Postmaster L. J. Patterson was at Saginaw last Friday in attendance at a meeting of the Michigan postmasters' association. The feature of the meeting was an address by Gen. Blakely, fourth assistant postmaster general, on the subject of the extension of the rural routes. The recent reorganization of the rural routes in this state has caused dissatisfaction in some quarters, but Gen. Blakely showed that while some patrons had been slightly discommoded by the re-routing, a great many more people had been reached at less expense, enabling the establishment of more routes for the same money.

The home talent play, "The College Ghost," given at the Star theater Wednesday evening under the auspices of the league of St. Joseph's church, drew an audience which packed the theater to its full capacity. The play, which was presented wholly by a cast of girls under the direction of Miss Eva Bing, was very good and demonstrated that many of the young ladies have great ability in the histrionic line. The specialties were also good. "A Bachelor's Reverie," by a bachelor (Leon Cadore) and 21 girls of various sizes and dressed in the costumes of different nationalities, especially elicited favorable comment. The "Rainbow Hoop Drill" by 14 girls also brought much applause. The entertainment netted a nice sum to the League.

DEATH OF JOHN O'BRIEN. John O'Brien an old resident of Iosco county, but for the past year a resident of Alpena, died at the home of his son, Dennis, in Duluth, Minn., last Thursday morning, Nov. 18. The cause of death was pneumonia.

John O'Brien was born in New York state 64 years ago. He came to Bay City, Mich., about 1870, where he worked for a number of years at his trade of iron moulder. It was here he met Miss Lizzie Kinney, to whom he was married in 1873. To this union ten children were born, eight of whom survive him. They are: Will, of Grand Rapids; James, of Alpena; Dennis of Duluth; Edward, of Shelldrake; John, of Saginaw; Katherine, of Menominee; Maggie, of Plasterco, Va.; Celia, of Alpena. Joseph and May, the other two children, died some years ago.

In 1876 Mr. O'Brien and his wife came to Alabaster, and he has since lived in Iosco county up to about a year ago, when he went to Alpena to engage in the meat business with his son, James. At the time of his death he was planning on removing to Bay City to take up another line of work.

Mr. O'Brien's first wife has been dead several years and about two years ago he was married again to Mrs. Mary Spring of Alabaster, who survives him.

The remains were brought to this city last Monday and the funeral was held from St. Joseph's church, East Tawas, the same day. Interment in the East Tawas Catholic cemetery.

Deceased was a man well liked by all who knew him, and his hundreds of friends in Iosco county join in extending sincere sympathy to the bereaved family.

COBB APPOINTMENT REVOKED.

W. H. Flynn and C. H. W. Snyder Appointed Friends of Court in Black Case.

On Tuesday of this week Judge Albert Widdis of the Iosco county circuit court issued an order revoking the appointment of J. H. Cobb of Alpena as friend of the court in the case of the charges against Albert W. Black, prosecuting attorney, and issued another order appointing Wm. H. Flynn of East Tawas and C. H. W. Snyder of Tawas City as friends of the court to prepare, present and prosecute the charges against the accused.

Judge Widdis was moved to this action by the fact that, although five weeks have passed since Mr. Cobb's appointment, he had done nothing toward the investigation of the charges and the preparation of the case. During the past week Judge Widdis received a letter from Mr. Cobb stating that he had not the time and did not care to incur the expense which would be necessary to come to Iosco county and make the investigation, and asking the judge to appoint some local attorney to assist in the case. In this position Mr. Cobb was fully justified, as few outside attorneys would care to go to the expense necessary for railroad fare, hotel bills and livery hire which the case would necessitate, and then take chances on having their bill allowed by the board of supervisors.

However, Judge Widdis came to the conclusion that if local attorneys were to assist in the preparation of the case, the work might as well be wholly done by local men, hence the revocation of the appointment of Mr. Cobb and the appointment of Messrs. Flynn and Snyder. There can be no valid objection to this course, as the attorneys can only present the facts in the case to the court and the final decision will rest with Judge Widdis, who will hear the case.

It is altogether probable that the hearing of this matter will not be unnecessarily delayed any longer, but will be had at an early date.

