CREDIT TO IOSCO SUPERVISORS.

Difficult is the task of unscrambling the scrambled eggs, but the Iosco supervisors have done their best with a strong showing of credit to themselves. They refused to pay for law books for the circuit court, believing they should not. The court directed them to pay the bill but this they refused. Because of alleged open belligerency toward the court Judge Widdis sentenced them. Now they have commenced at the beginning and paid the bill. Little value comes from reflecting upon the trouble that could have been averted by paying the bill at the outset, excepting insofar as such reflection may serve to safely guide a future course. Two things appear, the first is that the supervisors, having taken a wrong course, are big enough to reverse themselves and do the thing they had resolved not to do, because new light was shed upon their duty. Second, the dignity and authority of the court, the verities of government, has been upheld. Credit should not be withheld from the supervisors for this final action.—Mio Telegram-News.

IOSCO COUNTY MATINEE CLUB.

On Tuesday evening of this week a number of men from different parts of the county who are interested in horse racing, met at the court house and organized the Iosco County Matinee Club.

Officers of the club were elected as follows: President, C. T. Prescott; secretary, L. J. Patterson; treasurer, J. G. Dimmick.

The object of the club is to promote race meets in the county, and it is planned to hold three of these meets between now and fair time. The first will be held on the Fourth of July, and will consist of three races, a free-for-all trot or pace, a 2:30 trot or pace, and a farmers' race. The entries for the first two named are closed and 13 horses have been entered to participate. The farmers' race is still open for entries.

It is expected that a baseball game will also be played on this day between Tawas City team and some other league team.

A GOOD RECORD.

The following is a report of good attendance in the seventh grade room of the public school:

Dorothea Mark, Catherine Klisch, Julius Buchholz, Mabel McCaskey and Lorene Wilson have not missed a session or been tardy during the entire year. Walter Gaul and Mabel Brown have missed only one half-day. Hollen Wheeler and Eva Buckle are perfect in attendance the last semester. The class standings of most of these pupils excused them from the final examinations.

CURREY-ALLEN NUPTIALS.

East Branch farm was the scene of a very pretty home wedding on Wednesday, June 21st, when Lucy K. daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Currey, was united in marriage to Earl Allen.

The house was tastefully decorated in green and white. About 4:30 o'clock to the strains of a wedding march rendered by Mrs. Harry Latham, the bridal party, attended by Floy Currey, sister of the bride, and Austin Allen, brother of the groom, took their places under an arch of green and white.

The ceremony was read by Rev. Alex Anderson, pastor of the Baptist church.

The bride was attired in white silk net over white satin and carried a bouquet of white roses and maiden hair fern. The bridesmaid wore white lace cloth over pink silk and carried a bouquet of pink roses.

After the ceremony a wedding supper was served to about 100 guests.

The happy couple left on the evening train for a trip to Chicago, Milwaukee and Madison. Their many friends unite in wishing them a long and happy married life.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen will be at home on the Hemlock road after July 4.

HISTORY OF RENO.

By Mrs. Thos. Frockins.

Before entering into the history of Reno, I would like to say something of the first settlers before Reno was established.

About the year of '74 or '75 two men who were unknown to us located, building for themselves small shacks, one where Mr. Latter afterwards homesteaded and the other a sailor, where Mr. Seafert now resides. For some unknown cause they departed.

George Ballard was the first settler of Reno township, who remained, coming here as early as 1876. He took up his land and after a couple of years of trapping and hunting returned to New York state and brought back with him a wife.

In the year of '79 Grandpa Latter settled here with his family. His eldest son bought land where he still resides.

In those early days, William tells us, on going to get his horses in the morning, he has counted as many as seven or eight deer feeding in harmony with them. Messrs. Belknap, Horton and Castler also came in the year of '79. Mr. Crego came the same year and located, returning to New York state and brought his family back with him in 1880. Experiencing as did others the difficulties of transportation.

The rails on the Prescott division were only laid to the AuGres river, where their luggage had to be transferred to wagons.

Messrs. Ballard, Castler, Belknap, Crego and Horton composed what we called the Ballard settlement. At this time there were two settlements with Mr. Latter living between.

Mr. Hamilton was the first settler in the other settlement. Mr. Mitchell coming as early as 1878, while Messrs. Hamilton and Mitchell were a part of our neighborhood. They were not a part of our township after it became separated. Mr. Cooper and Mr. Dillabough were the first settlers in this part of Reno. Mr. Thompson coming in the year of '81, Mr. Anderson in '82, also Mr. William Vance.

