Always speak a word for your town wherever and whenever you can. The man who is continually knocking the place he lives in can do a lot of harm without being aware of it. If you don't feel like saying a good word for your town put a padlock on your jaw and don't say anything.—Ex.

George Lake and Roy Wood went to Bay City last Saturday. Monday morning they were joined in that city by Anthony, Andrew and Walter Anschuetz and the five started for Swift Current, Sask., on a prospecting trip with the expectation of taking up some land in that section of the country.

Rev. W. J. Roberts and family returned Tuesday to their home at Alpena, after camping for several weeks on the bay shore south of the city. Rev. Roberts will remain in Alpena during Chautauqua week, after which he will supply the First Baptist church of Jackson and visit friends in Detroit.

According to an estimate made at the state game department at Lansing, there are now but 60,117 deer left in the state. The number slaughtered last year was 12,000. Of the 88 counties in the state deer are found in 40 of them. The animals are disappearing so fast that still further restrictions in the hunting of them will be made.

Last Friday forenoon the alarm of fire was heard and upon investigation it was found that the large pile of pine wood near Rudolph Stark's mill was on fire and blazing merrily. The volunteer department responded quickly and two streams of water were soon playing on the fire, which was soon extinguished.

This is the second time that fire has been discovered in the same place, a small blaze being extinguished there some two weeks ago. Sparks from the smoketack were evidently responsible for both fires.

Statistics compiled by the government, go to prove that during the past ten years, throughout the middle states, the population of towns of less than twenty-five hundred has almost invariably decreased while the large cities have increased proportionately. The great reason given for this is the centralizing of business. This condition of business is perhaps natural and unavoidable, but much can be done by the small towns towards holding their own if they adopt some of the city business methods. Until the country towns wake up and fight the cities with their weapons, the trade is bound to drift cityward.—Ex.

A Plea for the Bond Issue.

Editor of Herald,

Next Monday the voters of Iosco county will be called on to settle the most important question that has been brought to them in many years.

Shall Iosco county keep pace and advance with other progressive counties of the state or shall we remain in a rut fifty years in the rear? Good roads mark the advancement of the world.

Let our voters decide in favor of the bonding question next Monday and we will see the county make the greatest gains in population and agricultural development in the next few years that it has ever made. Our farmers will increase their wealth, far in advance of the cost of the roads built, by time saved in getting their products to the market and in the wear and tear on their teams and vehicles, to say nothing of the increased value of their farms. It is a business proposition, and every good business man, be he farmer or merchant, will support the bonding proposition.

Probably more absolutely ridiculous and unreasonable arguments are being put forward by a few narrow, ignorant bigots against the proposition than was ever advanced in the county on any previous question. This class are largely those who are failures as farmers or in other vocations, or men who have no real interest in civic advancement.

No voter should settle this question on personal reasons. It should only be considered on the broad question of what is the best for our county. If this is done the majority in favor of the bond next Monday will be overwhelming.

It is wholly unnecessary to ever increase our taxes one dollar to meet the payments. In fact the revenue from the bonds, with the state awards and our present road tax rate would pay the bonds and interest and keep the roads in repair without any increase. This can be easily proven by any one who will take the time to figure it out.

Let us lay aside personal questions and turn out and place Iosco county on the map as one of the most progressive counties of Michigan. You will never have reason to regret the action.

A TAXPAYER.

Iosco County Fair.

The officers and directors of the Iosco County Agricultural Society are making extensive preparations for what they believe will be the best fair in the history of the association.

The dates of the fair this year are Sept. 24, 25 and 26. A good racing program has been prepared for the two last days, with liberal purses for the winners, and it is expected that some good sport in this line will be witnessed. Prizes have also been offered for athletic sports and baseball games have been scheduled for the 25th and 26th.

A large amount of money has been appropriated for additional premiums to exhibitors and more liberal displays are looked for in every department than have been seen heretofore. Many more attractions than those mentioned above will be offered and it will be well worth your while to attend the fair at Tawas this year.

For particulars and premium lists address, L. J. Patterson, Secretary, Tawas City, Mich.

Temperance Meeting.

Mrs. Scott, district president of the W. C. T. U. will hold a meeting at the M. E. church next Thursday evening, Aug. 14, at 8 p. m. local time, for the purpose of reorganizing the local W. C. T. U. and also to organize a young people's temperance society.

