In order to show what can be done on the land comprising the county farm, John Leggett, manager of the farm, brought to the Herald office this week a stalk of beans containing 76 pods. Nearly all the pods contained six beans, which makes the total product from a single seed 456 beans. Mr. Leggett also brought in two stalks of corn which measured 11 feet two inches each. A criticism has been made in both East Tawas and Tawas City during the last week that the prosecuting attorney and sheriff were derelict in not apprehending Albert Schriber before he left East Tawas. In reply to the same the prosecuting attorney says that no complaint was made in his office until Wednesday, September 3rd, at which time warrants were promptly issued and the sheriff expects to serve them as quickly as possible.

A New Venture.

While at the Barkman Lumber Co.'s mill one day this week the writer was shown some of the mission furniture which Mr. Barkman has recently manufactured. The samples shown us were of excellent workmanship and the equal in our judgment of the high class furniture turned out in the large factories.

Mr. Barkman informs us that he started the building of this furniture more as an experiment than anything else, but the success of the venture thus far has so encouraged him that later he intends to extend the field of operation in this direction, providing the demand warrants it.

The pieces already manufactured consist of tables, chairs and benches, built of solid oak in the mission design, also a wardrobe especially for gentlemen's clothes. They are fine examples of workmanship and if merit counts they will certainly find a ready market which will warrant the enlargement of the business.

Some Good Stories.

Chambers; "Parrot & Co.," by Harold McGrath; and "The Barrier," by Rex Beach.

To Whom it May Concern.

By reason of the fact that I am living apart from my wife, Florence Hylton, I wish to give notice to all persons that on and after this date I will not be responsible for any debts that she may contract, and forbid anyone extending credit to her in my name. Signed, A. HYLTON.

ANOTHER FRAUD EXPOSED

Commissioner Helme Throws Light on Some So-Called "Beauty Secrets."

We don't know what the ladies of the state would do if that eminent philanthropist Mrs. Mae Martin should discontinue her "Health and Beauty Hints," to be found in the leading newspapers. Weekly, Mrs. Mae pays out her good money to the leading papers to tell the sisters how to increase and preserve their beauty by using certain "Home made" Remedies that she prescribes.

Next to our old and dear friend Lydia A. Pinkham, Mrs. Mae Martin appears to be one of the foremost benefactors of her sex; but Mae's great forte is to prescribe external remedies to render lovely woman still more lovely.

In a recent issue of one of the leading papers of Michigan an inquirer who signs her name "anxious" and whom it appears is troubled with a prospective crop of whiskers, is answered that "Delatone" will mow off the superfluous growth cleaner than a lawn mower. "Delatone" when analyzed by this department was found to be composed of 80 per cent starch and 20 per cent sulphide of Barium. It costs about one cent to prepare the amount of "Delatone" Mae recommends, but she has generously fixed it up with the druggist so you can buy this hair extermiator for $1.00.

"Genevieve" wants a shampoo to clean her hair that she doesn't want to remove, and Mrs. Mae exultingly tells her that "Canthrox" will do the business so nicely that sweet Genevieve will "never again permit the use of soap" on her head. The funny thing about this statement is that "Canthrox" was found by our chemists to consist of soap and salsoda. Mrs. Mae has arranged with the druggist to sell you a cents worth of soap and salsoda for 50c.

"Auntie" who appears to be having trouble with her liver and losing her strength, complexion and weight, is informed that that "old fashioned Kardene Tonic" is just the checker. One ounce of "Kardene" dissolved in alcohol makes it. "Kardene" was found on analysis to be composed of Iron and Ammonium Tartrate, Tartaric Acid Quinine and Sugar. Mrs. Martin assures "Auntie" that it "will make you weigh just what you want to." What lady could refuse to use "Kardene" in the face of this statement?

"Lucy" has ruined her complexion by too much powder (whether Gun Powder or Insect Powder she does not specify) but in any event Mae assures Lucy that "Spurmax"—6 ounces dissolved in witch hazel and glycerine, will give a "rosy blush and velvety smoothness and bring back the healthy glow of youth to the aged, weather marred and powder ruined skin." Why should "Lucy" hesitate after this effusion especially as the "Spurmax" will only cost her 50c. Our chemists found "Spurmax" to consist of scented and colored Epsom Salts, Epsom Salts cost Mae three cents a pound. "Lucy" pays at the rate of $1.33 per pound for it under the name of "Spurmax." But then you know Mae has to have some extra money to pay advertising bills.

