EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Sunday, July 25, 6 o'clock std. time.
Topic—"Is it ever right to do away from home what one would not do at home?"

Leader—Rev. John Pinches.
Everyone very cordially invited.

Last Sunday evening the subject "Perils of the Heat" was successfully handled. It is a subject appropriate to the lassitude of the summer months when the sun beats down so much of the former enthusiasm for religious works.

The most conscientious Christian and especially a young Christian—need not be surprised to find deadly soil peril come gliding out of the heat of a summer day and fasten itself to him. It may be when and where most unexpected. It may be at a time when physical powers are most reduced. Then will the peril be more acute, and the need for divine help the greater.

Let us have a League of the Three Rules:

1. Every day commit something worth while to memory.
2. Every day see something beautiful.
3. Every day do something for somebody.

TURNER WINS FROM TAWAS.

Last Sunday the Turner boys journeyed up to our town and had their pitcher win a game from our boys to the tune of 6 to 1. But four hits were garnered off St. John, but one of them counting in the score. In the first Swartz and Moore walked and stole. Swartz was advanced to third on a passed ball and scored on Atlee Mark's single. Two other innings they had men on third but the inning ended too soon to get a score across. Seven of the nine innings ended with strike outs. St. John fanned 18 of the home boys.

In the first Plunk singled and stole and came home on Menzer's long single. Then Woizeschke threw the ball over A. Mark's head letting Menzer score. In the eighth Plunk received a base on balls, W. Menzer doubled, Plunk scoring. Heck went out on a fly to first. G. Kelly got a life via the error route. Then A. Menzer singled scoring W. Menzer and on the throw-in the runners advanced to second and third from where they came home on R. Jenning's healthy single.

Aside from the first and eighth the game was fast and close.

St. John passed three and hit one man. Moeller gave seven hits, and two bases on balls while striking out seven men in eight innings. By Mark struck out two and hit another man in the inning he pitched. The man was retired trying for second base.

Tawas City stole nine bases, while but one sack was pilfered off A. Mark.

Next Sunday the Omer boys come up to the fair grounds and play our boys a return. B. Mark will pitch. This will be Atlee Mark's last game here for some time as he leaves the following Tuesday.

DEVELOPMENT BUREAU'S EXHIBIT WORKING IN ILLINOIS.

The Northeastern Michigan Development Bureau's exhibit car, carrying an exhibit of products from every county in the district is spending its second week in Illinois. Mr. F. H. Scoon, who was with the car last year, is again in charge and reports that many people are daily viewing the exhibit and expressing themselves very much impressed with the showing. Northeastern Michigan is making.

Mr. Scoon reports that there is a great deal of talk among Illinois farmers, who are living on high priced lands, that they must seek cheaper lands in order that they may keep up with the times and be independent, they cannot see any better place to cast their lot than Northeastern Michigan.

The auto exhibit will work the central Illinois counties very thoroughly this summer, advertising the dates on which the car will be in the towns one week in advance, and making the towns regularly. By so doing it is expected that men who may have been interested through various forms of advertising, will be induced to see the products and talk with the lecturer.

This week the car is making the following towns in Illinois: Kankakee, Chebouse, Clifton, Danforth, Gilman, Paxton, Clisna Park, Clayonville, Milford, Sheldon, Donovan, Martinton and Watsaka. These towns are all located in the heart of Illinois' best farming territory where the percentage of farmers who work rented farms runs over sixty per cent while the average of renters in Northeastern Michigan is only seven per cent. If possible the Bureau hopes to show these renters that there is a greater future for them in Northeastern Michigan, conditions just as good and less cost to tend with.

Wayne county must pay $2,400,000 in state taxes this year.
Kent is the next largest contributor to the state tax with $660,000, while Houghton county will pay $273,000.
Saginaw will pay $244,000, Bay $136,000 and Genesee $192,000.

INFORM THE EDITOR.

