WORK IN TBC CAMPAIGN.

Is Progressing Nicely and is Being Supported by the People and Local Physicians.

Holland, Mich., Nov. 15.—Today marks the beginning of the final week of the anti-tuberculosis campaign in Ottawa county; it also marks the beginning of the preliminary work of a three weeks campaign in Grand Traverse county. During the past week, daily free examinations have been held in Holland, Zeeland, Grand Haven and Coopersville and before the end of the present week hundreds of people will have been examined.

That there are many more cases of tuberculosis in Michigan than is usually supposed by the average man is one of the prominent facts brought out by the work in three counties so far visited by the state board of health workers. In Ottawa county many more cases have already been found than people there had anticipated. In Barry county more than a hundred persons were found suffering from the disease in spite of the fact that when the campaign began it was freely predicted by Barry county people that few cases would be discovered.

Many cases are discovered in each county that had not previously been diagnosed as tuberculosis even when the patient had been examined. Usually that is not because the physician did not know his business; it is because people usually have such an unreasonable fear of tuberculosis that it is not safe for the physician to tell them they had it—not safe for the patient himself, because he straightway leaves the doctor who gives him the unwelcome information about himself, to go to a quack who will tell him a pleasant fiction, or to resort to a patent "cure" that may completely destroy his chances for recovery.

That in a large number of cases it works that way is the almost unanimous opinion of the physicians of the average community. So a doctor often is compelled to do what he can for the tuberculosis victim without telling him point blank that he has the disease. Often it is his only chance to do anything for him at all.

The campaigns of the state health workers serve to some degree to remove this needless fear of tuberculosis. In all these campaigns the fact is emphasized that tuberculosis, if discovered in the early stages, is one of the easiest diseases to cure. The advice constantly given is, "Begin the cure early; delay means death."

That it works is shown by the fact that in the counties where the campaigns have been held many of the physicians are deluged with people asking to be examined to make sure whether they have the disease or not. In Barry county one doctor who had hardly had a case of tuberculosis during the past year examined five people in one afternoon.

AWFUL ACCIDENT TO LONG LAKE MAN.

George Thayer, an old resident of Long Lake was nearly killed while threshing in Hill township on Friday last week. While feeding, the tines of his fork caught in the drive belt, the handle drove back and hit him on the right side of his face, knocking his left eye out on his face, split his nose, smashed the roof of his mouth up and broke his skull. He was hurried to the Rose City hospital, where he was operated on. The bone was taken out of his nose, his skull and the roof of his mouth were straightened. Some of his brain had to be removed. From the last accounts he was rapidly improving.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

THANKSGIVING PROCLAMATION.

By the Governor.

The people of the United States are grateful to the Infinite Father for their capacity and disposition to appreciate the bounties of nature. Through this appreciation, man cheerfully applies his labor to the earth in order that her bounties may serve as a means for realizing the essential joys of life. Abundant harvests are simply a necessary means to an end. The measuring unit of life is not to be found in bushels of grain, or potatoes, or coal, or copper, or silver, or gold, or houses, or lands, but in the laughter of children around the hearthstone, in the love and loyalty of the home. "Home is the nation's safety."

In the year nineteen hundred fifteen, we are grateful for the benediction that rests upon the American home. In the great Commonwealth of Michigan, we are, in common with all the other states, the recipients of the richest blessings. It is eminently fitting that we set apart November twenty-fifth as a special day for Thanksgiving—a day on which we may pray for "Peace on earth, good will to men."

Therefore, I, Woodbridge N. Ferris, Governor of the State of Michigan, do hereby designate Thursday, the twenty-fifth of November, as a day for all the people of this Commonwealth to celebrate in thanksgiving and prayer.

Given under my hand and the Great Seal of the State this sixth day of November, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and fifteen, and of the Commonwealth the seventy-ninth.

Woodbridge N. Ferris, Governor.
Coleman C. Vaughan, Secretary of State.

ONE DAY FARMERS' INSTITUTES

By Jno. A. Campbell.

One Day Institutes in Iosco county have come to stay, if attendance, interest and enthusiasm are any criterion.

The first of the series was held in Hale, Nov. 9th. Two funerals made it impossible to hold day session, but the evening meeting was well attended.