"Jennie" has some irritation of the scalp and wants relief. Now being a mere man the writer, if Jennie had appealed to him, would probably have prescribed insect powder. But Mrs. Mae with that wonderful intelligence that she possesses of all female beauty troubles, tells "Jennie" that an ounce of "Quinzoin" dissolved in alcohol and water will not only remove the irritation but will also bring "a beautiful growth of long silken hair." We would try this ourselves only "silken hair" wouldn't match the balance on our head. "Quinzoin" which sells for 50c and costs 2c is composed of Baking Soda 40 per cent, Quassia 58 per cent and Quinine 2 per cent.

"Annic" has sure got some real troubles. She wants something to "banish the wrinkles, round out the hollows and restore natural beauty." "Annic" is assured that all she has to do to bring about this simple result is to dissolve some "Almozoin" in water and glycerine and apply the solution to the hated facial defects—"Presto Change!" "Al-mozoin" only sells for 50c and costs 5c to make. Our analyst found it to consist of Borax 40 per cent, Magnesia 20 per cent and Gum Tragacanth 40 per cent.

Mrs. Mae has got a few more "zoins" and "maxes" etc, which reduce flesh, "restore graceful lines to the form" and perform other miracles.

We haven't space to tell you about them now but we can only wonder how any Michigan woman can be other than beautiful as long as Mae Martin and her Beauty Column appear weekly in the newspapers.

SCHOOL YEAR HAS BEGUN

Some Changes in Line-up of the Teaching Staff, Large Enrollment.

The year's work in the Tawas City schools and Iosco County Normal began Tuesday morning with a large enrollment in all departments, and with splendid prospects for the best year in their history.

Some changes have been made in the teaching staff and the array of teachers for the ensuing year is as follows:

Superintendent—Ford Bradish.
Principal—Annie Brown.
8th grade—Lillian Crandell.
6th and 7th grades—Annie McNair.
5th and 6th grades—Muriel Murphy.
3rd and 4th grades—Ina Bradley.
1st and 2nd grades—Lucy B. Louch.
Ward School—Lulu Murphy.
County Normal—Catherine Phelan.

The total enrollment in all departments at this date is 242, of which 41 are high school pupils. Thus far there are 11 enrolled in the county normal school and more are expected later on.

The parents and patrons of the schools are urged to take a more active interest this year in the work of the schools. Active co-operation with the teachers will be of great assistance to them in their efforts and will be highly appreciated. An occasional visit to the schools is an encouragement to both teachers and pupils and tends to keep the parents in closer touch with the work their children are doing. The tendency is to send the children off to school and then shirk all further responsibility onto the shoulders of the teachers. This is wrong, for it is only through the co-operation and assistance rendered by the parents that the best work can be accomplished.

The Lutheran parochial schools also have a large enrollment this year. The Zion school, taught by Martin C. Grueber, has an enrollment of 55 pupils and the Emmanuel school taught by Albert Wandersee, starts out with an enrollment of 80.

DROWNED AT TAWAS LAKE

Wm. Hyzer Meets Death While Duck Hunting Monday Evening.

Wm. Hyzer of East Tawas was found drowned in Tawas lake at the entrance to the river Monday evening. He had been duck hunting through the day with some friends, and in starting for home became separated from them and there were consequently no eye witnesses to the accident.

Mr. Hyzer had been subject to heart trouble at various times and the theory is that he was stricken with a fainting spell and fell from the boat. This theory is strengthened by the fact that he had just come from Mr. Anker's farm, where he drank a quantity of cold water, and being in a heated condition from rowing this probably brought on an attack of his heart. The body was found in about two feet of water, and as his gun was found later, fully loaded, this is the only plausible theory.

Deceased was 30 years of age and had been a resident of East Tawas only since April, when he took a position as bartender at the Holland hotel. He leaves a wife and three children to mourn his loss.

The remains were prepared for burial by Undertaker King and Tuesday were taken to Pigeon, his old home, for burial.

