Roads.

By Leslie H. Belknap. The following is a historical review of the science and art of road making from the earliest times to more recent days.

The economic value of good highways were not appreciated by ancient peoples as they are today. In those days roads were built primarily for the movements of troops, and the Phoenicians, Egyptians and Carthaginians who were the way the standing looks at this writing greatest, commercially, used ships for carrying their produce. The first road All the averages seem to cling around about which anything is said is one told the 150 mark, and some better. of by Herodotus about 4000 B.C., and over which it is said materials used for construction of the pyramids were carried. The first roads though of which there is any authentic record are the roods going out from Babylon, and today, the remains of one can be seen any importance, which is that over the River Euphrates near Babylon, were constructed during the reign of Queen

The early Grecian roads were built more for approaches to religious temples. It is recorded that the Romans copied their road building from the Carthaginians whose empire flourished from 600 B. C. to 146 B. C., and was destroyed by Rome. Road building was a state policy with the Roman empire. The roads were divided into three classes, as follows: Royal roads, which which traversed all of Europe and the northern part of Africa, the vicinal an average of 200. which connected royal and vicinal with Semiramis.

The first paved road was constructed by Appius Claudis and led from Rome to Capua. This road was named Via Appia (Appian Way). This was the beginning of Rome's remarkable system of roads. Many of the main roads were built by different rulers and bear their names as Appiar, Aurelian, Flaminian and Domitian Ways.

In constructing these roads directness was a great consideration and many times attained in spite of natural obstacles. Tunnels, bridges and retaining walls remain as evidence of their en- R. The care of the roads was entrusted to a person of high rank known as Curator Viraum, or superintendent of highways, as is known today, and the office was of great dignity and honor. Julius Caesar was the first of high rank to occupy this

Our present day macadam road was named after Mr. John Louden Mc-Adam, an Englishman, who was one of the first men in the 17th century to really study road construction and to build it by placing small sized stones on the road without a foundation other than the earth. The old plan had been

It is interesting to know that the first road constructed in America was built in Peru by the ancient Incas. In North America road building was slow because the early colonists were kept busy protecting themselves from the Indians. The first roads were simply trails made by the Indians and the buffalo, and in the progress of civilization they became the highways.

The New York state government "The highways to be cleared as followeth, viz., the way to be made clear of standing and lying trees, at least ter feet broad; all stumps and shrubs to be cut close by the ground. People are tired, we hope and believe, of all manner of dirt and tommyrot and buncome. We are beginning to remember the beautiful things of life, the clean things, the kind things. We are beginning to remember that our fathers and our mothers were not all fools. We are beginning to remember that self-restraint and self-sacrifice and the sweet reasonableness of Jesus are greater than "the freedom of love" which the febrile feminists preach. We are beginning to remember that maternity is something more than a sociological clinic and that motherhood transcend political economy. We are beginning to remember that the breeding of children is something more sacred than the operation of a municipal incubator, wetnursed by a foundling factory. We are beginning to remember that men and women, young and old, cannot attain peace on earth by selfindulgence alone, and that the last word in wisdom has not been spoken by the demagogue of any age. But we have much to learn yet. We need to go to church on Sunday and get a moral bath. And we need to go to school in the forum of mankind and let history teach us the fate of all nations who are filled with the pride of Belshazzar. - Detroit Saturday Night.

A card received by the Herald editor from Judge M. J. Connine yesterday states that the weather is warm and fine and the flowers in bloom where he has been in North Carolina. He has spent a great deal of his time in the mountains and is very enthusiastic over the scenery there. He expected to start for home April 2nd.

We called on the chairman of the poor com missioners, Mr. Rollin, to ascertain the cause of the overdraft and he informed us that there has been $365.76 paid to the University of Michigan hospital and to the Tuberculosis Sanitorium at Howell for surgical operation and other treat-ment as well as a great amount of relief outside of the county farm. They have purchased bose for fire protection to be used in connection with the water plant, at a cost of nearly $100.00, and made other improvements on the farm, all of which was recommended by your board, thereby causing the poor fund to be overdrawn by about $1,000.00. Mr. Rollin also informs us that it will take about $500.00 to carry them through until after the October appropriation.

Therefore, inasmuch as the poor of the county have to be taken care of by the county, we would recommend that the sum of $1,500.00 be transferred from the general fund to the poor

Of Interest To Orchard Owners

Orchard owners would do well to in spect the trunks of their trees without delay, for evidence of injury by rabbits or mice. Now is the time to repair this injury. It is not difficult and a little work may save a valuable tree. Ful directions as to how to do this work are given in a circular issued by the Michi gan Agricultural Experiment Station that will be be sent free upon request.

Now is the time to graft over undesirable varieties of fruits to good sorts. The work is easy to do. Circular 14, Michigan Agricultural Experiment Station, gives plain directions. It is sent free on request to R. S. Shaw, Director, 78 00 East Lansing, Michigan.

