The last number of the Tawas City Entertainment Association's lecture course was given Monday evening by Mr. Dudley Wagner, who gave a character impersonation of Beau Brummel. Mr. Wagner is an artist of rare ability and his rendition of this play was well received. This in all probability is the last lecture course that Tawas City will have for a number of years, as the men who have backed these courses have become weary of taking the responsibility of them and then receive but half-hearted support from the people of the city.

A citizens meeting was held at the city hall Wednesday evening to consider the question of the building of an auditorium in this city. About thirty were present and after some discussion a committee was appointed to prepare an estimate of the size of building required and the probable cost. The meeting then adjourned until Wednesday evening, April 21, at which time the committee is expected to have sufficient plans so that the question of an organization may be taken up. It is hoped that every citizen will show sufficient interest in the matter to be present next Wednesday evening. It is something we should all be interested in.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR NOTES.

Next Sunday the meeting will be led by Mina McCardell, and the topic is, "One Day in Seven for the Highest Signs," it being Sabbath observance meeting. Everybody invited.

Last Sunday the meeting was led by Pearl Cooper, topic—"Getting Ready for next Life." Helen Buckle gave a very interesting report from our missionary book. No one can afford to miss any of these reports, so come every Sunday. Our meeting opens at 6:15 local, the first bell rings at 6:00, the second at 6:15.

Thursday the C. E. society enjoyed a very pleasant social evening at Bing's despite the severe "frosts and regulations" imposed upon the guests who were asked not only the descent of the stairs in a manner rather hazardous to their necks but to use the chairs gently since they were borrowed, and to submit to a thorough search before leaving to prevent accidental disappearance of articles of silverware. Despite conditions such as these, however, the guests enjoyed themselves in a bean hunt in which Fred Roberts got enough to plant the farm this spring, and a modern basket ball game in which some of our boys didn't show up quite as well individually as they do collectively. Home made candy was served and then the guests were shown a menagerie where they were allowed to feed the animals. We only hope the next social will be as good as this one was.

SAVE THE WAR PICTURES.

What kind of a pictorial record of the greatest of all wars are you going to keep for future reference? London Lloyds, the famous insurance agents, are now betting three to one that it will end by December of this year, and already those who like to have records for future reference for themselves and their children are preparing scrap-books of many kinds.

Pictures, after all, are the best of records. The eye can take them in at a single glance, and the explanatory lines beneath are usually so brief that one does not have to do a lot of tiresome reading to refresh the memory. Take the war pictures in the illustrated section of The Sunday News Tribune for instance. For some time past four full pages of war pictures have appeared each Sunday, and many more interesting ones will be printed in The Sunday News Tribune between now and the end of the greatest of modern catastrophes.

In the issue of Sunday, April 11, were some very interesting views. There was a splendid picture of the French battleship Bouvet, which was sunk during an attack on the Dardanelles forts, and a general view of the ancient city of Smyrna, which has been under bombardment by the allied fleet. There was also a view of the Golden Horn at Constantinople, which it is predicted will soon be in the hands of the Allies.

In years to come those who keep these pictures now appearing in the Illustrated Section of The Sunday News Tribune will have a most valuable souvenir of the war. Each section contains about 24 pictures in colors, so in the course of a few months a collection of rare value is compiled.—advertisement.

How quickly can you tell a live town from a dead one by simply looking over its newspaper. A poor skim milk sort of a newspaper with a few small advertisements, and those looking as though they were run at half price, betokens a dead town just as sure as a corpse indicates a funeral, while a good, lively, well-printed newspaper, filled with good, fresh ads, and displayed locally, shows that the town is prosperous and thriving. It never fails.

The ethics of home correspond in a large measure with ethics of society. All these virtues which are crowned jewels of the highest civilization have their inception in the home. The glory and charm of womanhood and manhood, the niceties of character which give distinctiveness and beauty to childhood and youth, the adjustments of personal and domestic relations within the home, the education of the impulses budding susceptibilities and growing powers of children all fall within the powers of home ethics.

Please take notice that we will locate a salting station at Tawas City, this coming season. We will have seed ready for distribution about May 10. Please prepare your soil for the cucumber crop as early as possible. A good yield depends on the preparation of the land. You ought to make $100 per acre on cucumbers. We think that Tawas City will make a good station for cucumbers and will do all we can to help you to make a success of this crop. Respectfully, adv-18 The Northern Pickle Co.