TAWAS CITY, MICH., Sept. 5, 1913

Another special session of the legislature is being agitated for the purpose of passing a compulsory arbitration law to apply in cases of strikes. The long drawn out strike in the copper country has made some such law almost imperative and members of the legislature have expressed the opinion that a special session should be called to consider some such legislation.

Secretary of State Martindale has already started his campaign for the gubernatorial nomination next year. Thousands of letters are being sent out from his Lansing office asking for the support of his friends throughout the state. You know "the early bird, etc."

Even royalty is not immune from family squabbles, as witness the dispute in the family of the King of England over the marriage settlement of the Duchess of Fife, who is soon to be married to Prince Arthur of Connaught.

Not content with the usual dangers of aeroplaning, a French aviator has taken to flying his machine upside down and describing the letter "S" in the sky. "What fools these mortals be."

Lack of Confidence.

Ask anybody anywhere what is causing the feeling of unrest that is abroad in the country and they will tell you it is "lack of confidence."

Ask them in what the lack of confidence is and they will tell you that it is a lack of confidence in almost anything from grandfather's remedy for spring pains to the government tariff policy.

Ve editor is willing to make a guess and to bet that the guess won't come far from being 99 per cent truth. The "lack of confidence" is in the other fellow's optimism.

If you think the other fellow is afraid of something ahead you at least believe that discretion is the better part of valor and go cautiously yourself. In the business that means a ten to twenty-five per cent reduction of orders—retailer to jobber and jobber to manufacturer. Then the manufacturer's production is cut down and his employes work at half time. They then cut their orders to the retailer. When the sequence of events gets around to this point the retailer has a good reason for getting cautious.

What are the actual conditions? Ask yourself, ask almost any retailer anywhere how his business compares with last year and he will tell you he is going ahead, more business this year than last. There is employment for men everywhere. Bumper crops are in sight. The two strikes that are being played up in the newspapers just now are not concerned with the vital resources of the country or the people's needs. Their effects must be purely local. Big business has long ago learned that there is more money in prosperity than in hard times, that the "clean up" is never equal to the "what might have been." Why, then, worry?

Collections are slow? They are the first element that feels the effect of a disturbance. Letting the cash discount slip always means that the debtor will stick to his money as long as he can in an effort to make the earning power of the money balance the loss of the cash discount.

To stick to the cash as long as possible is the first impulse that affects the man who is suffering from lack of confidence in the other fellow's optimism. —Michigan Business.

Hawaii Has Great Water Resources.

Water for irrigation is the life blood of the Hawaiian Islands. During 1911 nearly 99 per cent of the exports of the islands to the United States, valued at more than $40,000,000, consisted of agricultural products, and of this amount 93 per cent had either been absolutely dependent on irrigation for its growth or had required the application of water at some period or other to give the largest and most profitable yield. Recognizing the necessity for the careful study of the water resources of the islands, the Territory of Hawaii in 1909 enacted a law providing for a special income tax, one-fourth of the proceeds to be devoted to the conservation and utilization of natural resources, and entered into a cooperative agreement with the United States Geological Survey to make a comprehensive study of water resources. Since that time about $25,000 has been expended on this work, over $17,000 having been contributed by the Territory and nearly $8,000 by the Federal Government. The work has been carried on by and under the direction of the Geological Survey, with much assistance on the part of the Territory and private corporations and individuals. As a result the Geological Survey has just issued a large volume of 550 pages descriptive of the water resources of the Hawaiian Islands—Water supply Paper 318, by W. F. Martin and C. H. Pierce. This volume includes the results of daily measurements of the flow or volume of the principal streams and irrigation ditches in the islands in the last four years.

The critical period is approaching in Hawaiian agriculture, and the point has been reached in the utilization of water at which it is necessary to have definite information regarding the available sources of water before further progress can be made. As the limit of agricultural development in the islands is controlled principally by the possible water supply, it is necessary either to tap new and undeveloped sources or else to save losses in existing supplies and so increase their economic value. The work of the Geological Survey has already proved of the greatest importance, some of the largest irrigation ditches, for example, having been found to be delivering much less water than was supposed. The investigations of stream flow are, however, by no means complete nor do they include all the streams that might advantageously be studied. The work is still in progress and is being pushed as rapidly as the combined appropriations of the Territory and the United States will permit.

