This week closes the school year of the Tawas City public schools and the Iosco county normal. The closing exercises, held on Thursday and Friday evenings, occur too late in the week for us to give an account of them in this issue. The normal class day exercises were held last evening, and tonight Prof. C. T. Grawn will deliver the commencement address for both classes. In connection with the closing of school a list of the high school pupils who have been neither absent nor tardy during the year might be interesting. There were 60 pupils enrolled in the high school and of this number only 11 made a clean attendance record for the year. They are: Mary, Josie and Helen Klish, Elena Groff, John Johnson, Johanna Kobs, Harry Westcott, Irl Baguley, Edith Sawyer, Hattie VanHorn and Elmer Woizeschke.

Only one week remains for those who wish the Herald continued to pay up, for before the next issue of the paper we shall remove from the list the names of all those who are one year or more in arrears. All have had ample notice of this action, so do not blame us if you do not get your Herald after this week.

If there are any doubting Thomases who think that alfalfa cannot be successfully grown here, they should take a walk down the bay shore and take a look at the field on John Mark's place. Notwithstanding the fact that the location is poor, being on a sand ridge, John has as fine a field of alfalfa as can be seen anywhere, and he has proven beyond a doubt that this succulent forage crop can be grown successfully here.

The editor of the Herald is indebted to Milo Stevens of Wilber township for the finest box of strawberries that it was ever our privilege to see. The box was a full quart size and it took just thirty-one berries to heap it up to its full capacity. Usually a large berry is pulpy and tasteless, but these were as firm and fine flavored as one could ask for, and the Herald force enjoyed the treat immensely. Mrs. Stevens also sent in a beautiful bouquet of roses for the editor's wife, which was immediately boxed up and sent to her.

Normal Girls' Graduation Dress Contest.

Last November a resolution was passed in the Iosco county normal that the graduation dresses of the normal girls should be made by members of the class themselves, and that the dresses should not cost more than five dollars each. Two prizes were offered the winners in this contest, the first being a teacher's library of six books and the second a year's subscription to a teacher's magazine.

The contest was decided last Monday evening and the results announced at the eighth grade graduating exercises. The judges were Mesdames Roberts, Black and Campbell. The points considered in awarding the prizes were: First, general appearance; 2nd, workmanship; 3rd, cost; 4th, hand work on trimming done by contestant.

The dress awarded first prize cost $3.56, and was made by Ferne Rollin. The one awarded second prize cost $2.19 and was made by Lucy Curry. The most expensive dress cost $4.85 and the least expensive $2.19. The average cost was $3.15.

Honorable mention was accorded by the judges to the following members of the class because of the general appearance and workmanship of the dresses made by them: Eva Hamilton, Louise Schoenbeck, Elizabeth Ferguson, Gladys Maronate, Eunice Clark, Grace Laidlaw, Floy Curry and Marie Boomer.

McVicar—Misener.

A pretty little June wedding took place at the home of David McVicar of East Tawas when his daughter, Murel, and Edson Misener were joined in holy wedlock at 5 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, June 24th.

Miss Cecile Bonney played Lohengrin's bridal chorus and the bride was given away by her father. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Clifton W. Scott of the Methodist church under an arch of carnations and ferns. Frank Pinkerton of East Tawas was best man and Miss Ruby Watson of Mt. Clemens acted as bridesmaid.

The bride was dressed in white crepe de chine. The dress was made with a fichu and the only ornament was a fichu brooch. The bridesmaid wore a blue crepe de chine pelisse.

After the ceremony a light repast was served and Mr. and Mrs. Misener departed on the 7 o'clock train for a short wedding trip.

The presents were numerous and appropriate, evidently selected with a view to utility and are such as will be appreciated for years to come.

The guests from out of town were Mesdames Oren Misener of Harrisville, Charles Nash and Frahm of Port Hope and E. Splan of Canada.

John G. Katterman and Sarah McArdle, both of Tawas township, were united in marriage Thursday afternoon by Rev. Reithmeier at the Zion Lutheran parsonage.

I. C. S. A. A. Field Meet.

Under a threatening sky the various schools of the county belonging to the Athletic Association, held their annual field meet last Saturday on the ball ground at Tawas Beach Park. Tawas City and Oscoda tied with 43 points each, while East Tawas took the remaining three points.

