That the National Association of Manufacturers is much perturbed over the disclosures made by Col. Mulhall before the senatorial investigating committee is evidenced by their strenuous efforts to refute his allegations and cast reflections on his motives. Their latest move is to send to the newspapers throughout the country extensive reprints of editorials and articles published in their defense by various plutocratic newspapers in the large cities. These articles may deceive some of the "easy marks," but they will not have a pinfeather's weight with the thinking men of the country who are well acquainted with the association's strenuous efforts to influence legislation and to elect men who would serve their interests in the national legislative halls.

James W. Helme, state dairy and food commissioner, has made good his promise of exposing the patent medicine fakirs and other leeches who prey upon the credulity of weak-minded people. Nearly every week he comes out with a new expose showing up the ingredients used in the fakes widely advertised as "cure-alls."

Governor Sulzer of New York is in bad because he used his campaign contributions to gamble on the stock market. He refuses to resign and has been impeached for violation of the corrupt practices act.

Peace has once more been declared in the Balkans, a treaty having been signed at Bucharest the first of the week. Wonder when the next battle is scheduled to take place.

New Attitude Toward Juvenile Delinquency.

Previous to the year of grace 1899, all over our broad land, children who had in any way violated an ordinance, or broken a law, were subject to the same forms of arrest, trial, and punishment which befell adult offenders. A child of seven, even, under the common law, could be convicted of crime and sentenced accordingly. It is with an effort that this state of affairs can now be recalled. Public sentiment, feeling its way toward better things, gradually advanced by statute, in many states, this stage of responsible criminality to ten or twelve years.

The process of putting law-breakers of all ages on probation, that is, of allowing them to remain in their accustomed environment, under promise of good behavior, and subject to the oversight of a probation officer of the court who, so far as he could, took the part of guide, philosopher, and friend, was the final long step away from regarding offenders en masse, and the first step toward looking upon them as a collection of persons requiring individual study. Results of this closer, individualized inspection of wrongdoers began to be reflected in the laws establishing juvenile courts. Definitions and terms connected with juvenile crime were changed. It was discovered that an unvarying amount of personal responsibility could not always be demanded of all ages and in any and every circumstance. It was concluded, as recorded in the statutes of the states which hold juvenile courts, that no young person under sixteen could be considered guilty of a crime; that his condition was one of delinquency—or that of falling short—and himself in need of "counsel, protection, aid and assistance" in the words of the new legal phraseology. Therefore, the aim of the juvenile court, in so far as it relates to delinquency, is to help each and every child appearing before it into better character and better living.

This shows so changed a view of the whole question that it surely must be a century or so at least since the time when society was obliged to setup "bulwarks" for its own defense by confining a boy who had stolen a pair of shoes in jail with real criminals for three weeks before giving him a hearing regarding the theft. But, under the law, such things could happen up to fourteen years ago. Were a boy who had stolen a pair of shoes to be brought into court to-day, he would receive totally different treatment from that accorded the boy of much less than twenty years ago. The theft would not be the sole recorded fact of his history. He would be studied in all his relationships. His heredity, family conditions, amount of home training, special temptations, standing in school, former reputation, health, mentality—all would be investigated. And after establishing the fact of delinquency there would be no thought of sending him to jail but of putting him where he could be helped to recover standing and character.—American Review of Reviews.

Suffered Eczema Fifty Years—Now Well.

Seems a long time to endure the awful burning, itching, smarting, skin-disease known as "tetter"—another name for Eczema. Seems good to realize, also, that Dr. Hobson's Eczema Ointment has proven a perfect cure. Mrs. D. L. Kenney writes:—"I cannot sufficiently express my thanks to you for your Dr. Hobson's Eczema Ointment. It has cured my tetter, which has troubled me for over fifty years." Government Buffalo Herd is Increased.

(From U. S. Dept. of Agriculture, Forest Service.) The birth of ten calves in the buffalo herd maintained by the government on the Wichita national forest and game refuge, near Lawton, Oklahoma, has been reported by the game warden in charge. The herd now contains a total of 48 head of full blooded buffalo, or, more properly, bison, of which 27 are males and 21 females. All of the animals are in splendid condition.

In 1907 the American bison society donated to the federal government a nucleus herd of 15 animals which had been bred and reared in the New York zoological park. The animals were transported to the Wichita national forest which is also a game refuge and placed under the care of the Forest Service. They readily adapted themselves to their new habitat, but the area upon which they were placed was within the zone affected by the Texas fever tick and during the two or three years that followed their transfer only the constant care and watchfulness of the forest officers prevented the complete loss of the herd.

The animals were examined almost daily to determine whether they had become infested with Texas fever ticks and were placed in specially designed cages and sprayed with crude oil at intervals of from 15 to 30 days, but notwithstanding the extreme precautions which we adopted three of the animals died. Gradually, however, the enclosures in which the buffalo were confined were freed from fever ticks and there is a possibility that as the buffalo adapted themselves to their new environment they became more or less immune to the disease. No losses from Texas fever has occurred for several years, and the herd has almost quadrupled in number since it was established.

