Rev. G. E. Sloan officiating, only the family being present, and the happy couple left on the evening train for their future home at Mt. Pleasant, where the Masons and everyone enjoyed it so well

Death of Mrs. James Kelly.
On Thursday, July 16, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. John Weckerly, of Flint, occurred the death of Mrs. James Kelly, mother of Mrs. Reuben Wade of this city, aged 85 years.
Roxie Anna Ebert was born June 9, 1829, in Clarendon township, Pontiac county, Canada east. At an early age
she was united in marriage to James Kelly, and in 1855 the family moved to New York state, where they resided until 1869, when they removed to Michigan,
where the deceased resided until the time
of her death.
Mrs. Kelly was for many years a consistent member of the Baptist church and was universally loved and respected by all who knew her.
The remains were brought to this city
last Saturday and the funeral held at the Baptist church that afternoon, Rev. O. E.
Moffet officiating.
She leaves to mourn her loss three daughters, Mrs. Emily Wade of Tawas City, Mrs. Elizabeth Crandall of Colorado, and Mrs. Linda S. Weckerly of Flint, at whose residence she died. All were present at the funeral.
Tawas City Wins From Alpena.
Last Sunday Alpena came down to our town, and, before a good crowd, lost to the home boys by a score of 15 to 11.
The game was a batfest from start to finish—17 hits apiece being hammered out. Captain Atlee Mark showed the team a thing or two when he poled out a home run in the second inning, with two men on, the first one ever seen in a real game at Shien Park. Musolf was right there with the stick again, getting four hits out of four times up, putting himself
in the batting lead of the team.
The fielding, especially of the home
boys, was the worst ever seen on the grounds.
Tawas City showed head and shoulders above Alpena in base running. They took more chances, and—got away with them—11 stolen bases being credited.
Although neither pitcher showed an awful lot of stuff, Murphy was at least 50 per cent better than Fitzpatrick.
The Alpena boys are one of the best teams that ever represented a town.
Everyone seemed to be a gentleman and acted accordingly. The umpiring was exceptionally good.
Next Sunday the boys travel to the White City, seven miles below us, and take on the Alabaster boys for the first game of the season.
A week from Sunday, August 2, the return game will be played with Alpena at Alpena. Inasmuch as we haven't heard of a team winning from Alpena that didn't lose when they struck the uproad city, it behooves the Tawas City
boys to get in trim and do the unexpected.

Farmers Build Silos.
The emigration expert of the Burlington route, D. Clem Deaver, has addressed a strong appeal to the farmers of the country to build silos and by ending waste add substantially to the profit from their own crop. Mr. Deaver is recognized as one of the greatest agricultural authorities in the country, and his counsel is invariably based on experience and observation covering a wide latitude. Here is the counsel to the farmers:
"Think of it! Sane, sensible men by the hundreds and by the thousands, are working hard almost the year round, raising and caring for the highly valuable crop, and then deliberately wasting from 30 to 40 per cent of the gross results of their labor.
It's the corn crop.
And, at that, they're making a good
solid bunch of profits.
It's hard to believe, but it's true.
There is not another business on the face of the earth that will give a profit after wasting 30 to 40 per cent on the possible income, but corn raising has done it.
The whole trouble is that a large percentage of farmers either won't or don't build silos. They aren't cutting the corn after the season and storing it away as rich fodder to increase their incomes the year round.
Just for instance: One acre of good corn land will produce 12 tons of corn silage. This same 12 tons with hay will feed two milch cows for 10 months. If properly cared for otherwise these cows will bring their owner anywhere from $150 to $190 from the sale of cream alone during the 10 months, to say nothing of the two calves that can be raised,
not considering the value of the skim milk for pig and chicken feed. And it might be said right here that no other business will return such quick and handsome profits as feeding skimmed milk to pigs and chickens.
This same 12 tons of rich corn silage
with hay will put 2,400 pounds on 50 lamb in 125 days, which at 7 cents per pound, would be worth $168.
Feeding it to four steers 153 days, fitting them to top the market, would easily increase their market value $170.
These are some of the things that can be done to stop the biggest wastes on the farm. When you stop to consider that the entire 12 tons of silage can be put in the silo at a cost of only $25 you can get an idea of what a tremendous saving it means. Ten acres of corn silage would accomplish 10 times as much.
There are innumerable other ways and methods of getting more money out of a farm, but considering the huge saving accomplished by a silo a splendid slogan for the farmers would be:
"Farmers, build silos. Don't wait!
Do it now!"