Oscoda won the relay by a few feet. This would have been Tawas City's but for a fall on the third leg. As referee Carrihan said: "It all depended on who got the pole." And—Oscoda got the pole. Just these two schools were represented in the relay.

Jerry Marks took 37 points for Oscoda all by his lonesome, getting six firsts, two seconds and one third. This comes within one of Dave Henniger's work of 38. He entered and placed in every event. Trigger was the only other Oscoda man to score a personal point. The Tawas City men who won firsts were: Johnson, the shot put; R. Murray, the high jump, and Murphy the pole vault. Tawas City was handicapped in the pole vault and relay by an injury to Johnson, which kept him out.

The work of the referee was very efficient. All events worked smoothly and quickly.

Mielock—Lubawy.

A pretty church wedding took place at St. Joseph's church in East Tawas on Tuesday morning, June 23, when Stella, oldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Mielock of Alabaster was united in marriage to Joseph Lubawy of Detroit. They were attended by Miss Mary Mahalski as bridesmaid, and Ernest Mielock, brother of the bride, as best man.

The bride was prettily gowned in blue messaline, with lace overdress. The bridesmaid wore white and carried a bouquet of white roses.

After the ceremony five autos took the bridal party to Alabaster, the home of the bride's parents, which was prettily decorated for the occasion in ferns and white roses, where a sumptuous wedding breakfast was served. About 140 guests were present, the out of town guests being Mr. Freeman and the Misses Ahl and Wagner, all of Detroit. The couple were the recipients of many beautiful presents, cut glass and silverware being much in evidence.

After a short trip to Buffalo, Niagara Falls, and other points, they will be at home to friends after July 10th, at 25 Glendale, Highland Park, Detroit. Both parties are well known and respected in this place and vicinity, as they were born and reared here, and the best wishes of all go with them to their new home.

McCausland.

Mary Pesick, born at Pilsen, Bohemia, June 4, 1856, came to this country with her parents when five years old, and located in Saginaw, Mich. When 17 years old she was married to Thos. G. McCausland, Dec. 3, 1873. They came to Alabaster, Mich., in 1874, and, with the exception of four years, have resided there ever since. She died in New York City while visiting her son, June 13, at 8 p. m., of typhoid fever, after an illness of eight days.

The body arrived home Tuesday afternoon. Burial from the residence Thursday, June 18, 1914. Rev. Scott delivered the sermon, and she was laid to rest in the family lot in the Alabaster cemetery, her sons acting as pall bearers.

She was a loving wife and a very kind mother. She had a beautiful disposition, and was highly esteemed and loved by all who knew her.

Her funeral was very largely attended. The floral pieces from her friends were many and very beautiful.

She leaves to mourn her loss her husband, and six children, R. W. of Cleveland, Ohio, Chas. H. and Blyth F. of New York City, Claude E. of Port Clinton, Ohio, Thos. G., jr., and Charlotte M. of Alabaster, also two sisters, Mrs. Barbara Mader and Mrs. Frank Stork of Saginaw, Mich., and a host of friends.

Two children, one, Edwin C., died in infancy, and Herman A. was killed by the cars at Alabaster when four years old.

Card of Thanks.

We wish to thank all of our friends for the beautiful floral pieces and flowers, and also for their kind assistance and sympathy in our great loss and sorrow.

THOS. G. McCAUSLAND and Family.

TAWAS CITY, MICH., JUNE 26, 1914

The evil result of having the supreme court of the land composed of former corporation lawyers was evidenced the other day when that august body, the supreme court of the United States, handed down a decision confirming the title of the Southern Pacific railroad to 200,000 acres of oil lands in California. The court held that the mineral reservation in the patents issued to the railroad company were void, and that there was no method of ejecting the company from the land and returning the same to the people of the United States, to whom the land rightfully belongs. Being composed mainly of former corporation lawyers, the court naturally looked at the matter from a point favorable to the corporation. Were the supreme court justices elected by the people, instead of owing their position to presidential appointment, they would be more responsive to the people's rights and less amenable to the wishes of the corporations.

