EPWORTH LEAGUE.
May, 16, 1915. 6 o'clock std. time. Topic—Epworth League anniversary, "Human Power Raised to a Higher Power."
Leader—Elizabeth Mark.
Everybody invited.
Next Sunday evening's meeting is an extra-special occasion as it combines the League anniversary with the closing contest night. There will be special music and a good program. There will be a song service before commencing the devotional service. You will enjoy next Sunday's meeting.
Last Sunday evening we learned much of the man who is so busy doing things that he has no time to write, as typified by Elijah.
One hundred thirty-six people out to League last Sunday evening. The highest ever.
The Reds are ahead but not far enough to sit back and wait. The contest has been a continued fight for three months now and but a few points separate the sides. Almost a hundred members have been added to the League and the attendance raised about 450 per cent.
Tho'ts.
Loyal and courageous service is the central message of the life of Elijah. Every once in a while there comes a time when the interests of the kingdom of God demand the service of some individual or group of individuals who will take a positive stand against the forces of unrighteousness. In all parts of our land there are signs that this time is one of unusual need for positive allegiance. Why can not the Epworth League be a group of "positive standers?"
Billy Sunday is one type of man who declares against one and all forms of unrighteousness, and is getting results in those to whom he preaches.
Dry Kansas is the richest state in the union, with a per capita wealth of $1,629.61.
The world never before held as many haters of war as it holds today.

PEACE DAY PROCLAMATION.
By the Governor.
Peace on earth, good will to men, is fundamental and imperative in every civilization that calls itself Christian. War is a confession of weakness, at best a necessary evil. It is not yet a thing of the past because brute instincts that should be regulated and directed are allowed to run riot. War is a destroyer; peace is a builder. There has never been a war in which selfishness was not the direct or indirect cause. It therefore follows that armament does not prevent war; standing armies and great navies do not prevent war. Preparation suggests war. Teach men the arts of peace, train men in the arts of peace, and war will disappear from the face of the earth. Temper, unregulated, is the vice of vices. It takes more courage to meet the requirements of peace than war. Few men are great enough to be always kind, always just, always patient. Most men find it easy to be ugly, hateful and devilish.
This year of all years in the history of the world commands us to be men, to be great in the arts of peace, to know the sacredness of life. War means the destruction of fatherhood and motherhood; the destruction of home; the perpetuation of poverty; hell on earth.
We now spend $290,000,000 a year on "preparedness for war." Isn't this the time to spend one per cent of this amount on the preparedness for peace?
Therefore, I, Woodbridge N. Ferris, ask that the people of Michigan set apart Tuesday, May eighteenth, as Peace Day. Let the Grand Army of the Republic, the Spanish-American War Veterans, the Womens' Relief Corps, the Daughter of the American Revolution, the Sunday Schools, the Churches, the Fraternal organizations and the people generally, hold such services as will stir the emotions of love and good will towards all men.
Given under my hand and the Great Seal of the State, this thirtieth day of April, in the [SEAL] year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and fifteen, and of the Commonwealth the seventy-ninth.
Woodbridge N. Ferris, Governor.
Coleman C. Vaughan, Secretary of State.

TAWAS INDEPENDENTS WIN.
The Tawas City Independents playing in mid-season form last Sunday and Alabaster went down to defeat before them by the score of 8-2. Mart Musolf and Atlee Mark started the scoring for the Tawas boys in the opening round. Atlee doubled. Mart following with a triple scoring Atlee and a wild peg by catcher White scored Mart. Alabaster scored their first run in the third inning, a double by Baker and an error in left field. Alabaster then had three men on bases and no man out, but by Mark (lightened and did not allow another score, showing some real twirling in that inning. In the sixth the Tawas boys bunched five hits and a home run for six runs, ending the scoring for Tawas. Alabaster counted another in the ninth on a hit and an error.
The Tawas boys will journey to Alabaster next Sunday to cross bats with the Alabaster Independents and a fast game is expected from the showing of last Sunday.

HIGH SCHOOL BASEBALL.
Tawas City high school lost the first game of the season to Alabaster last Saturday by a score of 6 to 5.
The game, played on a wet diamond, was slow at times but some good playing was done never-the-less.
Alabaster started the first inning by making three scores. They lost the lead in the fifth but forged ahead again in the seventh, counting enough to give them the victory.
A return will be played at Shien park this week. The boys think they will be ahead after this contest, so come and see their revenge.

