Reservations for the entire course of five numbers will be made for 25 cents, and must be made at the Star theatre on the above date. The box office will be opened at 7 o'clock. Season tickets will also be on sale at that time and place.

Secretary T. F. Marston, of the North-eastern Michigan Development Bureau, was in the city Monday with the Bureau's exhibit car, and appeared before the board of supervisors. The exhibit car created much interest. It has been exhibited during the summer in the states of Ohio, Indiana, Pennsylvania and Illinois. Mr. Marston was on a trip, which includes all the counties along the D. & M. and M. C. Rys., where he expects to visit each board of supervisors this week.

Normal Banquet.

Tuesday evening Miss Young and the 22 members of the Iosco County Normal Training school tendered a most delightful banquet to the members of the board of supervisors, the teachers of the high school and the board of education. Covers were laid for 72 guests, but a few vacant chairs were noticeable among those assigned to the supervisors. This fact is to be regretted. By attending these annual banquets the supervisors would learn much of the benefits that are being derived from the money which they are annually called upon to appropriate for the County Normal.

The "eats" for the occasion were prepared by the teachers and members of the Normal class, and were well worthy of the ample justice done them by those in attendance. The intellectual part of the evening's entertainment consisted of a number of entertaining and instructive talks by members of the supervisors, teachers and others, interspersed with music, and was greatly enjoyed.

Miss Young and her class are to be congratulated on the success of the affair.

Holstein Bull.

I have purchased a registered Holstein bull of dairy strain. Patronage solicited. Rueben Smith. adv-42

DUTY OF A GOOD NEIGHBOR

Rigid Quarantine a Moral Obligation in the Case of Contagious Diseases.

Every family which has a member ill with typhoid fever, scarlet fever, or other contagious disease, is entitled to the sympathy and intelligent help of the community. At the same time the stricken family should realize fully that simple good citizenship calls upon its members to do everything in their power to prevent the spread of the contagion to neighbors. In the country, especially, where there are seldom health officers to impose rigid quarantines, the duty of keeping the sick separated from the well falls with peculiar weight on the afflicted family. Ordinary neighborliness demands that such a family keep its members away from others and prevent outsiders from coming in contact with the infection.

On a farm producing and selling milk, a contagious disease such as typhoid or scarlet fever demands special precautions. A very few germs of these diseases allowed to get into the milk may multiply rapidly and be a source of disease in many families on the milk route served by the farmer.

In the case of typhoid, the disease may come from germs in the well water, and this water if used unboiled for cleansing milk bottles or cans may very well start a typhoid epidemic in a neighboring town. Inspectors have frequently traced outbreaks of scarlet fever and typhoid along a milk route and back to a sick person on the producer's farm.

It is the duty of every milk farmer to see that no one who is suffering from fever of any kind ever enters the dairy. Moreover, no one engaged in nursing the sick should ever be allowed to go near milk. Those who handle the milk on such farms, even though they never have been near the person who is sick, should take special precautions. Before entering the milk room they should put on a clean cap and a clean duster, which are never allowed to go into the house.

In cases of typhoid or suspected typhoid all water used in cleansing milk vessels should first be boiled. Finally, even with all these precautions, wherever typhoid or scarlet fever is even suspected in a family, the milk should be thoroughly pasteurized before being sold.

The milk producer who takes these precautions establishes his good citizenship. The one who handles milk carelessly with sickness in his family is, though he may not realize it, a possible enemy to his customers.

In many cases where an outbreak of typhoid has been traced back to a dairy the owner was not deliberately careless. Typhoid fever is not always readily recognized as such, and not uncommonly passes simply as fever or bowel complaint. For this reason every case of fever on a dairy farm should be regarded with suspicion and lead to a very careful handling of the milk.

Members of households in which there are contagious or suspicious illnesses also have an important part to play in keeping the milk supply clean. They should never return empty milk bottles without first boiling them, and any family which takes a public milk bottle into a room where there is a contagious disease is really a party to a serious offense against public health. A milk dealer, who learns of a case of sickness in a family, should keep the bottles from that house separated from the others, and make certain that they are very carefully sterilized before they are again used for milk.

