the woods by having them take part in big lumbering operations.

Rid Your Children of Worms

You can change fretful, ill-tempered children into healthy, happy youngsters, by ridding them of worms. Tossing, rolling, grinding of teeth, crying out while asleep, accompanied with intense thirst, pains in stomach and bowels, feverishness and bad breath, are symptoms that indicate worms. Kickapoo Worm Killer, a pleasant candy lozenge, expels the worms, regulates the bowels, restores your children to health and happiness. Mrs. J. A. Brisbin, of Elgin, Ill., says: "I have entirely rid my children of worms. I would not be without it." Guaranteed. All druggists, or by mail. Price 25c. Kickapoo Indian Medicine Co., Philadelphia and St. Louis. J. M. Wuggazer & Co., Tawas City, and Jas. E. Dillon, East Tawas. adv.

Noxious Weed Notice.

To Owners, Occupiers or Possessors of Lands, or any person or persons, firm or corporation having charge of any lands in this state:

Notice is hereby given that all noxious weeds growing on any lands anywhere within the below named Township, or within the limits of any highway, passing by or through such lands must be cut down and destroyed on or before the 1st day of July, 1913. And must also be cut down and destroyed again on or before September 1st, 1913, and as much often as necessary to prevent all such weeds from going to seed.

All brush growing along right-of-way of any highway must also be cut down and destroyed on or before first above named date.

Failure to comply with this notice, on or before each date mentioned, or within ten days thereafter, shall make the parties so failing liable for the cost of cutting and destroying the same and an additional levy of ten per cent of such cost, to be levied and collected against the property in the same manner as other taxes are levied and collected.

Dated this 30th day of June, 1913.
W. C. OSTRANDER,
Commissioner of Highways, Township of Burleigh, County of Iosco, State of Michigan.

For Cuts, Burns and Bruises

In every home there should be a box of Bucklen's Arnica Salve, ready to apply in every case of burns, cuts, wounds or scalds. J. H. Polanco, Delvalle, Tex., R. No. 2, writes: "Bucklen's Arnica Salve saved my little girl's cut foot. No one believed it could be cured." The world's best salve. Only 25c. Recommended by J. M. Wuggazer & Co., Tawas City, and Jas. BILLY AND THE TWINS

By J. M. CROWN.

It was Billy Peters who first said that the twin sisters were scrumptious. As Billy was a twice-a-week caller at the home of the Misses Ellen and Mary Roy, it is to be presumed that it meant something flattering.

The twins looked alike and dressed alike and sang alike and became sentimental each in the same way. Billy didn't know which one he wanted. Half the time he didn't know which was Ellen, and the rest of the time he didn't know which was Mary. Where he escorted one, he escorted the other. It was expensive. Billy began to run into debt.

"This won't do," he decided. "I'll get a photograph of each. Then I'll go off by myself and decide which one gets the prize.

The Misses Roy gave their photographs willingly. Billy took them home. He sat down with a lead pencil to mark them for identification. "This one is—H'm! Why didn't I let them autograph them? Which one is this one? Blessed if I know. Well, we'll mark this No. 1 and this No. 2."

Next day Billy started on his vacation. He went to a quiet farmhouse. The board was cheap, and the quiet gave him plenty of time to decide his fate. He scanned the pictures in the woodland, in the meadow, in the fields, and in the orchard. Finally his troubled soul was stilled. No. 1's smile was just a bit smliler than No. 2's.

"That's the one I'll marry," said Billy Peters.

So he came home. He had decided that he'd forthwith propose to No. 1. Then his soul sickened. Which was No. 1?

However, Billy was equal to a little thing like that. He carried the photo of No. 1 with him to the Roy home. The twins entertained him in the parlor. Billy took the photo from his pocket.

"Whose little face is this?" he asked. Mary Roy studied the likeness. "Why, that's Ellen." Ellen studied it. "It is not. It's you, Mary."

Billy Peters went home with a headache.

It took Billy two days to straighten out this tangle. This time he had a real idea. He put two slips of paper into a hat. One was marked Ellen and the other was marked Mary. He closed his eyes and drew out Ellen.

