The Herald again substantiated its claim of being "The Leading Newspaper of Iosco County" last week, when it published the news of the death of the president's wife ahead of all competitors. The Herald is printed Thursday evening and a number of our subscribers make a point of coming in for their paper that evening. These read this piece of news in the Herald ten hours ahead of even the dailies. And of the eight or ten dailies having subscribers here, only two published the account and got it to their readers as soon as the Herald.

The little body was brought to East Tawas by Mr. Robinson and interred Wednesday in their lot in the East Tawas cemetery.

Those who seem to take a gloomy view of the business outlook should look at the late crop reports. Corn, a 2,800,000,000 bushel crop; winter wheat, 65,000,000 bushels; spring wheat, 270,000,000 bushels; oats, 1,200,000,000—all of them far above the ten-year average. And—potatoes—why, Michigan alone is good for 25,000,000 bushels. The bounteous crops are the bright, redeeming feature of the business situation. And the promise is even better than the figures show. Even the pessimist must bow before the splendid gifts of bountiful Nature, and confess that God is gloriously good to this nation.—Ex.

People who want first-class job printing know that the best can always be obtained at the Herald office. We don't claim to have as much material as some other shops, for we make a point of getting rid of all worn, out-of-date type, but our material and style of composition are right up to the minute, and our customers appreciate this feature. Good typographical artists such as handle the work in the Herald office can do artistic work with a limited amount of material, while some so-called printers could not do good work if given the entire stock handled by one of the big type foundries. It is the quality of the work and not the amount of material that counts.

William Henry Bamberger. The relatives and friends of William H. Bamberger, an old resident of Iosco county, were inexpressibly shocked and grieved to learn that he had suddenly expired at Sand Lake last Thursday evening.

Mr. Bamberger had been enjoying an outing at the lake that day and had just gotten into his buggy to go home, when he was stricken, by heart failure, it is believed, and fell over in the buggy, dead.

William Henry Bamberger was born August 11, 1842, in Westworth county, Hamilton, Ontario, and died August 6, 1914, lacking only five days of being 72 years old. He moved to Grant township, Iosco county, in 1871, and the following year was united in marriage to Miss Elizabeth Flinn, who preceded him to the Great Beyond, May 30, 1909. To their union 12 children were born, seven of whom survive to mourn the loss of both mother and father. They are: George, Mary, William, Peter, Dewey, Mabel and Joseph. Three brothers, Peter, Samuel and Charles, all of this place, and one sister, Mrs. J. R. Binkley of Canada, also survive him.

The funeral services were held Sunday, Aug. 9, at the Hemlock road Baptist church, Rev. C. W. Scott of the East Tawas M. E. church officiating, and the deceased was laid to rest beside his wife in the Tawas City cemetery. Relatives present from out of town were Mrs. J. R. Binkley and James Anderson of Canada.

HEALTH AND FOOD SPECIAL

Tawas City People Had Chance to See Instructive Exhibit.

The special demonstration train sent out by the state board of health and the dairy and food department arrived in the city last Thursday evening and remained until 10 o'clock the next morning.

The train arrived too late for exhibition Thursday evening, but the next morning as soon as the doors were opened people began coming and the cars were packed with an interested audience until time for its departure. It is estimated that not less than 500 people saw the exhibits.

Tawas City was the first stop north of Bay City, but several other places were favored between here and Cheboygan, from where the train made a jump to the northern peninsula, and is now exhibiting at towns in that territory.

The Dairy and Food car is of keen interest to those interested in the work of that important commission, headed by "Jim" Helme.

A very extensive exhibit on weights and measures is a feature of the car. During the past year inspectors of the department have been gathering together short measures, dented measures, scales that have been tampered with, drilled weights and many other ingenious devices to defraud the public, all of which are worked into an attractive exhibit.

The exhibit on fakes and frauds, showing up the many fakes that are being sold as cure-alls for all diseases, has been built over, and is making a bigger hit than it did last year.