SPLENDID ENTERTAINMENT

"An Evening in the Land o' the Heather" enjoyed by Large Audience.

Despite the inclemency of the weather there was a large attendance at the Scotch entertainment, "An Evening in the Land o' the Heather," given by Rev. Alex Anderson at the Baptist church last Friday evening. Those who saw the beautiful views of Scotia's banks and braes, and listened to the songs and stories which accompanied them were exceedingly well pleased and many are the words of encomium which have been expressed the past week.

The entertainment opened with the display of Old Glory upon the canvas and the singing of the first verse of "America" by the audience. Then for two and one-half hours Rev. Anderson held the rapt attention of his audience with the pictures and his talented and happy rendition of the oral portion of the program. To the latter the real Scotch burr possessed by the speaker gave added pleasure in the songs and stories rendered in the real Scotch dialect. It is said that a Scotchman may lose everything but his one distinguishing feature—his dialect.

Rev. Anderson's stories, mostly bearing on the traits and characteristics of his fellow countrymen, were humorous and amusing and brought many bursts of spontaneous applause from his hearers. "Sandy Wilson and the Orator-O," "An Extraordinary Catakeezin," and "Hoo Peter Woed and Won Kirsty" were mirth provoking and produced much enthusiasm.

The scenes thrown upon the canvas by the latest, noiseless, ether process stereopticon lantern, appeared more like painted pictures than mere transient shadows. In the strong, soft light the water scenes of moonlit bay, winding brook in the glen and the dashing rush of mountain stream from precipice to rocky bed below seemed reality rather than imitation. The silence of the dead past gathers 'round the castles and the soft glow arouses awe in its appropriate dimness of their centuries old histories. The battle fields and the resting places of the honored dead; the hustling cities; the towering monuments, stupendous bridges, views of the lochs and lonely glens, scenes selected from every section of this storied land, together with Mr. Anderson's vivid descriptions and historical reminiscences, combine to form a pleasing and educational entertainment.

If any one feature excelled another, that feature would be Rev. Anderson's rendering of the "Sangs" of Scotland, so many of which appeal strongly to the American people. The latest and best are comprised in his repertoire, and sung in his rich, strong baritone voice they present a musical treat which is rarely excelled. When the scene of a small cottage in a wooded glen was thrown upon the curtain, Mr. Anderson sang Harry Lauder's song, "The Wee Hoose 'Mang the Heather," in a manner which caused the ladies to seek their handkerchiefs, the old sinners to resurrect an odd sensation around the heart, and the young men to move up a little closer.

Sincere, not too extreme, broad in sympathy for mankind, and generous to another's belief, Mr. Anderson presents an entertainment which no one need hesitate to attend.

As a closing feature of the entertainment Old Glory was again displayed and the audience joined Mr. Anderson in singing the second and third verses of "America," thus closing in the same patriotic manner as it was opened.

FREDERICK WILLIAM HEINRICH, DECEASED.

Frederick William Heinrich passed to his rest last Sunday morning Nov. 21 at 2 o'clock, at his home in this city. He had been ill for nearly three months with malignant stomach trouble and two weeks ago was confined to his bed until the time of his demise last Sunday.

The deceased was born in Lauterbach, Saxony, Germany, Jan. 26, 1859 and at the time of his death was 66 years, 9 months and 25 days old. The wife of the deceased passed away about twenty years ago and since that time Mr. Heinrich has been a resident of East Tawas.

The body of the deceased was taken to the home of E. E. Kunze, brother-in-law of Mr. Heinrich, and the funeral services were held at the Kunze residence at one o'clock last Tuesday afternoon and at 2:15 from Zion Lutheran church, Tawas City. Rev. Rietheimer of that church officiated. Interment was made in the German cemetery on the Plank road.

The deceased leaves three sons to mourn his loss, Ernest J. of Chicago; Gustave A., of Chicago, who was present at the funeral services and Richard H. of New Orleans, La. He also leaves a brother-in-law, E. E. Kunze, of this city.

The deceased was well known to many of the residents of this city having lived here so long and was highly respected by all. He was an indulgent father and a kind and affectionate parent. Many friends in East Tawas sincerely sympathize with the sorrowing relatives in this hour of distress.