Roosevelt is very firm in his assertion that he will not be a candidate for governor or senator in New York state this fall, but he won't say whether he will be a candidate for president in 1916 or not. Teddy doesn't believe in using up all his ammunition before the real fight begins, nor giving the enemy an opportunity to make a flank attack.

One of the prominent (?) candidates for county office has anticipated the results of the August primaries and is passing out cards announcing himself as "candidate for" the office to which he aspires, without any mention of the nomination. Some nerve, eh?

C. O. D. Parcel Post.
The telephones and the parcel post work beautifully together. The housewife calls up the village store and asks to have certain things—perhaps dress goods or household utensils—sent out immediately. In the old days she would have had to go to "town" herself, or have the "hired man" harness up, or wait for several days until some friend could do her errand. Now her purchase arrives in the morning with the rural carrier. The "C. O. D." system facilitates the operation.

In the smaller cities the same expedition prevails. The local merchant finds that his area of patronage, which was formerly limited to the city itself, has a radius of 150 miles. He has one advantage over the mail-order house in a lower rate within this distance. Within this zone of 150 miles the rate is virtually a cent a pound, outside it is larger. A merchant 150 miles from Chicago, therefore, has a large area within which, because of his lower postage, he can still do business. And the fact is, as already said, that the local merchants have already outgrown their apprehensions of the parcel post.—The World's Work.

Advice to the Girls.
The following clipping is published by request of a subscriber who thinks it might do some good if girls who follow the fads of fashion know what others think of them.
"No wonder the boys and kids call you 'some chicken,' little girl, for that is sure some dress you've got on—it sure is. That dainty, clinging, flimsy stuff is the prettiest cloth the merchant can display, and that silk sash of many colors so gracefully wrapped about the center of your little anatomy would put Joseph and his Biblical shirt to shame. You are laced and tailored to perfection according to some crazy Frenchman who wants to see all he can of your form. Your dress is too low at the neck and your sleeves are too short, and your skirt is far and away tighter than skirts were ever meant to be—that slit up the side is shocking—shows a stocking above your slipper that is almost transparent. And you haven't any more petticoat than a jack rabbit—you know you haven't, little girl.
"Oh! you are some top, you are indeed. Did you notice how that bunch of dirty loafers at the corner ogled at you as you went tripping along to some W. C. T. U. meeting? And you never stop to think little girl but that they were rubbing out of pure admiration. Ask your big brother about it. If he has any sense he'll tell you something that would make your blood boil and your vanity go sideways, and if you have any sense you'll take his word for it and lay that dress away and dress like mother used to. Put on something that is wide enough at the bottom for two petticoats and one pair of legs. There never was a Paris design, little one, that is half so beautiful as a young girl's modesty. Take it from us, little chicken or old hen, you can make yourself a question mark and live next door, but keep up your own side of the high board fence."—Eaton Rapids Review.

More About the Chautauqua.
Our local Chautauqua is only one of almost seventy which are conducted by the Central System of Indianapolis. Every department is under the direct supervision of an expert. System is the big word in this organization. It is the key-word which explains why so much can be given the public at such a low cost.
Our citizens who have been in close contact with the managers have many times referred to the business ability and careful consideration of details which have marked the preparations already made. That our citizens may get some idea of the enormity of the enterprise which is back of our local Chautauqua we are printing some facts furnished us from the head office.

There are five Chautauques going on simultaneously in various cities, every day of the season. Six large auditorium tents are used, one in each town. Some one of these tents is being put up and another taken down each day. Each tent stays five days in a town. They will each seat a thousand people under the big top, and 500 more can be accommodated inside the air dome wall. These tents are absolutely new and guaranteed water-proof. During a rain the audience is as comfortable as under the home roof. In making these tents and side walls the tent man used 10,786 yards of best kahki canvas. Over 2 1/2 miles of rope are used in street banners, which carry a total of over 4,000 pennants. In advertising these Chautauques the Central System used 319,985 separate pieces of display advertising, including 140,000 of the beautiful 16-page programs in three colors. These programs alone weighed six tons when packed for shipment. Thirty thousand programs were mailed to individual addresses on the rural route of the Chautauqua towns. In traveling from place to place the lecturers, singers, musicians and entertainers will have a total mileage of 135,120 miles during the season, or a total of almost six times around the earth.