Misbranded and mislabeled foods bring home the fact that some manufacturers hew so close to the line that they sometimes step over. Specimens of advertising and pictures of window displays are in evidence and show that they are plainly gotten up to deceive.

An extensive exhibit on tuberculosis in dairy cattle is another feature which has been improved upon. Many specimens of meat from tubercular animals have been secured and are put up in glass jars so that they can be seen at their worst. This exhibit is in charge of an expert on tuberculosis in cattle from the United States department of agriculture. A lecture on this important topic is given at each stop.

Another feature which is of great interest to dairymen is the arrangement and plans of the model dairy house. Three rooms have been partitioned off in the car, each one to represent a room in a small dairy house. Each room is fully equipped with all the modern dairy apparatus necessary for the production of clean milk. That much dirty milk finds its way to the market is graphically illustrated by showing cotton pads containing the filth and dirt taken from this popular beverage.

That mother's milk is the only milk for infant feeding is intelligently brought home by a new model, entitled "Mother's Milk for Mother's Babies"—"Cow's Milk for Calves."

A new model, illustrating the dangers of the common house fly, is a departure from the many models seen on this subject, and is very ingeniously gotten up. Placards condemning this dangerous pest are everywhere in evidence.

The telling work of the pure food commission has been much in evidence during the past year that this car attracts much attention.

"Health First" is the slogan adopted by the state board of health.

Many new mechanical devices for demonstrating the ravages of preventable diseases are seen in the state board of health's exhibit. Much new literature, calling particular attention to baby's health and prevention of tuberculosis, in the way of attractive and illustrative pamphlets, is distributed at each stop. At the suggestion of Secretary J. L. Burkart the state board has adopted the Spanish yellow—the color of the quarantine flag of the United States service—for its Rules and Regulations cards, "Health First" buttons and pennants.

Among the many exhibits the following deserve special attention: Baby's Health Exhibit.—How to care for, feed, clothe and protect the baby against dangerous intestinal disorders which destroy so many children.

Mouth Hygiene.—How to care for the teeth, gums, and what neglect of oral hygiene will produce.

The Trail of the Fly.—A new mechanical device which gives an ocular demonstration of how disease is spread by flies.

Anatomical Clock.—Registering the deaths from tuberculosis in the United States (one every 2 1/2 minutes).

Electrical Illusion.—Showing transition from health to death by tuberculosis.

Tuberculosis Shack.—Showing proper method of building, ventilating and sterilizing by sun light.

Laboratory Exhibit.—Showing "bugs" in all their nastiness.

Patent Medicine Fakes.—For tuberculosis cure.

Sanitary Engineering Dept.—Shows method of sewage disposal, where no public sewer is maintained, dry earth and chemical closets.

Bubbling Fountain.—For schools and all other public places where water for drinking purposes is supplied—danger of the roller towel, etc.

All exhibits are operated by electricity obtained by special apparatus installed in the car, thus doing away with the necessity of using local power where stops are made.

A corps of expert and experienced demonstrators from the two departments accompany the train, and everything is explained in detail. Quantities of literature on all subjects is freely distributed at each stop, so that anybody interested in "Health First" and "Pure Foods" can further enlighten themselves on these important topics.

The following experts from the two departments are in charge of the exhibits:

Dairy and Food Department.—F. L. Shannon, state analyst; W. C. Geagley, assistant state analyst; D. E. J. McLaughlin, U. S. veterinary inspector; R. E. Woodruff, weight and measure inspector; C. R. Webb, dairy and creamery inspector.

State Board of Health.—D. E. McClure, assistant secretary board of health; F. J. Pienta, tuberculosis demonstrator; Wm. Force, laboratory demonstrator; D. W. Bingham, sanitary engineer; E. G. Boss, electrician.

Our Foreign Patriots.

Who does not feel the thrill of human kinship for Servians and Austrians and Hungarians as they arise in America's great cities to answer the call of the colors? It is a new sense of fellowship that these foreigners inspire in us when they offer their lives for their far-away native land. Home and hearth and flag are dear to them. They fight to the death for them. They know the joy of sacrifice in a mighty cause. In the presence of this understanding how small the differences of language and dress and customs appear! In the presence of this understanding they are our kind of people.

