ISADORE FRIEDMAN HAS CLOSE CALL.

The following short account of an accident in which Isadore Friedman of this city figured is taken from the Saginaw Daily News of Wednesday. Isadore is one of the business managers of the Almanian, the college paper, this year:
Alma, Mich., Sept. 28.—Verne Richards of East Jordan, a sophomore in Alma college, end on the football team and a track man, and Isadore Friedman, of Tawas City, a junior, were nearly drowned in Pine river when their canoe was overturned. Friedman was unable to swim and Richards but little. Timely assistance saved them.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Sunday, Oct. 3, 6 o'clock std. time. Topic—"The Vindication of a Heroic Life."
Leader—Mr. Carl Samuel.
Everyone very cordially invited.
The last Sunday evening meeting, led by Miss Roscoe, was one of the most instructive in some time. The peril of drifting with you lax school-fellows was emphasized and the other course of asserting the individuality of your good points and the throwing of one's best influence toward the right shown in a good light.

A Tho't.
The friendship of school days are the most profoundly influential that come to the most men. Seek knowledge; seek—what is more fundamental—wisdom; but most of all seek worthy friends.—Epworth Herald.

I SAW IT IN THE HERALD.

If you want to help a bit;
If you want to make a hit;
If you want a blessing on your head diurnal;
If you want to boost the town,
Bring its citizens renown,
Just mention that you saw it in this journal.

It will help the advertiser;
It will show that you are wiser,
More considerate than the average man you meet;
It is just a little favor,
But it leaves a pleasant flavor
If you mention that you saw it in this sheet.

You'll encourage local trade,
And the home town merchant aid,
While the editor will cut a merry caper,
And the mail order concern
Smaller dividends will earn,
If you mention that you saw it in this paper.

THE FESTIVE FARMER.

"Farm life is an ideal life," says Jim, in Cartoons magazine, "especially in the story books and upon the theater stage. The farmer is his own boss and monarch of all the acres that are not plastered with mortgages. He arises with the little birds, hits up the hard cider in the cellar, then hies him thither to toy with the cattle, for milking at four a. m. is one of the joys of farm life. From the milking stool he wends his way to the woodpile and gleefully chops up a cord or two before the breakfast call. When the morning meal is over his real life begins. Blended with the buzz of rusty machinery, song and profanity, the remaining eighteen hours are whiled away. When the farm becomes so impoverished that it will raise nothing but chin whiskers, he lets the mortgage holder do his worst."

ALABASTER DEFEATS TAWAS.

Last Sunday Alabaster did the nearly expected and defeated Tawas City 5-3, in a hard contest. Alabaster just about put the game on ice in the first when two hit batters, two hits and an error gave them three runs, and were then held scoreless until the seventh when they annexed two more. Tawas had several good chances to score but the breaks of the game were against them and this coupled with good fielding by Alabaster held them scoreless until the seventh, when they managed to sneak one over, the same in the eighth. In the ninth Tawas had a chance to tie the score but were unable to connect safely when hits were needed. Johnson tripled, and scored on Bolen's single, Moeller struck out and Samuels lined out to right, Nelem managed to get on, and with Bolen on third and Nelem on second, Musolf fanned, finishing the game.

Baker pitched good ball and was especially strong in pinches, and struck out eleven. Both teams got even half dozen hits off the opposing pitchers.

Mark had one bad inning, in the first, but after that steadied down and pitched in his usual style, fanning an even dozen. He had several hard breaks in the game and it should have been an easy win.

TAWAS CITY HIGH WINS.

Tawas City high school played errorless ball and Vic Marzinski held Alabaster high to two hits, shutting them out in six and one-half innings of play. Fourteen Alabaster men cut the air for the third strike in the seven innings. Two different innings Alabaster had men on third with none down but they could not score.

Our boy's batted like fends. Jack Johnson's speed which brought him a home run in the second was the feature.

COUNTY FAIR A WINNER.

Had the officers of the county fair association ordered weather especially for the occasion they could hardly have improved on the brand that was furnished for the occasion of the 41st annual Iosco county fair. It was almost ideal, with bright blue skies and sunshine, and the result was a splendid attendance, large numbers coming from Whittemore and Hale, as well as from the nearer parts of the county.

The first day, as usual was given over to the making of entries and arranging of exhibits. The entries in the department of farm products, vegetables, grains, etc., was limited this year owing to the unfavorable season, but the showing was good when this drawback was taken into consideration. The exhibit in the fancy work department was large and some very fine specimens of handiwork were shown.