ARBOR DAY PROGRAM.
Arbor and Bird Day was very fittingly observed at the East Tawas public schools last Wednesday afternoon. The program was to have been given on the lawn last Friday, being Arbor Day, but was postponed on account of the inclement weather. On account of the showers last Wednesday the program was given in the high school and grammar rooms the grades having repaired to those rooms. The program was given to the pupils and visitors in both rooms. The program began with the opening song, "Star Spangled Banner" by all grades. Miss Gladys Owen of the senior class gave the Governor's proclamation. Recitations and papers were given by a number of pupils of the various grades, appropriate to the day. Interesting features of the program were: "The Spring Question," by the first grade girls. "The Shoemaker's Dance" by 14 couples from the second grade, song, "Come Play With Me," by Helen Misener and Winnie Babcock, song, "Peace," by the sixth grade girls and "Quotations From Great Men," by the fifth grade. "We Love the Grand Old Trees," was sung by the grades. The program ended with "America." After the rain had ceased the seniors planted the tree on the north side of the school building.
SENIOR MUSICAL.
About one hundred people enjoyed the senior musical at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. King last Monday evening. The rooms were tastefully decorated with wild flowers and cherry blossoms and the class colors, yellow and blue. The program was excellent and much enjoyed by everyone. All the participants were encored. Clyde Berube and Miss Yvonne Berube gave vocal solos. Miss Hortense LaBerge and Miss Gladys Owen rendered a piano duet. Piano solos were given by Misses Cecil Bonney, Yvonne Berube and Evelyn Teare. Orlo Owen entertained with some humorous recitations. A vocal duet was given by Miss Genevieve Taylor and Allen Ash and the male quartette gave some good numbers. Clyde Berube taking the solo parts. The other members of the quartette were Fred, Philip and Arthur Applin. After the program refreshments were served consisting of pineapple ice and wafers, after which all repaired to their homes having enjoyed the evenings entertainment to the fullest.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR NOTES.
Last Sunday a very interesting meeting was led by Mr. H. W. Buckle, the topic being, "Why I am Proud of My Denomination." Some of the great men connected with both the Baptist and Presbyterian churches were discussed.
Miss Nyda Campbell gave a short talk on the "Literature of China," a subject in connection with our mission study work.
Last Thursday a very enjoyable social time was held at the home of Mrs. Kelley. Charades and punch were the delights of the evening.
Last Monday an executive committee meeting was held at the home of Mrs. H. W. Buckle and as a result the C. E. society are soon to give a "Trip Around the World." Plans are now mysterious, but watch for further announcements.
Next Sunday our meeting will be led by Miss Edith Bard, the topic is: "Why I Believe in Christian Endeavor." Everybody come.
The next two meetings for May are:
"Religious Reading—What and Why," by Dorothy Latler.
"The Call of Foreign Missions for Money, Men and Prayers," by Missionary committee.
It is significant at this time, when the Republicans are looking about for presidential timber, that the people in New York have gotten into a controversy over the pronunciation of Mr. Root's baptismal name, being undecided between Elly-hu or El-li-hu, with the accent on the second syllable.
Only a few months since the French were accused of using deadly turpentine shells. Now they charge the Germans with using asphyxiating bombs. Doubtless one side would prefer to have the other sprinkle eau de cologne on their handkerchiefs and give the Chautauqua salute before advancing.

The Germans shelled Dunkirk with a gun that carries 23 miles. If science keeps up the kaiser will be able to take a shot at Buckingham palace from Potsdam before breakfast, just to work up its appetite.

Only a few months since the French were accused of using deadly turpentine shells. Now they charge the Germans with using asphyxiating bombs. Doubtless one side would prefer to have the other sprinkle eau de cologne on their handkerchiefs and give the Chautauqua salute before advancing.

The Germans shelled Dunkirk with a gun that carries 23 miles. If science keeps up the kaiser will be able to take a shot at Buckingham palace from Potsdam before breakfast, just to work up its appetite.

OUR BRUTE PAST.