One of the most difficult of the editor's jobs is to get facts about births, marriages and deaths. People seem to think he ought to know these things by intuition. If not that, the birth, marriage or death is of such importance in the immediate family that it is presumed the editor will be informed by some wireless or just grow into the information. Then, when the paper comes out, and no mention is made of the event, the editor is blamed for not running a good newspaper or not getting all the news. Remember there are a good many people in this country. If the editor knew each of them by name, besides their family history and their chief events in the lives of every individual, he wouldn't be an editor. He'd be a demi-god, resting his feet on a cloud and sipping ambrosia instead of inhabiting a broken-down office chair and wondering where the money for the next white paper bill is coming from. The life of the average newspaper man is a gay one. Gathering news is second nature to him, like picking his teeth with the office pen and cussing the office towel. Just the same, there's a limit to his omniscience. Last week, we thought of a million, eight hundred and forty nine thousand three hundred and sixty four things of importance, besides a couple of hundred thousand small items unworthy of mention. And it was a slow week. We're anxious for news for the paper, and it won't put you out much to drop by the office or telephone us what's happening at your house. Then if the item doesn't get in the paper, you have a right to come down and kick the stuffing out of the cat. Otherwise, don't blame us.

"WHAT'S THE USE?"

Sometimes people ask: "What's the use of dressing children so nicely?" What's the use of spending time on a flower garden? What's the use of poetry? Why not say it in plain English? We answer: What's the use of the dimple in the baby's cheek? or the sheen on the pigeon's neck? or the flash of the bluebird's wing? or the fragrance of the rose? Singularly enough, the poet is regarded by many as unpractical and unproductive member of society—a drone in the hive of industry. Many people believe that it would be better to put a pick and shovel into his hands and set him at some "useful task." But, happily, life is not constituted solely on the pick and shovel principle. The earth is not flat, and the sky is not a metallic vault. On the other hand, this little globe of ours is on the most romantic of journeys, bathing itself in the very elements of magic as it flies, and surrounded by the expanse which surges through every star and every smallest grass blade and every smallest grain of dust in our garden path.—Ex.

CANNING OF FRUIT JUICES.

In order to can fruit juices, the first important thing to provide is a fruit press, cider mill or some kind of a contrivance or device which will make it easy and practical to press the juice from the fruit.

In most cases the canning of fruit juices or sterilization can be accomplished in very much the same way as the canning of the fruit itself, except in preliminary steps and in the methods or rinsing, scalding, peeling and in a slight difference in the amount of time required. Fruit juices, as a rule, will not stand as much cooking without the danger of destroying the natural fruit flavor.

RIDE THE HORSE THAT THREW YOU.

The man who gives up on the first down never gets anywhere. He admits fear of the difficult and lack of confidence in himself—two elements present in every human failure.

To have courage to mount again, knowing the risk, but better prepared to meet it, is half way to successful accomplishment.

It isn't mastering the horse that really counts; it is the strengthened will power of the "winner up," and the inward joy of having accomplished the undertaking in spite of all opposition.

What goes up must come down—but no one need stay down. Ride the horse that threw you.

LOSS BY LIGHTNING.

Hundreds of thousands of dollars' worth of property is destroyed every year by lightning. The farmer is the principal loser. There is a reason. Lightning seldom strikes in a city because the multitude of wire, metal roofs and smokestacks, steel buildings, etc., are a safety valve on electrical conditions and few bolts ever discharge.

Statistics show that far more barns are struck than houses, and that almost every building properly rodded is proof against being damaged by a stroke. Barns are usually larger and higher than the houses and conduct the electric shock from the clouds to the earth.

PLAY THE GAME FOR THE GAME'S SAKE.

Says the Business Builder: The man who plays golf because his physician tells him he needs the exercise may become a good player through natural ability that had been lying dormant.

Whether your business is swinging a golf club or running a peanut wagon learn to like it—to be enthusiastic over it. At the end of the season, you'll find yourself a hundred per cent better golf player—or the owner of twice as large a peanut stand.