NEW ROAD LAW BIG BOOST FOR BETTER ROADS.

Acting upon the petition of a majority of the taxpayers along the line to be traversed, the state highway department will start work at an early date on the construction of a gravel road starting at the city limits of Whittemore and running to Prescott in Arenac county. This road will be constructed under the new law which permits the construction of improved roads upon petition of a majority of the taxpayers who live adjacent to the road to be built, which law will greatly hasten the era of good roads in this state. Where the road in an inter-county highway the petition is made to the state highway department which proceeds with the construction. Where the road is wholly within one county the petition is made to the county road commissioners, upon whom then depends the work of construction. The cost of construction is assessed against the property along the line of the highway and for a limited distance on the cross roads.

This law is sure to be a big boost to the cause of better roads, as it provides a means whereby the property owners along the line of any highway may secure improved roads without waiting for the designation of the stretch as a county road as has been the case heretofore. One requisite of the law is that the petition shall be for more than one mile of road, but this provision will not act as a drawback where the residents of a certain section make up their mind that they want the improvement. It is altogether probable that under this plan the state will soon see a greater boom in good road building than ever before in its history.

RURAL SCHOOLS RESPONSIBLE FOR MUCH TBC SAYS STATE BOARD. Holland, Mich., Nov. 22.—That the rural schools are responsible for the spread of a great deal of tuberculosis in the state of Michigan is brought out from week to week as the "Heath First" campaigns that are being conducted by the state board of health continue. The average school house in the city of any size has some means of ventilation and moreover the teachers take some pains as a rule to keep the windows open a large part of the time. But the large number of school pupils from the rural schools found afflicted with tuberculosis points to the fact that these conditions do not obtain in the "little red school house," known to fame for its sentimental associations.

In an address before the Medical association of Ottawa county Dr. Victor C. Vaughan, jr., of Detroit, declared that he had taken particular pains to notice during an automobile trip from Detroit to Holland, cutting entirely across the state through a prosperous section of country, how many schools in the rural district had open windows while the pupils

BAD SPOTS IN ROADS.

Temporary Expedients for Making Them Passable—Should be Used Only in Emergencies.

Temporary repairs to roads are, at least should be, confined to emergency measures. In proportion to the results obtained, temporary work is always expensive and is never justified by ordinary conditions. Unusual conditions, however, often occur to plague the road man. For example, the closing of a main highway to traffic because of construction, repair, or washouts may suddenly throw a heavy traffic for a short time on a little used and probably unimproved byway. Clearly, in such a case temporary expedients are legitimate. The most common troubles met with in a case of this kind are mudholes and ruts if the soil is heavy, and dust and loose sand if the soil is light or sandy.

Mudholes Chief Source of Trouble.
On a clay or gumbo road mudholes usually cause the most trouble. As water is absolutely necessary for the existence of a mudhole, any treatment, whether temporary or permanent in character, must provide for getting rid of the water. The first step is, therefore, to dig a trench to the side and allow the water and mud to drain. If necessary, open up also the side ditches. Furthermore, remove all of the soft mud left in the mudhole. The bottom of the trench should be filled with broken stone or coarse gravel so as to provide a drain to prevent any further accumulation of water. Gravel is the best material for filling the old mudhole. If gravel is not available, use the best earth at hand, tamping it down in 3 or 4 inch layers. If possible, spread a little gravel or sand over the new fill, which should be made slightly higher than the adjoining road surface. The best treatment of all, however, is to keep the drainage in good condition. Serious mudholes will then rarely develop.

Don't try to fill a mudhole without first draining out the water and removing the soft mud. Don't try to fill it with large stones, because if this is done there will soon be two mudholes instead of one. Don't try to fill a mudhole with sods or similar material which absorb water readily. On an earth or gravel road ruts are best treated with the drag. Don't be afraid of dragging too often during a rainy spell. If a thin coat of sand or gravel be spread over the road surface when it has been softened by rain and then worked in by traffic and a liberal use of the drag, a poor earth road can be much improved and made to carry a surprisingly heavy traffic for a short time.