It was in the stock department, however, that the greatest improvement was shown over previous years. The big features of this exhibit were the 20 head of registered cattle shown by C. H. Prescott & Sons from their ranch at Prescott and eight head of mules shown by T. F. Robinson of Alabaster and Geo. Hadwin of the Hemlock road. Mr. Robinson had six mules and mule colts entered and Mr. Hadwin one team of mules, and the animals certainly put up a fine appearance and added much to the interest in the department. The cattle shown by C. H. Prescott & Sons were of the Polled Angus and Durham breeds and were cattle which had taken premiums at the Bay City fair, the state fair and the stock show at Chicago. The splendid showing made by this stock should be an example and encouragement to the farmers of the county to turn their efforts more toward the raising of standard stock, as therein lies a better profit and bigger return on their investment in this line.

The entertainment features on the second day were the business men's ball game between Tawas City and East Tawas business men, the high school game between Tawas City and Alabaster schools, and the races.

Wednesday, the second day of the fair, was school day, on which the enrolled school children of the county were admitted free. The total attendance on this day was estimated at about 2,000.

The Tawas City business men were on their mettle for this game and obtained ample revenge for their defeat Labor day by scooping the East Tawas business men to the tune of 10 to 2. The game should have been a shut-out, and would have been but for an error in the fifth inning which allowed East Tawas to cross the plate twice. The playing all around was so excellent (?) that it would be unfair to give special mention to any one or two men, and we will not do so for fear of arousing jealousy. However, the acrobatic stunt pulled off by Aug. Brown of the East Tawas team created much enthusiasm and received merited applause.

The game between the Tawas City and Alabaster school teams was a walk-away for the former, as will be seen by the write up in another column.

The racing events were very interesting. In the trotting race there were six entries and in the starting of two of the heats there were mixups in which two sulkeys were smashed, but in which both horses and drivers escaped without injury.

First money in the 2:40 trot or pace was taken by Claude Wheeler's horse, "Robin Hood." Robert Hasting's "Council Chimes" was second, and A. E. McMurray's "George" third. Time 2:32.

The farmers' running race was won by Earl Allen's "Secret," with C. Wheeler's "Jennie Bird," second, and Austin Allen's "Gray Nell" third. Time 54 seconds.

On the second day the free-for-all trot or pace was won by Dewit of Cnaway, with Will Murray's horses from East Tawas second and third.

The colt race was won by Geo. Culham, sr., with R. C. Arn second and Newberry third.

The free-for-all running race was won by Earl Allen, 1st, Wheeler, 2nd; and Austin Allen, 2rd.

The baseball game between Tawas City and East Tawas resulted in a tie score, 5 to 5 in the ninth inning, and as darkness prevented playing off the tie the prize money was divided equally between the two teams.

The attendance on Thursday was close to 3,000, the continued fine weather bringing out a much larger crowd than on Wednesday. One remarkable feature was the large number of automobiles on the grounds, the fence inside the track being lined with machines for about one-third the distance around, besides a large number parked elsewhere.

The association has made many improvements in the grounds and buildings this year and have more extensive ones planned for next year. The ground inside the track has been cleared and leveled and was this season sowed to buckwheat. A cement foundation was built under the floral hall and a floor laid, thereby eliminating the dust. The stock shed was improved by nailing up the doors along the outside and making an alley way through the center, with an entrance at each end. This was one of the best improvements made as it enables the stock to be seen to better advantage.

On the whole the fair this year was better than for some years past and the officers and directors of the society feel much encouraged. To be a success a county fair has to have the co-operation of the entire people of the county, and with such co-operation there is no reason why the Iosco county fair should not be one of the best in northern Michigan.

PIONEER GONE TO REST.

One of the earliest settlers of Sherman township has been called to receive the reward of his long, well-spent life in the person of Mathias Schneider. He passed away Wednesday at 10:20 a. m. His death was most precious, dying well fortified with the sacraments of the Holy Catholic church.

Mathias Schneider was born in Germany, Aug. 8, 1839, his age was 76 years, 1 month, 22 days. He was married to Anna Kramer in 1867 and this marriage was blessed with 12 children, six of whom preceded their father to their final resting place. He leaves to mourn his loss a wife, four sons, Joseph, Frank and Charles, who live near by, and Anthony who is at home; two daughters, Mrs. John Jordan of this township, and Mrs. James Bellor, who resided with her parents; a large number of grand children and other near relatives, and a very large circle of friends.