Changes in the Primary Law.
On account of a radical change in the official primary ballot made by the last legislature many mistakes are liable.
To make these as few as possible, Prosecuting Attorney Fitch of Charlevoix county has prepared the following information regarding the ballot, which has been submitted to the attorney general
and by him approved in its substance, according to reports published in the East Jordan Enterprise.
Act No. 118 of the Public Acts of 1913 has so changed the primary law of this state that I deem it wise to call your attention to a few of the provisions affecting the voting and counting of votes cast at such election.
Heretofore separate ballots have been printed for each political party. Now only one ballot is used, each party's ticket being painted thereon in a proper column with the name of the party at the head of the column and a circle therein.
The form is the same as used at general elections, but the manner of voting is quite different. At general elections a person may vote for any person for any office on the ticket, and the same will be counted, providing he does not vote for more persons than are to be elected for such office. At the primary election the voter must confine himself to one party column.
The form of the ballot is prescribed by Sec 24 of the Act, and printed thereon
are the words, "Important—Do not vote
for any candidate not in your party column."
Sec. 25 provides that the voter shall prepare his ballot by making a cross in the circle beneath the heading of the party column of the ticket which he desires to vote, and then make a cross in the square at the left of the names of each candidate in such column as he desires to vote for, but in no case for more candidates for any office than is indicated under the title of such office.
Sec. 36 provides that in counting such ballots only those candidates for nomination to office who have a cross made in the square at the left of their names, shall have been deemed to have been voted for, and each ballot upon which the voter fails to indicate the party choice
by making a cross in the circle at the head of the party column shall be counted, provided the voter does not vote for any candidate in more than one party column. But if the voter votes in more than one party column the ballot
shall be void and shall not be counted,
and any ballot upon which more candidates for any office have been voted for than by law may be elected to such office, or any ballot upon which any candidate is voted for outside of the party column designated by the voter as his ticket by the placing of a cross in the circle at the head of both tickets shall be rejected as to all names appearing for
that office.
In construing these provisions I advise
you as follows:
1. A perfect ballot is one containing a cross in the circle at the head of the voter's party ticket, and then containing a cross in the square in front of the names in such column the party desires to vote for. Any attempt to vote for any man not in such party column as designated will be ineffective, and such vote must not be counted for any man for such office.
2. If the voter does not indicate his party by making a cross in the circle at the head of his party column the vote
may then be counted, provided he confines himself to one party column by making a cross in front of the names therein he desires to vote for. If he votes for anyone outside of his party column—that is, if he attempts to vote
in more than one party column, the entire vote is void as to all parties and must not be counted for anyone for any office.
3. The voter must confine himself to voting for only the number that may be nominated for any particular office. Any attempt to vote for more than that number will result in no vote for such office,
and shall not be counted for any one for
that office.
Teachers Attention.
The next regular teachers' examination
will be held in the court house, Tawas
City, August 13-14, 1914.

Fewer Districts Forfeit Primary Money This Year.
The first apportionment affected by the amendment to the constitution relative to the apportionment of primary money was made in July, 1912. In that year 492 districts forfeited their share of the $5,515,000 primary money distributed to the various schools in the state.
In 1913 the number had been decreased by 299, 193 districts forfeiting.
In the apportionment made July 15, 1914, only 92 districts were barred because of having a surplus balance of primary money at the close of the year.
The total amount of primary money on hand in the district treasuries of the state at the close of the year 1913 was $828,361, as against the $2,700,000 on hand previous to the year this amendment went into effect. The most noticeable change caused by the more equal distribution of the public money has been in the improvement of certain school conditions. Many small districts have closed their schools, and are paying tuition to a better school than they could maintain.
In large districts where formerly there had been but one teacher employed now
we find two, and, because of the better salaries paid, a better school under more competent teachers.
Mrs. Belva A. Lockwood Evicted.
An eviction that has much of the solemnity that characterized the seizure of the humble homes of the Irish peasantry for non-payment of rent, was enacted in the nation's capital one day this week, when Mrs. Belva A. Lockwood was dispossessed of her home in which she had lived for 40 years, her goods set out in the street, and the only woman who ever ran for the presidency, was forced into lodgings far removed from the scenes of her former activities.
Mrs. Lockwood's home was purchased last December by the New England Casualty Co. It was believed that friends would come to the assistance of the aged suffragist and champion of international peace, but not enough money was subscribed to hold the residence for one of the most notable women of the century, and so, in the twilight of her life, the veteran worker for the welfare of women has been compelled to erect her lares and penates in another place and in a different part of the city.