The three principal crops of Hawaii are sugar, rice, and taro. Sugar is by far the most important product, and large areas planted in cane depend entirely on irrigation. Some of the lands are naturally adapted to the growing of rice but require a certain quantity of water varying in amount with the stage of the crop. Taro is also an important crop, furnishing the staple food for a considerable part of the population; it requires a continual application of water during its growth. Taro is a large plant which yields a root tasting somewhat like an Irish potato. It is grown to a considerable extent in the United States as an ornamental plant and is popularly known as elephant's ear.

A Talk on Advertising.

A great many merchants in the smaller towns, when asked the reason for not advertising in the local paper will say: "What's the use? I have been here so many years that everyone knows me and knows what I have to sell and when they want something in my line they come here." This line of reasoning has been worn smooth during the past few years, so smooth, in fact that a great many men have slid down to oblivion on it. The man who uses this argument is sincere in his belief, but sincerity does not change conditions. Wherever you go to country town or city, the man who is daily or weekly using the columns of the papers is the one who is getting the business. No one can deny that fact. While the man who sits down and says, "Everybody knows me, etc.," is not getting the big end of the business. Merchants in the smaller towns are continually adding new lines and the only way the public has of knowing about these new lines is by seeing the goods on display in the stores, unless the merchants advertise. The advertising proposition is one of business, not a question of "helping the editor" and the sooner the business man realizes that fact the sooner he gets on "Easy street." While it is absolutely true that no decent paper can be printed without good advertising patronage, the fact remains that the advertiser gets big dividends from the money paid the printer, providing he keeps up his end—makes good—has the goods and gets and keeps the confidence of the public. Ginger up—spruce up, go after business, advertise—and you'll increase your business to a large extent.

There is only one way to advertise and that is to hammer your name, your location and your business so persistently, so thoroughly into people's heads that if they walk in their sleep they will constantly turn their steps toward your store. The newspaper is your friend in spite of criticism. It helps build up the community that supports you and it deserves your support.—Exchange.

American Woods go to Orient.

Recent statistics indicate a marked increase in exports of lumber from the United States to the Orient. More than a quarter of a million feet of American woods are reported as being used in Samoa, Hawaii, and the Philippine Islands. Heretofore, it is said, raw materials have been made up into finished articles in the United States, almost without exception, and exported as such. With the discovery by American manufacturers in the Philippines that they could import United States woods and make them up with profit there, wood-using factories were built. Pacific coast woods, in consequence, are in many cases taking the place of the native woods with such picturesque names as aptong, teak, narra, and yacal.

Douglas fir, according to the information collected by the forest service, is the principal wood exported from this country. It is said to be the favorite wood among insular manufacturers for flooring, ceiling, siding, cornice, shelving, finish, and boat work. Makers of furniture demand California redwood and sugar pine, southern quarter-sawed oak, eastern ash, sugar maple, and western white pine.

Four woods, principally conifers and oaks, go into the construction of boats for framing parts, masts, spars, interior trim, planking, boat crooks, and tiller handles. Meat blocks are made from sugar maple, which with sycamore supplies the entire demand in the United States. Wagon fellos are made of white oak, and other parts of vehicles are manufactured from high grades of white ash and white oak.

Undesirable Citizens.

Recently a very wealthy resident of a Michigan city invested in the stock of a new company that is being organized in Chicago. The news leaked and a few days ago the gentleman in question was met on the street by the secretary of the board of trade of his city who said: "Jim, you know that we've got some mighty good factories right here in this town that are good money-making propositions and that are prevented from growing as fast as they should from lack of capital. Now, why didn't you invest your money here at home where it will do all of us some good—why didn't you do something for your own town? The answer he got was: 'What the h—did this town ever do for me?'"

What does a town do for any man is best answered by "What doesn't a town do for every man." A man might well buy a lot in a town, keep it for twenty years, watch his neighbors build up around it in ever widening circles and then sell his lot for many times its original cost and then ask what the town ever did for him. He may think he owes his neighbor nothing for having increased the value of his lot for him and our remarkable taxing system has taken his view and penalized his neighbor for having been so rash as to improve his property. But a part of everything he has profited on that lot he owes his neighbor, for without his neighbor he could not have made anything. But what's the use of arguing with a man like that or even about him. The quicker a community rids itself of him and his the better for the community.—Michigan Business.

Don't Let Baby Suffer With Eczema and Skin Eruptions.