In contrast to the clay or gumbo road, the sand road gives least trouble during wet weather. On sandy roads anything that will prevent the free movement of the sand particles will be of value. As long as the road is damp, the surface tension of the capillary water acts as a binder and holds the separate grains of sand in place. All efforts should, therefore, be directed toward preventing the sandy places from drying out, or to adding some binder. The addition of clay furnishes a positive binder and is really the best and most permanent treatment. The addition of any fibrous material such as straw, spent tan bark, sage brush, or pine needles is of value and, when spread on the road and covered with a thin coat of sand or allowed to work into the surface, will make an almost impassable sand road fairly good for a time. But the best way to treat a bad place, whether on a clay or a sand road, is to treat it before it gets bad. Immediate attention to small injuries will prevent later prolonged attention and extensive repairs to serious damages.

Cutting Down Keys.
In order to cut down the number of keys to be carried in the pocket, a double key has been invented which will open two doors. The two keys are placed end to end, but in order to afford the required grasp for the hand, each end portion is surrounded by a ring of rather square shape or conforming to the key end. This ring pivots upon a small collar that is put on the key rod just back of the end portion, and when used for a hand grasp, the ring lies in the same plane but on the other end the ring is swung back so as to insert the key in the lock.

Peanut Butter Saad.
Mash the yolks of several hard-boiled eggs and add enough mayonnaise dressing to moisten them well. Cut white bread in thin slices, spread thickly with peanut butter then with the egg mixture. Arrange on water-cress or lettuce leaves, garnish with rings of egg whites and serve with dressing.

Ruth is Home Again.
"What makes this butter crumble so?" inquired Ruth's sister, as she was trying to cut butter that had been upon the ice for a long time.

"Very cold butter is likely to do that unless you know how to cut it properly," answered Ruth. "So you might just as well learn how to cut it properly right now. Let me show you."

And taking a piece of waxed paper in which the butter had been wrapped, she put it over the sharp edge of the knife and cut into the butter. The butter did not crumble, break in pieces or stick to the knife, but separated in nice, smooth layers, as good butter should.

"Ruth," ejaculated her sister, "I don't like to be continually praising you, but I must say that you are the eighth wonder of the modern age."

THE STREET CORNER SAGE.

Of Course, That's Different.

"I wuz out a little late 'tother night," remarked the Sage as he made a deposit in the bank. "an' I wuz surprised at the number of young fellers I seen on th' streets. War'n't 'em nothin', jest loafin'. Why, when I wuz a young feller we used to be gone somewhere every night, to a spellin' bee or a speakin' society 'er singin' skule 'er something to improve our minds. War'n't none of us layin' 'round on th' streets till late at night tryin' to figure out some devilment. Young fellers ought tuh have some place to spend their evenin's now-a-days."

"That's just what a number of us have been thinking," was the cashier's reply. "We are raising funds to build a nice Y. M. C. A., where the young men of the town can have clean recreation and amusement any time they want it. I suppose we can count on you for a check to help the work along?"

"No-sir-ee," was the response. "Th' skule house usta be good 'nuff fer us old timers and it's good 'nuff fer young fellers now. 'Sides if th' young men want somethin' like that they ought tuh pay fer it themselves."

TULIP AND NARCISSUS BULES.

Most of the bulbs sold by florists and seedsmen in the United States are imported directly from the Netherlands, the annual importations amounting to nearly a million dollars in value. In order to encourage the growing of Dutch bulbs in this country on a commercial scale and to provide American-grown bulbs of superior quality, the Department of Agriculture established a bulb-propagating garden near Bellingham, Wash., where the conditions of soil and climate are similar to those in the Netherlands, for the purpose of conducting experiments in the propagation, cultivation, harvesting, storing, and planting of these bulbs. It appears from the investigations that have been conducted that American-grown tulip bulbs in forcing tests in comparison with imported stock under the same conditions are freer from disease and blossom from five to seven days earlier than the same varieties imported from Europe; also that the flowers produced from these bulbs have longer stems and are of better color and quality than those from foreign-grown bulbs. Tulip and narcissus bulbs can be propagated and grown successfully along the Atlantic and Pacific coasts and in the region of the Great Lakes, but owing to the cost of labor only comparatively limited areas have been planted. The largest areas devoted to the growing of these bulbs on a commercial scale in this country are in Virginia, Rhode Island, Washington and California. A single grower near Portsmouth, Va., has a planting of 65 acres of narcissus, and during the blossoming seasons ships daily large quantities of blossom.