TAWAS CITY, MICH., JULY 24, 1914

Governor Johnson of California has set an example that might well be followed by the executive and judicial authorities in every state in the Union, as regarding special privilege to wealthy and powerful men who have violated the law and been convicted of their crimes. Recently great pressure has been brought to bear on Governor Johnson to influence him to parole Abraham Ruef, the convicted grafter who is now serving a 14-year term in the state penitentiary for his share in the political grafting in San Francisco some years ago. The governor very properly refused to extend clemency because of Ruef's wealth and influence, saying: "All prisoners must be treated exactly alike. As vigorously as I am able, I demand that when special privilege has been banished from every other state department it shall not be permitted, no matter what the power or the threats, to creep into our penitentiaries." If Gov. Johnson's ideas had been also the ideas of some of the governors of Michigan and of the chief executive of the United States, many wealthy grafters, like Frank C. Andrews and Charles W. Morse, would be still serving time in prison instead of being free to practice their thieving propensities on innocent and easily deceived victims. May this new creed of one honest governor become the standard for others in like position to follow, and the result will be a more wholesome regard for the law.

In an address before the board of school commissioners of southwestern Michigan at Kalamazoo one day last week, Superintendent of Public Instruction Keeler gave the following outline of the school legislation which the next session of the state legislature will be asked to pass:

A bill to prohibit any teacher in Michigan from receiving a certificate unless the instructor has received at least six weeks of normal training.

The combining of the eighth grade with high schools in rural communities.

The passing of a law which would give the secretary of the state board of health and the superintendent of public instruction the power to condemn school buildings.

The investing in this committee of the power to approve the plans for all school buildings.

An amendment to the law prohibiting a school officer from receiving pay for work on school property, allowing any officer to accomplish this work if the question carries in an election of the voters.

The maintaining of schools in the larger towns and cities of each county for backward children. These schools would be conducted in regular school buildings, but would be supervised by especially trained instructors.

With respect to some of these things Michigan is far behind other states of the Union, and it is hoped that the legislature will give due consideration to the bills when placed before it and put Michigan in line with the most progressive ideas in school work.

Attorney-General McReynolds has decided that "the better part of valor is discretion," and now plans to start criminal action against the officials of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad for violation of the anti-trust laws. Last week the attorney-general stated that there was not enough evidence to start action, but he has evidently changed his mind since making that assertion.

Rev. Louis R. Patmont of Detroit seems to be the champion "disappearer" of the country. He is no sooner located in one place by his friends, than he again drops out of sight and compels them to start the hunt all over again.

Huerta has been eliminated from the affair in Mexico, but there are still enough men of different opinions to continue a ticklish situation in that ill-starred country.

The Child's Physical Development Is to Receive More Attention in Our Schools.

During the summer Supt. Keeler will publish a bulletin on physical education for the use of the city schools of the state. The bulletin, which is very comprehensive, has been prepared by the physical training department of the Michigan State Normal College at Ypsilanti.

It will be of especial value to teachers in cities where no supervisor of this work is employed, but will also be found helpful in cities of over 10,000, employing a supervisor of physical education.

Act No. 40 of the Public Acts of 1911 provides as follows:

"Physical training shall be included in the branches to be regularly taught in public schools in city school districts having a population of more than 10,000 and in the state normal schools, subject to such rules and regulations as the superintendent of public instruction may prescribe, and it shall be the duty of the boards of education in such city school districts and of the state board of education to make provisions in the schools and institutions under their jurisdiction for the introduction of a systematic and educational course of physical training, to engage competent instructors, to provide the necessary equipment, to establish and conduct same, and to adopt such methods as shall adapt the same to the capacity of the pupils in the various grades therein, and other boards may make such provisions. The curriculum in all normal schools of this state shall contain a regular teacher's course on physical education under competent jurisdiction."