Babies need a perfect skin covering. Skin eruptions cause them not only intense suffering, but hinders their growth. Dr. Hobson's Eczema Ointment can be relied on for relief and permanent cure of suffering babies whose skin eruptions have made their life miserable. "Our baby was afflicted with breaking out of the skin all over the face and scalp. Doctors and skin specialists failed to help. We tried Dr. Hobson's Eczema Ointment and were overjoyed to see baby completely cured before one box was used," writes Mrs. Strubier, Dubuque, Iowa. All druggists, or by mail, 50c. COMING United Doctor Specialists Will Make Their Regular Visit to East Tawas, at the Hotel Holland MONDAY, SEPT. 8th Hours: 9 a. m. to 6 p. m.

Remarkable Success of These Talented Physicians in the Treatment of Chronic Diseases.

The United Doctors, licensed by the State of Michigan for the treatment of deformities and all nervous and chronic diseases of men, women and children, offer to all who call on this visit, consultation, examination and advice free of charge.

These Doctors are among America's leading stomach and nerve specialists, and are experts in the treatment of chronic diseases of the blood, liver, stomach, intestines, skins, nerves, heart, spleen, kidneys or bladder, rheumatism, sciatica, diabetes, bed-wetting, tape worm, leg ulcers, weak lungs, and those afflicted with long standing, deep seated, chronic diseases, that have baffled the skill of other physicians, should not fail to call. Deafness has often been cured in sixty days.

According to their system no more operations for appendicitis, gall stones, tumors, goiter, piles, etc. By their method these diseases are treated without operation or hypodermic injection. They were among the first in America to earn the name of "Bloodless Surgeons," by doing away with the knife, with blood and with pain in the successful treatment of these dangerous diseases.

If you have kidney or bladder troubles bring a two ounce bottle of your urine for chemical analysis and microscopic examination.

Worn-out and run-down men or women, no matter what your ailment may be, no matter what you have been told, or the experience you have had with other physicians, settle it forever in your mind. If your case is incurable they will tell you so. Consult them upon this visit.

Married ladies must come with their husbands and minors with their parents.

Ptomaines and Sulphites.

A few weeks ago at Ann Arbor a student ate a Hamburger Sandwich and died within twelve hours from Ptomaine poisoning. As we explained in a recent bulletin the Ptomaine poison is formed in decaying animal products. It is a chemical poison that no amount of heat will destroy. The reason it occurs more frequently in Hamburger and Sausage is because of the tendency of some butchers to retain the meat on the block until it is no longer saleable in its original form,—then it goes to the grinder for Hamburger and Sausage.

Right here is where many butchers use a preservative known as "Sulphites." But for the addition of sulphites, this stale meat would not be saleable as Hamburger or Sausage. Sulphites preserve and embalm the meat from further decay by making it insoluble and imputrescible. The process of digestion is one of decomposition. Sulphites are not only injurious to health in themselves, but by preventing decomposition in the stomach injure the food product and make it indigestible. The great danger in the use of sulphites is that it may preserve Hamburger or Sausage in an apparently saleable condition after decomposition has set in and Ptomaine may have formed in the meat. It is a wise precaution for a consumer who likes Hamburger steak to select the meat and have it ground in his presence. When you see Hamburger of a very bright, glairy and unnatural red, the probabilities are that it has been embalmed.

The use of preservatives containing Sulphites is forbidden by the laws of this state. This Department has in the past issued many warnings against the use of this preservative. In the future all cases of Sulphite preserved meat will be vigorously prosecuted.

The Tented Village

By GEORGE W. DICKINSON,
General Manager of the Michigan State Fair.

GEORGE W. DICKINSON.

GRAVE disappointment has always been expressed by Michigan State Fair visitors over the lack of accommodations in the way of sleeping quarters when attending the state's outing in Detroit, and I firmly believe I have partially solved the problem this year with a tented village.

A big area has been apportioned off at the Woodward avenue grounds, and preparations are now under way for the completion of the countless canvas abodes which will house visitors during Fair week.

These will not be merely tent shelters, but will contain all the necessary comforts of sleeping quarters. The district will, of course, be properly policed, and propriety will be severely insisted on.