A program of music and short addresses will be given and a cordial invitation is extended to all to be present. Men especially invited.

Card of Thanks.

To the kind friends and neighbors who extended to us their sympathy and assistance during the illness and death of our brother, Charlie Rikely, we wish to extend our sincere and heartfelt thanks. Also for the beautiful floral offerings which were sent.

Plan Presented to Change High Schools to Fit Present Needs.

After a study of the present day high school, Superintendent of Public Instruction Luther L. Wright has devised the following code of fourteen articles for the readjustment of secondary schools:

First. Course of study should be broadened, one route to point towards the university for the few and another towards industrial for the many. In the college preparatory courses, most of the work now offered beyond the fifteen units should be eliminated, foreign languages offered only for those preparing for college, and that simply because the college requires it. It ought to be possible in Michigan to get an education in English language.

Second. Have fewer academic subjects, fewer sciences, but take these for a longer time.

Third. Do away with the idea that a student, especially a girl, must take subjects for which the student has no aptitude.

Fourth. Provide industrial training for everybody, every day, every boy in the shop and every girl in the kitchen; at least until a pupil is certain that he is to follow the route toward the college, this training to head straight toward a life work.

Fifth. Special trade or continuation schools for those who want a trade, the trades to be taught by a master workman and not by a school teacher.

Sixth. Break the lock-step for graduation. The high school is run on the plan that everybody may or will graduate. For the student who can remain only a year or so the present high school has little to offer. Give any one who is willing to work an opportunity to fit himself for a livelihood in the shortest time possible. This means special classes, graduation in less than four years. It means, perhaps, classes started at irregular time. It means teachers who appreciate the situation.

Seventh. Lengthen school day and week and year. High school students are capable of much work. The long vacation and the short school day tend to create a habit of laziness. The great asset that a young man may bring to his life job is the habit of work. The Russell Sage Foundation has recently published a Comparative Study of Public School systems in the Forty-eight states. On page 11 you will find this sentence, "As a nation the United States has a shorter school day, and a shorter school year than any other highly civilized country in the world." But there must be a diversity of work, work for the hand and the mind, so that the work will be less like drudgery than now. We must hustle more and hurry less.

Eighth. Fewer books, more laboratories, shops and study of things, and greater emphasis on the constructive side.

Ninth. Less written work, more oral, more public speaking; much less of written work intended for the waste basket.

Tenth. Study of modern English classics instead of ancient English classics.

Eleventh. Run the school primarily for the great majority who can never go to college. Give the others their fair share of attention, but do not, as now, let their interests dominate the school.

Twelfth. Bear in mind that different types of education are required for boys and for girls.

Thirteenth. Make the school to fit the community and the course of study to fit the public.

Fourteenth. Emphasize the idea that the school is a work shop and that there is no substitute for work.

American Jews in War.

In answer to a query concerning the number of Jews in the Civil and Spanish wars, the following is given by an eastern newspaper:

In the civil war there were between seven and eight thousand Jews engaged on both sides. Among these were 9 generals, 18 colonels, 8 lieutenant colonels, 40 majors, 205 captains, 325 lieutenants, 48 adjutants, &c., and 25 surgeons.

The Jews taking part in the Spanish-American war were as follows:

Officers: Army, 32; Navy, 27.

Non-commissioned officers and men: Army, 2,540; Navy, 42.

A Cure for Disappointed Love.

Bulletin From State Dairy and Food Dept.

Advertisements of the Ensign Remedy Company at Battle Creek, Michigan, attracted the attention of this department some time ago and an employee was instructed to answer the "ad." The literature sent him in response consisted of two booklets extolling the virtues of the Ensign remedies.

The Ensign remedies in these booklets are recommended for all the diseases, mental and physical, that men and women are heir to and then some; the only disease that we can think of that is not mentioned in the book being "political itch."