Even where there is no sickness on a farm the dairy farmer should use every effort to produce a high grade, clean milk from healthy cows. Sterilization of bottles and other milk vessels is essential.

Auction Advertising.

The season for auction sales is again at hand. If you are planning on sale and want the best results for your money, get some of those neat-color auction posters at the Herald office, and also have the sale advertised in the paper. We have different designs in the posters and are sure we can please you.

Twelve Reasons Why Albert W. Black Should Be Re-Elected Prosecuting-Attorney of Iosco County.

One man in talking with others, said: "Because he is a tax-payer."

Another said: "Because every business man in his own town is his friend."

Another said: "Because every person going to his office for relief, whether the person be from one end of the county or the other end, receives the same courteous treatment."

Another said: "Because those who know him best in his own town have always supported him, as is shown by his large majorities in East Tawas."

Another said: "Because he has lived long enough in this county so we know what kind of a man he is, and we know what he has done and can do."

Another said: "Because he has won more than 95 per cent of all the cases he has ever tried for Iosco county."

Another said: "Because he has a thorough knowledge of all the business affairs of Iosco county and attends to them with satisfaction to the board of supervisors."

Another said: "Because he has collected every dollar due the county in fines and costs since the commencement of his administration, and has seen to it that that money was properly placed in the county treasury."

Another said: "Because in his administration he never asked for help in any case at the expense of an extra fee for Prosecuting-Attorney services."

Another said: "Because he has been a member of the board of supervisors, and knows how to correctly advise them in all legal matters."

Another said: "Because he is always working at his business and can be found there every day in the week."

Another man said: "Because it is wise policy to let well enough alone, especially in the office of Prosecuting-Attorney." adv

BALL TEAM HAVE BANQUET

Also a Tabular Report Showing Batting and Fielding Averages for the Year.

Last Monday evening, October 12th, the ball team banqueted at Manager Wuggazer's "shack" at Island Lake. The evening was spent in games and fun, and in listening to the monologues, baseball and otherwise, from the lips of Pitcher Cadore of the Brooklyn Nationals. As an entertainer he certainly is "the goods." The banquet furnished by Manager Wuggazer was one that will never be forgotten by the boys.

Following are the batting and fielding averages for the year, just closed:

When the editor of a country paper starts in on Monday morning to get up something for his paper in the way of interesting local news, and finds, after nosing around, that nothing has happened in the town or community that he can write up, and nobody gives in any local news, and every fellow he talks to says, "I don't know a thing," and his liver is not working just right, and he feels as though he had just as soon loop the loop with Lincoln Beachy as to go to work—that's the time when he would like to turn the job over to the "Smart Aleck" who thinks he could get up a better paper than the editor and not half try.

Three other names were presented at this meeting.

WARD FRENCH SUCCESSFUL IN THE WEST.

Ward French is known throughout the west and has been appointed musical director of the Boise high school. East Tawas has cause to be proud of her home town boy.

Many of the people of the Tawas have been interested in Ward French and his work in the west and the following items have been taken from the Idaho Statesman concerning him:

"Ward French, who succeeds Arthur Westbrook as musical director of the high school this year, will make his initial appearance before the music lovers of Boise in a complimentary recital at the First Congregational church Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock.

"Mr. French will have charge of the two glee clubs of the high school, the chorus and the orchestra. He has secured the rights of a clever operetta upon which he will begin work at once, in which there will be solo parts, choruses, opportunity for the glee clubs and the orchestra. He expects to give it about Christmas.

"The new director began his musical work in the music college at Albion, Mich., later studying at Boston and Chicago. He has been connected in concert work with the Redpath Lyceum bureau for several years, teaching and directing classes during the off seasons. He has been west on several concert tours, but never to remain for any length of time.

"The singer will be assisted by his wife, Virginia French, who received her musical training at Notre Dame college at Notre Dame Ind., and later spent two years in the musical department of the University of Michigan. He will have the direction of the choir of the First Congregational church."—Idaho Statesman, Sept. 20.