Beginning in June there will be daily sessions, five Chautauques each day until September.
A visit to the headquarters in Indianapolis was a revelation to the stranger who is unacquainted with the enormity of the enterprise. Five large rooms in the city's largest sky-scraper, were each a beehive of activity. Every detail is carefully considered and the smoothness and dispatch of the business was notable. Not a single feature which would contribute to the pleasure and profit of each ticket holder in the most remote town seemed to be overlooked. The visitor went away with confidence that such efficiency coupled with the courtesy and spirit of fair dealing evinced on the part of the management was a pledge of a great Chautauqua in the old home town. We can safely promise our people one of the best and greatest treats our community has ever secured. The Central System's motto, "Quality, talent, efficient service and square dealing" seems to be well sustained.

Tawas Athletics.
On account of wet grounds last Sunday the boys were unable to play Alabaster, at least they didn't show up.
Next Sunday, Harrisville will be down. They trounced East Tawas to a fare-you-well last Sunday, so it is up to the home boys to lick them, as they did in Harrisville.
The ball team is away behind in funds, and if next Sunday's collection doesn't bring a silver lining to the impending cloud, it is probable that the rest of the summer games will be played out of town.
By the way the score book was found, and we can now give the score of the Harrisville game on May 30.

TO ALL ENGAGED IN DAIRY BUSINESS

Making butter on the farm is rapidly becoming a thing of the past. Any housewife knows what it means of drudgery to make good butter, and what difficulties she encounters in her attempt to find a satisfactory market for her product. Her outlet is limited. The creamery has every large city on the continent within its reach. The creamery is plugging every day for the interests of the dairy farmer as well as for its own.

We are now in the midst of our third season and business is humming. Prices are good and the outlook fine. We are making nearly four times as much butter as we did in 1912. That also means that we are able to handle your cream to the very best advantage for you. Come and see us or ship us a can. We know we can please you.

We are selling the "Diabolo," a separator of the Highest Merit, at prices that you would pay for mail-order and other inferior machines.

Many Travelogues are made up by the company that furnishes stock slides and descriptive manuals, and are given by those who in most cases have never been abroad in their lives. In the "Story of Panama" an illustrated account of the great engineering enterprise will be given by a man who spent five years in the canal zone. Professor Gause, the eminent educator, was selected by Uncle Sam to take charge of the schools in Panama. He had under his supervision 5,000 Americans and native children. His frequent visits to the several schools took him over the entire country many times and brought him into familiar contact with all the aspects of the progress of the canal. He knows his subject. His book on Panama has had the largest sale of any relating to this subject and has already gone through three editions.
The audiences are invited to ask questions, and after the evening of the third day of our Chautauqua we are sure that many will feel that they have a satisfactory knowledge of the greatest engineering accomplishment of history. Beautiful slides and several thousand feet of films are aids to Professor Gause's splendid description of American enterprise and achievement.

CHAUTAQUA ACROSTIC

CHAUTAQUA spells the biggest movement for uplift that our civilization has produced in a century. It also spells

HAPPINESS for all children under a hundred years of age.

ANY child is worth the investment of 75 cents for a season ticket covering the entire program of instruction, entertainment and healthful amusement.

UNTIL they have experienced the real thing many people do not know the difference between the Chautauqua and the show.

TAKE thought. Be at least a man, if not a booster, and don't let the committee have to ask you to take a ticket. Take ten or twenty. Sell them or give them away. It's an investment that pays real dividends to present a season ticket to one unable to buy.

ASK 1,500 towns in the Mississippi valley why they have lined up permanently with the Chautauqua movement in the past ten years.

UNDoubtedly they recognize that an institution which brings culture, instruction, amusement, business and a touch with the greatest and best minds that the big round world possesses, with no downward pull anywhere along the line, is to be liberally supported.

QUICKLY the man who considers the matter at all perceives that if such an institution costs the town many times the amount he must secure it. But, when it actually pays for itself and brings trade, 'nuf said.

USE your thinker. Be a Chautauqua booster. "Holler" loud and long. But also get in line with the public spirited, home loving, town boosting ticket sellers who are trying to make your town the center of advantages.