Nov. 10 your correspondent and Prof. R. D. Bailey traveled to Sherman township hall where they found an enthusiastic gathering to greet them. A splendid audience paid rapt attention as Mr. Bailey discussed vital farm topics.

Thursday we traveled to Grant township hall. This day was a repetition of the preceding one at Sherman. A fine audience, much enthusiasm cheered the hearts of the speakers.

Friday, the last Institute day was spent with the citizens of Alabaster and was a repetition of the preceding days. This locality has always been known as a good Institute center and this year was fully up to the standard.

Institute Echoes.
Sherman township closed her schools for the day. Teachers and children had a prominent part in the proceedings.

Prof. Bailey and yours truly enjoyed the bounteous spreads provided by the good people of Sherman, Grant and Alabaster.

Alabaster and Grant schools also had a large share in making their Institutes successful.

Prof. Bailey commented favorably on the excellent music furnished by all schools.

Alabaster pupils performed the Babcock test before parents and visitors. This was a revelation to the onlookers regarding the up-to-date work being done in our schools.

Sherman township school exhibit of various farm products, plain sewing and fancy work by the girls made the township hall very attractive.

An exhibition on a larger scale will be prepared for next year's Institute as well as the county fairs.

Nearly 700 people attended the various sessions.

Prof. Bailey's genial, unassuming personality has made him a favorite among their rural people. He has no superiors as an institute worker.

The need of a county agriculturist was much discussed at the various institutes. This is something we should all think about during the winter.

JOHN PRENTISS POE, JR.

Met Death Often Pictured in Fancy as Be fitting End.

New York, Nov. 17.—Though John Prentiss Poe, jr., famous ex-Princeton football star, soldier, adventurer, and ex-private in the United States Marine Corps, was killed in France on September 25, last, when his regiment, the Black Watch, was practically annihilated during the British advance in the allies' forward movement, he met the kind of death his venturesome spirit had often pictured in fancy as a be fitting end.

Keenly disappointed at the lack of action he found in the Philippine Insurrection, and knowing that the United States Marine Corps offered greater chances for excitement and adventure, he was enlisted in that branch in 1903 by authority of the then Secretary of the Navy, John D. Long, for the threatened war with Columbia over the Panama Canal strip. That war never materialized, and since Poe could not think of "soldiering" unless there was "something doing," he was discharged from the Marine Corps and later enlisted in the Kentucky State Militia during the Governor Goebel shooting trouble.

Even duty on the "dark and bloody ground" during those troublesome times didn't bring him the excitement he craved, and he one time bitterly confided to Marine Corps friends, "I believe that if I ever get to Hell I'll find the fires banked."

Still in pursuit of the elusive "thrill," he became a captain in the Honduras Army in 1907, when that country was at war with Nicaragua, and during the brief struggle got several thrills at the siege of Anapal and the battle of Buenavista. It was after the conclusion of that war that Poe, with five other Americans, who were serving in the Honduras Army, became involved in some sort of trouble with the Government authorities, and, for a time, their lives were in jeopardy. At the urgent request of the American Consul, the U. S. S. Princeton was dispatched to the Honduras coast to aid in bringing the adventurous Americans back to "God's country," and the Princeton's cutter, on reaching shore at an agreed point, found the Americans alive and well and anxious to get back to the States.

"But my baggage," said Poe to the Princeton's captain, who had come ashore in the cutter, "What of my baggage? Please do remember that I am an officer and gentleman in the service of the Honduras Government and I have much luggage."

"We'll attend to that all right," said the Princeton's commander, easily, "How much have you got?"

"Fifty-four pieces all told," replied Poe.

The Princeton's skipper was aghast. "Do you think my gunboat is a freighter, sir? However, we'll fetch it off for you. Kindly enumerate the pieces, and what they contain, so that I may send sufficient small boats and men to handle it."

Poe was deeply engrossed in thought for a moment as if trying to remember everything, and then said, "One pack of playing cards and an extra pair of socks."

SENTIMENT AND SENTIMENTALITY.