Just now they are with us, but not of us. Their heart-strings bind them to the old world. In the smoke and grime of the furnace and the whirr of the factory they still dream of childhood days and old familiar scenes preserved, by some divine gift to man, in tender recollections long after the hardships and inequities of that other life have been forgotten. Once more they will tread the ancient streets and paths and visit the places where they left their friends.

Some of them will die in battle. Some will return to the new world. And we know that if their first vision of the statue of liberty quickens their pulse beats their second voyage to America is to them a home-coming. Once they came to us as immigrants, now they come as patriots. They are ours.

In the second and third generations they will know only America. They will know America's language and America's flag and America's responsibility of self-government and America's promise, which they will help fulfill, please God, if only America can show them how, if only America has strength to perform the task they put upon her. For so has America been built.—Detroit Saturday Night.

Card of Thanks.

I wish to thank my friends and neighbors for their kindness in again starting me in housekeeping after my heavy loss by fire.

Yours truly,

An Interesting Letter.

Through the kindness of Milo Stevens we are permitted to publish this week a letter from Charles Maxwell, a former resident of East Tawas and Baldwin township. Old friends of the writer will be glad to hear from him and pleased that he is doing well. The letter follows:

Puyallup, Wash., Aug. 4, '14.
Mr. Milo Stevens,
East Tawas, Mich.

Friend Milo:—You will no doubt be surprised to hear from me, but I often think of you and your folks and of the good times I used to have at your place when I lived in Michigan.

Well, I have wandered around a whole lot since I last saw you, and I think I am in the finest country in the United States. I have been here in Puyallup for the last five years and the more I see of it the better I like it. I have not made much money, but have always had good wages. If you remember, I went south and went to work as a millwright. I did not like the south very well, so came west, and am still with the sawmill, but have gotten to be superintendent of a large plant here in the valley, and we are in one of the finest valleys on earth. Nothing but fruit, and most of it berries.

They have a berry growers' association here that owns a very large cannery, and they ship and can the output of the valley, which is something enormous. The raspberry and strawberry season is over now and the evergreen blackberries are now on. To give you an idea of the amount of berries grown, the largest day's shipment of raspberries was 15 carloads of fresh fruit, besides two carloads that went through the cannery, and they expect to can 3,000,000 cans of quart and gallon cans, besides several thousand barrels. They put up a large amount of the fruit in this way: Choice fruit, fresh and uncooked, right off the canes, is put into 52 gallon barrels, 250 pounds of sugar to 300 pounds of fruit, head it up and put in cold storage for 30 days, then ship anywhere.

So you see I live in some berry country, as well as sawmill. And this is the timber country of the U. S. It cannot be beaten. We get lots of logs that scale from 4,000 to 6,000 feet and once in a while one that will scale 8,000 to 10,000 feet. I no doubt sounds unreasonable to you, but if you come out I will show them to you.

I just got back from a trip up Mr. Ranier, 14,408 feet high. I had a fine trip and a mighty hard climb, but it was worth the effort. I went 5,557 feet by auto and stage, the rest of the way on foot. It is all snow and ice above 6,000 feet. It was too grand for me to try to describe. It was the first time I had been up there. It is the highest peak in the Northwest, in fact, it is the next highest in the U. S. It is about 60 miles away in an air line, and in clear weather can be seen all the time and does not look ten miles away.

Well, I don't know whether any of you are alive or not, so won't write much. My folks are all here. Madge is married and lives here in Puyallup, and Dad lives with her. He is as smart as a cricket and don't look much older than when you last saw him. Not a gray hair in his head. Fred is a machinist and lives in Tacoma, eight miles from here, but works here in a garage. Nell is married and lives in Tacoma. She has been married four years. Madge was married only last spring, and I am still enjoying single blessedness.

Well, if you get this I would be glad to hear from you, and give my kindest regards to your people.

Yours respectfully,
CHARLES MAXWELL,
Puyallup, Wash.