The department of the interior at Washington recently issued a bulletin devoted to the fire tax and fire waste in this country and included in same this startling statement: "The buildings consumed if placed on lots of 65 ft. frontage would line both sides of a street extending from New York to Chicago. A person journeying along this street of desolation would pass every thousand feet a ruin from which an injured person was taken. At every three quarters of a mile in this journey he would encounter the charred remains of a human being who had been burned to death."

Official announcement is made that the work of standardizing the AuSable River division of the Detroit & Mackinac railroad will be commenced May 1. This road was formerly the AuSable & Northwestern and is of narrow gauge, built for logging. It extends from AuSable to Comins, Oscoda county, and traverses a considerable amount of sparsely settled farming lands.

THE COUNTY DEMOCRACY.

The second annual banquet of the Iosco County Club was held at the Hotel Iosco last Friday evening, and was a most enjoyable affair. A good representation was present from all parts of the county. The "eats" served by Landlord and Mrs. Kane were up to the high standard always maintained by the Hotel Iosco.

Hon. W. A. Comstock, of Alpena, was present and gave a most pleasing talk on Democracy. Albert Widdis also gave an able address, and remarks were made by several local speakers.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President—James LaBerge, East Tawas.

Vice Pres.—Henry Jacques, Whittemore. Secretary—Percy N. Thornton, Tawas City. Treasurer—H. W. Buckle, Tawas City.

FOLLETT WINS.

The following dispatch is from the Lansing correspondent to the Detroit Journal.

Lawyer Flowers, of the Detroit delegation and Farmer Follett, Iosco county member, again entertained the house Wednesday afternoon with an argument on a purely legal proposition, to wit: Did not the legislature at the 1911 session vest in the state railroad commission general police powers whereby it can compel railroad companies to limit their freight trains to a given number of cars, in the interest of safety? Farmer Follett took the affirmative, arguing that the commission has such power, hence it was unnecessary to pass a pending bill that would limit freight trains to 50 cars. Lawyer Flowers made two arguments, one oral and one written, in which he contended that Farmer Follett, whom he facetiously addressed as the chief justice, was wrong in his construction of the railroad commissioner's powers and so the 50 car bill should be passed. Then the house decided by a vote of 59 to 35 that Farmer Follett's construction of the law is the correct one, and the 50 car bill was killed. The railroad commission agrees with Farmer Follett that it now has power to limit the length of freight trains.

A BURDENED PEOPLE.

According to a count made in the library of congress recently our federal and state legislatures passed 62,014 statutes during the five years from 1909 to 1913 inclusive. Even greater than this multiplicity of laws was the vast mass of decisions of court of last resort, federal and state, which during the same five years reached the enormous total of 65,379 and now fill 630 volumes. And yet ignorance of the law—in a thousand volumes—does not excuse. In our day of statute making by the rapid-fire process, Thomas Jefferson would have found greater reason than ever for declaring that the country is governed best that is governed least and for opposing a multiplicity of laws.

ON THE TROT.

This world is on a trot, and it is some trot. We have the fox trot, the turkey trot, the dog trot, the gold trot and the sily trot. And everybody's trotting. If we don't trot for one thing, we trot for another. The young man trots along in the wake of the dainty maid. The bald head trots around in harness with his affinity. The dude trots in the halo of his own silliness. The politician trots in the limelight of publicity, and the voter trots at his beck and call. The hypocrite trots around in the cloak of religion, and the godly man trots after the souls of men. Death trots in the trenches of Europe, while misery and starvation trot over the heartstrings of the women and children left at home. Everybody's on the trot, and it is a fast and furious trot, with every man for himself and Satan take the hind-most trotter. If you would succeed in this life you must trot, for only the trotters reach the goals of today. It is the day of the trot, and we are essentially a people of today. For we trot.

"GRANDMA" DEWEY, DEAD.

Last Monday afternoon, April 12, at 2 o'clock, Mrs. Malinda Dewey, known by everyone as "Grandma" Dewey passed to her rest at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Charles Morrell in this city. Mrs. Dewey had been in good health until about a week before her death when she was taken with an attack of lagrippe, which terminated in pneumonia.