"Hit the ball hard for sentiment," says the editor of the Trenton, Mich., Times, and in this touches the keynote of all that is dreamed and done to make the world progress. Sentiment is the disposition prompting to action or expression. It is the antithesis of sentimentality, which is the affectation of fine feeling. Sentiment is a feeling for a person or thing which prompts to action. It does more than that—it urges it to force action. Love of country, of parents or of children have been the motives behind all the great works of art, of inventions, of great sacrifices and the building of great enterprises. Appeal to sentiment is a cry to the highest emotion. Through it newspapers build up large circulations, families are brought together, towns are formed and nations welded in an indissoluble bond. How greatly do those works of passion appeal in which the actual is told with the spark of truth and nature! How do those dreams of life grip our souls when the suffering of the love or the struggle of character against character are laid before us in such a way as to be real. Through sentiment entire strangers are knit in an enduring friendship. Great orators, appealing to our sentiment, lead us on to almost impossible tasks. It is only when we depart from true sentiment into the realms of the sentimental that we go back. Thus the demagogue works, whose orations are aimed at a passing feeling—an emotion that does not nor cannot last. A whole state or nation may be swept by this momentary sentimentality, as is indicated by political movements which are not based on truth and flare up and die unmourned and discredited. Every movement should have the test of sentiment applied to it. If selfishness, money-making, untruth is shown in the reaction, it should be condemned positively and finally.

INGERSOLL ON LOVE.

Wrote Beautiful Tribute to a Woman's Love and Devotion.

The following beautiful tribute to woman's love and devotion is from the pen of Robert G. Ingersoll: "The one thing in this world that is constant, the one window in which light forever burns, the one star which darkness cannot quench, is woman's love. It rises to the greatest height; it sinks to the lowest depth; it forges the most cruel injuries. It is the perennial of life and grows in any climate; neither coldness or neglect, harshness nor cruelty can extinguish it. A woman's love is the perfume of the heart. This is the real love that wrought miracles in art; that gives music all the way from the cradle song to the symphony that beats the soul away on wings of fire; a love that is greater than power, sweeter than life, and stronger than death."

PRICES FOR PUFFS.

The editor of an Eastern paper has grown peevish. He has been pestered so much by people desiring free puffs that he facetiously refers to himself as the "Peerless Prince of Puff Purveyors." He thinks he has done enough for social queens, ministers who are looking for free advertising, people who have legislative fads they wish top ush and organizations which want free publicity. So he has evolved the following scale of prices for puffs:

For telling the public that a man is a successful citizen, when everybody knows he is as lazy as a hired man, $2.70.

Referring to a deceased citizen as one who is mourned by the entire community, when he will only be missed by the poker circle, $10.13.

Referring to one as a hero and a man of courage and one who will stand by his honest convictions, when everybody knows that he is a moral coward and would sell out for thirty cents, $6.621.

Referring to some gallivanting female as an estimable lady whom it is a pleasure to meet and know, when every man in town would sooner see Satan coming, $8.10.

Calling an ordinary pulpit orator an eminent divine, 60 cents.

Sending a doughty sinner to heaven, $5.

Referring to a deceased merchant who never advertised in his life as a progressive citizen, $4.99.

Lambasting the daylight out of the demon rum at the request of the local prohibition committee, $6.77.

Old Songs Retwisted.
Should old acquaintance be forgot,
And never brought to mind?
It should, if old acquaintance be
The money touching kind.

Old Pomes Re-Writ.
When the frost is on the pumpkin,
And lies glittering on the lawn,
It is hard to face the winter,
If your overcoat's in pawn.

And Along Came Ruth.
"Oh dear," sighed Ruth's mother,
"here are the yolks of six eggs left, after I have used the whites for my cake. Nobody wants to eat them, and how shall I keep them until I want them Saturday?"

"There is a very simple way," remarked Ruth, "just leave the yolks in the shells, take a little of the white and put it around the outside edge of the shell, and paste circles of tissue paper over them. Then put some salt in a dish, and stand the shells up in it, and they will keep for a number of days. I learned that at Aunt Martha's last summer. You know her girls are in a cooking class, so they are constantly learning new and economical ways to use things."
"Well, even I might have thought of that, dull as I am," commented Ruth's mother.

Learn a Little Every Day.
The river Nile has a fall of only six inches in 1,000 miles, and is, at flood, twelve miles wide in places.

The Coliseum at Rome was built by Vespasian and seated 100,000 persons. The temple of Diana at Ephesus, was 220 years in building. Its length was 425 feet and it breadth 225 feet.