Of Interest to Women.

If jellies are becoming candied top a layer of pulverized sugar over top of jelly, cover with paper put on with white of an egg.

Tar may be removed from the hands by rubbing with the outside of fresh orange or lemon peel and drying immediately. The volatile oils dissolve tar, so that it can be rubbed off.

Cayenne pepper is excellent to rid cupboards of mice. The floor should be gone over carefully and each hole stopped up with a piece of rag dipped in water and then in cayenne pepper.

WAR NEWS HARD TO GET

Strict Censorship Maintained by All Nations Engaged.

Developments in the conditions in war-torn Europe proceed slowly. The immense armies of the nations concerned are manœuvring for the most advantageous positions before beginning a general engagement, and owing to the strict censorship maintained by all the countries concerned, it is difficult for even the great news agencies to receive definite information.

Montenegro entered the conflict of nations Wednesday by formally declaring war on Austria. The Swiss nation will also undoubtedly be involved, as Austria has violated the neutrality of Switzerland by pushing troops across her border and seizing one or two towns.

Latest reports state that the German troops along the Belgian frontier have begun a general advance on the position held by the French and Belgian troops, and that the first great battle of the war is probably now in progress. English troops to the number of 75,000 are believed to be supporting the French, but no definite news of the British army can be had, as the government maintains absolute secrecy. Germany is believed to have 1,000,000 men massed along the frontiers of France and Belgium.

Teach Them Thrift.

Supt. Magill's recommendation regarding a system of school savings banks in the schools of Illinois ought to be adopted in every state. It may strike some folks as a trivial matter, but it spells big possibilities for the children. Habits of thrift, almost unconsciously acquired in youth, have been the foundation on which most successful American business men have built.

The novelty of saving first appeals to the child. Later he learns how accumulation transforms the mite into the million. Along with this he comes to understand his duty to his own future. He realizes why men "put by something for a rainy day." And having acquired the saving habit he is pretty likely to intelligently plan for the period when responsibility will be thrown on his shoulders.

Thrift isn't a habit that is readily acquired late in life. Men who have to save after having formed extravagant habits do so grudgingly, and find saving a source of unhappiness. If they do not fail altogether their thrift usually takes the form of stinginess and mean self-denial. The miser is usually a person who has cultivated nothing but a money-hoarding passion after the passing of his best days. There is no connection between thrift and miserly practices. They are as far apart as thrift and profligacy.

Teaching a child to conserve his pennies will not make a miser of him. On the other hand it will endow him with a sense of ownership and of responsibility. No better instruction than that attending the cultivation of thrifty habits can be devised.

DIRTY POLITICS.

The Roscommon Herald News published last week an article showing up some of the dirty political tactics being used to defeat Gilbert A. Currie in the fight for the nomination for representative in congress for this district. The Herald-News states that a poster is being circulated in that part of the district derogatory to Mr. Currie and defaming his character and integrity. The circular is signed merely "One who knows," thereby giving no clue to the author nor the one responsible for issuing it, and shows the cowardly means that will be used by some people to defeat a good man who, if clean and reputable campaign methods were used, stands a good chance of winning out.

We are loath to believe that either of the other candidates, Mr. Loud or Mr. Glerum, would authorize such despicable means to further their candidacy. Rather, we believe, this libelous and vindictive poster is the work of some personal enemy of Mr. Currie. But whoever may be responsible for it, the method is dirty and reprehensible and if the author can be discovered he should be given his just deserts. The allegations made in the poster are in our opinion extremely slanderous and should make the author liable to prosecution and punishment under the laws of the state.

So far as the Herald has been able to learn, Mr. Currie is a clean, straightforward politician and in every way worthy of the honor he seeks. His record thus far in his career has been clean, and in no manner merits the attacks and insinuations made against him. If he is nominated and elected we believe he will give as good service to his district as could be given by either of his opponents. Such statements as are contained in the poster mentioned should be carefully investigated before given credence, and unless the statements made therein can be verified, which we doubt, the slanders should act as a boomerang to its instigators.