Among the diseases specifically recommended for treatment by the Ensign Remedies are deafness, barber's itch, goitre, gray hair, bunions, cancer, bow legs, lock jaw, ingrowing toenails, tooth ache, tuberculosis, small pox, warts, worms, rheumatism, paralysis, rupture, mumps, tobacco habit, epilepsy, cross eyes, cataract, emaciation and corpulency. The various remedies have all the same outward appearance. Each consists of a small vial holding four drams containing small white pellets about the size of a mustard seed. The price is $1.00 per vial and six pellets is a dose. The different remedies which are to be taken internally are distinguished from each other by numbers and letters.

A distinguished feature is the use of internal remedies for mental diseases. According to their booklet if you are bashful you should take remedy 186 A. If you have delusions that you see animals and reptiles, you should take 187 A and B but if you only "see" persons and people then 187 E and F is the proper thing. If you have a religious delusion that you are "lost and damned," the book says take 187 L and M but if you only "despair of your soul's salvation" take 188 E and F.

For stage fright the book recommends 205 A and B. If you are disappointed in love you are also advised to take 205 A and B, but if you are married and your wife is jealous, give her 195 A and B. If the hired man is lazy and lacks ambition, the book recommends 196 A and B, but if he is only "obstinate and unreasonable" give him 199 A and B. If you have a general tendency to commit suicide, take 202 A and B but if the tendency is to suicide by the razor route, the book advises 202 E and F, but if you prefer the gun route, then the book advises 202 G and H.

What are these remedies that cure everything from cancer to corpulency; from disappointed love to ingrowing toenails. In the literature it is called the "Biochemic Treatment."

Ensign says "whatever is sufficient to build the human body is sufficient to keep it in repair." The booklet says, "The Ensign Remedies are composed of food stuffs and substances necessary to every human body." The booklet also states "These remedies are to be relied on in the most dangerous ailments. The appropriate remedy will relieve pain more quickly and certainly than the most powerful drug."

The booklet also states "Remember you are not taking medicine, but absolutely essential material, which will be used if needed and thrown off as waste if it is not."

Our drug analyst sent for the respective cures for appendicitis, hay fever and pneumonia. The analysis of each remedy showed each to be composed of 100 per cent sugar. We doubt the efficacy of sugar as a cure for love sickness where the system is over-cloyed with sweetness. Perhaps it might do for jealousy or irritable dispositions.

Anyhow if residents of Michigan want to try the sugar cure for all diseases let us suggest that instead of buying the Ensign Remedies at $1.00 per vial which is at the rate of $59 a pound for sugar, that they take as much sugar as can be held on the point of a pen knife three times per day. It will probably accomplish fully as satisfactory results.

JAMES W. HELME, State Dairy and Food Commissioner.

At Performance of "Hamlet."

"My, did you ever hear so many famous quotations in any one play before? It must have taken a long time to piece them all together so nicely." "Almost long enough to have written an original play!" said the other.—Christian Science Monitor.

SAWDUST BREAD FOR HORSES

Also Would Support Human Life in Case of Wheat Famine, Author Ities Claim.

"While it has not reached the cafe bill of fare as yet and probably never will do so, sawdust bread is being made in large quantities in Berlin," says Henry G. Butler of London in the Detroit Free Press. "One bakery is turning out 20,000 loaves daily, and it is being fed to horses, making a substantial feed for them. The sawdust is fermented and chemically treated and then it is mixed with one-third rye flour, and the dough is shaped into loaves and baked like any other bread."

"Men who have tasted the sawdust bread say that it is not at all bad, and while the bakers do not intend it for consumption by the people they assert that in case of a famine it would come in very handy."

"In various parts of the world the bread is made from trees. The pitch of the sago palm furnishes a white flour and natives of Molucca Island make a bread from it. In British America the inner bark of the pine tree is ground and mixed with oat flour by the Indians and in some places they use this bark without the addition of a flour."

THE STRIKE SITUATION.

The mine operators in the Calumet district made a serious mistake when they refuse to settle the strike after the union men had expressed their willingness to forego recognition of the union in order to facilitate a settlement. The operators are determined that they will not countenance the existence of a union among their employees and declare that they will fight to the last ditch before doing so.

Meanwhile the state is paying out $12,500 a day to protect life and property in the strike district. This is a manifest injustice to the taxpayers of the state, and measures should be taken to force the operators to come to an understanding with the miners and end the present trying situation.