That night Billy called again. One of the twins was in the parlor.

"Ellen," he began, tremulously. "I'm Mary," she smiled.

Billy swallowed hard. Well, what difference did it make?

"Mary," he asked, "will you be my wife?"

She shook her head. "I'm sorry, Billy. I like you. But I won't marry until Ellen marries."

The other twin entered the parlor. Billy manipulated his fountain pen and then shook hands with Ellen. He seemed quite sorry that he had inked her hand. But he had her marked.

That was the main thing.

Half an hour later one of the twins left the room. The one that remained had ink on one hand. Billy hastened to her side.

"Ellen," he whispered, "will you be my wife?"

She shook her head. "I'm sorry, Billy. I like you. But I won't marry until Mary marries."

"What do you think I am," he demanded, "a Mormon?"

But there was still a fight left in this much harassed lover. Soon he had another plan. He'd dip up a nice chap—lots of nice chaps. He'd take them to the Roy home. If one of them married Ellen he'd take Mary, and if one married Mary, he'd march off with Ellen.

He brought nine young men to their home. Then the twins woke up and told him to stop.

"I'll marry nobody but you," said Ellen.

"And I'll marry nobody but you," said Mary.

"But I won't marry you unless you marry Mary."

"And I won't marry you unless you marry Ellen."

About Birds.
 (BY L. H. BELKNAP.)
THE ORIOLES: In Michigan we have two species of these birds, the Baltimore and orchard oriole. The male of the orchard oriole is chestnut and black, and the female dull yellowish and gray. This species seldom visits Northern Michigan. They have a rich, loud and rapid warble which is very pleasing but impossible to describe. Their chief food is worms, caterpillars, beetles and grasshoppers, and so is a very beneficial bird.
 The Baltimore oriole is very common to these parts. The male is orange and black and the female dull yellowish and gray. They seem to like the company of man for they build near houses and often very near the windows when the trees are near the houses. Their nest is a pensile structure, and often hanging ten inches below the supporting rim, and swaying to and fro with every breeze. The bird returns year after year to the same tree but nearly always builds a new nest. The main food of the Baltimore oriole is insects and it certainly is a great destroyer. Beal says: "Added to these good qualities, (eating insects) its brilliant plumage, sprightly manners, pleasing song and skill in nest building excite our admiration. Let the farmer continue to hold his good opinion of the oriole and accord to it the protection it so well deserves."
THE PHOEBE: Whenever you cross a bridge or culvert of any size, you will invariably see a bird with top and sides smoky brown, often blackish, and rest of upper parts grayish olive, fly out from under the bridge or culvert. This bird is the phoebe or pewee. And since I have discovered that nearly every bridge and culvert has its pair of phoebes I look for them as I pass by. A moment's observation will disclose the fact that they cannot sit still, dropping and flitting the tail constantly, seeming to be anxious for the insect that will soon pass by. Not long ago I found a nest built round a half inch iron rod under a bridge. The clay used in building the nest had become dry. So the nest had begun to slide round with its valuable contents of five white eggs. I tied the nest fast to the rod and was rewarded a few days later with seeing five tiny birds open their hungry mouths instead of an empty nest and its broken contents on the ground.
ROSE-BREASTED GROSBEEK: The male of these beautiful birds is black and white with rose breast and under wing coverts; the female resembling a large striped sparrow. This bird is a splendid singer and one of our most brilliant species. They nest in woods and orchards as well as the woodlands. However it is in the woods I see them most often. Prof. Burrows of the M. A. C., states that the male, as has been attested by numerous observations, often incubates and not only that, but sings while it sits on the nest. Its song resembles that of the robin, but is not quite so loud, but fuller and more varied. The bird sings on white on the wing as well as while perched. The grosbeak has a fondness for potato bugs, and has been seen escorting its young to the potato field to teach it to eat this particular insect.
THE NIGHT HAWK: This valuable bird is one of our best known summer birds, and too well known to need description. It has two white spots, one on each wing, which a great many people take to be holes in their wing. It feeds in the mornings, evenings and some during the nights when there is moonlight. It often rises to great heights and then suddenly dives to a point within a few feet of the ground where it checks itself and rises to its original height with a remarkable sweep. Its food consists of insects and these are taken mostly on the wing. The bird seems to be fond of insects, 1,800 ants having been found in a single stomach. These are the winged ants. This bird should be brightly protected against poor sportsmen who seem to find fun in shooting them on the wing. They lay their eggs in the open, never in the shade.
THE WHIP-POOR-WILL: This bird is often confounded with the night hawk but the two are easily distinguishable from each other. Where the night hawk has a forked tail and white band across the wings, the whip-poor-will has a rounded tail with white outer tail feathers and no white spots on the wings. Its note is a loud whistled, "Whip-poor-will," often repeated.
 As a concluding article on "About Birds," I will next week write entirely of birds' nests.