Mr. Schneider came to this county during the Civil War. He had resided in Sherman township for over 40 years, and on many occasions told interesting facts about this part of the state at that time. He organized Sherman township and was the first supervisor. He held various township and county offices during his long life. He was very well acquainted all over this and adjacent counties. He was always known to all his relatives and friends as a very generous, kind, genial and religious man, and a beggar was never known to have left his door without obtaining something. He always had a kind and sympathetic word for everyone and never forgot to show his generosity and liberality to his many grand children whom he reared. Illness came upon him four weeks ago and during that time he was very pleasant and was well prepared and willing to go to his eternal resting place. Just a few moments before his death his wife and children knelt around his bedside reciting the Rosary.

The funeral service will be held Saturday morning at 10:00 o'clock at St. Joseph's church, East Tawas, with a requiem high mass. Rev. Faucher of Omer will deliver the sermon.

His relatives have the sympathy of the entire community during their sad hours of bereavement. May his soul rest in peace!

A precious one from us is gone
A voice we love is stilled;
A place is vacant in our home
Which never can be filled.

God in his wisdom has recalled
The bloom his love had given
And though the body moulders here
The soul is safe in heaven.

'Tis hard to break the tender cord
When love has bound the heart
'Tis hard, so hard to speak the words
"We must forever part."

Dearest loved one, we must lay thee
In the peaceful grave's embrace
But thy memory will be cherished
Till we see thy heavenly face.

Peaceful be thy silent slumber
Peaceful in thy grave so low,
Thou no more will join our number
Thou no more our song will know.

Yet again we hope to meet thee,
When the day of life is fled;
And in heaven with joy to greet thee,
Where no farewell tears are shed.

GLEANER FEDERATION MEETING.

The Iosco county federation held its quarterly meeting with Hemlock Harbor Friday, Sept. 24th, and a large number of Gleaners from many parts of the county attended.

At noon a sumptuous dinner was spread in the hall and sixty hungry Gleaners sat down to the tables the ladies had covered with fried chicken in abundance, chicken pie, various kinds of other meats and prepared potatoes, pies and cakes, coffee and everything for which the inner man craved.

County Chief Gleaner, Fred Jennings opened the afternoon session with congregational singing. During the business session John Frasier of Hemlock Harbor was elected as delegate to attend the state federation at Fort Huron Dec. 1 and 2. Mrs. Etta Frockins of Reno Harbor was appointed as alternate.

By vote of the federation the next regular meeting will be held at Hale on the first Tuesday in December, when the election of officers will take place.

On an invitation extended Gleaners present to join the federation eleven responded and took the pledge.

Besides the singing Eimer Streeter, John Frasier and E. V. Esmond made remarks. Mrs. W. Clement and Lewis Nunn rendered solos.

TAWAS CITY, MICH., OCT. 1, 1915

ELBERT BEDE SAYS:

Talk is cheap—so why not speak a kindly word now and then.

Some folks are just naturally crazy and with others it is a case of too much base ball.

No one likes to hear a man continually brag about what he has done, but he is away ahead of the man who brags of what he is going to do.

A person of whom it is said that he has ability but doesn't use it, has more to be ashamed of than the person of whom it is said that he is a natural dunce.

A method has been perfected for making from certain parts of the human body an ink that is absolutely fadeless and unaffected by acids. That's a new way for some people to make a mark.

Vice-President Marshall has been threatened with death a half dozen times within a very short time. It took something of this sort to bring us to a realization of the fact that our vice-president is alive.

There is considerable talk about girls being better students than boys and many more girls than boys completing high school. If figures were available, however, it probably would be found that despite their small number more boys than girls are making use of their education.

A county correspondent describing the clothes at a wedding, finishes by saying: "The groom wore his usual smile." In the interest of modesty we trust it was one of the kind that wouldn't come off and we wish to remark further that if the correspondent told the literal truth about the groom's raiment, the bride did not get all the attention upon this occasion.

The preacher on the chautauqua platform gets better audiences than he did in the pulpit, and in addition they pay to hear him, when he may not tell them any more than their local preacher, or tell it any better—and the same audiences would consider it almost a crime to put more than 5 cents on the platter to hear the same preacher in church.

DO TRIFLES ANNOY?

What a blessed thing it is that we can forget! Today's troubles look large, but a week hence they will be forgotten and buried out of sight. Says one writer: "If you would keep a book and daily put down the things that worry you, and see what becomes of them, it would benefit you. You allow a thing to annoy you, just as you allow a fly to settle on you and plague you; and you lose your temper and you justify yourself by being thrown off your balance y causes which you do not trace out. But if you could see what it was that threw you off your balance before breakfast, and put it down in a little book and follow it up and follow it out, and ascertain what becomes of it, you would see what a fool you were in the matter." The art of forgetting is a blessed art, but the art of overlooking is quite as important. And if we should take time to write down the origin, progress and outcome of a few of our troubles, it would make us so ashamed of the fuss we make over them, that we should be glad to drop such things and bury them at once in eternal forgetfulness. Life is too short to be worn out in petty worries, frettings, hatreds and vexations.