The stand of the operators at the present time is manifestly unjust. The strikers originally demanded recognition of their union, but in order to end the strike and prevent further suffering among the miners because of the stoppage of their earnings, they have withdrawn this demand and now stand ready to arbitrate without this feature entering into the discussion. According to reports from the strike district, this was the only point upon which the men and the operators disagreed, but now that this has been eliminated the operators refuse on general principles to arbitrate the dispute.

This being the condition of affairs, these men should be held responsible for any further trouble in the strike district, and further than that they should be made to pay the expense of maintaining the troops, for the presence of the soldiers would not be necessary if they would consent to a settlement by meeting the miners half way.

The croakers who fear that the country is going to the dogs because of a democratic administration will be somewhat confounded to learn that the exports from the United States increased 16 per cent during the last fiscal year, or in round figures $262,000,000, while imports increased 10 per cent or $160,000,000. Commercial and industrial activity is on the gain and the business interests of the country do not appear to be apprehensive of any dire results from the changes in the tariff, notwithstanding the harmful prophecies of the standpat politicians.

The express companies have been handed another body blow by the interstate commerce commission, which has issued an order reducing their rates about 16 per cent. The reduced rates go into effect October 14, but it is expected that before that time the express companies will go into court to test the constitutionality of the order.

The resignation of Henry Lane Wilson, ambassador to Mexico, has been accepted by the administration, to take effect Oct. 14. Mr. Wilson has ably filled the position since 1909, but his ideas regarding the situation in Mexico were not in harmony with the administration, hence his release.

No Reason For Haste In Dealing With Mexico.

All interests in Mexico have been in jeopardy for many months. Nearly all of the other foreign countries have recognized the Huerta regime. The forced resignation of the lawful president, Madero, and his abominable assassination, occurred only a few days before President Taft went out of office. Our ambassador, Henry Lane Wilson, regarded it as best that we should give prompt recognition to the Huerta-Diaz military and personal dictatorship, in order that our influence might help them to establish a strong enough government to give protection to American and other foreign interests. But there was great abhorrence in this country of the treachery and crime of which Madero had been the victim, and there was much belief that the people of Mexico would at an early day rid themselves of the usurpers.

The movement which had sent the elder Diaz to Europe had been followed at once by an election, and Madero became a constitutional president. Huerta had promised to adopt the same policy, but dates have been deferred and there is no likelihood that such an election will be held even in October, as more recently announced. Revolutionary fighting against Huerta is going on in different parts of Mexico. This present government wishes to raise money by a foreign loan, but lacks the necessary prestige because of the refusal of President Wilson and Secretary Bryan, thus far, to recognize the lawful status of the actual rulers. Our relations with Mexico for more than half a century have been such that the world expects us to adopt and declare a definite policy. The great powers of Europe would like to have the United States intervene in Mexico, because that would give promise of full responsible protection of their citizens and their property interests.

The best opinion in this country, however, is to the effect that our government has no possible reason for invading Mexico and trying to establish order there. It is quite possible for American citizens who cannot live there in safety to return to this country. American investments are very great in Mexico, but they were not guaranteed by our government, and have always been subject to the vicissitudes of a revolutionary country. President Wilson thus far has shown himself to be both firm and cool-headed. There is no need of his doing anything about Mexico until he has deliberately decided upon a course of action that satisfies his judgment. It was reported last month, whether truly or not, that Huerta had just caused the execution of twenty or thirty men who were supposed to have been plotting the assassination of himself and Diaz. He will have to live in a bomb-proof vault if he expects to prolong his own days very greatly, under the existing conditions. His enemies are everywhere, and violent men usually come to violent ends.—American Review of Reviews.

Forest Notes.

The national forests of Chile cover about 7,000,000 acres.

The forest service of India has demonstrated that teak wood grown in plantations is just as strong as that grown in natural forests.

Even the well-protected forests of Germany are by no means immune from fire, and the Prussian fire protection system makes use of lookout towers and telephones.

Much of the so-called silk nowadays is made of wood. Germany produces more than one million pounds of this cellulose silk, worth $1,500,000. A ton of wood worth $10 yields cellulose worth $20, and this cellulose yields silk worth $850.