While city school boards have been urged to introduce a systematic course under competent instructors, allowance has been made where lack of room and other conditions have prevented the immediate introduction of the work. It is believed, however, that sufficient time has been allowed to remove such conditions. The work in the bulletin is arranged by grades and is the result of thoughtful preparation on the part of those who have had extensive training and experience along this line. It will be ready for distribution at the opening of school next September.

Daily Thought.

There is a time in every man's education when he arrives at the conviction that envy is ignorance; that imitation is suicide; that he must take himself for better or worse, as his portion; that though the wide universe is full of good, no kernel of nourishing corn can come to him but through his toil bestowed on that plot of ground which is given him to till. Trust thyself; every heart vibrates to that iron string.—R. W. Emerson.

Women Witnesses Criticized.
Judge Lush-Wilson, K. C., remarked at Exeter (England) county court to a woman litigant who continually interrupted: "Madam, I run the risk, I know, of criticism from your sex when I say that they are the most troublesome people I have to deal with. Why can't you women exercise the same amount of self-control in the witness-box as men have to do?"

Sour Skim Milk for Calves.

That in summer time calves do as well on sour skim milk as they do on sweet will be interesting news to many of our farmers who have hitherto been kept from raising calves by the expense of keeping the milk sweet in hot weather. This expense experiments carried out by the department indicate it to be quite unnecessary. The calves will make as rapid gains on sour skim milk. In winter, it is true, this is not quite so satisfactory. It chills the calves and some of them drink it with great reluctance. Very young calves have even been known to refuse it altogether. On the other hand, of course, it is much easier to keep the milk sweet in winter.

In calling the attention of farmers to these facts, however, the U. S. department of agriculture at the same time emphasizes an important precaution. Unless the milk is produced and kept under clean conditions it may become contaminated with disease-producing bacteria. Farmers should therefore allow the milk to sour quickly and then feed it without delay.

In the course of these experiments sour skim milk was fed to 22 calves, Holsteins, Jerseys and Guernseys, at different seasons of the year. In no case did it cause digestive disturbances, even when the change from sweet to sour milk was made abruptly, when the calves were only a few days old. Moreover, no evil results followed the alternate use of sweet and sour. It seems, therefore, that the common idea that sour milk leads to scours is quite unfounded.

The calves, it was found, did not like the sour milk as well as the sweet, but in the majority of cases soon became accustomed to it. The aversion, however, increased when the milk was fed them at a low temperature.

ALBERT W. BLACK.

Resolution Adopted by the Board of Supervisors.

The following resolution was adopted by the Board of Supervisors in the year 1912:

Whereas, This being the last meeting of the Board of Supervisors during the present year, it seems proper at this time that as supervisors we express our appreciation of the efficient work of Albert W. Black as prosecuting attorney in enforcing the laws of the state and county fearlessly and without favor or partiality, and

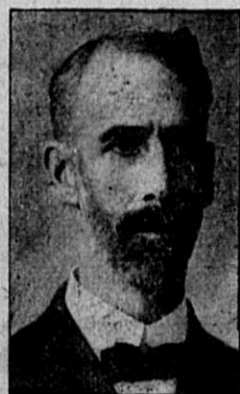

Be It Resolved, That we tender Albert W. Black a vote of thanks for faithful and satisfactory service as legal adviser of this board and for his economical administration.

This resolution was adopted unanimously.

Almost two years have passed since the above resolution was spread upon the record of the Board of Supervisors, and I can say at this time that from observation and because of my knowledge of the bills paid by the supervisors and services rendered the Board of Supervisors by Albert W. Black, that his record has continued to be one of economy and efficient service, and that the affairs of his office are conducted in a thoroughly business-like manner and with a considerable saving to the tax payers of this county.

THOMAS F. ROBINSON,
Chairman of the Board of Supervisors.

A TROLLEY CAR INCIDENT

By INEZ BARON.

(Copyright.)

"Fares, please."
The woman looked up, her forehead puckered in a troubled frown.