THE NEGLECTED REFRIGERATOR

In a bulletin concerning the care of meats in hot weather, the Department of Agriculture calls attention to the neglected refrigerator. Its warning is worthy of repetition, for not all persons appreciate the danger that lurks in an unclean icebox.

While the temperature of the refrigerator will prevent the growth of some germs, there are other growths which it encourages. This is particularly true where the box is permitted to remain damp for a considerable length of time without being thoroughly scalded.

Then, too, the refrigerator drain may make trouble by becoming clogged and holding stagnant water. Frequently flushing and scalding of this drain is urged as a precaution for the protection of the family health.

Along Came Ruth.

"Hello Ruth," said a voice at the other end of the telephone, "I am calling you up because I know you know what I want to know, and it's just this: I am putting up my grape juice and I find that all my corks are too large for the bottles. Is there any way to make them smaller without cutting them down? Now come to my aid like a good girl."

"Yes, there is," obliged Ruth, "the simplest possible way. You just put your corks in boiling water and let them stay for five minutes, and you will see that you will have no trouble whatever in getting them into the necks of your bottles. I don't know why this is so, but it is, for I had the same trouble last year with catsup brought them out beautifully. I think bottle corks, and this boiling business they would have gone into bottles of any smaller size? Can I do anything else for you?"

"No thank you, but I just want to say that I don't know what this town would do without you Ruth."

A Good Home-Made Silver Polish.

Put a nickel's worth of spirits of ammonia, another nickel's worth of prepared chalk and a half pint of soft, preferably rain, water into a bottle and shake well. Apply to the silverware with a soft cloth, leave to dry and then polish off with a chamouis. This gives a fine polish and is absolutely harmless.

Diamonds.

For centuries, India was thought to be the only country producing diamonds. In 1727 they were discovered in Brazil and in 1827 the first of the well known Kimberley mines in South Africa began operating. Since that time profitable mines have been opened in Australia and several extremely valuable diamonds have been found in the United States. The largest diamond ever found in North America was found near Manchester, Virginia.

Flint.

Flint is a variety of quartz consisting mainly of silica, lime and carbon, and is found largely in chalk beds or in veins by itself. It was used for a long time as material for making sharp cutting instruments and weapons, and later to strike fire with steel. Its most important use at the present time is in the manufacture of fine pottery and glass.

New flannel should always be put to soak in cold water for a few hours before it is used. Then wash in a warm lather to remove the dressing, rinse and dry in a windy, but not sunny place. Flannel washed in this way does not harden nor shrink.

HOME TOWN BUILDING.

Loss of Population in the Rural Districts of the United States.

In last week's issue we commented upon the decrease of population during the past ten years in the smaller towns of a majority of states in the Middle West and invited correspondence bearing on the subject. The following is the first contribution from a well known writer, whose name is withheld by request: Dear Mr. Editor:

In your last week's article you put the question, What's the matter with the country towns in the Middle West? Why are they going backward and showing a decrease in population? In this you have certainly hit upon a live issue. The question is one that should have the serious consideration of every business and professional man of your town, as well as every merchant and manufacturer in the United States.

When the smaller towns go backward, as they are now doing, the industrial and moral welfare of the country will suffer. The cause of this condition must be established before we can prescribe a remedy. The writer's opinion is, that a good share of the trouble originates with your local merchants who are not contributing as much as they should do toward the industrial growth of the town. That spells lack of opportunity for the young people.

Now, then, suppose for the sake of argument, we put the question the other way and ask, what is the matter with the merchants in the smaller towns of this country?

We all know that the country business man represents the very best development in American manhood. That is the prime reason why the nation is not benefited by the migration of the country boy to the city. Your average storekeeper in the country town is invariably healthy, strong and intellectual, but unfortunately as a merchant he simply will not get out of the rut made in his line of trade by the footsteps of his predecessors. This is plain talk, but it is what the average country merchant needs, especially those who imagine they can handle their business on the same old plan as that employed by their predecessors twenty or forty years ago. They have new conditions to face, new forces to contend with, almost insurmountable obstacles to overcome.