"A distinct compliment to Mr. and Mrs. Ward French was the immense audience which greeted them at the Congregational church Tuesday evening, when Mr. French, the new director of music at the high school, made his initial appearance to the music loving public of the capital in a complimentary recital. More than a thousand people assembled in the church.

"Mr. French has a baritone voice of unusual range, rich and full, with both sympathetic and dramatic feeling. His program was admirably arranged to give opportunity to display his talent.

"Mrs. Virginia French, who accompanied her husband, played with a sympathetic co-operation with the singer, showing her artistic temperament and musicianly qualities. At the close of the recital a host of friends assembled in an informal reception to the newcomers.

Give the Farm a Name.

Give the farm a name and keep the farm up to the name. A name gives distinction, it is an expression of honest pride and shows an interest in the place. It means something more than so many acres of brown earth, a dwelling and barns. It means a place that one feels is in the best sense the home of himself and his family. Sentiment gathers around it and crystallizes so that at last the owner does not so much ask in declining years, "How much can I get for my farm?" but, "Who is going to succeed me on it?" And that means a deepening and strengthening of home ties and those of locality, both of which are greatly needed in American rural life.

But for practical reasons as well as sentimental it is wise to bestow a name upon the farm. No self-respecting man would give a good name to his farm and then keep the farm in poor condition. The sense of pride would prompt any man to do his level best. That would mean better cultivation, house and barn painted, fences in good condition, better stock and better crops, and more attractive appearance within and without the dwelling. There is scarcely a farm, however situated, that some appropriate name may not be given it. Landscape, a spring, clump of trees, position, historic associations are among the many things that may suggest the name. And always remember this, that it is with the farmer, more than anyone else, rests the solution of the problem of arresting the drift city-ward. An attractive home, a home that has a distinctiveness about it, goes a long way towards the solution.

Parcel Post Selling.

The greatest hindrance to marketing adaptable farm products is the lack of information on current prices. As has frequently been observed the only basis upon which such trade can be developed is one of mutual benefit by producer and consumer, or by buyer and seller. The present margin of profit extracted by the various agencies entering into the transportation and handling of farm produce from the farm to the city home must be somewhat equally divided by the two parties transacting such business by mail.

Just how to arrive at such division, or how to establish prices that will be just to both parties when market prices are fluctuating rapidly, is yet unsolved. Left to natural tendencies, the city man will buy as cheaply as possible, and the country man will demand as high a price as possible.

City papers have published accounts of farmers demanding as much and more for produce shipped by parcel post as the city retail stores were charging. We know of city purchasers who complain because farmers ask a little more for parcel post goods than they could get in their home market. It is the same old element in human nature which has stood in the way of successful co-operation these many years—the selfish tendency which destroys the possibility of future benefit by stubborn insistence upon present gain.

Human nature can not be changed by legislation, and human greed will not be curbed by system. But a basis of trade can be established by reliable information on market conditions and current prices. Some system of determining prices and disseminating information on market condition seems necessary to the success of the movement.

Let 'Em Fight.

A few days ago millions of Americans sent up earnest prayers for peace. And the fight was resumed with redoubled fury.

And this inclines us to the belief that the best thing for America to do is to sit tight and let 'em fight it out.

European nations are like a bunch of bull dogs turned loose into a pen. They will fight until one or the other is chewed up and soundly licked, and outsiders are likely to get bitten.

America has done its duty.
LET 'EM FIGHT.

Look Out For Defective Stoves and Clogged Chimneys.

Defective furnaces, boilers and stoves; stove and stove pipes too near wood-work; defective chimneys, sparks from chimneys, and chimneys burning out, and placing ashes in wooden receptacles on wood floors, or against wooden walls in the last fiscal year, were responsible for 1,449 fires in this state. These fires were also responsible for the snuffing out of human lives.

Ordinary care and timely repairs would have prevented most of the fire waste and loss of human life.

The danger season for this class of fires is fast approaching, so do not delay having your stoves, stove pipes and chimneys cleaned of last year's accumulation.

Also consider carefully the following: Are you overheating your stove? Have you tin or metal receptacles for ashes?