PARTISANSHIP.

Partisanship may be a legitimate adhesion to party, or it may simply be an association for selfish ends. This latter partisanship may become the bane of national existence, as it is organized to prate of principle while it is grabbing the spoils. As one writer put it, such partisans are "bound together by the cohesive power of public plunder." This perverted partisanship bends its greatest efforts to the control of political situations through organizations masking under the names of social or moral associations. Under a plea of morality, or reform, they seek to gain office or power, regardless of the greater good of the state or the nation. The methods of such partisans may be distinguished easily. They are always the same—pledges from candidates, falsehood, treachery, the denial of obligations and corruption of officials either through threats of defeat or promises of favors. Frequently the efforts of such partisans are inspired by zeal, but zeal in a bad cause may be even a greater evil than that which the zealot would try to remedy. Reform in itself may be desirable, but if the consequences of that reform are worse than the evil reformed, nothing is gained and progress is hindered. Partisanship should be regulated by common sense and knowledge.

Luncheon sandwiches of brown bread spread with cottage cheese seasoned with salt and pepper are very good.

HOME TOWN BUILDING

Advertise Your Prices and Encourage Amusements to Keep Young People at Home.

Every citizen of the country town has something to sell. It may be merchandise, it may be day labor, or it may be skilled professional services. The only difference is in the name.

The first essential in the selling of goods, time, or skill, is a market. It is cheaper to bring the buyers to town where they can be offered the complete stock of the sellers than it is to search out each buyer at his own home. That is point No. 1 for the Home Town.

Then Mr. Storekeeper, Mr. Professional Man, Mr. Hotel and Amusement Man, you all have one common interest, and that is, advertise the goods you have for sale, so that every man, woman, boy or girl who sees your announcements will come to town firm in the conviction you are offering bargains which are equal, if not better, than any which can be obtained elsewhere.

A properly illustrated display advertisement of dry goods, hardware, boots and shoes, drugs or farm tools, in the little home paper, describing the article in full and quoting the price in plain figures, will make the sale before the buyer starts for town and the final purchase in the store of the advertiser is only a formality to complete the transaction. A special circular or catalogue describing the goods and quoting prices, would involve too much expense for the merchant of limited means, and a small selling territory, therefore, the home town newspaper should be used as a substitute for that purpose. It is cheaper and better. If gets there four times every month. An expert advertising copywriter is not necessary. The advertising pages of any of the daily papers in the big cities, will show the best way in which to tell the story of the advertiser, so that his argument will appeal in the fewest number of words to the prospective buyer.

Remember, that the most important thing is to quote prices in plain figures. The Banker, the Lawyer, and the Doctor do not approve of advertising their prices, and it is all right for them to go to the limit of their ability and space in expatiating on the quality of their professional skill, without mentioning their charges, but what is good judgment in their cases will not apply to the case of the merchant who has hardware, dry goods or groceries to sell. The buyer of the present day wants to be his own judge as to the quality. His first thought is the price.

After getting the prospective buyers to come to town, the next move is to hold them. There is little else but work on the farm, and when the farmer and his family come to town, they desire to see something that is not met with in their daily routine of farm life. They want to be entertained and amused. The country town which has no pastimes, no sports, or no pace of amusement, is not likely to be attractive to the farmer and his help, therefore the first thought of the town boosters, meaning the professional men, should be an improvement in the street lighting, development and encouragement of places of amusement. The picture show, the shooting gallery, the bowling alley, the billiard room, roller skating and even dancing for the young people who may desire it, are all forms of recreation which can be made safe, attractive and profitable to the town with a little care and attention, and which become vicious only through neglect.

Don't forget that scarcity of young people on the streets of a country town, especially on a Saturday night, signifies a town which is on the downhill road. That means that the young folks have become dissatisfied with home surroundings and have gradually drifted away to the nearest large city, where they are giving the moral welfare associations more concern than all other human derelicts combined.

In my next letter I will have something to say about the mail order houses, which are certainly getting their share of criticism, much of it unjustly, I think.

NEWS FROM THE IOSCO COUNTY SCHOOLS.

Tawas City Schools.

The normal class this year is the largest in the history of the normal. It is comprised of twenty-two girls and two boys.

Because of the fair there was no school Wednesday and Thursday afternoons.

Miss Bradley's fourth graders have been learning the poem, "Freaks of the Frost."