AT the cost of a few hours of real work, even at the cost of a few dollars of real money to a few of your real citizens, make up your mind that this wholly good and really enjoyable thing they call Chautauqua shall not fail in this man's town either with respect to its now coming or its future permanent staying.

EGGS BY PARCEL POST

A System of Marketing That Offers Better Prices for the Producer.

That eggs can be marketed successfully by parcel post, and that this method frequently secures a better price for the producer and a fresher article for the consumer has now been demonstrated to the satisfaction of the experts in the U. S. Department of Agriculture. The department conducted tests that covered a period of five months. At the end of that period it came to the conclusion that the parcel post was of particular value to the man whose flock was too small, or who lives too far from express service to permit him to ship his eggs in the regular commercial case which holds 30 dozen eggs.

In the course of these experiments the department shipped 9,131 eggs in 466 lots. Of these 327, or slightly less than 3.6 per cent, were broken, but only 209, or slightly less than 2.3 per cent, were absolutely wasted. The others, though broken, could still be used. The percentage of breakage, moreover, will be greatly reduced, it is said, when the employees of the postoffice become more accustomed to handling such fragile matter.

That the eggs should be properly packed is of course essential. This implies time, care and some expense, and is one reason why no attempt should be made to market by parcel post any but the finest quality of eggs, for they alone will bring remunerative prices. Moreover, if the customer who buys in small lots finds that any considerable proportion of his purchases is undesirable, or even unattractive in appearance, he will not trouble to ask for deductions on that account. He will simply discontinue his orders. The producer, therefore, must see to it that all the eggs the postman delivers are what he represents them to be.

This can only be done by candling them. Candling, "The process of testing eggs by passing light through them so as to reveal the condition of the contents" is omitted by many producers who rely on care in collecting to eliminate all bad eggs. It is, however, impossible to avoid an occasional accident, and candling is therefore advisable as an extra precaution. A simple outfit can be made out of a small hand lamp and an ordinary paste-board box sufficiently large to be placed over the lamp, after the ends have been removed, without risk of fire. In order to supply air to the enclosed lamp notches should be cut in the edge on which the box rests. A round hole is then cut in the box at the level of the lamp flame and the candling done by holding each egg against this hole while the rest of the room is in darkness. The light from the lamp reveals the contents of the egg, and those that show any defect can be rejected.

If possible only infertile eggs should be sent to market. Fertile eggs deteriorate rapidly in warm weather, and are the cause of much loss. A broody hen on the nest, or accidental exposure to a high temperature may start incubation and cause the egg to spoil and injure the shipper's reputation. It is advisable, therefore, to retain the fertile eggs for home use, or dispose of them in some other way than through the parcel post. This is also true of soiled eggs. Eggs should never be washed when intended for high-class trade, since the process removes a natural mucilaginous coating and opens the pores of the shell.

After this thorough elimination of the unfit the eggs that remain should be carefully packed in a container of corrugated paste-board, metal, wood, or other suitable material. The postoffice regulations require this container to be so wrapped that nothing can escape from the package, and each egg in addition to be wrapped separately in excelsior, cotton, or some such material. Any soft paper serves the purpose quite well. As for the container itself there are many kinds on the market, and the Department of Agriculture investigators have not attempted to decide which is best. Instead, they refer inquirers to the various state experiment stations, which have valuable information on this subject.

In packing eggs it is well to sort them, as far as practical, according to size and color, and keep for home use those which are irregular in shape, unusually long or thin shelled. Containers that have been badly stained by broken eggs should be replaced by new ones and the package wrapped as neatly as possible. In short every effort should be made to deliver as attractive a package as possible into the hands of the customers. The extra expense will be little and the returns in increased trade great.

The larger the shipments that the producer can arrange to make the cheaper can he afford to sell his eggs. Within the first and second zones of the parcel post service a package costs five cents for the first pound and only one additional cent for each additional pound. Ordinarily eggs weigh 1 1/2 pounds a dozen, which, with the additional weight of the wrappings and container, would make a package of a dozen eggs weigh between two and three pounds. The postage on this would be seven cents. If another dozen of eggs were included in the package the postage would not be more than nine cents, or 4 1/2 instead of seven cents a dozen.