Is the stove free from cracks and breaks?

Does the wall paper come up against the stovepipe?

Is all woodwork within two feet of the stove protected?

Have you a metal stove board under the heating stove?

Does any woodwork come in contact with the chimney?

Is the stovepipe clean, sound and perfectly jointed and rigid?

Do you deposit rags, waste paper and other rubbish with ashes?

Have you protected all woodwork within 18 inches of the stovepipe?

Do you dump ashes on wooden floors or against wooden partitions and fences?

Is there a double, ventilated thimble around the pipe where it passes through a partition?

Is the chimney clean, is it free from cracks, and is the mortar between the bricks still sound?

Safety and carefulness along these lines means protection of your property and the lives of those dear to you, so inspect all these things and be sure they are safe.

Who Can Dig It Out?

Farmers today are put to their wits ends to know how to keep the young men in the country.

No one seems to be able to solve the problem, and yet it must be solved or a few more years will see the farms almost completely depopulated.

And the nation is dependent upon the farms.

Young men are leaving the farms day by day because the life is too dull for them.

They are intelligent, ambitious, full of life and spirits, and crave a more active career.

They rush to the cities in the belief that fortune awaits them there. But 99 out of every 100 become simple cogs in the great commercial wheel, making barely enough to keep soul and body together, and never saving a dollar.

There is a remedy somewhere—some means certainly exists for keeping our young men on the farms, where the nation needs them.

Advertising.

The man who does not advertise simply because his grandfather did not, should wear knee breeches and a wig.

The man who does not advertise because it costs money, should stop paying salaries for the same reason.

The man who does not advertise because he doesn't know how to write an advertisement, should quit eating because he can't cook.

The man who does not advertise because somebody said it did not pay, should not believe the world is round because the ancients said it was flat.

The Latin-American Investment Field.

The general investment and loan opportunity in Latin-America is great—possibly greater than that opening to direct trade—banking and shipping. Up to the time of the outbreak of war in Europe Latin-America negotiated fully 95 per cent of its public and private loans in Europe. National bond issues and loans for personal enterprises were floated and financed in London, Paris and Berlin, rather than in New York. Now the situation must change, for, even when the war is over, Europe will need all its spare money for home loans and bond issues to pay her war debts and make up for the industrial ravages of the conflict.

If the United States investors will reform their prejudices in regard to revolutions, the stability of governments and climatic conditions, they will enter upon a big new field of legitimate opportunity not unlike that which they enjoyed 20 years ago in the western states. They will also earn the gratitude of the Latin-American governments and peoples whom they accommodate.

Not only must governments have national loans, but railroad extensions, new steam and electric lines, water powers and plants, harbor improvements and docks, building operations, mining and timber working operations, and harvesting of crops, must be financed. With these demands for money covered by the United States, the vast supplies and materials required by the consequent development should come from the United States and reflect favorably on trade.—Exchange.

A Communication.

Feeling that I owe an apology to my friends and customers for closing my store in the midst of the busy season, I feel it my duty to explain a few things:

When I put in the store at East Tawas last winter I put in almost $900 worth of goods, and out of this stock I received $211, plus the cheap sale, and I cut that short to save expenses. My own store at Tawas City paid all right, as my expenses are light.

I wrote the wholesale house and tried to square things, but they were pressed for money, and, in the course of events, the bill fell into a certain collector's hands, with the results which you all know or think you know.

Well, he tried to squeeze his lemon dry at the first sitting. Understand, I did not have to make an assignment to him, but I did not know him so well as some of the other business people on Main street. Although I was not favorably impressed I took a chance on him, as I was willing to pay this bill. "I suppose it will all be paid now, just about the time Mrs. Hunt collects her judgment against the same unscrupulous collector."

So in June I made over to him all I owned in the store. I was having a good trade this fall, and could have got through all right if he had not been so very attentive—yes, and pressing in his demands. If I had given him all he had asked for I should have had to go down and beat Mr. Friedman out of clothes for myself.