"I—I seem to have lost my purse," she said, with some degree of embarrassment. "I had it when I started, but I must have dropped it somewhere."
The young conductor stood uncertainly for a moment, his hand on the fare-lever.

The woman was beautiful, well dressed, and evidently, from her voice and bearing, a gentlewoman. There seemed only one thing to do.

"Very well, madam—" he was beginning, when a stout, red-faced man in the next seat burst into a disagreeable laugh.

"Same old graft, conductor," he said, with a coarse wink, diving one hand into his trousers-pocket; "but they always get away with it, the dears!"

The woman flushed scarlet, and edged away from him, her face showing plainly the aversion and disgust she felt at his words and action.

"Will you pay my fare for me, conductor?" she asked.

"Certainly, madam," replied the young man courteously. He ignored both the nickel proffered by the red-faced man and the latter's sneering remark, drew five cents from his waistcoat-pocket, and transferred it to his coat. Then he rang up the fare and moved on.

"What is your name, please, conductor?" said the woman, putting a detaining hand on his arm.

It was the young man's turn to flush. "That isn't at all necessary, madam," he protested.

"Yes, it is," she insisted. "Please tell me."

"John Brewster."

"Thank you."

He passed on, and a few blocks farther along the woman left the car, giving him a pleasant nod and smile as he helped her off the step.

The red-faced man presently got up, and lounged toward the platform, giving the bell-ropes a jerk.

"Here, my man," said he, holding out a five-cent piece, "take it. I can better afford to lose it than you can. You'll do well hereafter to remember that a favorite trick of that sort of woman is to beat the road, the conductor, or any one else she can stick for the price of her fare."

Brewster drew back, an angry flash in his eyes.

"I don't want your money," he said in a low tone. "But," he added, "you will do well to learn how to tell a lady when you see one. If I hadn't been wearing the company's uniform, I'd have thrown you off the car when you spoke to her as you did."

"Oh, you would, would you?" snarled the other. "Well, we'll see just how good your job is, Mr. John Brewster! I'll have you know that no whipper-snapper of a fresh conductor can insult me with impunity! You wait and see!"

Brewster thought no more of the threat and its maker until the next morning, when a summons to the superintendent's office brought it forcibly to his mind.

With a feeling of uneasiness, he complied with the order, and presently found himself face to face with the superintendent, who looked up from the pile of letters he was sorting and favored the young man with a curt nod.

"You're John Brewster?" he said; "I received a complaint against you—a man has notified me that you were insolent to him yesterday—that you threatened to throw him off the car. What have you to say?"

"I didn't exactly threaten him, sir," he said sturdily. "But I did tell him that he deserved such treatment, and if I had been out of uniform I should certainly have given it to him. He insulted a lady, sir, and it would have served him just right."

"Then you admit the truth of his story?"

"If you put it that way, yes."
"In that case, you will turn in your badge and uniform," remarked the superintendent.

"Very well, sir," responded Brewster.

He had expected either a reprimand or dismissal; but at the same time he felt that it was pretty hard to be so summarily turned off merely for acting the part of a gentleman and resenting the insolence of the red-faced man. He turned toward the door.

"One moment, Mr. Brewster," interposed the superintendent. There was a twinkle in his eye. "Courtesy is such a rare plant that we must do all we can to foster its growth. You will report here tomorrow morning. There is a vacancy in this office and I should like to have a talk with you about filling it."

"You see," he added, with a smile, as Brewster stood staring at him, too dazed by his sudden good fortune to utter a word, "I heard the other side of the story last night—from the lady. She happened to be my wife."

For State Senator.

I desire at this time to make formal announcement of my candidacy for the republican nomination for state senator from the 28th senatorial district.

The 28th district is primarily a farming community, and I believe it fitting that a farmer should represent it in the state senate. For some 40 years I have lived in this district and have contributed my best efforts toward converting the forest wilderness into cultivated farm lands. During these years of development I have had considerable experience in business life and the lumbering industry. For some years past I have been actively engaged in farming and stock raising in Arenac county, own my own lands, live on my farm and work at my job.

I realize the importance of the position which I seek, and wish to state that if nominated and elected I shall endeavor to represent all sections of the district with utmost impartiality. The best interests of the entire district will guide me in all matters, without regard to factionalism or sectionalism.

I respectfully solicit your support at the primary election, Tuesday, August 25, 1914.