Army bayonets now form part of the emergency telephone outfit of forest rangers, used chiefly in fighting fires. This emergency line consists of small instruments and a coil of fine copper wire. The wire is attached to the nearest telephone line, the bayonet is thrust into moist ground at the other end, and with the circuit thus completed the ranger can talk with headquarters, report his position, and summon fire fighters if necessary.

The Best Pain Killer.

Bucklen's Arnica Salve when applied to a cut, bruise, sprain, burn or scald, or other injury of the skin will immediately remove all pain. E. E. Chamberlain of Clinton, Me., says: "It robs cuts and other injuries of their terrors. As a healing remedy its equal don't exist." Will do good for you. Only 25c. at J. M. Wuggazer & Co., Tawas City, and Jas. E. Dillon of East Tawas.

Rates to Alpena Chautauqua.

The Chautauqua will be held August 6th to 11th, inclusive. D. & M. will sell tickets at one and one-third fare for round trip on August 5th, 7th and 9th; children between five and twelve half rate; all tickets will be good returning any time up to and including August 12. Rates are in effect only from such points as there are agents. Passengers going on night trains will purchase tickets during the day time. Tickets will not be for sale on the trains.

Slothfulness.

Slothfulness means habitual indolence, or, in other words, Laziness. It breeds insubordination, idleness and extravagance. It indicates worthlessness.

Insubordination is neglect of duty, disobedience, the same as the refusal to submit to the authority of superior officers. Duty commands one to do a certain thing. Sloth says no, not now, some other time will do. A person thus affected has left the main road to Success, and is following the narrow trail that leads to the precipice of Despair and Failure.

Idleness is the desire to be unoccupied, both mentally and physically; to waste valuable time with nothingness. There is plenty of work that should be done, but it is put off until some other time, or an effort is made to keep clear of the place where Work lives. Get along with as small amount of exertion as possible. The less there is to do, the greater is the desire not to do it. If a large amount of work is ahead, Despair seizes the victim and says, "I can't." This person is staggering on the edge of a precipice and sooner or later will fall into the bottomless pit of Stygian blackness.

Worthlessness is the culmination. This is the last stage. It is indicated by slovenly dress and habits. "I will not work." Too tired (?) to lift the feet when walking. This person has fallen over the precipice and is lost to the business world. He can look back to the several positions he held, and see his successor diligently at work. He wonders why his successor holds the position without any of the familiar troubles. Later on the new man leaves the old desk and is advanced to higher positions. The lost one wonders at this too. Perhaps if he compares notes he can see his mistake. But can he get back? Not likely. Once into the Bottomless Pit and there is no getting back.

Let us draw a comparison. The one not affected with any of the above symptoms is neat and orderly in his person and his work. When there is anything to do, he does it, and with a will. If not, he hunts something to do to prevent that demon idleness from getting hold of him. He uses his brain, he studies. His spare time is not put in with his thoughts a blank, or berating his fate. He does not resort to the reading of dime novels. He reads articles that give him food for thought, thereby increasing the capacity of his brain. He is on the main road that leads to that place beyond the horizon and the golden sunset, called Success. It is a hard, rough road, but he surmounts all the difficulties, and with great pleasure.

Success will not come to you; you will have to go to it. It is as immovable as the mountains. The way to get to the mountain top is to climb up to it. It will not come to you. It is a hard, rough climb, but if you stay in the beaten path and Work, you can reach the top. If you leave the beaten trail to find an easier one with Less Work, you will be lost.

Which road are you on? If you are on the wrong road, better turn back and start out again on the right road before it is too late.—Ex.

States Get a Third of Forest Service Receipts.

A circular just issued by the forest service calls attention to the various laws under which more than a third of all national forest receipts go to the benefit of the states in which the forests are situated, for schools and roads. In 1912 the amount of money thus made available for state purposes totaled about $750,000. The report does not show the amounts due from the receipts of the fiscal year which closed June 30, 1913. Including these, the states' share of national forest funds since the laws were passed has aggregated over $3,000,000.

These facts are set forth, according to the forest service, because a popular impression still exists that all money received by the government from timber sales, grazing fees, water power permits, etc., is permanently taken out of the states where it is paid and goes into the national treasury to meet the general expenses of the government. This idea is said to prevail, to some extent, even among actual forest users in the national forest states, where the division of receipts with the states has been going on for years.