Mrs. Dewey's maiden name was Malinda Jeanette Adams. She was born February 24, 1816 in Jefferson county, N. Y. and was 99 years of age last February. She married Samuel Nestle in Canada when she was about fifteen years of age. Eleven children were born of this union, three sons and one daughter of which are still living. The oldest son being 82 years of age.

After the death of Mr. Nestle she was married again to Benjamin Dewey. Four children were born of this union, three of whom are living. Mrs. Dewey has been a resident of Michigan for seventy-five years. She lived in Wales for many years. More than thirty years ago she moved to Harrisville where she resided until about seven years ago. She then came to live with her daughter, Mrs. Charles Morrell at AuSable, and about a year after the fire of 1911, they came to live at East Tawas.

The deceased leaves four sons and three daughters to mourn her loss, Lyman Nestle of Los Angeles, Cal., C. M. Nestle of Colorado, William Nestle of Harrisville, Lewis Dewey of Lincoln, Mrs. L. H. Dunn, Mrs. Armina Buck and Mrs. Jane Atchison of Harrisville, Mrs. Charlotte Emerson of Rose City and Mrs. Charles Morrell of this city. Two daughters of Mrs. Morrell, Nina M. Long and Mrs. Ben Burke of Detroit were present during the illness and burial of Mrs. Dewey. Louis Dewey was in the city Monday and Tuesday of this week, also two son-in-laws, L. H. Dunn of Harrisville and Mr. Emerson of Rose City.

The funeral services were held from the Morrell home at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, Rev. C. W. Scott officiating. The remains were taken to Harrisville on the afternoon train and funeral services were held from the Harrisville Methodist church, where the deceased had been a member for many years, on Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The remains were laid at rest in the Harrisville cemetery.

Mrs. Dewey had many acquaintances and friends in East Tawas and was dearly beloved by all who knew her. She was always happy, sweet tempered and kind to everyone and ever ready with a smile and a cheerful word. She was a deeply religious woman proving her trust and the sincerity of her faith by her daily life. Grandma Dewey will be mourned by many friends as well as relatives. The sorrowing relatives have the sincere sympathy of those in the community in their present distress.

IRON IN WATER.

Half a part per million iron in water is detectable by taste, and more than 4 or 5 parts makes water unpalatable. In some mineral springs iron is the constituent which imparts a medicinal value to the water, but ordinarily it is undesirable. More than 2.5 parts per million in water used for laundering makes a stain on the clothes. Iron must be removed from water from which ice is made, or a cloudy, discolored product will result. An iron content of over 2 or 3 parts per million in water used in the manufacture of paper will stain the paper. Iron is harmful in water used for steaming, for it is equilibrium with acids which inside the boiler become dissociated, with the result that the free acids corrode the boiler plates; but the amount of iron carried in solution by most waters is so small that the damage it does to steam boilers generally amounts to little.

Waters having a high iron content have in some places, where they have been used as city supplies, caused an immense amount of trouble and expense, for they favor the growth of Crenothrix to such a degree that the water pipes become clogged with the iron sheaths of that organism. The removal of iron from water is sometimes easy and sometimes very difficult.—Water-Supply Paper 273, U. S. Geological Survey.

PATRIOTISM AND THE LEGISLATURE.

The Weissert bill making it compulsory for school children to memorize the national hymn and anthem should be passed by the Michigan Legislature. It is one of a number of important measures that have engaged the attention of our general assembly all of which are vital to the people of the state. The evident intention of the bill's author is to instill a deeper sense of patriotism in the coming generation. From what more appropriate source could come a movement to promote patriotism than from the present Legislature? Patriotism has been its long suit, a fact attested by the earnest, almost too serious attention given to the needs of the state and its people.

The workingmen of Michigan appreciate the patriotism which moved the Legislature to slaughter such bills as Jones boiler inspections and public building labor measures and to permit the apparent smothering of the "full crew" bill. The Averill compensation bill and the Henry measure in the interests of traction employees also have been patriotically treated, although there is hope that the latter may survive the excessive love of country and fellowmen which with the legislators sweat under.