Wise and Otherwise.
An exchange remarks: "Women's dresses show, among other things, the progressive spirit." Yes, indeed—among "other things."

The Argentine legation is all swelled up. That country introduced the tango, and now thinks it should be raked with the world powers.

After noting a few of the names given corsets and other invisible apparel of the gentle sex this year, our office devil wrings the following from the office towel:

There's Sirene and Fif, Clarissa and Mimi, And Irmingard, Chick and Irene. There's Fanchon and Flora, Gerorgette and Adora, Bonita and quaint Rosalere. There's Edna, Felicia, Cossette and Patricia, Camille, Aline and Marie. No, this is no harem— You take 'em and wear 'em— They're names of the new lingerie.

Kitchen Kinks.
To remove putty and paint from window glass use kerosene oil, then wash with warm water.
When baking small cakes or buns flour the tins instead of greasing them. The cakes will not stick to the tins, and will bake quite as well.
If you wish your roast to be juicy and tender put it in a very hot oven, gradually becoming moderate. Baste with a tablespoonful of vinegar with a cupful of hot water.
To ascertain the freshness of an egg without breaking hold it before a strong light and look directly through the shell. If the yolk appears round, and the white surrounding it clear the chances are that the egg is fresh. Or you can drop the egg into water, and if it sinks quickly and remains at the bottom it is in all probability fresh, but if it stands on end it is doubtful and quite bad if it floats. The shell of a fresh egg looks dull, while that of a stale one is glossy.

MONEY PUT INTO BUILDING

Five Times More Expended in America Than Is the Case in Europe.

For every human being in the United States $11 was last year put into a building of some kind. The money expended in such operations just about balances our government debt.

There are no figures to show definitely how much of this immense sum went into buildings that earn nothing, but far more than half of it certainly has become nailed down into an investment that is nonrecreative.

Most of the cash a man devotes to his home at once goes into the drone class, whereas the money he spends for a chicken house or a better stable for his cows or improved farm implements immediately begins to work and earns interest upon the investment. A new store is a money grubber, but frills upon the home are not.

Right here is one reason why Europeans, who as a class earn far less every year than Americans, have such stupendous sums to invest in securities.

No other part of the earth's surface was ever covered in so brief a time with such a colossal amount of buildings as our particular slice of North America.

SEVEN WAYS OF SPELLING "E"

Just One of the Peculiarities of What is Known as the English Language.

Dealing with some objections to spelling reform, Mr. William Archer told the Society of Shorthand Teachers in London recently that there was not a single letter in the English language to which only one sound was attached, nor was there a sound which was represented by only one letter. If they took the "e" sound in "bed," they, he said, would find it spelt seven different ways in as many different words, for exactly the same vowel sound occurred in "head," "many," "leopard," "said," "says" and "paper." When a child asked why "proceed" and "recede" were not spelt in a similar way nobody could possibly give him a reasonable answer.

The word "sovereign," Mr. Archer said, was so spelt today because of its supposed connection with the word "reign." As a matter of fact, there was no connection between the two, and the proper spelling was that which Milton used, i. e., "Sovran."—London Chronicle.

STILL MORE DUMB.
A lady saw in a newspaper a paragraph to the effect that in an effort to save his cat from being run over by an omnibus a little boy had been knocked down and seriously injured by the vehicle and had been taken to the hospital.
The lady, who was fond of cats, greatly admired the boy's affection for the "poor dumb animal," and wrote to the hospital, inclosing some presents and a sum of money "for the brave little sufferer."
By return of post came a letter acknowledging receipt of the money and thanking her for her kindness, but explaining that the cat which had been the cause of all the woe was even more "dumb than she imagined—in fact, it was the little boy's wooden tip-cat!"

HIS MISTAKE.
"What makes Bliggins so unpopular?"
"He tried so hard to be popular that a lot of people got the idea that he was hopelessly fresh."

A TIMELY CORRECTION.
"If wishes were horses, beggars would ride, my son."
"But wishes never would be horses, pop; they'd be autos."

MISGIVINGS.
"I want to go to my glazier's, only he gives me a pane."
"And I would like to go to my grocer's, but he'll give me a weigh."