If the plan for increasing the government revenues which has been discussed in congress the past week is carried out, the users of beer, whisky and tobacco in the United States will feel the effects of the European war in the increased prices of these articles. It is proposed to levy an additional tax on these commodities and possibly to again put in force the stamp tax on legal papers to make up for the decrease in revenue caused by the falling off of imports from foreign countries. But so long as the luxuries, and not the necessities, are made to bear the burden of increased taxes there can be no cause for complaint.

Some candidates for public office invariably try to win votes by playing upon people's sympathies and trying to make themselves out as "good fellows." Good fellowship is all right, but it is not an attribute peculiar to politicians, and should not entitle them to special consideration. The man who can point to something accomplished for the general good is far more worthy of public approbation than the one who depends on his being a good fellow to pull him through.

"Peace hath her victories no less renowned than war," but one of the anomalies of our present day civilization is that the man who saves one or a hundred lives in the course of his daily life is forgotten in a short time, while the man who destroys the same number of lives by a special piece of strategy in battle will have his name emblazoned on the pages of history and his praises sung by posterity as long as the world shall stand.

The daily papers report a substantial increase in food prices in the cities on account of the war in Europe. Whether the advance is warranted by conditions, or whether it is merely an arbitrary scheme of the middlemen, is not stated, but presumably it is one per cent of the former and 99 per cent of the latter.

The old saying is that "money talks," but the only kind of money that seems to be indulging in any oratory in Europe is the solid gold or silver kind. A man with thousands in paper money is as bankrupt as though he possessed that much blank paper.

All the powers of Europe are invoking Divine blessing upon their warlike demonstrations. However, the saying of Napoleon that "Providence is on the side of the strongest battalion" still holds good.

Ice-Cream Sodas.

Various persons have claimed the credit of discovering or inventing the ice-cream soda, out of which developed the "sundae," the latter name having been applied to it, according to legend, because a certain druggist originated the delectation on the first day of the week.

According to general judgment, Robert M. Green of Philadelphia was the first man to serve an ice-cream soda. In the spring of 1874 Mr. Green was agent for John Matthews of New York, and at the same time had begun the manufacture of smaller fountains of his own. He obtained a concession to dispense soda water at an exposition, held under the auspices of the Franklin Institute of Philadelphia, and stress of business compelled him to attract the attention of the public. So he advertised ice-cream in soda water at a soda fountain, and is entitled to the honor of originating "ice-cream soda," which as years have passed, has developed an enormous demand and given a great impetus to the business of soda water dispensing.

On the other hand, the credit for commercializing ice-cream as an adjunct to soda water, even though Robert Green was the first to use it, belongs to Fred Saunders of Detroit. The inspiration to use ice-cream with soda water came to Mr. Saunders one night when his plain cream had soured, and without the knowledge that it had already been used as a component of soda water in the east, Mr. Saunders used ice-cream and featured it. He probably did more to popularize ice-cream soda than any other fountain owner in the country.

Words.

A word, uttered in anger, can wreck a home or a nation; a word spoken in love can bring peace where before was war; still it is true, as said by Burke, that "a very great part of the mischiefs that vex the world arise from words."

Resolution Adopted by the Board of Supervisors.

The following resolution was adopted by the Board of Supervisors in the year 1912:

Whereas, This being the last meeting of the Board of Supervisors during the present year, it seems proper at this time that as supervisors we express our appreciation of the efficient work of Albert W. Black as prosecuting attorney in enforcing the laws of the state and county fearlessly and without favor or partiality, and

Be It Resolved, That we tender Albert W. Black a vote of thanks for faithful and satisfactory service as legal adviser of this board and for his economical administration.

This resolution was adopted unanimously. Almost two years have passed since the above resolution was spread upon the record of the Board of Supervisors, and I can say at this time that from observation and because of my knowledge of the bills paid by the supervisors and services rendered the Board of Supervisors by Albert W. Black, that his record has continued to be one of economy and efficient service, and that the affairs of his office are conducted in a thoroughly business-like manner and with a considerable saving to the tax payers of this county.