Patriotism which has prompted the Legislature to kill almost every necessary health measure presented this session also must arouse intense gratification in the hearts of a constituency. There still remains two or three more weeks of the 1915 session which should afford ample opportunity for further display of patriotism by our conscientious senators. After passing the Weissert bill they might turn their attention to other needed legislation such, for instance, as a measure to abolish rear collar buttons in men's shirts; a statute making it a high crime and misdemeanor to blow one's nose on a public highway; a bill creating a commission to inquire into the relation of hoof and mouth disease to the decline and fall of the Bull Moose party and any number of other laws which press for enactment by a legislative body which has cradled such masterly examples of statesmanship as the Weissert bill and the Damon Mexican resolution.—Lansing Evening Press.

SIXTY YEARS AGO.

The well-worn saying "history repeats itself," was never better illustrated than when reading a copy of a newspaper called "Graham's Daily Mail," which fell into our hands the other day. The paper was dated at Philadelphia, Pa., April 21, 1885. One might think that a periodical of this date would be a "back number" in every sense; and it may be surprising to learn that many of its news paragraphs would not appear out of place in a paper of today, while subjects of its leading articles are just as much in the public mind now as then.

For instance the progress of the European war, in which we read of "the Allies," intrenchments, the prospects of peace, and the intimation that Great Britain is a little too ambitious about "ruling the waves." Other subjects discussed are the situation in Mexico, Prohibition laws, "The Horrors of War," the need of more enlistments in the United States Navy, and "Submarine Explorations;" these last were by means of an improved diving bell.

In the article on prohibition the editor is confident that such a law will be passed in Pennsylvania within a year. He believes it the best possible means of controlling the liquor traffic, and considers it only a matter of time when it will prevail for the entire country. Doubtless, however, he did not foresee how much time.

The war, of course, was the Crimean, in which the Allies, England and France, were combined against their present ally, Russia. We see by the market reports that it had the same effect as the present war on the price of grain, only more so. Wheat is quoted at $2.50 to $2.75, flour, $11.50 a barrel, rye, $1.50, corn, $1.10, oats, 79c. Cotton was selling from six to ten cents a pound; sugar at about present prices. But coffee it quoted at ten and eleven cents, and bacon eight to ten, hams ten to twelve and a half a pound. Another very modern touch appears in the market report, where against certain items, is, "Nothing doing."

Another great rush to Alaska has set in. Seekers after gold? Not at all; they are men who are eager to become employes of Uncle Sam in the construction of the new railroad.

THE NORTHERN MICHIGAN FARMER.

As has been previously stated in this column, the approaching season bids fair to be the most productive and prosperous for the farmers of this country in the history of the United States, if they will only take advantage of the opportunities offered. Spring is almost here, and that is the time when people who are interested in farm lands will be paying visits to various sections of Northern Michigan. The investigators look in part to farmers and business men for reliable information about the community they are visiting. Have you ever realized what you can do toward interesting a prospective buyer or farm settler? You can make him feel the justification of buying and settling in your community because you yourself are not interested in selling.

There is no more effective way of convincing those of a pessimistic turn of mind that conditions in Northern Michigan are healthy than to have them go away from home and meet conditions in other parts of the country. When this is done the chances are better than ten to one that the dissatisfied one will come back home more than satisfied with the conditions here.

And right here it might be well to suggest that it is time to begin those improvements that you have been thinking about making. It will cost less today than six months hence.

Get busy. Plant more acres in grain. Raise more hens and hogs. Do something worth while. Hire somebody. Don't ask if that pitcher contains any milk, but say, "Pass the cream." Be an optimist. Be cheerful. Good cheer is contagious. So is gloom.

If you want prosperity, do your share to bring it, and do it now. Nothing is the matter with the man with a grouch except an absent heart and missing nerve. Cheer up and talk and arrange for those big crops you are going to have this year. Go to work, do your level best. The war is all over yonder, not here. Men are being slaughtered in Europe, not here. Men are living here. It's cloudy on the other side of the Atlantic, but clear over here. It takes patriotism and hard work to keep things moving along the upward path, but if all will do their share the sun will shine the brighter for the doing.—Petoskey Independent.

BUY IT NOW!

For more than a year the habit of self-denial has been practised by the American people. Whatever may have been wanted either in the home, the farm or the shop, the inclination has been to refrain from purchasing. To save, not to spend has been the rule.