ONE FARM THAT WAS MADE TO PAY.

A significant instance of what proper methods of farm management can accomplish is afforded by a certain 500-acre farm in central Michigan. For 10 years this farm failed to pay interest on the capital invested. One year after the owners had been induced to make certain radical changes the farm paid all the expenses of operation and returned them 5 per cent on an investment of $60,000. The changes which accomplished this financial revolution were as follows:

1. Four-horse machinery was substituted for 2-horse.

2. The unprofitable cows in the dairy herd were weeded out and sold and the money received for them invested in better stock.

3. A silo was built.

4. The foreman was allowed, in addition to his salary, 10 per cent of the net income from the farm. The expenses of operating the farm, but not the interest on the capital, were deducted from the income before the foreman received his percentage.

It was this last suggestion which met with the most opposition from the owners of the farm, but when it was pointed out to them that for every dollar the foreman got under such an arrangement they would get $9, they yielded.

BOTH WERE BENEFITED

Flint Woman and Her Husband Got Quick Relief When They Took Tanlac.

Mrs. Ed. Boland, of 835 East Elizabeth street, Flint, says that she and her husband took Tanlac at the same time and both were benefited. These are her words:

"Before I took Tanlac I was very nervous and my stomach was in an upset condition. I found it hard to retain even the lightest sort of food on my stomach. I suffered from severe headaches which would sometimes last all day long. At night on account of my nervous condition I found it almost impossible to sleep. My whole system became run down and I was hardly better than a nervous wreck.

"Since taking two bottles of Tanlac I find that I am in good shape again. My stomach has improved so that I can eat anything I want. My digestion is good; I have a good appetite and feel strong and well all the time. My nerves all right now and I sleep well every night.

"My husband who has been suffering from liver trouble also was benefited by Tanlac. He was bothered with sharp pains throughout his back and shoulders and suffered from severe headaches.

"He became very nervous and run down, and felt listless all the time and became tired very easily. He seemed to see black spots floating in front of his eyes.

"Tanlac relieved him of his nervous condition and has put him back on his feet. He feels well all the time and has not had a recurrence of his trouble since he started taking the medicine."

Cuts the Fuel Bill in Half

For Soft Coal, Lignite or Hard Coal

As you know fully one-half the carbon available for heat in soft coal is gas, the entire gas supply used for fuel and illumination in many cities and towns being made from common soft coal. The ordinary stove in burning soft coal allows this gas half of the fuel to pass up the chimney unburned, thus wasting it as a heat producer.

Cole's Original Hot Blast Stove, by means of the patented Hot Blast draft and other patented features, distills this gas from the upper surface of the coal, utilizing it as a heat producer along with the fixed carbon or coke in the coal, thus burning all the coal. This is why

Cole's Original Hot Blast

Saves the Dollars and makes a ton of common $3.00 soft coal or lignite do the work of $9.00 worth of hard coal.

Your old stove and imitation Hot Blast are not air tight, do not save the escaping gases and do not give you a warm house at night. You cannot afford to say to yourself "My old stove will have to do this winter." The old stove is eating up the price of a new stove every year. Not only that, but on top of the cost is the unsatisfactory result it gives. It is always out the coldest morning

Even Heat Day and Night—Fire Never Out

Cole's Hot Blast is so perfect in construction that fire keeps all night, and when the draft is opened in the morning will burn two or three hours with the fuel put in the night before. No other stove does this. Fire, therefore, never goes out, and the rooms are kept at an even temperature all the time.

OUR GUARANTEE

- 1—We guarantee a saving of one-third in fuel over any lower draft stove of the same size, with soft coal or slack.
- 2—We guarantee Cole's Hot Blast to use less hard coal for heating a given space than any base burner made with same heating surface.
- 3—We guarantee that the rooms can be heated from one to two hours each morning, with the soft coal or hard coal put in the stove the evening before.
- 4—We guarantee that the stove will hold fire with soft coal 36 hours without attention.
- 5—We guarantee a uniform heat day and night, with soft coal, hard coal or lignite.
- 6—We guarantee every stove to remain absolutely air tight as long as used.
- 7—We guarantee the feed door to be smoke and dust proof.