The interurban car, the automobile, good roads and other forms of rapid transit to the larger towns are conditions which are here to stay. So is the Parcel Post.

All of this means that the country merchant must, in order to be successful, work along entirely new lines. He must meet city competition with the city-man's plan of getting business. That is his problem. Easy to say, but difficult to do is the thought which enters the mind of the country merchant who reads this, but that sort of reasoning will not make headway. Think it over.

Here is the question:

How do the big stores in the city attract buyers? The answer is, they do it, first, by full page advertisements in the daily papers. These are almost a complete catalogue of each of the various departments of the entire store. Think of it, a daily issue of a well illustrated catalogue with catchy descriptions and skillfully phrased talk about cut prices spread out before thousands of women who have money to spend and who need the goods. There can be but one result, which means a sale.

How long could these big stores exist if they did not use these advertising pullers to draw trade? The answer is self-evident. Their expenses would eat them up and put them out of business inside of ten months.

Of course, it would be nonsensical to suppose that the country town merchant could afford to issue a big catalogue or have a mail order department, but he has his local newspaper and its working force at his disposal and it is the greatest, best and cheapest in advertising force in the world.

Mr. Merchant, just store this thought under your hat: Every country town that has a daily or weekly newspaper is missing a harvest if its merchants do not make it a mail order catalogue. Every inch of its advertising space should be used. It is a gold mine. It should be your cut-price catalogue with a good illustration and a catchy description of every article of merchandise carried in stock in your town, no matter whether it be a package of Onion Seed, or a Flannel Shirt, and every article shown should have a price attached.

Don't be afraid to advertise your prices. That is the whole secret of successful merchandising. Price, first, last and all the time should be the big feature. Your name in big letters will not pull trade. Prices and plain figures will do so.

(This article will be continued in next week's issue. Later the writer will have something of interest to say to doctors, lawyers, householders and retired farmers.)

Community Expert Coming

FRED EASTMAN.

TWO or three years ago, out on the brown grass plains of central Long Island, there was a little mosquito bitten town that boasted 250 families, dirt roads, a moribund church, five saloons and little else. Then came a change. Into the little town came a young minister who had religion, plus energy, plus practical common sense. Today the same town has macadamized roads, a thriving church, a self supporting library, cooking, musical and manual training classes, a public bathing beach and a neighborhood house, conducted on a self supporting basis and furnishing motion picture shows of the better class, recreation, social and reading rooms, a lecture course and a fire department.

The man who is mostly responsible for this change will lecture to us in the afternoon and evening of the last day of our Chautauqua—Fred Eastman of Locust Valley, Long Island. The subjects of his lectures will be "Taking Stock of the Old Town" and "Waking Up the Village," and it goes without saying that these lectures will be both instructive and interesting.

Mr. Eastman will tell of rural surpluses he has made, giving their results, especially in regard to country schools, churches and social and recreational life. His talk will be illustrated with anecdotes and stories from his experiences.

Maintenance of Solar Heat.
Discussing this well-worn subject in the Comptes rendus, M. A. Veronnet attempts to calculate the time the sun's activity could be maintained by (1) chemical action, (2) intra-atomic energy (radium), and (3) the work of gravitational contraction. For the first he gets 2,000 years, for the second only 170 years, while for the third he finds that gravitational contraction, according to the well-known theory of Helmholtz, would account for several millions of years of solar heat, as demanded by the geological record. The fall of meteorites into the sun could account, at most, for only the four hundredth part of the sun's heat.

Kirking.
"Very gratifying!" said a young and conceited novelist. "A gentleman writes me that he took a copy of my last work to read during a railway journey, and as a result suddenly discovered he had gone 20 miles beyond his destination." "Dear me!" commented the young author's friend, "sleeping in trains is a bad habit!"

Harvest Money

As you sell each of your crops and receive a fair sized sum of money at one time—that is the time when you can set aside a reasonable sum on your savings account here and NOT FEEL IT.

Don't plan to spend all of your harvest money. Make each crop harvested contribute something toward a permanent reserve to protect you when a crop may fail. Money deposited on a savings account here earns four per cent interest, compounded semi-annually. There is no safer investment.