To the value of the eggs and the cost of postage must be added the cost of the container and the wrapping. For two dozen eggs this may be estimated at eight cents. With postage at nine cents it would, therefore, cost 17 cents to market two dozen of eggs, or 8 1/2 cents a dozen. By shipping in 10-dozen lots it is estimated that the marketing cost can be reduced to 4.7 cents a dozen.

Where the container can be used more than once this cost can of course be somewhat reduced. Large sized containers will stand from two or four trips, smaller ones three to five, so that it will pay the producer to induce his customer to return the containers periodically. The postage required for this is of course deducted from the bill for the next shipment.

Although it is obviously advantageous to both parties that the eggs be shipped in large quantities and consequently economically, it must be remembered in taking orders that the supply of eggs undergoes the greatest fluctuations. In times of scarcity it is not good policy for the producer to send all his output to one consumer, neglecting his other friends, nor in times of plenty can he expect to dispose of his entire stock to his regular customers. These points must be given due consideration, and the quantities that are to be supplied at each season of the year carefully stated in the contract. The price, too, varies with the supply. One good method of determining this is to take as a basis the wholesale price of eggs on the open market and add to this a certain number of cents a dozen for the newly-laid parcel post eggs. Care should be taken, however, to see that there is no possibility of any misunderstanding arising in regard to the basic price. To obviate this the quotations published in a given newspaper, or some other similar authority, may be accepted.

Eggs are scarcest and highest in the fall. Chickens should, therefore, be hatched early enough to begin laying at this season. Moreover little difficulty will be experienced then in disposing of the entire output, and it will in consequence be unprofitable to divert any of the supply to home purposes. This difficulty can be overcome by preserving eggs in the spring when they are plentiful and cheap. A solution of water glass, which can be obtained at drug stores for 75 cents a gallon, should be used for this purpose, each quart being diluted with 10 quarts of water, which has been boiled and cooled. The eggs should be packed in stone jars or crocks and the solution poured over them, or they may be carefully placed in the solution each day. Eggs kept in this way are perfectly good, but naturally they do not command the prices of those newly-laid. The shells sometimes break in boiling, but this may be avoided by puncturing the end with a pin just before they are dropped into the water.

The only drawback to marketing eggs by parcel post appears to be the time and trouble involved in packing them. This is compensated for by the extra price that can always be obtained for products that are absolutely reliable. At bottom, therefore, the shipper's success depends upon the care with which he safeguards the reputation of his products. Satisfied customers will soon build up his business for him. Any postoffice will furnish complete information in regard to regulations and rates, and, as already stated, the several state experiment stations have information in regard to the various types of shipping boxes.

Exercise and Fresh Air.

As we grow older we ought to keep up the habit of walking every day in the open air. Walk briskly, with the head up and the backbone straight. If we potter along at a snail's pace it will not do us nearly as much good. Brisk walking will make the blood circulate freely, thus washing out the waste material in the body, and induce deep breathing, which further cleanses the body and burns up the waste.

Letter carriers, forest rangers, insurance solicitors, and others whose work keeps them in the open air almost always enjoy good health if they take reasonably good care of themselves. The Englishman, George Meredith, was a young man in years at eighty, and was in the habit of walking twelve miles a day.

The coming of the bicycle, the trolley car and the automobile have discouraged walking, but those who wish to enjoy the best of health will practice sufficient self-denial to get in a few miles of walking every day. If you cannot do better take a brisk walk after the evening meal. Whenever possible walk out into the country. Get your feet upon the earth. If you can find a warm secluded corner take off your shoes and stockings and let your feet absorb energy from mother earth herself. Walk bare-footed across a ploughed field if you can. Walking upon the earth is more beneficial than walking upon hard pavements. There is less jar to the spine when walking upon earth roads and paths, and so one gets fatigued less soon.

The old Bavarian priest, Father Kneipp, was very successful in curing all manner of disease by having his patients walk barefooted in the dewy grass. Keep in the open as much as you can. Do not skimp yourself on air and sunshine if you would live long and enjoy health.—Health Magazine.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.