New Testament money, reduced to our standard is as follows: A mite was 3-10 of a cent; farthing 3-5 of a cent; and a denarius 13 cents.

One pound of oatmeal will furnish as much power as two pounds of bread.

Mount Everest is the highest mountain in the world, (Himalaya) and measures 5 3-5 miles in height.

Wild ducks fly at the rate of 90 miles per hour, carrier pigeons 38 miles, and swallows 60 miles. Birds have crossed the smaller seas at the rate of 120 miles per hour.

At birth the beats of the pulse are 165 to 104; from 15 to 20 years they are 90 to 57; from 29 to 50 they are 112 to 56.

The town of Chicago was organized in 1833 with 28 voters and incorporated in 1837 with a population of 4,497.

Cranberries.
The cranberry is a North Temperate and Arctic plant. They are small, evergreen shrubs and grow best in peaty bogs or swamps. The fruit is eaten in large quantities in America and Europe.

To Keep Housewife's Hands White.
It requires great care to keep delicate hands soft and white when one must fill the triple position of wife, mother and maid. When washing dishes use a dish mop, a pure white soap and wear a rubber glove on the hand you use in the water. When scrubbing wear rubber gloves. When sweeping and dusting a loose pair of cotton gloves will protect the hands wonderfully. The cold handle irons save the hands very much. Use a good pure soap for all kinds of work. The comfort and appearance of your hands will more than repay you for the few cents extra expense. Wash the cotton gloves every day after your work is finished. Lemon juice will remove all stains from the hands. Lemon juice and glycerine, equal parts, rubbed on, softens and whitens them.

Woman's Logic.
You sometimes wonder about the logic of the feminist mind.

A man was to meet his wife at her office at 1 o'clock to take luncheon with her. He was twenty minutes late. She had gone out.

He sat down and waited. At 1:30 she arrived.

"What are you doing here?" she asked.

"I'm waiting for you."

"Didn't you know I wouldn't come back after I'd given you up and gone out?"

"But you did come back, didn't you? You are back now, aren't you?"

"Yes, but you might have known that when I did come back I would have had my lunch and there would be no use in waiting to have it with me."

"Well, have you had it?"

"No."

THE STREET CORNER SAGE.

He is Boss.

"Thar's jist one thing about me" remarked the Sage in the barber shop as he was waiting for his weekly shave. "I'm boss around my own premises, an' every man oughta be th' same way. Ain't no woman ever bossed me 'round, an' never will be. M' wife knows it too, an' she larned long time ago t'war'n no use fer tuh try an' tell me what to dew with it a minute."

"Show me a man," he continued "that's bossed 'round by a woman 'at 'mounts tuh a cuss. I never see one in my life an' I'm older 'n most a you fellows."

He was interrupted by the ringing of the telephone bell. "Yes'm," said the barber at the 'phone "I'll tell him."

"Uncle," he said, "your wife wants you to come to supper right away. Says she's been waiting half an hour."

The Sage hurried toward the door. "I reckon I can't wait fer that shave tonight," he said as he made his exit.

PARAGRAPHS.

By Simplicus.

A married man whose pocket is picked by a woman seldom has her arrested.

There are always a lot of fellows who would like to see the man at the top fall off.

It is better to die unknown in this world than to be known because of your mistakes.

There can be no such word as failure for the man who refuses to sell his honor for success.

There is one time in a woman's life when she likes to hear the right man talk business.

Sometimes a man will behave better if a wife keeps a nice baseball bat around the house.

They call it fiction because, according to it, all married couples live happily ever afterward.

Yes, dear, that bib around the baseball catcher's neck is to keep the fowls from scratching him.

Greatness is the simplest thing in the world—simple and natural or else it would not be greatness.

The man who dies on the field of action escapes a lingering death from idleness and hot biscuit.

No dear, a taxidermist is not a man who collects the taxes. He is the man who taxes the collectors.

Some people are never so happy as when they are advising their friends to take some kind of medicine.

The fleeting scent of perfume is sweeter and more pleasing that the aromatic continuance of it.

It is better to have loved and lost than to have loved and won just enough to break into the divorce court.

Happy is the man who has a decent business, who pursues it decently and who lives honestly off the profits it brings.

When a man has reached the age of sixty-five and can eat mince pie with immunity from pain his life has been a success.