ANOTHER WAY.
"Well, old Skinfint has gone up at last."
"In business?"
"No; in the elevator."

NO PRESUMPTION.
"Do you believe in treating your help like the family?"
"No, indeed; why, our cook wouldn't stand for such familiarity."

It's a Good Letter After All.

Someone has advanced the opinion that the letter "e" is the most unfortunate letter in the English alphabet, because it is always out of cash, forever in debt, never out of danger and in hell all the time.
For some reason he overlooked the fortunates of the letter, so we call his attention to the fact that "e" is never in war and always in peace. It is the beginning of existence, the commencement of ease and the end of trouble. Without it there would be no meat, no life and no heaven. It is the center of honesty, makes love perfect, and without it there could be no editors, devils nor news.—Fourth Estate.

TAKING CARE OF THERMOMETER.

A philanthropic doctor in a mining town gave new thermometers to a number of families, with the urgent advice to keep their houses at a proper temperature. When he was making his rounds one day he saw one of the thermometers hanging up. He asked the woman of the house if she remembered his instructions. "Indeed, sir, I do!" was the response. "I hang the thing up there, and I watch it carefully to see it does not get too high." "Good!" exclaimed the doctor. "And what do you do when the temperature rises above 70 degrees?" "Why, sir," answered the woman, with the air of one faithful to a trust, "when it gets too high I take it down and put it outside until it cools!"

A COMMON TROUBLE.

"On what grounds did he base his domestic discontent?"
"I think some of them were the coffee grounds."

FISHY.

"What is that fish story he is telling about?"
"From what I heard, it is about the limit."

PARADOXICAL PREDICAMENT.

"This report says that Huerta is losing ground."
"That's odd when he seems to be completely at sea."

Saved by His Hobby.

There was an official on one of our great railroads who was retired at seventy. "He'll die now," said his friends kindly. But he didn't. Instead, he became interested in the wild flowers, and now he is too busy in looking for the ram's head orchid, and trying to find a new station for the hart's tongue fern, and tramping around in the woods and fields in all kinds of weather, even to think of dying. Anyway, he wouldn't have time until he's finished his monograph on the willows of the United States.—Lippincott's.

LIVE STOCK

SILAGE TO THE BEEF CATTLE

Results Given of Careful Tests Made With Corn at Missouri Station—Excellent Finisher.

The Missouri experiment station has recently published the results of some careful tests of corn silage as feed for beef cattle.

It was found that a ton of silage was approximately equal to one-half ton of clover hay when fed in connection with shelled corn and linseed oil meal, or with shelled corn and clover hay, or with shelled corn, linseed oil meal and clover hay.

Estimated on the basis of net profit per steer, a ton of dry matter in the form of corn silage yielded 50.3 per cent greater value than a ton of dry matter in the form of shock corn.

A ration in which silage and clover hay were used was much more profitable than a ration in which silage constituted the only roughage.

One of the most conspicuous features of the test was the notable superiority of the ration in which linseed oil meal was used and those in charge of the tests concluded that "it is desirable to feed some high protein concentrate in the ration, if the most extensive use is to be made of corn silage in fattening cattle."

The results indicate that fattening cattle which receive corn silage as the only roughage do not continue to do well for longer than about ninety days. A superior finish is obtained on fattening cattle which are marketed in the spring when silage composes a part of the ration.

The lot of steers which received a ration of shelled corn, linseed oil meal, corn silage and clover hay made the greatest gains in live weight, produced the most economical gains, were the best finished and yielded the greatest profit.

SORE SHOULDERS OF HORSES

Young Animals Are Especially Prone to Collar Bruises—Prevention Is Best Solution.

(By E. T. BAKER, Veterinarian, Idaho Experiment Station.)

With the advent of spring work comes shoulder and foot troubles in horses. Young animals, especially, are prone to collar bruises, on account of jumping around, uneven pulling and jerking, which offsets the effect of the best setting collar.

First of all, remember prevention is the easiest solution of the problem. The old-fashioned method of bathing the shoulders with an oak bark solution, alternating with cold water, several weeks prior to working, thereby hardening and "tanning" the skin, was a good one. This, of course, is a tedious job on a big ranch with many horses, but will repay on coits.