Like all other promising places, others soon thronged our number, of which I will mention the names of a few, John Smith, Thomas and James Daugharty, David Vance, Robt. Nash, Edd. Williams, William Spurl, James Cheney, Geo. Charters and John McDougal. This if memory serves me right included the settlers up to the year of '85.

Of the first who settled here we have but five left, Mr. and Mrs. Latter, Mrs. Ballard, Mrs. Belknap and Mrs. Anderson.

Reno, or what was known as Grant in the early '80's, was a vast wilderness with only one or two established roads which were mostly paved with corduroy and a few wagon trails, better known as "hole" roads.

Lumbering camps were more numerous than farm houses. The deer, bear and other small game enjoyed their freedom everywhere. During the spring months it was no uncommon thing to see people with netting tied over their hats to keep the mosquitos away and carrying a bunch of brush in one hand, sometimes in both, if they were minus the netting.

After several months of agitation by Ethan Thompson, the question of separating the township of Grant was decided by the board of supervisors at their January session, 1885.

The first election in Reno, April 6, resulted in the following officers: Supervisor, Squire M. Dillabough; clerk, Howard Belknap; treasurer, George Ballard; highway commissioner, William Latter; board of review, Alex Anderson, Howard Belknap; constables, John Frasier, Howard Belknap. Number of ballots cast at this election were 19, the number now reaches into the 90's.

The first school house was built with home made seats and desks in the year 1881, known as the Horton school with Miss Jennie Wood as teacher.

The second school was organized by Alex Anderson in '83 and the old Gates office on the state road was remodeled to fulfill the requirements, the first (Continued on fourth page).

HALE 4; TAWAS 0—THAT'S IT.

When at the Pioneer meeting at Hale some of the Tawas City Board of Trade ball players who saw the Hale business men play, got conceited and issued a challenge to them to come to Tawas City. It was a mistake. The Haleites came down Tuesday, backed by a half a hundred rooters, and what they did to our boys was a plenty. Not that Tawas did not put up a good game of ball, but because Pearsall of the Turner league club played seven positions and our fellows could not get the ball where he wasn't. With Pearsall out it would have been anybody's game and a bushel of fun. Of course "Babydoll" Arthur on first and Gene Nunn in the field were stars not to be sneezed at, and R. D. Brown and John Johnson indicate that with proper training they may become good high school players. It is needless to say that Dr. Cowie was the star sprinter of the game, and Mike Daley and Al Syze are conceded to be outfielders of American league caliber. With Pearsall to back him up, Grant Shattuck pitched shut-out ball, and was handled in fine shape by Hugh Slosser. In fact we feel that had Pearsall given the boys a chance to play, the whole team would have shown up fine.

For the home boys there were no stars. They just did the best they could. Willard Robinson pitched good ball and Carl Fahselt caught, except the last inning, when he retired with a split finger, and Archie Colby relieved him. Ab. Mallon at first got everything that came his way, while Ed. Pierson played his usual graceful game at second. Bert Taylor played third and showed wonderful speed. The outfield was made up of Luther Johnson, Fred Force, Gene Bing and Neil Brabant, each one of which tried hard to get all the balls that came their way. We guess it was George Brabant who was at short.

It was sure some game, and we wanted to give the box score, but the score sheet was stolen by either Dan Pearsall or Frank Bernard. The matter has been placed in the hands of detectives and if it is recovered in time we will use it next week. Anyway, the final score was 4 to 0 in favor of Hale. Our boys will never be satisfied until they get another whack at these cheery chaps and when we do it will be another story, or we will take another licking. The end is not yet.

NIXON-COLVIN.

On the evening of June 15, at the Wesleyan Methodist church at the county line a brilliant wedding was celebrated, when Marguerite, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Nixon of Richland township was united in marriage with Albert W. Colvin, son of Mr. and Mrs. U. G. Colvin of Burleigh township.

The bride is a very young lady and a talented pianist. She has many friends both young and old, who wish her much happiness and prosperity. The groom is an industrious and prosperous young man.

The church was beautifully decorated with potted plants and ferns. The guests were gathered at the church at 8 p. m. when the wedding party marched down the aisle to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, played by Messrs. Wardie and Earl Irish, violinists, and Miss Violet Roberts, pianist. Rev. D. Martin, pastor of the Baptist church of Prescott was the officiating minister. He performed the ceremony in an impressive manner, impressing each one with the solemnity of the occasion.