He has went so far I may take it into my head to correct him for some remarks he made the morning I put him out of the store, and ordered him to close the mortgage, as I had to get rid of him some way. He has even went to a friend of mine and asked her if she would be willing to swear that I tried to sell the store to her after it was out of my hands.

For his benefit, too, I might say just here, that Miss Mary Alexander's address is Carsonville, Mich., as he wants to know. At least a letter to that place will reach her, and he seems to have a grudge at me for something or other. I don't know why. I'm kind of sorry for him, and while there is so much sympathy on the exchange just now, I would ask my competitor, who feels so heart sorry for me, to reserve her sympathy for herself. I am all right and gaining in flesh, sleep well, and am not worrying any, and I will be right in the front row when the smoke clears away. I've always holed my own row, and if I couldn't, I'm married to a great big healthy man—just about my own age—who I could manage to have support me if necessary. I do not believe in divorce myself. To the people who have appreciated what I have tried to do for them I will say this: I am still at your disposal when it comes to making a hat, and I can do the work in a workmanlike manner, too, and if I do not go on a farm next spring I shall still be at your service if I am able. I am working at my home, and am kept pretty busy, but will find time for your work if I have to hire mine done.

I have been doing my own work all fall at both places, even my washing and ironing, so this week is a kind of a vacation. Finally, I want to tell you all that I paid all my accounts, which were very small, the night before I closed the store, so I have not cheated anybody, and I thank you all who have patronized me and made the world a place of enjoyment for me, as I usually manage to keep sweet, if my face does belie me sometimes. Other people ought to stand it, as I have to.

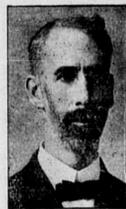

As I came past the store I noticed that the good ladies who took inventory have piled the rummage I had stored for the Baptist Aid society in front of the stock, which shows they had a streak of humor at least, or possibly they thought they were in stock. One never can tell, don't you know. I will reimburse the Aid for what they are out on the deal. I can't help the styles of some of some of them, as I understand they were solicited from some of the milliners just as they were trimmed. adv MRS. C. NELEM.

The Week In History.

Monday, October 12.—America discovered, 1492. King John dies, 1216.
 Tuesday, October 13.—First Pullman car built, 1867. Murat shot, 1815.
 Wednesday, October 14.—William Penn born, 1644.
 Thursday, October 15.—Pocket watch invented 1510. Bank panic, 1857.
 Friday, October 16.—New York's first newspaper, 1725.
 Saturday, October 17.—Battle of Saratoga. Burgoyne surrenders, 1777.
 Sunday, 18.—Telephone Chicago-New York, 1892.

Facts Worth Knowing.

MOST BEAUTIFUL WORDS.
 In a recent contest to determine which 25 words are worth being considered the most beautiful in the English language, the first prize was won with the words printed below. From these the judges struck four—grace, divine, justice and truth—as lacking in euphony compared to the other words of the list. Grace and justice were struck out because of the harshness of the "g" in grace and the "j" in justice. The word truth had a metallic sound, so the judges declare, and divine while beautiful in the sentiment implied, lacked euphony.
 These are the 25 words selected:
 Melody, Splendor, Adoration, Grace, Virtue, Eloquence, Innocence, Modesty, Faith, Joy, Truth, Peace, Nobility, Happiness, Honor, Love, Hope, Harmony, Divine, Heaven, Purity, Justice, Sympathy, Liberty and Radiance.

Wise and Otherwise.

Congress may tax a good many things, but it will have to leave ladies' bridge parties alone.
 The Germans are doing their best, or worst, to make a lot of new ruins for tourists to visit after this European war is over.
 England may plow up her golf links to raise food, but Americans will have to be some hungry before they dig up any ball grounds.
 The Tawas Herald $1.50 per year.

Kitchen Kinks.

Before cleaning out a fireplace sprinkle a good handful of tea leaves among the ashes. This makes the ashes lift more easily, and prevents the dust from flying about the room.
 To clean lamp chimneys hold them over a jug of boiling water until well steamed, then polish with a dry duster. It is far less trouble then washing, and the glass very rarely break.
 It's the germs with which the air teems that cause fermentation of preserves. Sterilize the jars by boiling in hot water, and sterilize the vegetables themselves by boiling them.
 There is often trouble in getting cream to whip up properly, but if a few drops of lemon juice are added it will soon become thick. Care must be taken not to add too much, as that would make the cream curdle.