ALL THE INFORMATION NEEDED
What the Bashful Girl Learned From the Brutal Clerk in the Post-office.
 She was all dolled up in her gayest winter toggery and she advanced to the information window at the postoffice with a pink tinted missive in her hand.
 "I want you to tell me," she commanded between tell-tale blushes as she showed him the address on the envelope, "how long it will be before I can get an answer to this letter?"
 "That all depends," growled the cold, indifferent clerk, upon whom her charms made not the slightest impression. "If he's in jail he can't write but once a week, or maybe once a month. If he's dead broke he'll have to wait until he can raise the price of a stamp, and I don't know how much of a hustler he is. If he's laid up in a hospital he may not want to send you his choicest heart throbs via a third and disinterested person. If he's meanwhile died he'll be beyond the reach of the mails. If he's picked up a new best girl—"
 But she had gone on her way.

MADE HER LOOK ANIMATED
Mrs. Blank's Husband Accompanied Her to the Studio, and a Good Picture Resulted.
 Mrs. Blank was preparing to visit the photographers and as her husband had not been satisfied with several other pictures for which she had sat on previous occasions, it was suggested that Mr. Blank accompany her. Like the good husband that he was, he set aside all other business and proceeded to the studio, prepared to show to the camera man his knowledge of pose and expression. For this purpose he stood by the operator and directed his wife how and when to sit, together with several other details. It was a rude shock to his interested efforts when he was quietly but firmly requested by the operator to desist, and while no slang was used, he understood that "butting in" would not be permitted.
 "Anyhow," boasted Mr. Blank, "it was the best picture she ever had taken. The little discussion was just enough to excite her and make her quite animated. So my visit wasn't wasted after all."

HOW THEY BEGAN LIFE.
 A Paris journalist has amused himself by compiling a list of the occupations followed by some of his countrymen and others before they became more or less illustrious in opera. We are informed that Tamagno, the heroic tenor, remembered as Othello, began his career as a carrier; Van Dyck as a barrister and afterwards a journalist; Dalmore as a cornet player in Lyons (the tenor himself says it was the horn that he played); Alvarez as a bandmaster, and Salignac as a sculptor at Aix, and afterward a violinist at the Marseilles opera. The writer refers to the apprenticeship of no women, except Mlle. Delna, whose real name is Marie Ledant, the contralto who left New York last season with imprecations upon its lack of appreciation. As a girl she served at Meudon, near Paris, in a restaurant owned by her uncle.

JUST HIS LINE.
 "Your trouble is indigestion," said the physician to the new patient who had called at his office. "Now, don't eat too much, and walk a great deal."
 "Don't eat too much, and walk?" replied the patient. "You don't seem to know who I am, Doc. I'm a comedian with a theatrical traveling company!"
SECOND MISFORTUNE.
 He—I was born on the same day on which Richard Wagner died.
 She—Yes, yes. A misfortune seldom comes alone.—Fliegende Blaetter.

UNFOUNDED PREJUDICE.
 Nan—What is it they call these people that don't believe in giving useless Christmas presents?
 Fan—Spug uglies, isn't it?
QUITE ANOTHER THING.
 Marks—I hear that you have been operating in the stock market.
 Parks—You've been misinformed. I've been operated upon.
GOOD REASON.
 "Why do they call that poor fellow everybody imposes on a goat?"
 "Because he is the butt."

than music, his profession. In Brillat-Savarin's great work, "The Physiology of Taste," are axioms as profound—at least least as entertaining—as ever Plato or Epicurus set down. For example: "The education of the tastes and the appetite should be an index of the degree of civilization."