The bride was beautifully gowned in white crepe de chine trimmed with silver and white net lace and carried a magnificent bouquet of white roses. She was accompanied by her friend, Miss Aletha Stoner, of Prescott, as maid of honor, who was dressed in pink crepe de chine and carried pink and white carnations. Arthur Colvin, brother of the groom, assisted as best man. The gentlemen were dressed in conventional black.

After the congratulations were over the guests repaired to the home of the bride where a sumptuous supper was served to nearly 150. The dining room was beautifully decorated in pink and white.

Exquisite entertainment was furnished during the supper hour by Mr. Chas. E. Wells, cornetist, accompanied by Mrs. Wells. Several solos were nicely rendered by Mrs. D. A. Stoutenberg and Mrs. Henry Dietzel, the latter singing in German. Many useful and costly gifts were received by the bride.

Guests from out of town were Mrs. M. A. Fuller of Syracuse, New York; Mrs. John Irish of Bay City and Mr. Arthur Nixon of Jonia.

After supper Mr. and Mrs. Colvin left for a short wedding trip to Detroit, Flint, Toledo, Buffalo and the Falls. They will be at home to their friends after July 1, at their home at Whittemore.

COMMENCEMENT.

Last Wednesday evening the commencement exercises of the high school took place at the opera house.

The class which graduated this year is one of the largest in many years. It consists of thirteen members, viz.: Marian King, Lawrence Gardner, Will Anderson, Sadie Vaughan, Edna Kenze, Roy McMurray, Doris Boomer, Helen Hale, Earl McElhonor, Mary Richards, Hortense LaBerge, Mina Frasier and Grace Carpenter. The stage was artistically decorated in the class colors, green and white. The walls and ceiling were one mass of evergreen with sprays of white bridal wreath interspersed. The class motto, "Go," shown brightly in the background. Ferns and pink roses added greatly to the decoration. The members of the class carried pink roses, the class flower.

Miss Mary Gardner played the opening march as the seniors, teachers and school board took their places. The opening prayer was given by Rev. William Roberts. Miss Edna Kunze gave the salutatory and in a pleasant and befitting manner welcomed all.

A vocal solo was then rendered by Miss Genevieve Taylor with violin accompaniment by Miss Ruth Deacon of Bay City. Miss Doris Boomer next presented the high school with the class memorial, the famous painting the "Hay Wain," by Constable.

The valedictory was then given by Miss Marian King. This was delivered in an earnest and pleasing manner. She first dwelt on the great value of school life and of the different branches of study. On the subjects of grammar, English, rhetorics, etc. She said literature is the highest product of civilization. Language expresses personality and lifts the thinking of those around us. Mathematics and the problems we see so little use in at present lead us to the higher studies in mental discipline. She also spoke of the new and useful studies of sewing, cooking and mechanical drawing, which have been added to the school curriculum. She then thanked the school board and the teachers for their interest and help and their guidance thro' the storms of school life to the harbor of graduation. She finished with words of counsel and advice to her classmates.

Miss Ruth Deacon then gave a violin solo which was greatly appreciated and well applauded.

Rev. G. E. Sloan then introduced the speaker of the evening, Dr. Dunckle, of the Warren Avenue Presbyterian church, Saginaw.

He spoke of his graduation and what it meant to him. His address was on the achievement of life. He spoke of the beginning of things when God said "Have Dominion." He said that man should go forth and possess what God intended for him. He spoke of the things in modern life that need solution and that people are being better prepared to solve the great problems of social, financial and political life. He spoke of the great verbs of life—To Have, To Do and To Be. Speaking of the first great verb he said we should grasp the opportunity and be equal to the situation, not thinking of the having of immaterial wealth, but culture and the higher things.

On the verb "To Do" he said the world doesn't want ideas, resolutions, graduates, but doers. Speaking of "To Be," Dr. Dunckle said the world asks "What have you done?" God asks "What are you?" We should be living vital forces in the world today and we cannot move the world unless we are something ourselves. He said the necessary things needed for us to be what we should be are light, knowledge and exercise, desiring to know the bigger things, not satisfied to do the ordinary things.

Dr. Dunckle said that out of every 1,000 persons only 18 are university graduates and only 137 of every 1,000 are graduates of high schools. He ended by earnestly telling the graduates to be leaders in the world, to lift the world to a higher level and to lift their fellow men up until they can see.

Mrs. R. H. Budworth then rendered a vocal solo, "The Merry Brown Thrush," by Abt. President of the school board, Mr. John McCray, then presented the diplomas amid the loud applause of the audience.