The fact that the herd has not increased more rapidly is due largely to the preponderance of male calves. This characteristic of the buffalo is so pronounced in all of the herds now in captivity that a cow is considered twice as valuable as a bull.

TRAINING FOR THE FIREMEN

Sedalia Alderman Wanted Them to Practice for Two Days Before Each Blaze.

"A number of years ago," said an ex-Sedalian, "a substantial German-American citizen was elected to the council in Sedalia, Mo. His sound business ideas soon made him easily the strongest member of the body in point of influence, but there were times when his ideas became tangled.

"About the time the alderman in question was completing his first term there arose a somewhat general and severe criticism of the town's fire protection. After the matter had been thoroughly discussed the alderman came to the conclusion that the trouble was due to inefficiency on the part of the firemen.

"'Haf it all fixed oop,' the alderman confided to his colleagues at one of the meetings. 'You voste no more dime in dalk. You choost vote for mine ordinance.'

"The alderman had sufficient faith in their associate's ability to cope with the municipal problems to wait for the ordinance, which was to be introduced and passed under a suspension of the rules. They expected a satisfactory explanation when the measure should be introduced. It came.

"'Misturr President,' said the author of the measure, 'der troubles mit dis town iss dat der fire department don't bracties enogh yet. Dis ordinance vill cure der troubles. It says dat der department shall bracties for two days before ebery fire.'"

WERE NOT ON HIS LIST.

The late Rev. Horatio Stebbins of San Francisco was a man of large mind and noble powers, but more familiar with the world of intellectual and scholastic interests than with trivial and timely things, says the Cleveland Leader.

His household was blessed with a charming daughter, who grew up tall and beautiful, commanding the admiration of all who saw her. One day a visitor said to the good doctor: "Doctor, your daughter grows more charming day by day. Why, she's a regular Gibson girl."
"Ah, thank you; thank you," replied the doctor in his best manner. When the visitor had gone, turning to his wife, the doctor asked: "My dear, who are the Gibsons?"

IN APPREHENSION.

"I gave her a plush album on her wedding anniversary. It was one I had about the house for some time, but it looked like new."
"Well?"
"Now she has found that I have an anniversary soon."
"Well, no doubt you expect her to reciprocate."
"Reciprocate is not the word. I'm afraid she will retaliate."

Losses Caused by Bad Roads.

The farmer, and the business man as well, has at last come to realize the losses he suffers from bad roads, and the magnitude of the movement to better conditions is little appreciated by those whose interests have not brought them in contact with it.

A committee of the association selected for investigation the farming district, 750 square miles in area, the trade of which is tributary to Minneapolis. From a thorough canvass of the conditions existing there it was found that the 4069 farmers in the district hauled 560,000 tons of farm produce to the market in 1911 and sold it for $6,665,680.

The committee made the following deductions: On account of bad roads each farmer lost for the year $1.70 for every acre that he farmed; 13 cents every time he carried a ton of farm produce over a mile of bad roads; 9 per cent of his entire crop. He paid as much for bad roads as he did for labor; more than for feed for his stock; twenty-five times as much as for fertilizer.

The combined loss of the farmers, merchants, and manufacturers for one year was $1,518,000. As there are about 3000 miles of road in the district, which could have been kept in good condition for $3000 a year, if properly constructed, in order to ascertain what amount could profitably be invested in good roads, the committee deducted this amount from the total loss, leaving $1,200,000.

Making a Stove Look New.

An old stove can be made to look like new by, first of all, washing it with hot soap suds containing an alkali to get the grease, etc. Mix with any good stove blacking a teaspoon of turpentine. Apply to stove, and when nearly dry polish in the usual way.

Forest Notes.

An organization of scientists who are engaged in the study of forest insects has recently been formed in Washington. Pencil manufacturers are buying up old red cedar fence rails, in Tennessee and southward, to be made into lead pencils.

The steel towers that support electric power transmission lines are being increasingly used by forest rangers as fire lookout stations on national forests. With the harnessing of the mountain streams a network of these lines is gradually being woven over the forests and in the absence of other convenient lookouts, the rangers find the steel towers helpful in their fire patrol work.

The Deadly Ptomaine.

With the advent of hot weather comes an enormous increase in the consumption of ice cream and with this consumption comes the usual reported cases of ptomaine poisoning. Ice cream is a healthful product and one of our cheapest and most valuable foods and there is nothing dangerous in the consumption of ice cream provided proper conditions have been maintained in its manufacture.

There are two conditions under which ptomaine poisoning is liable to result in the manufacture of ice cream—one is caused by the freezing of cream that has once been frozen and returned. It is quite a common thing in many rural districts for ice cream to be furnished church socials with the understanding that cream not used can be returned next day.

The last legislature passed a law providing for a penalty of $100 for any person who reships ice cream or milk cans back to the factory without thoroughly cleansing them. This law will soon take effect and the dairy and food department proposes to vigorously enforce the same and wherever ice cream cans are found unwashed at any station, prosecutions for the violation of this law will be instituted.