"Digestion, of all bodily functions, has most influence on the morals of the individual."

"A good dinner is but little dearer than a bad one."

"The most momentous decisions of personal and material life are made at table."

"The fate of nations depends on how they are fed."

"The man of sense and culture alone understands eating."

"The discovery of a new dish does more for the happiness of the human race than the discovery of a planet."

Louis XVIII invented a famous dish—which is perhaps the best thing he ever did for his people. The Prince of Condé won international fame as the inventor of an improved bean soup. Richelieu, Colbert and Mazarin were celebrated for like achievements.

It does not follow that, in emulation, our chief magistrate should add to his already illustrious service by donning an apron and inventing an entirely original sauce princetonaise; or that our genial Secretary of State should aid our visitors from foreign courts to forget the episode of the unfermented grape-juice, by evolving for their delectation a consommé a la Commoner. But our fellow citizens and their better natures, and our doctors, and most emphatically our nurses, ought to make pure food well cooked a matter of serious national import. The only animal which cooks its food is man, and this is a badge of distinction from the brute. We cook food for at least four reasons: to sterilize it, to make it nutritious, to render it more easily digestible, and to improve or vary its flavor. The last of these is at least as important as any of the others. When the gustatory nerves tingle in response to the stimulus of some rare condiment or aroma, the saliva flows in joyous excitement, and the digestive juices, by whose benign influences food is transformed into nourishment, respond in salutary and fullest measure. The simple and pleasant way to bring this about is to pay proper attention to the flavor of food.—Journal of the American Medical Association.

IMPORTS OF DRINKS

Consular Reports Show United States Largest Coffee Consumer.

Amount of Cocoa Brought to This Country Nearly Trebled in Ten Years—Japan and China Send Most of the Tea.

Washington.—Imports of cocoa into the United States in the year which ends with December will exceed those of any earlier year and approximate 150,000,000 pounds, against 57,000,000 pounds ten years ago. The growth in the importation of this article in recent years has been much more rapid than that of tea or coffee. The quantity of cocoa, or cacao, imported in 1912 is practically three times as great as in 1902, a decade earlier, while tea imports show an increase of but 20 per cent, and those of coffee are actually less than in 1902, the comparisons being for the nine months ending with September of the years named.

This rapid increase in importations of cocoa has brought the United States to first rank in the consumption of that article, the present consumption, based upon the net imports of the calendar year 1911, being 130,000,000 pounds, compared with 112,000,000 for Germany, 60,000,000 for France, and 56,000,000 for the United Kingdom, out of a world consumption of approximately 500,000,000 pounds. Of the world's imported coffee the United States is also the largest consumer, the net imports last year having been 796,000,000 pounds, compared with 404,000,000 for Germany, 245,000,000 for France, 28,000,000 for the United Kingdom, and 26,000,000 for Russia. In imports of tea, however, the United States ranks third, her total imports of that article, 100,000,000 pounds, being exceeded by those of the United Kingdom, 294,000,000 pounds, and those of Russia, 155,000,000 pounds. Germany's tea imports for consumption in 1911 amounted to but 8,000,000 pounds, and those of France 3,000,000 pounds.

Most of the cocoa imported into the United States is produced in the West Indies, Central and South America. Of the 131,000,000 pounds imported in the first nine months of 1912, 31,000,000 pounds were from British West Indies, 28,000,000 from Santo Domingo, 20,000,000 from Ecuador, and 12,000,000 from Brazil; while 20,000,000 pounds were credited to Portugal and 7,500,000 pounds to the United Kingdom, though, in fact, produced in certain of their colonies.

Brazil is the chief source of our imported coffee, having supplied 435,000,000 pounds out of a total of 651,000,000 pounds imported in the nine months ended with September, 1912, compared with 55,000,000 from Colombia, 37,500,000 from Venezuela, 37,000,000 from the Central American American states, 29,000,000 from Mexico and less than 60,000,000 pounds from all other countries, including 42,000,000 pounds imported from Europe.