The fire drill was given Monday morning under the inspection of Fire Chief Bowen. The school house was cleared of students and teachers in one minute and ten seconds. There was no stumbling or confusion, and the boys and girls gathered quietly at a safe distance from the burning building.

The attendance in the sixth and seventh grades has been rather irregular because of the potato digging. Johannah Kobs visited high school and normal on Wednesday.

Iosco County Normal Notes.

The following are the officers and members of the 1916 class of the normal:

President.....Harry A. Westcott
Vice-President.....Mildred Hinman
Secretary.....Elizabeth J. Mark

Whittemore High School Notes.

Last Friday the agricultural classes tested rye and some good tests were made.

The nature study class studied the birds that go south for the winter.

The botany class is taking up the study of leaves for this week.

The fifth and sixth geography class is studying the state of Michigan and some fine maps have been handed in.

A number of school books have been purchased for the benefit of our fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth grades.

Our Friday afternoons are spent in oral and mental arithmetic for the benefit of the eighth grade.

Most of our pupils are taking current events.

The pupils that were neither absent or tardy for the month of September were:

Upper rooms—Alfretta Koyl, Vera Weresley, Ada Lail, Henry Gorsuch, Amy Beardslee, Herbert Cataline, Archie Ruckle, Rosca Marid.

The Estate Hot Storm

The Stove With a "Little Furnace" in it

BUY a Hot Storm and you get both a stove and a furnace. Combined as they are, they produce a volume of heat from the same fuel consumption that is positively unequalled by any other heater of this type on the market.

This device so effectually blocks the heat and retards its escape up the chimney that practically every heat unit is either absorbed by the "Little Furnace," or deflected and thrown back against the stove's radiating surface.

Old Pomes Re-Writ.
 Believe me if all those endearing young charms
 And the lovely complexion you wore,
 Have faded today, it has caused no alarm—
 You can go out and buy you some more.

Learn a Little Every Day.
 The Rhine river is about one-fifth as long as the Mississippi-Missouri system.

The first important battle in the Dardanelles occurred in 480 B. C., during Xerxes' invasion.

The value of the cotton goods imported from Great Britain in 1913 is estimated at $860,000,000.

Lake Constance in Switzerland lies 1900 feet above sea level, covers an area of 208 square miles and has a maximum depth of 906 feet.

Asphalt is mineral pitch found mostly on the island of Trinidad. It was used by the ancient Egyptians for many purposes, including embalming. Mixed with limestone as it is found in parts of Europe, asphalt is used as a paving material and also as an ingredient of Japan varnish.

Ruth is Home Again.
 "Mother, do you ever have trouble getting all of the yellow out of the white of the egg, when you are making icing?" asked Ruth one day while she was stirring up a cake, "you know the white will not froth when it is beaten, if any of the yellow remains."

"I had that very trouble while you were gone," replied her mother, "what in the world can I do to prevent this mixture? I'm sure you know a way."

"Yes, I know a way, and Aunt Mary put me wise, as she did to a number of other things. When any of the yellow remains in the white of the eggs, just dip a cloth in hot water, touch the yellow spots with it, and the yolk will adhere to it, and leave the white entirely free from its taint. Isn't it easy? I'll have a chance to try it in a few minutes, and I'll show you."

Driving Nails Through Plaster.
 This is very simple. Let the nail lay for a short time in hot water and it may be driven straight through a plastered wall without breaking the plaster in the least.

An old remedy for feet made tender by perspiration, is to soak them daily in a weak solution of alum made lukewarm by adding warm water, pat the feet dry and then powder them with boric acid powder. This treatment is best pursued before retiring.

On a Level.
 He may be the son of a master of learning, whose wisdom has taken a nation by storm, or the offspring of one who is rightfully earning the plaudits of all through his Social Reform. His father may be a great, famed politician, whose word will bring thousands of men to his feet; his family may hold an exalted position in circles where only the mightiest meet. But today he is only "a man in a million," no family connections or riches enthrall the comrades who march in the same big battalion. At college he's merely "one freshman." That's all.

Making Button Holes.
 To make button holes on thin material before cutting the buttonholes, baste a piece of India linen or muslin underneath where the button-holes are to be. Cut the button-holes through both and work. When finished cut away the piece of goods underneath, close to the work. The result is a good, firm button-hole.

BOOMERANG ADVERTISEMENT.

Demonstration of Evil of Buying from Mail Order Houses.

An argument in favor of patronizing home industry is to be found in one of the farm journals—an advertisement of one of the largest mail order houses in Chicago. The advertisement is embellished with a picture of the plant of the big mail order concern, and the caption is, "The House That You Built." Here, in five words, is the best possible demonstration of the evil of buying from mail-order houses, from the standpoint of the farmer or anyone else who is interested in building up his own community.