Of Interest to Women.

To remove scorch stains wet the scorched place, rub with soap and bleach in the sun.
 To remove sewing machine oil rub with lard, and let stand for several hours, then wash with soap and water.
 Never attempt to can a vegetable that has matured and commenced to harden, and, of course, a vegetable that has commenced to decay is of no use as an article of food.
 Before washing fine lace or muslin collars or cuffs baste them on to a piece of heavier muslin. This will be found an excellent way to prevent their tearing or stretching in the process of laundering.
 During the wintertime when palms are kept in the house, if they are treated in the following manner, it will help them to thrive: Sponge the leaves once a week with lukewarm water, to which a little milk has been added. Then stand the plant for two hours in lukewarm water deep enough to completely cover the pot.

Lesson for Leaders.

Church statistics show that it costs about $1,000 to convert a man to belief in the Christian way of living.
 Political statistics, on the other hand, show that it costs about $20,000—some authorities say, $25,000—to kill a man war.

Suppose that during the past third of a century the leaders of human activity in Europe had taken the money they have put into killing people and put it, instead, in getting ready to save them—that is to say, had put it into schools, churches, missions, and into setting personal examples of practiced Christianity. Don't you think the world would have gotten further along?
 Simply as an investment, wouldn't the alternative have proved itself the better? Perhaps Europe will swing toward it on the rebound.

Result of Frequent Change by Farmers.

An official of the Federal Census Bureau, in discussing the report recently issued by the government dealing with the term of occupancy of farms in the United States, said:
 "This frequency of moving from farm to farm, or instability of occupancy, very likely, forms one of the chief causes for the decline of rural prosperity, or is a hindrance to greater progress. Frequency of removal of farmers results in general shiftlessness—the roads and bridges are generally in a poor condition because the farmers, moving at frequent periods, are not particularly interested in their upkeep.
 Farm buildings on such farms are not usually kept in good repair, as the farmer who is about to move will leave the repairs for the next tenant to make. The same reasons will apply for lack of interest by the 'unstable' farmer in the schools, churches and general welfare of the community. They move frequently and do not remain on a farm long enough to get the best results from it, consequently they are usually in a poor financial condition."

$100 Reward, $100

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Wednesday, October 14, was a day of surprises to Mrs. Ella Buck, it being the occasion of her 50th birthday anniversary. In the morning a number of her relatives met, and after a merry birthday dinner, helped her to "tie" a comforter, but surprises were not to end here, for at 5 o'clock in the evening a number of her old friends and neighbors drove up in an auto-laden with good things to eat. After greetings were over Mrs. Buck was banished from the kitchen, then her visiting friends proceeded to get supper, and neighbors and friends soon sat down to a bountiful repast, lacking in nothing, not even the birthday cake, with its many glittering little candles. After supper a regular good time was enjoyed by all, one of the pleasing features of the evening being a duet by Mrs. Teed and Mrs. Brown, also instrumental music by Mrs. Glendenin. Mrs. Buck was presented with a lovely nickle plated tea-kettle and numerous other gifts. After an enjoyable evening all left for their homes, wishing her many happy returns of the day.

TO ALL ENGAGED IN DAIRY BUSINESS

Making butter on the farm is rapidly becoming a thing of the past. Any housewife knows what it means of drudgery to make good butter, and what difficulties she encounters in her attempt to find a satisfactory market for her product. Her outlet is limited. The creamery has every large city on the continent within its reach. The creamery is plugging every day for the interests of the dairy farmer as well as for its own.

We are now in the midst of our third season and business is humming. Prices are good and the outlook fine. We are making nearly four times as much butter as we did in 1912. That also means that we are able to handle your cream to the very best advantage for you. Come and see us or ship us a can. We know we can please you.

We are selling the "Diablo," a separator of the Highest Merit, at prices that you would pay for mail-order and other inferior machines.