For Hard Coal—Saves Half

The perfect control over the drafts, the slow economical combustion and the large positive radiating surface make Cole's Original Hot Blast the most economical and the best Hard Coal stove made.

Cole's Hot Blast is the modern heater and will save its cost in fuel every winter. Buy one for your home now.

Would You Lose $50.00 in Fuel to Save $1.00 on the Cost of Your Stove?

That is what you do when you buy a cheaply constructed, putty jointed, showy made imitation stove. Like all successful inventions, Cole's Original Hot Blast has many inferior imitations, avoid them.

They all lack the patented features and careful construction, which make the Original Hot Blast a great success. They do not stay tight and soon open seams and cracks which render them worthless as fire keepers. See the name "Cole's Hot Blast from Chicago" on the feed door. None genuine without it.

"BETTER BE SAFE THAN SORRY"

What has become of this old saying, once the final word in cautioning advice and used by the experienced and conservative man in counseling those inclined to be rather hasty in their dealings? Perhaps the thoughtless man of today still retains it as a motto, and the reason you do not hear it expressed as much of late is owing to the publicity given the now world-wide slogan, "Safety First."

Perhaps the old saying is superfluous in the face of the "Safety First" propaganda, but still I do not believe it should be forgotten. There is a meaning to it not found in the words "safety first." It sounds a note of warning where the other but advises caution. It is true that to those who heed the words of caution, a note of warning is unnecessary, but there are many who never stop to consider their acts until warned of the consequences.

To some "safety first" has already lost its meaning. The "Safety First" movement, which is the greatest ever inaugurated in the cause of humanity, like any other general business movement, gathered to its ranks certain individuals who are invariably attracted to any forward movement having humanity or progress as its battle-cry; and who will consider it a part of life's duty to promote its cause.

There are many others, however, who look upon the movement as a hobby, who soon forget its humane principles, and to such as those we want to repeat the old saying, "It is better to be safe than sorry."—D. & M. Traffic Bulletin.

Everything is against the law of stagnation. The sun, the moon, the day, the night, the world move. Man must move with them. If he moves a little faster than the things about him he is a leader. If he hangs back and is yanked along by the coat-tails he is a laggard and a loafer.

Even the chemist with his melting pot cannot turn dross to gold. There must be the fundamental ore. I recall two boys of my youth. One of them was the son, by birth, of a well-to-do family. The other was an heir by adoption. The boys had equal chances. One is now a priest and the other is the village drunkard. One had in him the ore of gold and the other the dross of gold.

And Along Came Ruth.

"These thermos bottles are a great thing," said Ruth's friend, while they were preparing lunch for a nutting party, "but there is one trouble: after the cork has been used for a time, I can't keep it sweet enough to keep it from tainting the milk. I have thought of to prevent this, but it still gives me trouble."

"I think I know how that may be prevented," suggested Ruth. "I have heard that if the cork is wrapped in waxed or paraffin paper it will solve the difficulty. The waxed paper can be removed and replaced whenever necessary, and the cork will at no time come in contact with the fluid in the bottle. It is a great deal easier than buying a lot of corks and trying to change them all the time, for you never can keep track of the corks that have been used."

"I'll try that at once," gleefully replied her friend, "might have known that you could come to my rescue."

PETER, THE PESSIMIST

By MISS IDALINE WILLIAMS.

(Copyright, 1915, by W. G. Chapman.)

"Hearts—crush them! Love—tear it up by the roots! Charity—eliminate it! I hate all the world! I am going to devote my time, my money, my life to adding all the evil I can to humanity."

Thus Peter Martin, pacing up and down his office in a wild frenzy.

His closest business friend, John Jarvis, had induced him some time previous to invest nearly half his fortune in an extensive mining proposition. Suddenly the shares had gone down. It was predicted that they would go lower. Peter, not wishing to lose all of his investment, sold out at a tremendous loss. Now he learned that the very man who had bought his stock through a broker was John Jarvis, who had left the city and the stock had immediately gone up twenty points.