Japan usually supplies about one-half of the tea consumed in the United States, though in the current year the proportion imported from that country is somewhat less than one-half. Of the 67,000,000 pounds of tea imported in the nine months under review, 29,000,000 pounds were from Japan, 18,000,000 from China, 10,000,000 from the East Indies, and 7,000,000 from the United Kingdom, presumably the product of certain of her colonies.

The relative increase in importations of cocoa, coffee and tea into the United States is illustrated by the following compilation of the Statistical Division of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce. It will be seen that in the period from 1880 to 1911 imports of cocoa increased from 6,600,000 to 184,000,000 pounds; those of coffee from 404,000,000 to 800,000,000 pounds, and those of tea from 68,000,000 to 104,000,000 pounds. Imports of cocoa are thus twenty times as much as in 1880, while those of coffee in the same period have about doubled, and those of tea increased about 50 per cent.

ILLITERACY DECREASES.

Illiteracy in the United States has decreased during the last decade from 10.7 to 7.5 per cent., according to statistics just given out by the census bureau. That the decrease has not been even more marked is due to the heavy immigration in the last ten years.

An illiterate in the eyes of the census bureau is a person of ten years or over who cannot write, regardless of his or her ability to read. The number of illiterates in the United States in 1910, when the last census was taken, was 5,516,693, as compared to 6,180,069 in 1900—a decrease of about 600,000. And a decrease of about 800,000 from the figures of 1890.

Compared with most countries of Europe and South America, the United States has a record of which it may well be proud. In Austria the percentage of illiteracy was 26.2 in 1900, the latest figures available. In European Russia, 70 per cent of the population ten years old or over was illiterate in 1897; in Greece the percentage was 57.2; in Spain in 1900, 58.7; in Italy in 1900, 48.2; in Canada the percentage among the people five years old or over was 17.1 in 1901; in Mexico the percentage among persons eleven years old and over was 75.3.

But the United States has not equalled the records of some of the more enlightened European countries in wiping out illiteracy. Among Scandinavians it has become so rare that it is negligible, and the statistics no longer take account of it. In Germany the army recruits showed 3-10 of 1 per cent, illiterate in 1905; in Great Britain the percentage of illiteracy among army recruits in 1903-1904 was 1. In France the illiteracy among the population ten years of age and over in 1906 was 14.1.

NEW HEAD FOR NAVY WIRELESS.

Commander W. H. G. Bullard will head the radio-telegraph office soon to be established at the Navy Department under the Bureau of Navigation. Lieutenant Commander D. W. Todd, in charge of the radio division of steam engineering, will be his assistant.

The radio office is necessary because of the expansion of radio affairs, due to the ratification of the Berlin convention and the radio legislation which has been enacted and which goes into effect on December 13. The London convention will also entail additional legislation.

An important event in wireless communication is the establishment of a radio station at the American Legation in Pekin. This station will be operated by the marines on duty at the legation. It has been possible to communicate easily at night with American naval ships at Shanghai, a distance overland of about six hundred miles; also with ships at Chefoo and Tsingtau.

This installation will add materially to the efficiency of the Asiatic fleet, due to the fact that communication can be established between the American Minister at Pekin and the commander in chief of the Asiatic fleet at either Shanghai or Hankow. It is the only radio station in Pekin in an efficient state. In case land wire communication with Pekin be cut the value of this station is obvious.

TO SEEK LOST CONTINENT.

Vilhjalmur Stefansson of the American Museum of Natural History, discoverer of the new tribe of "blonde Eskimos" in the arctic, announced the other day at the Cosmos club, where he was a guest, that he will head an exploring expedition, which will start from either Seattle or San Francisco in May, 1913, to settle the question whether or not there is, as many scientists believe, another continent in the arctic.

The expedition has been voted the scientific support of the American Museum of Natural History. Funds will be furnished from private resources. Mr. Stefansson expects to take with him a staff of six scientists. There are more applicants for the positions than there are places to fill, and the personnel of the party has not yet been settled.

The expedition will proceed from the Pacific coast up around Behring strait and will have its main base of operations at Cape Bathurst.

Wise Precaution.