The moment has come to reverse the practice. The slogan which will lead to prosperity is Buy It Now!

Never was it truer than at this moment that the prosperity of this people is in their own hands. By their own act they can hasten the end of the existing depression and speed the arrival of unexampled prosperity. That end and that arrival are certain to come in any event, but a widespread determination to cast off the fetters which doubt and apprehension have put upon us in the past will hasten the day.

The war, coming fast on the heels of new tariff legislation spread far and wide the seeds of business distrust and individual apprehension of hard times. Thrift, a virtue in its place, was carried to the point at which it became vice. Prudence developed into niggardliness; men ordinarily forward became misers; the ancient maxim was amended to read: "Take care of the pennies and lock up the dollars out of use."

The result has been a financial stringency now happily fast disappearing, and business depression for which no reason longer exists. It is time for people again to resume the habits of life and of business which characterized Americans before this depression set in. We do not counsel extravagance, but we insist that niggardliness is no longer either necessary or helpful—not even to the person practicing it. If every reader of this paper, for example, would loosen to the channel of trade $10 in the next two weeks for things they really need, but have, through fear of the future, been trying to do without they would be better off, business would be appreciably stimulated, and its revival felt by those who contributed to it.

Kitchen Kinks.

Fudge made with sour cream instead of fresh milk is delicious.

If the pan in which macaroni is to be cooked is buttered, food will not stick to the pan.

Butter rubbed on the cleaned potatoes prepared for baking will keep the skins from getting thick and hard.

If a sunshine cake and a bowlful of mayonnaise are made at the same time as an angel cake is made, the yolks of the eggs will be used.

SKINNY'S FINISH.

Being a little short of material this week we asked the devil to write us a short article against the use of slang. He did. Here it is:

If there is anything that gets our Nanny it is the use of slang. Some guys spill so much of that kind of dope that it is hard to get wise to their spiel. Kids should be put next by their parents that slang is on the Fritz and should ought to be cut out. If I had a kid that couldn't put over straight stuff I would wallop the lining out of the lobster. Skirts are shines, proper, when it comes to slang. They think that mercy, and I should say are not real tough. The Boss is a dish of prunes when it comes to slang. He bawls me out to a fare ye well and I am in Dutch from the time I come on the job till haying time in the evening. This is the first thing I have ever wrote and if it don't show up in the rag I will know it is a flivver proper.—Skinny.

Making the Garden.

Come out into the garden, Maude, Come out and watch me make it; I've got two spades, two pecks of seeds And a rake with which to rake it. Come out and watch with what deft skill

An Irishman I hire: And help me sit upon the fence To watch the man perspire. When I was young an foolish, Maude, I used to do that work; And showed big blisters on my hands As proudly as a Turk.

But now, although my head is bald, It's twenty times as foxy, And when the gentle springtime comes I garden it by proxy. —Selected.

Of Interest to Women.

Gloves are among the things that should always be on hand when they are wanted.

If threads draw hard and break easily when preparing a piece of fancy work, a little white soap rubbed on the wrong side of the linen will be of advantage. It does not harm the linen.

When coloring goods black, after removing from the liquid, before they are allowed to dry, rinse in several waters to remove any over supply of coloring and put a cup of vinegar to a pail of water into the last rinsing as an aid to prevent it from cracking.

Twenty Years Ago.

I've wandered to the village, Tom, I've sat beneath the tree Upon the schoolhouse playground that sheltered you and me, I looked for some to greet me, Tom just someone I would know Who played with us upon the grass just twenty years ago.

The grass is just as green, Tom, but scattered all around Instead of swings some motor cars are parked upon the ground, Their owners now would scorn to walk —no matter where they go— Like one they trudged with us to school some twenty years ago.

The river's running just as still, but on the other side Just where the smithy used to stand, a stable twice as wide Proclaims itself "The New Garage," and gives no credit, though, It charges most three times as much as twenty years ago.

The boys were playing some new game beyond the hilly top, And everyone who drove a car along there had to stop And turn into the speed trap fund a dollar bill, or so—

The village sure has grown-up, Tom, since twenty years ago. —Ohio Motorist.

MARKETING WORLD'S GREATEST PROBLEM

WE ARE LONG ON PRODUCTION, SHORT ON DISTRIBUTION.