THOMAS F. ROBINSON,
Chairman of the Board of Supervisors.
Dated, July 20, 1914. adv-34

For Prosecuting Attorney.

To the Voters of Isosco County:—

I hereby announce that I am a candidate on the progressive ticket for the nomination as prosecuting attorney, to be voted for at the primaries on August 25.

I respectfully solicit your support under the promise that if I should be successful at the election I shall give to the office the very best administration that 18 years in active practice as a lawyer in Michigan has given me in knowledge and experience. I am confident that I can save the county considerable money in that capacity.

I have recently learned from a reliable source that within the last ten days a report has been put in circulation throughout the county to the effect that the condition of my health was such as to prevent me even making the ordinary campaign. I desire to say that while it is true I have during the past month visited the university hospital at Ann Arbor for treatment, I assure you that I am at present enjoying the best of health, for which I am truly thankful, and daily traveling from place to place about the county in an endeavor to meet as many of the good people of the county as possible personally.

Sincerely yours,
The Lawyer at Whittemore,
adv-34 WILLIAM H. FLYNN.

RECALL KINDNESS OF COLONEL LOUD

Lumbermen Recall Incidents in the Career of Present Congressional Candidate.

The AuGres Enterprise, published in Arenac county, contains the following interesting story of Colonel G. A. Loud, now candidate for the republican nomination for representative from the Tenth district in congress, and to be voted for at the primary election on Aug. 25:

"August Herman didn't exaggerate his statements regarding the kindness of Colonel Loud as an employer of men in the woods," said John Bugh, the carpenter and builder, to the AuGres Enterprise. "I worked for the company many months and have personal knowledge of the colonel's bigness of heart."

"My mind recalls the old days when the Loud camps were situated far into the interior—miles from the railroad—winter days when the tote road was not visible to the naked eye, and when we were snowed in for weeks—unable to go outside of the cuttings. With hundreds of men employed accidents were frequent, and while in ordinary cases the stock of camp drugs and medicines had their virtue, when it came to broken bones a surgeon was necessary.

"I recall one occasion in particular. A tree had fallen onto one of the axmen. He was badly hurt. Carried tenderly to camp by his comrades, it became evident he must have surgical attendance—and that at once, if his life was to be saved. George Loud was our first thought, and when notified he hurried to the side of the injured woodsman. Meantime we men had begun to subscribe to a fund and expected George's influence and our money to bring a doctor.

"You boys get all the money you can and I'll give as much as all of you," were Mr. Loud's first words. "That was enough to make us generous, and we raised $97 and some cents, and without a word young George Loud wrote a check for a like amount. "Such acts of generosity were not uncommon with Mr. Loud, but I recall this circumstance because I happened to be the one to take the boys' subscriptions.

"The Loud camps were noted for their wholesome food, their sanitary condition and first of all, for their George Loud, who was known, and I might add, loved by woods workers from the Soo to Bay City.

"The working man who fails to vote for George Loud at the primaries August 25 sacrifices his personal interests and the interests of his co-workers," were Mr. Bugh's closing words. adv-33

Mr. Martindale as a Vote-Getter

Mr. Martindale's popularity and vote getting qualities are shown by the last two general elections.

In the election of 1910 running on the state ticket, Osborn received a majority of 43,003, Martindale 88,824 and Ross 82,606; Mr. Martindale's being 45,637 more than Mr. Osborn.

In Wayne, his own county, his majority was 5,000 greater than that of Osborn, and in Chippewa county, Osborn's home county, he lacked but 273 votes of getting as many as did Osborn.

In 1912 Mr. Martindale's plurality over his democratic opponent was 55,000 more than Musselman's, and 10,000 more than that of Ross.

In Wayne county, Mr. Martindale's home county, his plurality was 14,000 greater than Musselman's and in Kent county, Musselman's home county, it was 2,208 more than Musselman's.

This proves Mr. Martindale to be a remarkable vote getter.

His nomination for Governor at the primaries would assure the election of the entire state, district and county tickets.