Have You Seen A Fly?

Of course you killed him! You didn't? You don't kill flies until they begin to bother you!

Well that is just the reason why there are so many flies around in the summer 55 00 to make your life miserable. Let me 24 00 | tell you a public secret.

Only a few flies live through the winter, and when they first come from their hiding places a vigilence committee composed of every man, woman and child, could soon kill the majority of them. The committee would of course be retained throughout the entire year, and would make it their business to see that every place where any escaping flies could breed is cleaned up. Old decaying material or refuse heaps of any kind furnish the chief breeding places of flies, the manure heap being the favorite of all. When we remember that each fly can produce billions of other flies by September we can see how important such a vigilance committee must be in each community and what service it can render to humanity. Not only is this true from the standpoint o freedom from annoyance but from th standpoint of health as well, as authori ties tell us that a large per cent of sick ness and death, especially among chil dren, is due to the spread of disease germs through flies. Will you take your share of the re sponsibility of exterminating this pest Will you make it a principle to swa each fly you see and to enlist your neigh bors as members of this vigilence com

VICTOR HUGO AND HIS DUTY

Desire to See Man Whom He Had Saved From Scaffold Had to Be Set Aside.

A hitherto unpublished story of Victor Hugo is told in Le Cri de Paris. It is generally known and believed in France that Armand Barbes was saved from the scaffold in 1840 by four lines of verse addressed by Hugo to Louis Philippe, king of the French. Yet Barbes had never seen the great man and never saw him during his exile. In 1870, some months before the war between France and Germany, Barbes was dying in The Hague. The exile expressed to M. Claretie, then a young journalist, his regret at never having met the man through whom he had obtained the pardon of the king. Victor Hugo was at Brussels when M. Claretie came to present the desire of the sick man to see him.

Hugo heard the request, and turning to his son Charles said: "Charles, Barbes asks to see me. Duty calls me. We must set out for The Hague this evening."

During the day the great poet and romancer received a pressing letter offering him the presidency of the peace congress at Geneva and begging him to come immediately.

Then said Victor Hugo to his son, "Between one man and humanity I have no right to hesitate. Charles, we shall set out this evening for Switzerland!" And Barbes died without having ever seen Victor

ACTIVITIES OF WOMEN.

Nearly a thousand girls who went on a strike in a Philadelphia hosiery mill have organized a union.

Never before in England have so many women candidates offered themselves as candidates for town and metropolitan borough councils. Three women have already applied to Mayor Mitchel of New York city for jobs in the police department. Women students will be admitted to membership in the new ski club to be organized at the University of Wisconsin. It is estimated that militant suf-fragists in England destroyed property to the value of $2,550,750 during the past year. One of the hobbies of Queen Mary of England is the collection of a representative group of paintings by modern artists. The highest wages paid to women shoe workers is to the vampers, who receive 23 cents an hour. The lowest paid are women treers or ironers.

JUST THE ONE.

"Yes," he remarked, stretching himself lazily in the one really comfortable chair in the commercial room, "I'm the youngest child of a big family."

"How many of you are there?" asked a fellow knight of the road. "Well," replied the lazy one, "three of my brothers are dead, but there were ten of us boys, and each of us had a sister." "What!" gasped his questioner. "Do you mean to say that there were twenty of you?"

"Dear, dear, no-only eleven."

We will gladly give you a stamp book in which to save your stamps, together with $1.00 (10) Free to start your collection. When your book is filled with stamps it will be accepted by us the same as Three Dollars ($3.00) in cash.

Thousands of families all over the United States are reducing the cost of living by taking advantage of this famous profit-sharing system.

Soap Wrappers, Tobacco Tags, Signatures, Trade Marks, and particularly Hamilton Coupons, will be exchanged for BROWN STAMPS. Bring all you have to the demonstrator stationed in our store Saturday, April 4th.

Brown Stamps mean a saving to you of more than three per cent on every dollar you spend. Think what that amounts to in a few months.

Don't fail to take advantage of this money-saving plan. Begin today. Call at our store and we will cheerfully give you a book and $1.00 worth of the old reliable Brown Stamps with which to start your savings.

We have chosen this means of familiarizing you with our profit-sharing plan. Plainly its object is to increase business. To that end we would encourage you to buy from us as many of your requirements as you can. We clearly understand that your first demand will be Quality and Value. That is all-important and you can rely upon our fully satisfying you.

PROFIT SHARING EXTRAORDINARY

In addition we will give you the old reliable Brown Trading Stamps. You are entitled to one stamp with each 10c purchase. We can well afford this, as our increased business with no increased expense, will sufficiently increase our profits to justify our giving you these stamps in return for the business you give us.

We are glad to give you all that you are justly entitled to, if for no other reason than that we realize that a satisfied patron means a permanent customer.

Remember a Full Book of Brown Stamps is Worth $3.00 Same as Cash on the Purchase of Anything in Our Store