A large collar is just as bad as a tight one, and be careful that it is not lumpy. A firm, snug-fitting collar, with good pads, of course, is best. As a substitute for the oak bark, try tannic acid in alcohol or glycerine, in a 10 to 20 per cent solution. Rub well several times a day, and alternate with a salt water solution. Begin work gradually, and should the shoulders get raw and infected, the advice of your veterinarian may prove valuable.

SHEEP WILL KILL WOODTICK

Grazing of Animals on Infected Grounds Would Rid Them of Plague, Says Government Expert.

That sheep are sure death to the woodtick, cause of the dreaded spotted fever, seems to be borne-out by an experiment conducted by Dr. L. D. Frick, a government expert. Doctor Frick placed about 150 woodticks on six sheep, dividing them equally among the animals. Of the ticks placed on the sheep all but six were found dead 48 hours later, and the six are believed to have dropped to the ground. The grazing of sheep on infected grounds, it is suggested, would rid them of this plague.—Twentieth Century Farmer.

Feed Pigs Separately.

It is always a good plan to feed pigs in a separate pen. This can easily be accomplished by making the one adjoining the sow with an opening just large enough for the youngsters to get through.

TAUGHT HIM NEEDED LESSON

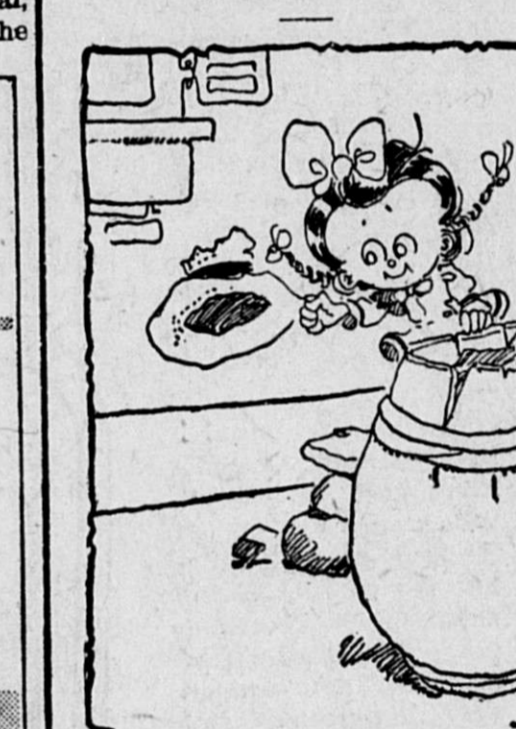

Value of Perseverance Impressed on Spanish Boy in Manner That Made Right Impression.

There is a medieval legend of a Spanish boy who was dull at school and who was so much discouraged by the severity of his teachers that he ran away from home. After he had wandered a long way he was tired and sat down to rest on the margin of a well. As he sat there his eye fell upon the stone well curb and he began to wonder how it happened that there was a deep groove across the stone. He asked an explanation of a girl who came to draw water, and was amazed to learn that the groove had not been cut in the stone by men, but had been worn there by the constant rubbing of the rope which held the water bucket.

The little circumstance sank deep into his mind. He argued that if a soft rope by daily use could force its way through a hard stone, then there was nothing that could not be accomplished by perseverance, and he learned his first lesson in the meaning and value of mental discipline. He returned to his father's house and to the school from which he had fled, and proved the same truth in his own case, for he not only passed through the school with credit, but became a great teacher and preacher.

Some of us are quicker than others, but not always is mere quickness a sign of superiority. Slow, plodding perseverance will, often outdo quickness that is easily discouraged.

TO ALL ENGAGED IN DAIRY BUSINESS

Making butter on the farm is rapidly becoming a thing of the past. Any housewife knows what it means of drudgery to make good butter, and what difficulties she encounters in her attempt to find a satisfactory market for her product. Her outlet is limited. The creamery has every large city on the continent within its reach. The creamery is plugging every day for the interests of the dairy farmer as well as for its own.

We are now in the midst of our third season and business is humming. Prices are good and the outlook fine. We are making nearly four times as much butter as we did in 1912. That also means that we are able to handle your cream to the very best advantage for you. Come and see us or ship us a can. We know we can please you.

We are selling the "Diablo," a separator of the Highest Merit, at prices that you would pay for mail-order and other inferior machines.
