What Dimes Will Do.

Land is cheap. For easy figuring, let us say it is worth $160 an acre. A square rod, then, is worth only $1, and 10 cents worth will be a little more than 27 square it. For a dime he can buy land enough or a peach tree! The boy who can save look like a tiny farm. The boy who learns to save a dime and to know values will some day come into his own.-Breeders' Gazette.

and Business Colleges.

Washington, D. C., August 26 .- A report issued today by the Federal Bureau of Education, shows that there are 24 commercial schools and business colleges in this state. The 1913 enrollment was 7,052 pupils. It is estimated that more than half this number completed commercial courses, and a large number are now employed in Michigan business institutions.

In this entire nation there are 618 business colleges and commercial schools and they accommodate 160,557 students annually. This is an average annual attendance of 260 pupils per school.

Many People in Agricultural Occupations in Michigan.

Washington, D. C., August 26. There are 1,112,998 persons in Michi gan that work for a living, and 325,825 of them are employed upon the farm, according to a report which has just been issued by the U.S. census bureau. Of the persons engaged in agricultural pursuits, the bulk of them are farm operators and farm laborers. The farm operators number 190, 509, and 185, 128 are men and 5,381 are women. ### Labor Day.

Monday, Sept. 7, being Labor day our readers will find the following article both interesting and instructive:

Labor day is a day set apart by the executive or legislative bodies of most states of the Union at the solicitation o the labor unions and other industrial bodies, to be devoted to general celebrations honoring the laboring man. The first Monday in September has been agreed upon by most of the states as the date for an annual celebration.

Labor organizations are of two classes, those organized within separate trades, for the purpose of obtaining benefits for the followers of those trades, and those organized to admit workmen of all trades and classes for the purpose of improving the condition of laboring men as

The methods of the two classes differ in accordance with these purposes. The former rely chiefly upon such direct in fluences as strikes or collective bargains, while the latter depends upon more indirect means, such as agitation and about the middle of the eighteenth century, and were the result of natural evolution from the ancient guilds. They did not attain great influence in the United States until about 1830, but since that time have constantly grown in number and in importance.

From 1830 to 1850 the tendency was oward the formation of general labor organizations rather than trades unions, but after the latter date almost every line of trade organized separate local unions. About 1865 a reaction set in, marked by the organization of the Knights of Labor in 1860, a general society ad mitting members of all classes of labor and including, when at its height, probably 200,000 workmen. Its influence in politics was at times notable, but this very activity also brought it into dis repute, and since about 1885 it ha gradually lost its influence, being superceded more recently by the American Federation of Labor. The latter or ganization, founded in 1887, consists of the federation of trades unions, and now has more than 2,000,000 members. It policy was, at first, to keep out of politics, but to maintain a continuous agitation through the general and special press, and to obtain its demands by means of strikes and conferences. Later, however, it entered politics, devoting itself to securing the nomination Michigan Commercial Schools and election of candidates favorable to laboring classes. It has sometimes worked in and through the old parties, and sometimes has had independent candidates.

The prejudice which formerly existed greatest tragedy of the age. against labor organizations is dying out, and as the public has learned to know and respect their leaders, and has obtained a clearer understanding of their aims and principles. In the furtherance of their original purposes, namely, increasing the intelligence, skill and efficiency of workmen, the elevation of character, the raising of wages and the improvements of conditions of employment, the payment of insurance and of benefits to the sick, and the general protection of the rights of laboring men, they have accomplished and are still accomplishing a great work.

The Michigan Potato Patch.

Washington, D. C., August 27.—The Michigan Irish potato patch contains 364,000 acres this year, and the total production will be, approximately, 37,-099,000 bushels, according to estimates made today by the United States crop reporting board. The condition of the crop is 91 per cent of normal, and the price at the present time is averaging around 67 cents per bushel. Michigan is the leading Irish potato state of the

In starting out to furnish the Herald with a series of articles on local matters know of no better subject to launch than that of the public schools, since they are about to open for another fall and winter term. Perhaps the reason this subject is first in my mind is because of an incident that came to my view a short time ago, and it was one that I hope has happened and is happening in many homes in this vicinity just