Scientists would teach us that we, of the human race of today, are all descendants of a species of creatures that were nothing more than brutes. Darwin even insists that we are all descended from monkeys, and from time to time we hear reports of the finding of the missing link between monkey and human life. Man's existence is traced down through the ages by the scientists exploring the various strata of the earth's crust, but it remains for the Philadelphia North American to call particular attention to the relics of our brute past that can be found in various anatomical peculiarities whose use we have outgrown.

"Run your forefinger round the rim of each ear. You are almost sure to find in one of them, and quite possibly in both, a tiny hard lump."

"It is only a relic of the days when innumerable hundreds of centuries ago man was only one of the animals of the wild and had a pointed ear like a wolf's or dog's."

"What good is the little urrow that runs down from the nose to the middle of the upper lip? None. But it, too, has a history. It is a legacy from the time when the human upper lip was in two parts—a hare lip, like that of the rat tribe. The split has healed up long ago, but the new skin in so recent in the history of the race, that hair refuses to grow on that furrow."

"When a fly settles on you anywhere, can you serenely twitch that patch of skin and shake him off? Probably not, but once these skin muscles, now almost dead after centuries of clothes wearing, were as active as those of a horse. A few—very few—people can twitch their ears like a dog, and do so instinctively when startled, and cases do occasionally occur in which the scalp can be moved at will."

"But, generally speaking, our skin muscles are even more dead nowadays than our ear muscles. We've neglected them. The only set still in use are those we employ when we want to raise our eyebrows."

"The appendix is another thing we could do quite well without. It is a relic from old vegetable days. It has been worthless ever since mankind started meat eating and is apt to get in the way."

"The large intestine, too, is a thing we really don't need nowadays. The many coils of this long tube are kind to the doctors, quite unnecessary, now mankind has become a flesh-eating animal, and merely provide a resting place for germs. Surgeons have often cut out a few old coils and stitched the ends together. We don't really need to carry a great intestine about with us."

"Another thing we don't need much nowadays is the instinct to walk on hands and feet together. You think walking upright is the only natural way for man? It isn't. If ever you have to make your way along some narrow plank or some narrow dizzy mountain ledge, you will find the old instinct strong in you."—Ludington News.

DISCOVERING CORN MEAL.

The war in Europe is likely to teach the Europeans the value of corn meal as human food. The demand for it has already boosted the price of corn in the American markets, and it is likely to boost it still higher. This is unfortunate for the domestic consumers of corn bread and boiled mush, but there will be compensation. After the war is over the Europeans who have eaten corn will continue to eat it, and the fields of waving corn on the American farms will be transformed into gold mines. The yellow kernels will glisten with the real luster of wealth. But even though corn meal is dearer than it was a few weeks ago, it is still cheaper than wheat flour. Necessity may teach some Americans that they can reduce the cost of living, even now, by using more corn meal. And that will be another form in which the compensation will manifest itself.

A specialist gave up as hopeless a case being treated for blindness and presented his bill. That opened the patient's eyes, but he hasn't "seen" the specialist yet.

Before marriage a girl imagines a man is a wonderful being. Afterwards she admits he is or he couldn't have fooled her the way he did.

It quite often follows that the boy who only goes to Sunday school because he has to, is compelled later in life to go to some other place he doesn't want to.

Kitchen Kinks.

If you want a spongy, light cake use sour milk; if a heavy one, use sweet milk in it.

To keep powdered and brown sugar soft, place in separate stone jars and cover tight. In this way the air does not get at them.

The best way to make beef broth for an invalid is to place the beef in a frying pan, cook on both sides until just heated through, then wring as you would a towel. In this way the best part of the juice is gotten. The wringing should be repeated several times, or until all the juice is squeezed out.

Cheer Up.

"Laugh and the world laughs with you,"—and we have forgotten the rest of it. At any rate, folks on this mundane sphere seem to be in need of a bit of merriment right now just about as much as a place in the sun, or anything else. And, furthermore, old Diogenes was about the only chap we ever knew who got his place in the sun and was at all satisfied with it.