By Peter Radford
Lecturer National Farmers' Union.

The economic distribution of farm products is today the world's greatest problem and the war, while it has brought its hardships, has clearly emphasized the importance of distribution as a factor in American agriculture and promises to give the farmers the co-operation of the government and the business men the solution of their marketing problem.

This result will, in a measure, compensate us for our losses, for the business interests and government have been in the main assisting almost exclusively on the production side of agriculture. While the department of agriculture has been dumping tons of literature on the farmer telling him how to produce, the farmer has been dumping tons of products in the nation's garbage can for want of a market.

The World Will Never Starve.

At no time since Adam and Eve were driven from the Garden of Eden have the inhabitants of this world suffered from lack of production, but some people have gone hungry for the lack of proper distribution. Slight variations in production have forced a change in diet and one locality has felt the pinch of want, while another surfeited, but the world as a whole has never been a land of plenty.

We now have less than one-tenth of the tillable land of the earth's surface under cultivation, and we not only have this surplus area to draw on but it is safe to estimate that in case of dire necessity one-half the earth's population could at the present time knock their living out of the trees of the forest, gather it from wild vines and draw it from streams. No one should become alarmed; the world will never starve.

The consumer has always feared that the producer would not supply him and his fright has found expression on the statute books of our states and nations and the farmer has been urged to produce recklessly and without reference to a market, and regardless of the demands of the consumer.

Back to the Soil.

The city people have been urging each other to move back to the farm, but very few of them have moved. We welcome our city cousins back to the soil and this earth's surface contains 16,092,160,000 idle acres of tillable land where they can make a living by tilling the earth with a forked stick, but we do not need them so far as increasing production is concerned; we now have all the producers we can use. The city man has very erroneous ideas of agricultural conditions. The commonly accepted theory that we are short on production is all wrong. Our annual increase in production far exceeds that of our increase in population.

The World as a Farm.

Taking the world as one big farm, we find two billion acres of land in cultivation. Of this amount there is approximately 750,000,000 acres on the western and 1,260,000,000 acres on the eastern hemisphere, in cultivation. This estimate, of course, does not include grazing lands, forests, etc., where large quantities of meat are produced.

The world's annual crop approximates fifteen billion bushels of cereals, thirteen billion pounds of fibre and sixty-five million tons of meat.

The average annual world crop for the past five years, compared with the previous five years, is as follows:

	Past Half Decade.	Previous Half Decade.
Corn (Bu.)	3,934,174,000	3,403,655,000
Wheat (Bu.)	3,522,769,000	3,257,526,000
Oats (Bu.)	4,120,017,000	3,508,315,000
Cotton (Bales)	19,863,800	17,541,200

The world shows an average increase in cereal production of 13 per cent during the past decade, compared with the previous five years, while the world's population shows an increase of only three per cent.

The gain in production far exceeds that of our increase in population, and it is safe to estimate that the farmer can easily increase production 25 per cent if a remunerative market can be found for the products. In textile fibres the world shows an increase during the past half decade in production of 15 per cent against a population increase of three per cent.

The people of this nation should address themselves to the subject of improved facilities for distribution.

Over-production and crop mortgage force the farmers into ruinous competition with each other. The remedy lies in organization and in co-operation in marketing.

Literal Interpretation.

An alert little girl, learning with surprise that she must not whisper in church, promised, if permitted to go again, not to transgress in such manner. Auntie, taking the child to a brief service, was surprised, in the middle of the sermon, to find that the "No whispering!" command had received quite literal interpretation. "Oh, auntie," sighed her small companion, gently but with terrific clearness, "why did we come to hear this preacher? He's worse than the other one we heard last week."

A HOPEFUL CONDITION.

After remaining in a state of complete slump for nearly eight months and a state of reduced activity for nearly three years, the New York stock exchange has thrown off all restraints and resumed operations with almost frenzied activity.

The deals of Friday resulted in the turning over of 1,283,000 shares. It was not a dumping movement of discouraged buyers throwing their securities into the market for whatever they would bring in money, but a manifestation of established hope and a rapidly-rising market. This is to be regarded as an indicator of renewed confidence for the future.