The homlier a man is, the more anxious he seems to be to prove it by having his picture taken every time he gets a chance.

All that a lover needs to make Heaven complete after the wedding ceremony is over, is to discover that his wife has warm feet.

When a man has so lived that the residents of his town are suspicious of him every time one poisons a dog, it is safe to assume that he has lived in vain.

A diplomat is one who can "kid" his wife into keeping the garden free from weeds by bragging about what a fine agriculturist she is.

It is a sort of self applied insult when the man who lets his wife take in washing asks the man who wants to marry his daughter, if he can support her.

A Michigan editor is complaining because an undertaker is hauling wood in the hearse. I suppose the editor is some because he is not hauling delinquent subscribers.

She told him she wouldn't marry him until he had done something brave. He started in to court the girl next door and she sent word the second night that he was the bravest man she had ever met.

THAT SOLDIER SONG.

(Being, incidentally, a hint to song-writers that "soldier" can be rhymed with something else than "shoulder").

I've tried to write a martial lay,
With cheers and glad Hosannahs,
Of troop so gay that march away,
With drums and waving banners.

But through my head I'm insane,
Runs one tune—now I've told you—
"I didn't raise," goes the refrain,
"My boy to be a soldier."

I cannot write of guns that roar
Their challenge to the battle,
Nor of the glory that is war,
Nor of the musket's rattle;

This tune, until I'm almost dead
(To peace it seeks to mould you)
"I didn't raise," goes through my head,
"My boy to be a soldier."

I weary of that senseless song,
Though I cannot forget it;
It haunts me now the whole day long—
I know I shouldn't let it;

So this will have to hold you—
"I didn't raise my darling, lad
To be a blooming soldier."

OH! WHAT A CHANGE!

One hundreds years ago today
When wilderness was here,
With powder in his gun, the man
Went out and got a deer.
But now the thing has changed—
And on another plan,
With powder on her cheeks,
The "dear" goes out and gets the man.

NEW YORKERS FLAT FOOTED.

New York, Nov. 17.—Little old Manhattan is flat-footed, wears poor shoes and stands up at its work, according to figures compiled by Captain Frank E. Evans of the local recruiting office of the United States Marine Corps.

Captain Evans is authority for the statement that approximately 18 per cent of all applicants who applied for enlistment in the Marine Corps at its Twenty-third Street office during the past year, were rejected for "pes planus," or flat-foot.

He puts the blame on the cheaply constructed, poorly made shoes the average toiler wears at his work for the epidemic of falling arch, and on the fact that the majority of victims claimed they were forced to stand on their feet for long stretches while at their employment.

Motormen, conductors, subway guards, policemen, machinists, waiters, and clerks are the principal sufferers from "pes planus," Captain Evans says.

THE FARMER'S INSTITUTE.

The farmer's institute which was held at the town hall last Wednesday was a grand success. The addresses and discussions were delivered in a pleasing manner and were very instructive and much appreciated by everyone. Every farmer who attended should have learned of many methods of improving his buildings and soil without any great cost. The program furnished by all the schools of this township is worthy of appreciation. Each of the teachers read a paper and their topics were as follows: Miss Sands, Dist. No. 1 "The Farm Home"; Mr. Monroe, Dist. No. 2 "Teaching the Prevention of Communicable Disease"; Miss Dillon, Dist. No. 3 "Benefit of One-Day Institutes to Children"; Miss Wismer, Dist. No. 4 "Why Michigan is Great"; Miss Buswell, Dist. No. 5 "Farmer's Institutes and Country Schools." The prizes awarded were as follows: Farm Produce. First, Don Norris, Dist. No. 1; second, George Schroeder, Dist. No. 1; third, Floyd Schneider, Dist. No. 5; fourth, Milton Stone, Dist. No. 5. For Baking. First, Ethel Schneider, Dist. No. 5; second, Gladys Schroeder, Dist. No. 1; third, Etta Jordan, Dist. No. 1. For Sewing. First, Josephine Mark, Dist. No. 1; second, Sylvia Brown, Dist. No. 5; third, Lucile Pavelock, Dist. No. 1. After the evening session, the audience sang many familiar songs. It is to be regretted that we do not have more frequent social gatherings in this township, because a day spent as pleasantly and educationally as last Wednesday is one which is beneficial to both children and older people and is one which will be long remembered.