The town or county who sends money away from home is consciously enabling big buildings and expensive plants to be maintained hundreds of miles away. There is no getting away from it; the mail-order house says so itself.

This step by this mail order house seems to be far in advance of anything ever done in an advertising way by such concerns. The advertisement is well equipped with "backfire." It goes to farmers and as they gaze upon it and realize that the "dollars earned by the sweat of their brows" have gone to help build up this monster structure, when they should have stayed at home to help lower their taxes, they will not be unduly influenced to send a great many more dollars to the Chicago mail-order house.

THE STREET CORNER SAGE.

Cleaning Up the Town.

"There ain't nuthin' that helps the look of a town more'n clean streets," the sage was saying to a group of men who were sitting in front of the store in the shade.

"And in that line, this town is the limit. There's piles of ashes and tin cans everywhere, while the weeds air simply taking both the streets and the alleys. It's a fright, I tell you. Seems like no one has any civic pride. Why! I've got to pass a fence on my way home that I'm afraid to throw a burning match against, for fear I'll knock it over."

"Why, Uncle," one of the men laughed, "there is a big pile of brush and a lot of mighty high weeds down in front of your place, isn't there?"
 "Well, yes, there is," retorted the sage, "but what's the use of one feller trin' to keep the whole town clean?"

Uses of Salt.
 Have you ever thought of the many uses of ordinary, everyday, common table salt? Perhaps you never have realized what wonderful little magic is stored away in your pantry cupboard between the sides of the pasteboard box that holds this most necessary article. Think over some of them. Perhaps you have forgotten some.

In the first place, that wonderful little housekeeper's friend will cure a cold in the head if diluted in water and "snuffed" up the nose. It also will stop tickling in the throat that comes before, accompanies and follows for a short time, a sore throat. Many a bad sore throat is cured by the use of this simple home gargle.

Then, in sweeping your carpets and rugs, if you sprinkle a little salt ahead of the broom, you insure for your rugs immunity from moths. The salt is as good for this as is the use of the proverbial cigar-ash, carelessly spilled over the floor and allowed to remain with the remark, "Oh, that'll keep the moths out."

If you use a coal stove there are many valuable uses for salt. If the fire gets a little low, sprinkle a little salt on it and immediately you will see it take a new lease on life. Also, you probably have been annoyed frequently in broiling steak by the fat that splatters over on the coals, burning fiercely and defiantly. Put a little on the blaze if such a thing happens, and this will cease. Salt thrown on a fire in a chimney will put it out, which seems strange, but is quite true.

If you or any of the children or even husband are susceptible to poisoning from the bee stings or insect bites, put a little salt mixed with soda on the part affected for immediate relief.

Of Interest to Women.
 Blankets should be put out in the sun and air at least once a week.
 Poultry fat is excellent shortening for ginger cookies and spice cakes.
 Fowl for chicken salad should be cooked the day before it is to be used.
 Use only new rubbers. Often perfectly preserved fruit is lost by improper sealings.

Coats are straight or else fitted and flaring; most of them can be worn open or buttoned high as desired.

Always clean a brass cooking utensil thoroughly before using it. Vinegar and salt are good for the purpose.

Do not put soap directly upon fancy colored gingham. If they are much soiled soak them in salt water for an hour, then wash them in warm suds.

If you wish to remodel last year's frock of plain material, cut the old skirt off to about three inches below the turn of the hips and add checked material to finish the skirt, introduce a little checked material on the blouse and you will have a very pretty dress.

SOME UNSOLVED PROBLEMS.
 Transportation and marketing are together one of the greatest problems the American farmer must solve and until he organizes his forces and looks to concerted action this fact will be a great power against division of labor.

Last fall good apples were rotting in orchards because they were too cheap to move, in Chicago they went to the trade at five cents each. At the same time potatoes were slow in Michigan at 25 to 30 cents. In Chicago they went to the trade at from 75 cents to one dollar a bushel.—Ex.

To Mend Celluloid.

One authority says that the best way to make two broken edges of celluloid adhere is to moisten the edges with glacial acetic acid and hold them together for a few minutes until they adhere and the acid dries.