The psychology of it is difficult to figure out at the present moment, but it is probably based upon a confident expectation of a termination of the war before the belligerents have completely exhausted themselves and their resources. It is true that the war has caused an unusual production of war materials at profitable prices, but it is very doubtful if these are sufficient to compensate for the loss of the normal trade in useful manufactures.

Evidently something is in the air that has taken powerful hold upon the mind of the speculative world.—Detroit News.

And Along Came Ruth.

"Here, Auntie Dear, is a present for you," said Ruth, entering the kitchen in her own happy way.

"What in the world am I to use so large a sieve for?" her aunt asked, jerking her hands from a basin of hot water at the time.

"Remember your scalded hands last month?" asked Ruth. "Well a sieve is not particularly good for scalded hands, but they work wonders for the unscaldedness." You see it fits nicely into your rinsing basin. Place the dishes in it as washed, then the whole can be lifted right out of the scalding water by the handles and there is no danger of a burn."

And along went Ruth.

$100 Reward, $100

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one graded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

FIFTEEN YEARS AGO.

Henry Ford, the automobile manufacturer, was engineer in an electric light plant in Detroit. Charley Murphy, the base ball millionaire, was a reporter on the Cincinnati Enquirer. Thomas H. Ince, the motion picture magnate, was a comic-opera comedian, glad to get $50 a week. Charlie Weegham, owner of the Chicago Federal base ball team and a string of restaurants, was a waiter in a quick-lunch room. And so it goes. The list could be strung out to a column's length. Therefore, when you hear a boy or young man complain that he has no chance, take him by the arm and tell him a few things. There never was a time in the world's history when there were more opportunities for a young man to push to the front. There never was a time when a little intelligence and determination would provide a man with a competence in a few years. This is particularly true in the farming business—for farming is a business. The young man of today who will take hold of a farm with the idea of making it the best farm in the county and who will work intelligently for ten years, with that idea always before him, will not have to work for the remainder of his life.

False Alarm.

The sexton was showing a holiday party around the church, says the Manchester Guardian, when someone asked him if he feared a suffragette attack. "I'd quite a turn the other morning," said the sexton. "I see one of our ladies going in the church with a hammer in 'er' and. She turns round quite upset, and says, 'How dare you think I'm going to break windows? That Mrs. X—, who sits in my pew, will use my hassock. I'm going to nail it to the floor in my place.' And she did."

NO 'NEED TO TALK OF WAR

There Are Some Bigger Themes, Such as Professor Bateson Has Recently Propounded.

As a diversion from war talk, Prof. William Bateson, the celebrated biologist, addressing the British association at Melbourne, proposes this theorem: "We must begin seriously to consider whether the course of evolution can at all reasonably be represented as an unpacking of an original complex which contained within itself the whole range of diversity which living things represent."

Perhaps if this issue had been clearly before the collective mind of Europe such minor matters as pan-Slavism and pan-Germanism might have faded into insignificance. Really, on the intellectual plane it is much more important. The war on Darwinism is being strenuously waged. Professor Bateson fights hard against the possibility of change in organic heredity being controlled from without. He asks whether it is not just as easy to believe that "the primordial form or forms of protoplasm could have contained complexity enough to produce the diverse types of life" as that "those powers could have been conveyed by extrinsic additions."

The trite saying, "It's a queer world," surely comes into one's head upon discovering that while millions of men, including Englishmen, are doing their best to kill each other in Europe, a great group of the best minds extant sit down calmly and gravely at the antipodes to discuss the secrets of life.

Archibald—My heart is on fire with love for you! My very soul is aflame.

Angela—Papa will put you out.

WAR CORRESPONDENTS.

The day of the civilian war correspondent seems to be over, and in future we shall have to be content with whatever news the commander of the forces, working through the censor's office at home, may think it wise to impart. It is highly improbable that officers who may have sufficient leisure to indulge in correspondence will be allowed to contribute to the public press, as they have done in smaller expeditions. During the second Ashanti campaign, for instance, two officers who distinguished themselves on that occasion, and have since attained a wider fame—Sir Edward Ward and Sir Robert Baden-Powell—acted as joint correspondents of the Daily Chronicle. They did so well that this journal was able to announce the fall of Coomassie two or three days before any other newspaper. There was a suggestion at the time that after the message the telegraph line to the coast had been mysteriously cut, but that, no doubt, was the result of professional jealousy.—London Chronicle.