This seemed to be a consoling decision for the old man in his present cynical and pessimistic mood. He started in on his hideous program, trying to imagine himself a fierce, merciless wolf.

"Where shall I begin?" he gloated. "Ah, I have it! I have it! I have it! A most glorious revenge! Fitting the occasion! I have never catered to the feminine sex, but now—

I will break a woman's heart! Ah! the glorious satisfaction of the act! And the victim—John Jarvis' sister. She has always seemed to be interested in me. I will lead her on. I will propose, I will awaken all her ambition and love—if any human being can really love. Then I will deride her, crush her, humiliate her, desert her! A fit act of vengeance against her renegade brother! And the joy, the glory of plunging a woman into distress and heartbreak!"

That evening the old schemer secured the expert services of barber, haberdasher and tailor, and appeared at the home of Miss Eva Jarvis in quite youthful trim.

She was a lovely woman at forty. What Peter must have been at natural and benevolent normal, her sweet, sympathetic face reflected. Her deep eyes sparkled at his apparent increase of interest in her.

With a glum, grim look Peter listened to her rhapsodies over "Brother John." He made no comment as she told of his being away, "making a quick fortune."

"Which I pay for!" muttered Peter, but he soon drifted into a pleasant frame of mind. Somehow, never before had this gentle, earnest woman seemed so superior to all her sex. His soul was drifting, seeking solace, and in the winning way of Miss Jarvis he found an indescribable peace from the wild turmoil of his riotous emotions. And because this lonely woman had always respected and admired him—and something more—her ways had a new fluttering beauty about them, captivating her visitor more than ever.

"A charming woman, truly," reflected Peter, as he left her. "What a life of peace I could live with her, but—No! to crush! to destroy! I have set out on a career of wild wickedness!"

Again that evening what Peter was sure was in the pursuance of his heart-breaking scheme, influenced him to visit Miss Jarvis. He was greeted with surprise.

"I have had a strange letter from Brother John," she told Peter. "He says he is going abroad to enjoy his new fortune. If I wish to go, I am to start at once for Denver to get a new wardrobe."

Peter's mind was on the boil. To think of it! The arch-villain, his treacherous partner, was about to wrench from him his fond revenge! Jarvis idolized his sister. With money, with her, he would escape the deadly vengeance!

And—aha!—a new thought, a fierce, devastating thought, the thought of all thoughts! He would propose at once to Eva. He would really marry her. He would torture the base John Jarvis by robbing him of the sister's company on his tour!

Peter Martin proposed to Miss Jarvis. He was accepted. He left the house jubilant. He would center his wicked malignity in thus disturbing the cherished plans of that scoundrel, John Jarvis!

He caught himself humming a happy tune, and cherishing a fair woman's face, and planning for the home he would build. With a great uproar John Jarvis burst into his private office.

"It's done, old friend!" he roared, slapping Peter jovially on the shoulder.

"You mean you've 'done' me!" observed Peter.

"Hey!" stared Jarvis. "Ah, I understand. I instructed my private secretary to tell you everything, and he went on a spree and forgot. I've got your stock put sacredly aside. Peter, we're rich! I got a hint, hurried to the mines and found out that the richest lode in Nevada had been discovered. Then I bought in all the stock I could—on our joint account."

"Hum! ha!" floundered Peter, and wisely said no more.

"Confidentially, Peter, old boy," jubilated Jarvis, "we've got the mine, you and I!"

"And, confidentially," responded Peter, his tones partaking of a cheer effect—"I've got Eva!"

Scotch Scones When Baking

You can always depend on Mother having something in readiness at the lunch hour.

Never caught napping, even though the "cupboard is bare", and the bread is in the process of baking. She keeps a sack of and just rolls out thin sheets of bread dough and bakes, or scorches, on a griddle. My, but Scotch Scones are good!

Buttered when hot and wrapped in a napkin, a most delicious treat. Mother's Scones are excellent because her bread dough is of the best—she always uses Diamond Flour and knows she can get good results without a worry.

Be sure and specify Stott's Diamond Flour when the grocery list is made out.