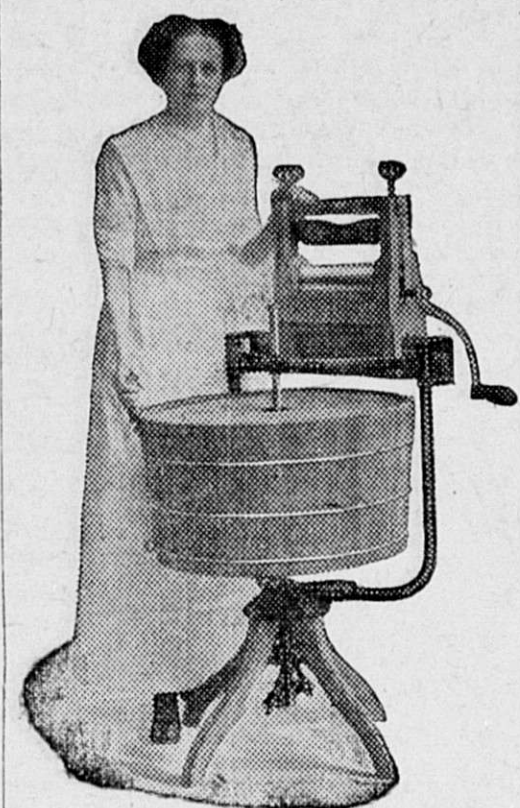

All dishes, cups and spoons used in cooking must be placed at once in a pan of cold water.
 All papers soiled with groceries or meat are to be burned instantly before flies can get at them.

The Word Bond

Has an attractive sound to many investors.
 This has led promoters to call many things "bonds" that are in truth but sorry imitations.
 Bonds often have many years to run.
 Expert knowledge is needed for their wise selection. Good bonds are an excellent investment for men having large means and able to command expert legal and financial advice in their choice.
 But even a good bond is a poor investment for a man of modest means because he may have to sell on low market when he needs his money.

A number of the women of Sherman township met in the L. D. S. church on Tuesday evening and completed the organization of a society to be known as the Woman's Temperance League of Sherman. The society is to be strictly non-sectarian, but is to assist in the fight for temperance in the county and state. A membership fee of ten cents will be asked and the meeting will be held once each month alternately in the L. D. S. and Baptist churches. The next meeting will be in the L. D. S. church on Friday evening, Oct. 15, when we hope to see an enthusiastic crowd, as the ladies earnestly request the hearty cooperation of every woman in Sherman that the vote in April and November, 1916, bring the desired result. By order of the President of Society.

MEANING OF ANGER.

What is anger? There may be childish vexation over trifles that to the adult seem hardly worth considering. The passion is shown daily in different grades; yet a favorite description is life of "getting mad." Madness, however, may imply a state of mind equivalent to insanity. True, there is no scruple about applying the term "crazed" to a person or passion simply dominating in dress, or to an individual infatuated over his bright particular star in the mundane firmament. Surely it must be an extreme provocation of what savors of the madhouse. There is much in this present evil world to excite a righteous indignation, and the spirited expression of it, without fear of being confounded with a victim of hydrophobia. But in the intercourse of life there should seldom be looks, words or deeds that indicate loss of temper. As for "flying into a passion," that is a sort of aviation that leaves scant time for adjusting the motor, which is usually hot enough to badly scorch the wings, and so imperil flight. It is enough, partly at least, to cure the distemper for one to seek a mirror, and there see reflected a face angrily distorted so that its normal identity is gone.
Occasionally one hears of an effort made here or there to encourage simplicity in schoolgirls' dress. It usually occurs at commencement time when a class magnanimously agrees to appear in something akin to homespun. In general, however, the matter is allowed to regulate itself; girls in the schools wear what their mothers permit. And, generally speaking, there is a good deal of silliness shown by these same mothers of schoolgirls. Many of them appear to think their own standing in the community depends on the quantity of finery with which they drape their daughters. It is sometimes charged that young women dress too little, in the interests of morality and common sense; in many cases, on the contrary, they dress too much. Mothers who offend good taste in these respects are distinctly accomplishing two purposes—making themselves appear ridiculous and doing their daughters an injury. They are raising false standards in the minds of girls at an impressionable age when such standards will do the greatest possible harm.
What becomes of the famous ships? Of course all of them cannot be preserved, interesting as they would be as relics and as object lessons in history. The Mayflower is held in undying remembrance as the ship which brought the pilgrims to Plymouth. Very little appears to be known of her history following the memorable voyage. But a recent letter published in a Boston newspaper is in response to an inquiry as to what became of the Mayflower. The writer says he never knew until he came across Grant Duff's "Notes From a Diary" two years ago. Of Duff's statement it is said: "He says it was chartered in 1659 by the East India company and went to Masulipatam from Gombroom for a cargo of rice and general produce and was lost on the voyage home." And what memories the old craft must have carried down with her had she been capable of thinking.
The Journal of the American Medical association contains these encouraging statistics: The reported deaths from typhoid fever per 100,000 population in Philadelphia were reduced in 1914 to 7.4 from 15.6 in 1913 and from an average of 41.7 for the year 1906 to 1910. In New York and Chicago the rates are 6.2 and 7.1. The next in order is Cleveland with 8.3, followed by Boston, 9.1; St. Louis, 11.1; Detroit, 13.0; Pittsburgh, 13.8; Baltimore, 22.4. Sanitation has its triumphs not less renowned than those of war.
A new kind of steam turbine has been introduced on some of the ships which ply between Lubeck and Goteborg, Sweden. One of these steamers recently finished a maiden trip to Goteborg, where it was inspected by a party from the technical academy of that city. It is claimed that 40 per cent less coal was used during the journey, an item which is regarded of the greatest importance in Sweden at the present time.
Germans may not be baseball fans, but they have some of the earmarks. A short time ago they were cheering Von Hindenburg, he was the idol of the hour. Then the old soldier didn't make good, a change of sentiment occurred and he was disgraced.
One noted woman writer believes that marriage is only an incident in a career. We would rather have the opinion of the mother of seven or eight children.
Somehow we can't help believing the earthly tax dodger will find it difficult to prove his title to a mansion in the skies.
As a useful product the ultimatum does not compare with many things bearing less sonorous names.