These are howling times in farmland, but so long as the farmer keeps his sense of humor the day is saved. At present writing that gentleman seems to be holding his own. For instance, take a squint at this sign which was posted on the premises of a jolly good farmer down in Union county, Kentucky:

"Hunters, Take Notice: Hunt all you durn please and when you hear the horn blow, come to the house for dinner. If you accidentally kill a cow, skin her and hang the hide in the barn. If the quail are scarce, kill a chicken or two, and if you can't get any squirrels, kill a hog."

There, now, if you were out with your gun and happened to run into something like that, would you really want to kill anything besides time? Or perhaps the joyous farmer, who was laughing up his sleeve at his own smartness?

Cheer up; where there is laughter, there is life.

Use the Road Drag.

There exists a prevailing opinion in the minds of those who have used the King road drag that the persistent use of this simple drag will do the ordinary earth roads more good for the amount of time and labor required than any other method of working ever proposed. Some of the best earth roads have been made good by the use of this simple implement. In fact, some advocates of the drag claim that the trustees of many townships could well afford to sell the heavy road machines to a junk man and invest the proceeds in a number of splitlog drag.

Spasmodic use of the split-log or similar drag or the like use of any road-working implement, will not make bad roads good. The drag is light and easily handled and should be used as soon after each rain as the condition of the surface will permit. The job is quickly finished and the results are surprising where the dragging is carried on through out the year. Possibly the most marked improvement from the use of the road drag will result from the early spring dragging.

Auto Don'ts.

Don't forget that carefulness first means safety always.
Don't stop when once started across a street. Keep moving.
Don't mind your hat when the wind blows it off. Mind where you are going.

CIVIL WAR HORSE STILL SURVIVES.

The oldest horse that served the country in the war of the Rebellion is still alive, at the age of 53 years, at Horseheads, N. Y. It is owned by P. A. McIntosh who is also a veteran of the same war. To prove his assertion Mr. McIntosh shows the government brand on the animal's hip, which reads "I. C., 1865." Horse and man served in the same regiment. Although bent with age, his hair turning gray and his teeth becoming worn, the old warhorse is still able to eat 12 quarts of oats and take his master to town several times a week. It is estimated the animal is at least 53 years old. Farmers say the average life of a horse is about 15 years.

Many a young man who has hiked away from the farm had reason to be glad that dad hung onto the old place and put away enough to feed another mouth during the winter.

THE COST OF WEEDS.

Several Hundred Millions the Tax for Letting them Spread Seed and Roots—Preventive Measures.

The following discussion of weeds is taken from Farmers' Bulletin No. 660, "Weeds: How to Control Them," which discusses in detail methods of controlling annual, biennial, and perennial weeds through cultivation and rotation and by keeping weed seeds from reaching the farm in crop seeds, in stock feeds, in manure, and in hay and straw. The bulletin also devotes a chapter to the introduction of weed seeds by the wind, and as seeds sometimes blow a mile or more in a strong wind, prevention of trouble from this source depends large on co-operative weed fighting in a neighborhood.

The importance of keeping weeds in subjection can not be emphasized too strongly. It is difficult to estimate the damage they do, but it is probable that they cost the American farmer several hundred million dollars every year. In a sense, farming might be called a warfare against weeds. Some farmers emerge from the struggle victorious, while others go down to defeat. So powerful are weed enemies in reducing crop yields, white at the same time multiplying labor, that the farmer should at every turn strengthen his position against them. Bear these invaders in mind in planning the crops and in deciding on the fields to grow these crops, in choosing the implements, in buying seed, and in many other farm activities. Lack of careful planning with reference to weeds is apparent in nearly every community.

It has been shown in experiments with corn made by the United States Department of Agriculture that weed eradication is the principal, if not the only, beneficial result of cultivating the corn crop the implements used should be designed primarily for accomplishing the destruction of weeds in the easiest and cheapest way. It seems to indicate, further, that as weed control becomes more thorough, intercultural tillage of growing may be accordingly decreased.

While there are various definitions, a weed may be said to be a wild plant that has a habit of intruding where it is not wanted. Some weed produce immense quantities of seeds. Some mature seed in a very short time. Some have seeds difficult to separate from crop seeds. Some have roots or root-stalks that live for a number of years. They persist because well equipped by nature to hold their own. Weeds, however, are not always useless. Sometimes they are the principal means by which organic matter is restored to the soil, and generally speaking, a soil is productive in proportion to the quantity of organic matter it contains.