Do Your Christmas Shopping Early

The above slogan in the hands of an astute business man, changed the whole practice of Christmas shopping and stimulated holiday business as nothing else could have done. This man, with the nerve of a Barnum and the judgment of a Wanamaker, grabbed the thought from the public mind and put it into big BLACK TYPE where "He who runs may read"—in the newspaper! He backed a popular conviction with his coin and advertised the universal belief that it would be better for everyone concerned if the inevitable Christmas purchases were made at once while stocks were fresh and new and the choice was wide and ample.

The result not only paid the advertiser as it always does—but the whole country profited beside.

This slogan has since slipped into practical use in every corner of commercial America. Excepting perhaps its fellow slogan, "Safety First," which reduced the accident death rate enormously, it has done more good in the world than any business phrase ever coined. It has been the means of discontinuing the time honored practice among large metropolitan department and specialty stores of keeping open in the evenings a week or two preceding Christmas Eve. It has enabled manufacturers to prepare their goods and fill orders far enough in advance to insure clear store rooms long before the Yuletide candles were lighted. It prevented the disappointment of millions of Christmas shoppers who were wont in times past to wait for the more attractive novelties which turned up at the last moment. And not the least important, it saved the heartaches of neglected ones who leant upon the broken reed of mere man's thoughtlessness.

That phrase, "Do your Christmas Shopping Early," was instantly taken up and flashed before the eyes of the world through the medium of its newspaper. Just as every other worth while thing is told this nation of readers by the ever present, constant, reliable, all-knowing morning, evening, weekly, or Sunday newspaper. Nothing the world does is done without ITS knowledge, nothing you want the world to know can be made known without its aid. Almost any national manufacturer will tell you that most of his fame and profit were the product of newspaper advertising. No newspaper advertiser who kept it up wisely ever lost money.

The newspaper pays the advertiser. The latter merely invests in business publicity. The cost of advertising is like a phantom Zepplin—it never lights anywhere. It is a bugaboo made of thin air and a yellow streak. The common supposition that advertising expense is levied upon the consumer is likewise a fallacy. The fact of the matter is that the non-advertiser pays for it out of the business he loses to competitors who do advertise.

Advertising doubles output, halves overhead, divides selling cost and by making two customers buy where ONLY ONE BOUGHT BEFORE, it creates a hundred per cent increase in profit—out of which any business man can well afford to pay for his own advertising.

MORAL FOR MERCHANTS: Advertise in the Herald and do your Christmas BUSINESS early.

WORLD'S SCHOOLS RESPONSIBLE

were mastering the three R's, and on the whole journey he found not one where an open window could be discovered, in spite of the fact that it was in early November and the day was as "rare as a day in June."

If that is the condition generally in balmy weather it is easy to imagine what the condition of the air is in the average rural school in inclement weather in the middle of winter. Moreover, the average rural school of the old type has practically no method of ventilation. The building committees of the boards of education in charge of the construction of the buildings usually paid not the slightest attention to securing a supply of fresh air for the pupils. The state board of education is doing all in its power to counteract these mistakes of the past by advising teachers to let the air in through the windows, but the fact is that often there is strenuous opposition to such a course on the part of parents, and after all, a teacher looks for her salary to the parents in a district and not to the state board. It is easy to understand therefore why Dr. Vaughan found no open windows.

But the "little red school house," (which by the way usually is painted white), is passing. In many districts buildings are being put up in accordance with plans and specifications prepared by the state board of education in which provision for ventilation is made. But even against these plans there is often bitter opposition. One large Michigan furnace manufacturer is authority for the statement that persuading rural school boards to install a ventilating system is like pulling teeth.

But the present anti-tuberculosis campaign is forcefully calling attention to these conditions and is expected to have a beneficial effect all through the state.

Not Flattering to Smith.

Poor Smith was dead. In his time he went through the ups and downs of life, and finally departed from this vale of tears leaving Mrs. Smith the sole possessor of an ample fortune. Mrs. Smith tried all likely places for an inscription that would do justice to her departed husband, but none would suit till she came to the grave of the immortal poet Burns. She ordered a similar one, which was duly executed and ran thus: "In memory of John Smith, a manufacturer of fireworks, aged eighty-four. He is gone to the only place where his own works are excelled."