Next week Mr. Martindale will write a short, plain letter to the voters of Michigan.

This Town Wants ADVERTISING.

It wants advertising not so much through printer's ink as through UNITED PERSONAL EFFORT.

We can ALL help.

Business men can help by KEEPING the DOLLARS HOME through ENTERPRISE and GOOD SERVICE.

Town officials can help by GIVING as MANY IMPROVEMENTS as are consistent with ECONOMY.

House owners can help by maintaining their places AT ALL TIMES as SPICK and SPAN as during CLEANUP WEEK.

Citizens can help by SPENDING their MONEY IN TOWN, thus keeping it in CIRCULATION HERE.

But, you say, we are ALREADY doing these things.

NO, we are NOT. We are NOT doing these things with UNITED effort, with DETERMINED purpose, with REAL civic zeal. It needs TEAMWORK.

The Tonic Effect of Sympathy With Others.

Some years ago there appeared in the newspapers an open letter in which a suffering and helpless woman asked aid in securing a law to permit invalids pronounced incurable after a medical consultation to be painlessly put to death.

Naturally, the letter attracted attention and reawakened the old question whether or not physicians are ever justified in shortening life. It is of interest, then, to note that the writer of the letter now rejoices at the non-fulfillment of her wish. She has lived to experience how much life may hold even in the face of bodily helplessness, and how greatly hope brightens prospects which seem at first so unavorable.

She tells of having received thousands of letters from all over the world containing messages of sympathy and approbation for her daring attempt to secure a modification of present-day laws protective of life. Some of these invalids, she says, have since written her of their cure and of their gladness that conservatism and old-fashioned legislation had intervened between themselves and their impatience.

One of these correspondents, who was sure that hope was dead for her and who eagerly desired the "finis" at the end of the chapter, has written of her complete recovery, and how much more life now means to her since she has "passed through the shadow of the valley of desolation."

This correspondence has proved, as might well be expected, a stimulant and a tonic to the invalid. She feels not only that her contact with others has given them a renewed interest in life, but also that her mistaken suggestion of a revolutionary change in law has not been without its good effect, since it has drawn together in bonds of deep human sympathy invalids who have felt their helplessness, yet were helped by the knowledge of their common lot. It was the touch of nature that makes the world kin—and kind.

Probably nothing is more stimulating and genuinely a tonic to sufferers, especially those with chronic ailments, than the feeling that in spite of their own helplessness they themselves can still be helpful to others. The Shut-in society in this country has made life more bearable for many persons who are confined to their rooms or their houses. Nothing disturbs a certain class of patients so much as to be constantly in contact with those who are in good health and strength, and whom they can scarcely help but envy. To be brought into touch with those for whom they themselves can feel a precious source of consolation and uplift. Pity is a luxury to be enjoyed, but no human being likes to be pitied or to feel that he is an object of pity. To be conscious of some advantage in one's situation over that of others is of itself an alleviation for many sicknesses.—Ex.

Constipation Causes Sickness. Don't permit yourself to become constipated, as your system immediately begins to absorb poison from the backed-up waste matter. Use Dr. King's New Life Pills and keep well. There is no better safeguard against illness. Just take one dose tonight. Only 25c. At your drug gist.

Kitchen Kinks. A little borax water boiled in the coffee pot once in two weeks will keep it sweet and bright inside.

When anything has been spilled on the stove, or milk has boiled over and a suffocating smoke arises, cover the spot with salt.

A small pinch of carbonate of soda in the water in which cabbages are boiled preserves the color of the vegetables and lessens the unpleasant odor while boiling.

A good way to use up coal dust is to save all paper bags, fill them with the dust, and when the fire requires fixing, place a bag of dust on it, with a few pieces of coal on top. This plan is much cleaner than putting on the dust in shovelfuls, as it cakes, and so does not tumble through the bars of the grate on to the hearth. Try this next fall when you start your coal fire.