Turning farm land out to rest merely means that weeds are permitted to grow on it for several years. Weeds are also useful at times in preventing soil erosion, especially during the winter months, and serve a useful purpose in collecting and holding the nitrates and other soluble salts during periods when crops are not being grown, thus preventing these valuable nutrients from being washed out of the soil. Ordinarily, however, all these benefits may be realized through proper rotations, in which case it is a serious mistake to allow weeds to grow.

The full reason why weeds reduce yields is not definitely known. It is well recognized that weeds deprive crops of moisture, plant food, and sunlight, and by these means cause decreased yields. Experiments have shown, however, that even where there is a supply of moisture and plant food sufficient for the needs of both the weeds and the crop, weeds still exert a detrimental effect. This may be due in part to the weed roots giving off substances which are poisonous to crops. The fact that weeds do harm in more ways than has been supposed is all the more reason why the farmer should make strenuous efforts to subdue these invaders. Land that should produce 60 bushels of corn may yield no more than 20 bushels if weeds are not kept down by adequate cultivation. Wheat containing wild-onion bulblets is sometimes docked as much as 50 per cent and in some cases there is no sale at all for such wheat. The agricultural experiment station at Minnesota estimates that in that state alone the damage to wheat due to weed seeds amounts to two and a half million dollars yearly.

The harvesting and curing of crops are sometimes made difficult by the presence of weeds. Russian thistle, bindweed, and Canada thistle usually are a source of great annoyance at harvest time to the growers of small grains. Again, some weeds harbor fungous and insect troubles which attack near-by crops. Furthermore, some weeds are poisonous or otherwise injurious to man, live stock, or live-stock products. Poison ivy, sumac, jimson weed, and the seeds of corn cockle are poisonous to man; wild onion and bitterweed spoil dairy products; cowbane, water parsnip, and loco weed are poisonous to stock; and the barbed seeds of squirrel-tail grass and porcupine grass penetrate the noses and mouth of live stock, causing painful sores.

It is possible for a farmer, especially if he follows a good rotation, to make his farm almost weed free. Many men, however, make a start to clear their farms of weeds, but quit too soon. Often the campaign is stopped when success is in sight; but the weeds soon recover. Clearing a farm of weeds, especially perennials, is no easy task; it requires more than average intelligence and prescience. If, however, one outlines a plan of attack and faithfully sees this plan through to a finish, he can practically rid his farm of weeds without a great amount of labor and expense.

OLD-TIME GIANTS IN SENATE

Statesmen of a Generation Ago, Remarkable for Their Brilliance, Have Passed.

A generation ago the senate held a picturesque group of history builders, writes Francis E. Leupp in the Atlantic. It included Conkling, who daily reserved his appearance in the chamber till the other senators were seated and the scene set, and whose majestic march down the middle aisle reminded one of the entrance of the king in a Shakespearian drama; Blaine, who had only to rise for a perfunctory motion in order to smite the galleries with a spell of expectant silence and capture the eyes of his colleagues; Hamlin, in eyes of his colleagues; Hamlin, in his association with the memory of Lincoln seemed to draw the great war wonderfully near; Edmunds and Hoar, conserving, in their range of thought and speech, the best traditions of New England statesmanship; Hampton and Bayard, exhaling the flavor of the old South; David Davis, who twice had held the fate of the country in his hand; Chandler and Ingalls and Mahone, guerrilla fighters but powers in their way; Allison and Cockrell, Sanders and Gordon, Voorhees and Hawley and Hill, and a dozen others whose names and stories were household words from one end of the United States to the other.

Keeping Up an Old Custom.
Lammas, as August 1 is sometimes styled, remains an important anniversary not only in Scotland, where it is quarter day, but throughout rural England, the Pall Mall Gazette observes. In many parishes the pasture of Lammas lands "belongs from this date until Lady day to all parishioners who draw smoke," not through pipes, but chimneys. The mysterious word Lammas is merely loaf mass, so called, because this was anciently our national harvest festival. A loaf made from the new corn was formerly presented at church on this date, which fell nearly a fortnight later under the un-reformed calendar. Farmers around Chichester seem to have some subconscious reminiscence of this old custom, for they always try to get a loaf baked from the new wheat before the end of Goodwood week.