MODERN FABLES.

The Fable of the Amateur Poultry Raiser.

Once upon a time in the suburbs of an almost-metropolis, there lived a man who possessed an exceedingly robust appetite for chicken. He ate chicken every time the opportunity came any ways near presenting itself and he never ceased eating it until the visible supply was exhausted.

After several years patronage of the poultry dealers of the city he decided to raise a crop of chickens of his own. He boasted loudly of it to his neighbors and told them what poor and cheerful idiots they were for not following his example. "Why," he interrogated, "should I give a goodly portion of my income to the dealer, when I have time and space for a poultry yard of my own?"

He purchased a second-hand incubator for six dollars and a big basket of eggs for five. He exchanged eleven dollars for wire netting and posts and ten more for lumber to build a house for the oncoming brood.

When all things were ready he put his hundred eggs in the incubator. He watched them diligently, but in spite of his careful watching, only twenty-five of them became chicks. These he nursed tenderly and fed generously. His feed bill amounted to five dollars and seventy cents.

About the time the fowls were ready for the table a black-hearted desperado came under cover of darkness and carried off eleven. One of the two others wandered through the same leak and destroyed a neighbor's flower garden, costing as a result, six dollars damages and a fine of twelve dollars for permitting them to run at large.

Nine of the birds finally found their way to the table, and after a careful reckoning their owner discovered they cost him four dollars and fifty cents each, to say nothing of seventy-seven hours work and four bitter enemies.

Moral—The farm is the place to do your farming.

SUGGESTIONS FOR GAINING FLESH.

To gain flesh take plenty of olive oil, eat eggs, butter, cereals and fatty broths, potatoes, peas, beans, corn, carrots and parsnips, figs, dates, nuts, bananas, underdone beefsteak and roast beef. Drink plenty of milk, cream and cocoa. Avoid food that will not digest easily, and be careful to masticate thoroughly what you do eat. Give up the pickles, vinegar and all acids. Exercise freely in the open air and take plenty of sleep. Don't fret or worry; this will keep one thin more than anything else. Cultivate an easy-going disposition if you possibly can.

We must get together and make the home town the brightest spot on the map.

The greatest get together agency in the world is the Lyceum and the Chautauqua movement, as it gets together all the town and then brings all the world to its gates. Where the Lyceum and Chautauqua have failed they have been run as peanut stand propositions. You must make them great by getting a great vision of them. This is conservation—the conservation of the home town and its most precious product—the next generation—Lyceum Magazine.

Fire Lasted Five Years.

Perhaps the most remarkable beginning and ending to a colliery fire was in the case of a mine near Stirling, Scotland, belonging to the Sauchie Colliery company. The first shaft they sank was abandoned in favor of another in a better position. The disused shaft became the secret headquarters of a gang of illicit whisky distillers. In the abandoned mine works they set up their still, and turned out thousands of "drops of Scotch" that had never paid duty. One day, however, the fire from their furnace set the coal seam ablaze and they had to fly for their lives. In a very short time flames were pouring from the cracks in the ground, lighting up the whole countryside. The fire was walled in with mud. It took five years to build this wall, at a cost of $80,000, and then it was useless. Finally they sealed up the mine, pumped carbonic acid gas into it and the fire that had taken five years to fight was put out.

He Earns His Bread.

A good dog story being always in order, it is pleasant to have a good dog story to tell by way of wind-up. A Georgia lady has a St. Bernard dog that is a perfect jewel. He is sent out to the pasture every morning with the cows, and every evening he brings them safely home. In milking, he keeps away the calf, and then he carries home the pail. Around the house he makes himself useful in many ways, bringing in wood and running errands, and he also works the treadmill by which the butter is churned. And—take notice, boys—he does all these things without pay, and never asks for a holiday. But the faithful fellow is put to another remarkable use. Every summer he is sheared, and his silken wool spun into yarn! Who says that dog doesn't earn his board?—Exchange.