The Difference. Billy (who is putting in a long Sunday afternoon)—"Let's play auto with the chairs, mummy, and you take a ride with me!" Mother (with an eye to the uplift)—"I guess not, dear; I really don't approve of pleasure rides on Sunday." Billy (after a moment of earnest thought)—"But this isn't a pleasure ride. We'll play I'm taking you to see a moving picture show of scenes from the Bible"—Life.

Infection and Insect Bites Dangerous.

Mosquitoes, flies and other insects, which breed quickly in garbage barrels, ponds of stagnant water, barns, musty places, etc., are carriers of disease. Every time they bite you they inject poison into your system, from which some dread disease may result. Get a bottle of Sloan's Liniment. It is antiseptic, and a few drops will neutralize the infection caused by the insect bites or rusty nails. Sloan's Liniment disinfects cuts, bruises and sores. You cannot afford to be without it in your home. Money back if not satisfied. Only 25c. At your druggist.

The above picture of the king of England was taken during the recent review of the home fleet of England at Portland, where there were 425 ships assembled. England takes great pride in her navy, and the prospects of a clash between her fleet and that of Germany was fraught with awe inspiring possibilities.

While a lady's hose supporter seems a harmless little thing, it has a dual purpose, which to notice we would bring. Their sale to all who want them seems to us a little rank. When well we know their secret use is holding up a bank.

Facts Worth Knowing.

"UNCLE SAM."

"Uncle Sam" is the popular title for the United States. In the year 1812 a large quantity of provisions for the army was purchased at Troy, N. Y., by Elbert Anderson, a government contractor. The goods were inspected by Sam and Ebenezer Wilson, two brothers. The last named was invariably known among the workmen as "Uncle Sam." The packages were marked E. A.—U. S. On being asked the meaning of these initials, a workman jokingly replied that he did not know unless they meant Elbert Anderson and Uncle Sam. So the title became current among workmen, soldiers and people, and the United States government is known now by those who affectionately call it "Uncle Sam."

Wise and Otherwise.

A man who has good friends is never poor.

August is the "shortest month in the year." Ask any school kid.

An incompetent hired man always finds fault with the tools he has to work with.

Working the thermometer overtime is one occupation for which the weather never becomes too hot.

A New Jersey judge who sentenced a drunkard to matrimony is awarded the palm over the Seattle magistrate who ordered a prisoner to enlist in the army.

Once in a while you will hear of a chorus girl who doesn't think she is better than the prima donna, and you may also come across a clerk who doesn't imagine he knows more than the boss.

Spray for Fall Brood of Codling Moth.

Great damage is often inflicted upon the crop of fall and winter varieties of apples and pears by the fall brood of the codling moth, which weather and orchard conditions indicate will appear the first week in August this year. The pest can be effectively controlled by the use of the following sprays:—2½ to 3 pounds of arsenate of lead paste, or 1¼ to 1½ pounds of arsenate of lead powder should be added to every 50 gallons of dilute lime-sulphur or Bordeaux mixture, which ever is being used to control the fungous diseases. It is necessary that this spraying be done with great thoroughness, so that the fruits and foliage are completely covered with the poison. Should very heavy rains follow within two or three weeks of the application it would be advisable to repeat the application of the spray the third week in August. Many apple growers have found this extra spray highly profitable in all seasons.
More complete directions for spraying are found in the Spray Calendar, sent free upon application to the director of the experiment station, East Lansing, Mich.

TO ALL ENGAGED IN DAIRY BUSINESS

Making butter on the farm is rapidly becoming a thing of the past. Any housewife knows what it means of drudgery to make good butter, and what difficulties she encounters in her attempt to find a satisfactory market for her product. Her outlet is limited. The creamery has every large city on the continent within its reach. The creamery is plugging every day for the interests of the dairy farmer as well as for its own.

We are now in the midst of our third season and business is humming. Prices are good and the outlook fine. We are making nearly four times as much butter as we did in 1912. That also means that we are able to handle your cream to the very best advantage for you. Come and see us or ship us a can. We know we can please you. We are selling the "Diablo," a separator of the Highest Merit, at prices that you would pay for mail-order and other inferior machines.