AN ANCIENT SEA.

Many million years ago, long before the birth of the Rocky Mountains, a large inland sea spread over the western and central parts of North America. In geologic language the invasion of this sea occurred in Mississippi time—a period just preceding the one in which the bituminous and anthracite coal beds that extend over portions of central and eastern North America were formed. This sea covered much of the present site of the Rocky Mountain area, the central plains, and at times a part of the Great Plains in the United States. At different times it opened into the Arctic Ocean on the north, the Pacific on the south, and probably the Gulf of Mexico on the southeast.
This incursion of salt water was not the first or the last to invade the American continent. At each incursion muddy, sandy, or limy deposits mixed with sea shells and other animal remains were laid down along the beach and upon the sea floor. Strange as it may seem, most of these rocks formed ages ago now stand above sea level and constitute plains, plateaus, and even mountains.
Animal life was very abundant in this Mississippi sea. Nearly if not at all the classes of animals now living were present. Sharks and fishes, though different in appearance from the present forms, swam along the shore or swam the deep. Sea lilies or crinoids, animals built on the same general plan as the starfish but having a calcareous cup with an attached stem, decorated the sea floor. Sea shells belonging to the same class as the oysters and snails were there. The lamp shells, or more technically speaking the brachiopods, resembling butterflies, mingled with a cork-screw sea net. Other forms, minute and large, figured in this life and have been wonderfully well preserved to the present time. Finally this sea-bottom began to rise, and at length it emerged; the waters withdrew to the deep basins, and land was substituted for marine.
Bulletin 595, written by G. H. Girty and just published by the United States Geological Survey, describes the fossil shells of animals living at one time in this ancient sea in the vicinity of Batesville, Ark. The rocks—known as the Boone chert—formerly had been placed with the Boone limestone, but the author in this report has separated the two and classified the Boone chert as a distinct formation. Contact with contiguous formations, correlations with non-adjacent chert beds, lithology, and faunal character are considered in the discussion. Several new species are described. The bulletin is a technical description and is of interest to those investigating the paleontology of the Paleozoic rocks and the geology of the Mississippi Valley. Anyone desiring a copy of this report may obtain it free upon application to the Director of the United States Geological Survey, Washington, D. C.

COULDN'T AFFORD TO ADVERTISE.

Jud Shaw sold shoes and sealing wax, and lamps, fishpoles and glue, tobacco, candles, gum, and tacks, sickers and sardines, too; dry goods and hams were in his line; he dealt in peas and beans; he kept the general store, in fine—sold overalls and jeans; but Jud, somehow, he wasn't wise—"Couldn't afford to advertise."
Not that he harbored any grudge against his home town sheet; he was, as anyone might judge, a kindly man as meet; his customers he treated fair, and yet he prospered not; his goods were honest, one would swear—he simply was forgot; for Jud, somehow, he wasn't wise—"Couldn't afford to advertise."
Mail order firms from out of town, much wiser in their day, paid liberally for their renown, and gathered in the hay; their catalogues went everywhere; they advertised for trade; their name went forth with trumpets blare, and ah! the coils they made; couldn't afford, they were so wise, couldn't afford not to advertise.
Now, Jud's stuff it was just as good; his prices were the same; the loss was ours; he simply would not spread abroad his name; though town-folks might have much preferred in their home mart to buy, of Jud Shaw they had never heard—you know the reason why, for Jud, somehow, he wasn't wise—"Couldn't afford to advertise!"