THE FINANCIAL LIMIT.

"Here's a woman complains her honeymoon lasted only a week."

"Her money gave out."

LORD FISHER'S IDEA OF WAR.

Here is Lord Fisher's celebrated description of war: "The humanizing of war! You might as well talk of humanizing hell! When a silly ass got up at the The Hague conference and talked about the amenities of civilized warfare, putting your prisoners' feet in hot water and giving them truel, my reply, I regret to say was totally unfit for publication. As if war could be civilized! If I am in command of the British navy when war breaks out, I shall issue as my commands, 'The essence of war is violence. Moderation of war is imbecility. Hit first, hit hard, hit all the time, hit everywhere!' Humane warfare! When you wring the neck of a chicken, all you think about is wringing it quickly. You don't give the chicken intervals for rest and refreshment."—Wm. Corbin in World's Work.

TOAST TO LAUGHTER.

Here's to laughter, the sunshine of the soul, the happiness of the heart, the leaven of youth, the privilege of purity, the echo of innocence, the treasure of the humble, the wealth of the poor, the bead of the cup of pleasure; it dispels dejection, banishes blues and mangles melancholy; for it's the foe of woe, the destroyer of depression, the enemy of grief; it is what kings envy peasants, plutocrats envy the poor, the guilty envy the innocent; it's the sheen on the silver of smiles, the ripple on the water's delight; the glint of the gold of gladness; without it humor would be dumb, wit would wither, dimples would disappear and smiles would shrivel, for it's a glory of a clean conscience, the voice of a pure soul, the birth cry of mirth, the swan-song of sadness.

FATHER GOOSE FOR FARMERS.
By Don Allen.

There was a crooked man and he walked a crooked mile,
He sold a crooked stock-food and made a crooked pile;
He made a crooked talk and he made a crooked sale
And now he spends his time in a pressed steel jail.

Farmer Jack Horner
Went down to the corner,
To put all his dough in the bank.
He left a large sum
And murmured "By Gum!
My widow will not draw a blank."

Mrs. O. M. Hubbard
She stared and she rubbered,
As Farmer Smith's auto sailed past.
She said with a sigh;
"I would willingly die
To go through the country that fast."
So she went to her bankers
And drew out some dough.
She then bought a car
And away she did go.

WAR! What Is It All About?

HAS the whole world gone stark mad over a very foolish and trivial question? Are swords rattling, cannon rumbling, mailed armour clashing just because Russia wanted to show her love for the little brother—Serbia?

Tease aside the curtain of Europe's politics and see the grim and sinister game of chess that is being played. See upon what a slim, yet desperate, excuse the sacred lives of millions may be sacrificed. Read the history of the past one hundred years, as written by one of the greatest authorities the world has ever known, and learn the naked, shameful truth. Just to get you started as a Review of Reviews subscriber, we make you this extraordinary offer. We will give you

FREE!

Duruy's History of the World
Four splendid cloth volumes, full of portraits, sketches, maps, diagrams

Today is the climax of a hundred years of preparation. Read in this timely, authoritative, complete, AND THE ONLY CONDENSED classic world history—of which over 2,000,000 copies have been sold in France alone—just what has taken place in the inner councils of Europe during the past one hundred years. Read in these entrancing pages how Russia has for years craftily been trying to escape from her darkness—to get a year-round open port, with its economic freedom. Read how Germany and Austria, fearful of the monster's latent strength, have been trying to checkmate her and how they have pinned all in this last, supreme stake.

The Lesson of the Past
This master of the pen shows you the glory that was Greece's and the grandeur that was Rome's. He guides you through the Middle Ages, the picturesque old days of feudalism and the crusades; through the Renaissance up to contemporary history, which Prof. Duruy's masterpiece completes in brilliant manner. In the story of the past he is the master of the pen. And you will understand them better when you get the Review of Reviews for a year—the Review of Reviews will give you a sane interpretation of the events that are taking place with such rapidity. It is not enough to read the daily news reports. Your ability to comprehend conditions, and to discuss them intelligently depends on a true interpretation of the meaning and the "reason why" of events. In your mind you must bring order out of chaos—and the Review of Reviews will do it for you.