The circular states that part of the gross receipts of the national forests was first made available for schools and roads when the agricultural appropriation act of June 30, 1906, directed the Secretary of the Treasury to pay over to the state or territory in which any forest reserve was situated ten per cent of all the money received during the fiscal year from such reserve. The money was to be expended by the state or territorial legislature for the benefit of public schools and roads in the counties in which the forest reserve lay. This legislation was recommended by the forest service because of the recognized burden imposed locally where national forests tend to prevent much land from becoming taxable.

In 1908 the amount to be paid to the states was increased to 25 per cent, and a proviso of the earlier act that no more should be paid to a county than 40 per cent of its total income from other sources was eliminated. Since this proviso was removed, some of the counties' receipts from national forest lands have equalled their income from all other sources.

In August, 1912, the agricultural appropriation act for the year made available an additional 10 per cent of the money received from national forests to build and maintain roads and trails within national forests for the benefit of the public, in the states from which these proceeds are derived. This 10 per cent "road item," as it is called, is expended by the Secretary of Agriculture, who may, according to the act, "whenever practicable in the construction and maintenance of such roads, secure the cooperation or aid of the proper state or territorial authorities in the furtherance of any system of highways of which such roads may be made a part." The total amount expended under this provision from the receipts of the fiscal year 1912 is $207,295. This was apportioned among the states as follows: Alaska $4,675, Arizona $24,645, Arkansas $2,283, California $24,821, Colorado $21,503, Florida $981, Idaho $23,926, Kansas $489, Michigan $2, Minnesota $503, Montana $23,926, Nebraska $1,630, Nevada $6,034, New Mexico $11,850, North Dakota $28, Oklahoma $351, Oregon $17,023, South Dakota $4,226, Utah $13,504, Washington $12,758, Wyoming $12,254.

The Weeks law of March 1, 1911, providing for the acquisition of lands in the Appalachians, provides that five per cent of moneys received from each national forest into which the lands acquired are divided, be turned over to the state for its public schools and roads. New Mexico and Arizona, besides the sums before mentioned, are entitled to approximately 11 per cent of the gross proceeds of all national forests in those states in return for the state school sections within national forests. This provision is embodied in the act of June 20, 1910, authorizing the admission of the two new states.

Suffered Eczema Fifty Years—Now Well.

Seems a long time to endure the awful burning, itching, smarting, skin-disease known as "tetter"—another name for Eczema. Seems good to realize, also, that Dr. Hobson's Eczema Ointment has proven a perfect cure. Mrs. D. L. Kenney writes:—"I cannot sufficiently express my thanks to you for your Dr. Hobson's Eczema Ointment. It has cured my tetter, which has troubled me for over fifty years." ## New Plants Discovered in Study of Grazing Lands.

(From U. S. Dept. of Agriculture, Forest Service.) In making a study of grazing lands on the national forests, 125 entirely new species of plants have been discovered by the government's experts, and will be named and classified by the botanists of the department of agriculture.

Their discovery came about through the collection of some 9,000 different plant specimens, with notes as to their habits of growth and forage value. This work is part of a comprehensive plan to determine the grazing value of every acre of national forest land, in which the capacity of the soil to grow certain forage crops is to be determined and an effort made to decide for which class of stock—sheep, cattle or goats—the range is best suited.

The men who have made the studies have combined the qualities of practical stockmen and trained botanists. They divided the areas into such strong subdivisions that maps have been prepared which show exactly the kinds of feed which grow on each acre, and the time of year it is ready for grazing. The maps also show the stock's water supply and indicate the kind of stock best suited to the area.

The investigation also showed the examiners many areas covered with flourishing plants which apparently should furnish excellent grazing, but which were not of a character relished by stock; these areas, therefore, had little or no stock-carrying capacity.

As a result of the study, the forest service announces that it will be in a position to perfect its system of grazing management to bring about still better conditions for both stock and range.

Nye's Humorous Compliment.

Bill Nye was once introduced to Wagner, the composer. In "Then and Now" Dean Hole relates: "Nye, the American humorist, brilliant as the best, whose comedy never falls to charm, and whose tragic death I shall never cease to mourn, told me that when he met Wagner he said to him, 'Your music is beyond my comprehension, but I always feel sure when I hear it that it is really much better than it sounds.'"