The innovation is but another step in the working out of the new Fair management's idea that the Michigan State Fair should be a family gathering and not strictly limited to the members of the sterner sex. It was this very absence of adequate sleeping accommodations which prevented the entire family partaking of the pleasures of the Wolverine State's holiday in the past.

The farmer's housewife always dreaded the crush on the cars and the trouble of finding a place to stay while in the city and consequently could not figure on bringing the children to town.

This year rural Michigan can figure on getting to the Fair, say, in the morning and spending the entire day on the grounds and seeing everything worth seeing and never be annoyed with the attendant jam on getting a town bound car after it is over. Then, again, as is often the case, the visitor does not feel that he can see the Fair properly in one day. By sleeping at the grounds he can get up bright and early and start in sightseeing again without extra gate tariff.

What the Fair is.

A gigantic convention of Michigan's agricultural and industrial interests.

A postgraduate course for successful farmers and a primary summer school for the boys and girls.

An educational outing for the entire family, whether from the city or rural districts.

An annual proof of the greatness of the Wolverine State.

A Reminder.

Don't forget to take a ride on the new giant roller coaster at the Michigan State Fair Sept. 15-20. It is absolutely safe. Let the children have the time of their lives.

Brok Couldn't Feaze Him.

A negro stopped a brick at Washington the other day, after it had fallen ten stories and was traveling with the velocity of a cannon ball. When the brick hit William Moore, the negro, on the top of the head, the brick broke into bits. Moore sat down suddenly and apparently was a subject for the coroner. Workmen sent hurriedly for a physician, but before he arrived Moore sat up. "What d'ye want to do that for?" he demanded angrily of a workman. Examination of Moore revealed that all he suffered was a headache.

Art and Common Sense.

It is of no use to spend money by the handful on the arts unless it is done with common sense and a love of those arts. The arts are stronger than ourselves. We must serve them faithfully. If we talk in an impudent manner about "elevating" an art we are only giving ourselves away and showing our ignorance. No one can "elevate" the dramatic art unless he can and will write a play higher than "Hamlet" or "Faust" and surpassing the Greek dramatists.—A. E. F. Horniman.

Forest Notes.

It has been discovered that the waste from dogwood shuttle-blocks can profitably be made into handles for steel knives and forks.

Contrary to popular belief, forest fires seldom travel more than 2 or 3 miles an hour. Even in extreme cases it is questionable whether they burn at a rate of more than 6 to 10 miles an hour.

Uncle Sam's forest rangers require that permanent camp sites within the forests shall be kept in sanitary condition. The ubiquitous tin cans must be buried, and waste paper burned when a camp is left.

More than 3,000 small logging operators now buy national forest timber; at least 25,000 persons, settlers, miners, stockmen, and others, obtain lumber from Uncle Sam's big woodlot for their own use free of charge.

The forests of Corsica, the little island upon which Napoleon was born, are managed by the French government. They produce lumber, firewood, and turpentine, and all parts of the trees are far more closely utilized than in America.

"You Don't Have to Tell Me" how good your school is, how many teachers you have and that you get positions for your graduates for I am well enough acquainted with a good many people who have gone to this school and they've all endorsed it very highly. That isn't what is bothering me.

"I am not sure of myself. I don't know whether I am capable of doing the work and making a success of it. In the first place I haven't any money to throw away and while I know you are doing good work here and all of that, I want to know what you can do for me particularly."

"I have been through the Grammar School and partly through the High School and have obtained a good rank. I want to know that if I take your course of training that I will be able to learn the things you teach and if I get a position that I am able to do the work well enough to hold it. That is the whole thing in a nut-shell," said Miss Ainsley at our office the other day.

Her view of the matter is exactly that of hundreds of others who hesitate about enrolling. Probably you will find yourself agreeing with her. And it was very pleasing to us to be able to answer her to her satisfaction. You see we have had experience with several thousand young people and by close questioning we are able to discover just how far above or below the average any applicant is. It has become a matter of science with us and knowing exactly the other side of the question, the things you must learn, what the business world demands of you, and knowing exactly what progress the average student makes and how successful he is in acquiring this training, we are able to tell you accurately what you will be able to do.

If there is anything puzzling you, if there is an obstinate question you wish answered, whether you finally decide to enter our school or not, we regard it as our part of the service we render the community to answer your questions cheerfully and fully. It will pay you, however, to be just as frank as the young lady quoted above.