Most Famous Spot in France.
The guide books tell us that the Place de la Concorde is the most extensive and strikingly handsome "place" in Paris. This is entirely true, but it is only another way of saying that it is the most beautiful and impressive open square possessed by any city in the world. And this is not all. Within its bounds more great events have taken place, more history has been written in blood than within any other similar compass. Here, January 21, 1793, the head of Louis XVI fell under the knife of the guillotine, the beginning of that long procession that ended only when the revolution had finished "eating its own children."

Tasting With the Nose.
Sir Ray Lancaester, eminent man of science, asserts that the flavor of food and drink does not come to us through the sense of taste. That sense, he says, can only furnish sensations that correspond to the chemical composition of the substances presented to it. These sensations, while almost infinite in their shadings, are few in number. We can distinguish by taste only sweetness, bitterness, sourness, and saltness, although the various intensities of these sensations are innumerable. The distinctive flavor of various foods is not the result of chemical action, and is not perceived by the taste nerves. Flavors excite the olfactory nerve instead, and are transmitted by it to the brain. A person whose sense of smell is impaired is unable to detect the flavor of the food he eats, although he has the taste sensation that it stimulates. This is an explanation of the effect that influenza often has apparently on the taste, but, really, on the sense of smell.

Rheumatism Yields Quickly to Sloan's.
You can't prevent an attack of rheumatism from coming on, but you can stop it almost immediately. Sloan's Liniment gently applied to the sore joint or muscle penetrates in a few minutes to the inflamed spot that causes the pain. It soothes the hot, tender, swollen feeling, and in a very short time brings a relief that is almost unbelievable until you experience it: Get a bottle of Sloan's Liniment for 25c. of any druggist and have it in the house—against colds, sore and swollen joints, lumbago, sciatica and like ailments. Your money back if not satisfied, but it does give almost instant relief.

NOTICE.
Notice is hereby given that the Township Board of Burleigh Township, Iosco county, Michigan and the Township Board of Mason Township, Arenac County, Michigan will meet jointly at Alex Boulter's in Mason Township, Arenac County, Michigan, on the 15th day of May, 1915, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, for the purpose of acting on an application for the locating and establishing of a drain as follows: To the County Drain Commissioner of Iosco County:

Your petitioners respectfully show that they constitute a number of Freeholders liable to assessment for benefits received equal to one third of the number of freeholders whose lands are crossed by the drain herein applied for.

Also, that the locating and establishing of such drain will be conducive to the public health, convenience and welfare.

Your petitioners therefore make application and hereby respectfully request you to establish such drain in said Township of Burleigh in Iosco county and Mason in Arenac county under the provisions of the statute in such case made and provided, the location of such drain to be substantially as follows, as may be determined by you, to-wit:—

Commencing at a point in the South East quarter of the North West quarter of section thirty-two, about ninety rods South and seventy rods west of the quarter post corner to section twenty-nine and thirty-two in town 21 North of range 5, East thence South Easterly to a point eighty rods North and forty rods west to the quarter post on the South side of section thirty-two, aforesaid, thence South-westerly to a point eighteen rods East and about twenty-four feet North of the quarter post on the North side of the quarter three in Town 20, North range 5, East, thence west along the North side of highway to a point nineteen rods West of the quarter post on North side of section three aforesaid thence South about thirty rod to a point thirty rods South and twelve rods west of the quarter post on North side of section three aforesaid, thence in South-westerly course to a point ninety-two rod west of the quarter post between sections three and ten in the course of Cedar Creek, thence South-westerly following the course of said Cedar Creek to a point where fall enough can be obtained to have the right to any changes in said route that they deem necessary to better the conditions thereof.

The width of said above proposed drain is to be four feet or less at the bottom, as may be determined by you in your first order of determination. The line of said drain as proposed above is to be the center line thereof, and the land to be used in its construction is to be taken in equal width along either side of said center line. Dated this first day of March, A. D. 1915.

WHAT ONE MAN DID FEEDING STOCK.