For some reason, I do not now remember what, I was called to a neighbor's house, and upon reaching there found the mother with her small son working the problems in arithmetic that the boy will wrestle with in school the coming year. The lad was, of course, opposed to making school days of his vacation-and especially so of the very last days of his vacation. But the mother assured me he was being deprived of but little play. She showed me the school work the boy had been doing all summer, and I am sure that boy is going to be one of the best pupils

Like the average boy, arithmetic is hard for him, and his mother, realizing this, has not only urged him, but, when necessary, has compelled him to give one hour a day all summer to the problems he will have the coming year: He has gone over them twice and probably will finish the third time before school begins. I have not yet inquired. but I am going to inquire of that boy's teacher this year and learn, for my own satisfaction, if that mother's work has not borne good fruit.

The woman told me that her son always had abhorred the study of geography, too, but the deplorable conditions that have arisen in Europe have changed his mind, and have made an eager student of her son in this one study. In fact, the boy does not need to be urged to study his geography now, but keeps both his father and mother busy answering questions-and, as might be supposed-makes them refer to the book quite often to be able to answer his

COLLECTED THEM IN A HURRY

Method of Commander of Irregulars May Not Have Been Orthodox, but It Was Effective.

A company of irregulars enlisted on the Union side, for the special purpose of coping with Confederate guerrillas, called themselves the Snake Hunters. They wore no very definite uniform, and the arms they carried were of every imaginable kind and pattern.

Their commander, Captain Baggs, would shout: "Put down them blasted guns, and be d-d to you!" Which, of course, meant "Stack arms." "Now to your holes, you ugly rats, and don't let me see you again till I want you!" which signified "Break ranks!" Whereupon the Snake Hunters would disperse on the run, with whoops and yells.

One day a couple of men from Philadelphia, having witnessed this interesting style of drill, invited Captain Baggs to take a drink in a grog shop. The men of the company having been dismissed in the manner described, they asked him how he expected to get them back if he wanted them in a hurry. "I'll show you how," replied Baggs, and, going to the door, he fired three barrels of his revolver. The echo of the third report was still lingering among the cliffs when the entire bunch of Snake Hunters rushed into the barroom with a whole menagerie of roars, screeches and hee-haws, and without question or apology called for tincups.

SLAVE TRADE IN MOROCCO.

One of the most dangerous and annoying tasks which France has been obliged to perform in Morocco is the suppression of the slave trade. The work is not finished, even now; smuggling of "black ivory" across the desert still continues; but without doubt it is only a tiny fraction of the wholesale commerce in human beings which prevailed before the French occupation. As a sample of the persistence of this commerce, when there is any market for its wares it may be remembered that slave cargoes were smuggled into southern states as late as 1858 and Fortunately France has a strong grip on the great shoulder of northern Africa, and four-score years have taught her leaders desert diplomacy as well as desert warfare.

WHITTEMORE VS. PRESCOTT.

Last Sunday, Aug. 23, the Whittemore ball team played the fast Prescott baseball club at this place, and won by the score of 5 to 4. It was a pitchers' battle until the sixth inning, the score then being 1 to 1. In the first of the sixth Prescott secured two runs, which put them in the lead. In the beginning of the seventh they got another run, which made the score 4 to 1. In the last of the eighth the Whittemore boys started a batting rally, tieing the score. In the first of the ninth Prescott secured a single, with Katzen running for him. L. Schroyer sacrificed to second. The next man up failed to ranch is very nearly completed. A get a hit, making it two outs. L. Schroyer being put up as a pinch hitter singled at third, Katzen bringing in the winning run on the bit.

ALL ENGAGED IN

Making butter on the farm is rapidly becoming a thing of the past. Any housewife knows what it means of drudgery to make good butter, and what difficulties she encounters in her attempt to find a satisfactory market for her product. Her outlet is limited. The creamery has every large city on the continent within its reach. The creamery is plugging every day for the interests of the dairy farmer as well as for its own.

We are now in the midst of our third season and business is humming. Prices are good and the outlook fine. We are making nearly four times as much butter as we did in 1912. That also means that we are able to handle your cream to the very best advantage for you. Come and see us or ship us a can. We know we can please you.