The past winter has been rather a severe one on stockmen who attempted to feed stock. The foot and mouth disease made it almost impossible to ship stock from Michigan and other conditions have made the past year rather an unprofitable one for stock raisers. However, once in a while we find a man who has made it pay. William Latter, of Reno, is conceded to be on the best farmers and stockmen of this county and gives the Herald his experience with a car load of cattle which he wintered and has but recently marketed at Buffalo. He states that these cattle run on a rented ranch until Dec. 9, last, and were fed sugar beet tops and shock corn until February 1. They were then fed ensilage, hay, cornmeal, cotton seed meal and one barrel of molasses. The average cost per day, per head was 18 cent. They gained on an average two pounds per head each day.
This car of stock consisted of 26 head, fourteen of which Mr. Latter raised, four steers of which he purchased at 6 cents per pound, two good bulls at 5 cents per pound, one old cow—a canner, and five hogs.
The 17 steers weighed 18,039 and sold at $7.50 per hundred, one cow 1440 pounds, sold at $6.65 per hundred, one bull 1350 at $6.85, one bull 1000, at $6, one canner 800 at $3, and five hogs 1600 pounds which sold at $7.50. The load brought $1,744.48. The expense of marketing same was $80.12.

OBSERVATIONS ON THE SIDE.

A Detroit newspaper in reporting the banquet of the Drama League of America last week said this: "President Burton closed with some remarks of both appreciation and criticism of the movies."
This will prove very interesting news to those who were there. As a matter of fact, as the program was nearing a conclusion, the hour was late, and Dr. Burton announced that there were to be two more addresses, one of which, he said, would not be given. "My address is Minneapolis," he said. If those four words constitute "remarks of both appreciation and criticism of the movies," we submit that a good deal has been left to the audience.
This little incident reveals the danger of writing accounts of events before they take place—without verifying them afterward. Such an account as this is read largely by those who were present for the purpose of seeing what the press has to say about the various speeches. One can well imagine how errors such as these will impress those who know to the contrary.
A few years ago, a newspaper secured from a prominent public speaker the text of his speech at a coming political convention. In error, the speech was printed one day early and the delegates on the train read a full account of the speech to which they listened some hours later. The account included references to the periods at which applause was accorded the speaker. Verily, the gift of prophecy must be an essential art of the reporter's varied equipment.
Speaking of applause calls to mind the story of the great public speaker who turned over his shorthand notes to the press for the purpose of facilitating the preparation of the printed report of his speech. As the paper was going to press, the office called upon the great man for a deciphering of two words. "Oh, never mind," he said impatiently; "just put in 'great applause' and let it go."
Next morning he was greatly excited when he read:
"I will now detain you but a moment." (Great applause.)
All if which shows the monumental folly of taking too much for granted. - Detroit Saturday Night.

I REMEMBER.

I remember, I remember the house where I was born, the little window where the sun came peeping in at morn. You'd hardly know the old place now, for dad is up-to-date and the farm is scientific, from the back lot to the gate. The house and barn are lighted with bright acetylene, the engine in the laundry is run by gasoline; we have silos, we have autos, we have dynamos and things, a telephone for gossip and a phonograph that sings. The hired man has left us—we miss his homely face—a lot of college graduates are working in his place. There's an engineer and fireman, a chauffeur and a vet., 'lectrician and mechanic, Oh, the farm's run right, you bet. The little window where the sun came peeping in at morn now brightens up a bath room that cost dad a car of corn. Our milkmaid is pneumatic and she's sanitary, too, but dad gets fifteen cents a quart for milk that once brought two. Our cattle came from Jersey and the hogs are all Duroc, the sheep are Southdown beauties and the chickens Plymouth Rock. To have the best of everything, that is our aim and plan, for dad not farms it, but he's a business man.—E. F. McIntyre.

Rheumatism Yields Quickly to Sloan's.

You can't prevent an attack of rheumatism from coming on, but you can stop it almost immediately. Sloan's Liniment gently applied to the sore joint or muscle penetrates in a few minutes to the inflamed spot that causes the pain. It soothes the hot, tender, swollen feeling, and in a very short time brings a relief that is almost unbelievable until you experience it: Get a bottle of Sloan's Liniment for 25c. of any druggist and have it in the house—against colds, sore and swollen joints, lumbago, sciatica and all ailments. Your money back if not satisfied, but it does give almost instant relief.