In another column we publish an excerpt from the Mio Telegram-News expressing an opinion on the action of the Iosco county board of supervisors in regard to the bill for law books over which there was so much trouble some time ago. We agree with the Telegram-News that the supervisors are entitled to credit for their latest action in this matter.

GOVERNMENT MAKES PAPER FROM NEW WOODS.

Washington, June 15.—That satisfactory wood pulp can be made from a number of heretofore little known woods is evidenced by a government publication just issued, which contains seventy samples of paper manufactured by different processes, chiefly from woods heretofore practically unused for this purpose.

It is pointed out that the spruce forests of the country are threatened with exhaustion and that the cost of spruce pulpwood has steadily increased. If the price of newsprint paper is to be kept at a reasonable figure, say the experts, more efficient methods of converting spruce into pulp must be developed or cheaper woods substituted for it.

The bulletin goes on to say that the method of manufacturing groundwood pulp has changed very little since its introduction into this country in 1867. It was with the idea of developing new methods and improving the old that tests were undertaken at the Forest Service laboratories at Wausau and Madison, Wisconsin. As a result, the relation of the different steps in the manufacturing process to each other has been definitely established and the merits of each treatment determined. The paper made from new woods was given a practical tryout by two large newspapers with satisfactory results.

The tests showed that eleven new woods give promise of being suitable for the production of news print paper, while a number of others will produce manila paper and boxboards. Most of these woods are confined to the west, while the groundwood industry now obtains the bulk of its raw material from the east. It is thought that pulp-making plants must eventually move to points where they can obtain a plentiful supply of wood and an abundance of cheap water-power, two prime requisites in the business. The experts say that because the National Forests contain immense quantities of the suitable woods and abundant opportunities for power development, they will undoubtedly play an important part in the future of the wood pulp industry.

PLANT BEANS.

There are many reasons why every farmer in Michigan should include beans in his program of plantings this year, and one reason that stands out far and above all others. Every bushel that is raised will bring more than $3 in cash. Even though a total of 10,000,000 bushels were produced in the state during the summer the market would absorb them at that price. It will be absolutely impossible for a grower to lose under such conditions. Behind this situation there is a reason.

Until two years ago the United States was importing between 1,000,000 and 3,000,000 bushels of beans annually from Europe. Now the process has been reversed. During 1915, 3,000,000 bushels were exported. Millions upon millions of cans went to England, France, Greece and other countries and until the present war is over this exportation will increase. This means a demand, a real demand, and, coupled with the known facts that the annual consumption in the United States alone is 10,000,000 bushels, it means that the market never before offered such wonderful advantages to the growers.

The Michigan little pea bean is the pride of the nation. It is the best and it is the easiest of cultivation. It means quick results. The crop is planted up to the fifteenth of June and is harvested by October 1. Any rich, well-drained soil will grow good beans and good beans may be grown on sand loam, clay or mixed clay soil. Thorough preparation is essential, with plenty of dragging and rolling, and uniform seed should be used. Then with fair cultivating care the rest is simple and the profit at the finish will be large.

Last year Michigan produced about 3,500,000 bushels of beans. This year the acreage has been increased so that 10,000,000 bushels will be produced. This means at least $30,000,000 if not more. No single crop could show greater results and farmers realize it. The progressive man in the country knows that, even though he has no munition factory, he may profit by the war. All that he has to do is to put in a crop of beans. The profit is automatic.

Shade for Light.

For the electric light in the boudoir or bedroom there is a useful novelty in the way of a shade. This is an exquisite little lady dressed in rose silks and gold lace, after the style of the ladies of the court of Louis Quinze. The skirt forms the shade and the light shining through the satin and lace takes on a lovely soft glow.

Good Habit.

You will get accustomed to living your life right through with a want in it. We all have to do that. You will get accustomed to wanting, and this habit will come to be a part of your life. You will be all the better for it.—H. S. Merriman.

Well Children are Active.

If your child is dull, pale, fretful and wants to lie around, the chances are it is suffering from worms. WAR ESTABLISHES NEW INDUSTRY IN TEXAS

The influence of the European war has a number of freak ramifications, but probably none so odd as the stimulation of the rabbit fur industry in Texas coupled with elimination of the jack-rabbit pest in that section of the south.

For many weeks large shipments of rabbits have been going out of Ballinger, Texas, to the eminent satisfaction of the farmers who are relieved to get rid of these destroyers of carcasses on the ground, since the pelts then were of little value. The scalps, of course, were saved to obtain the bounty. This year wagons follow the hunters and pick up the carcasses, which are hauled to some central point and there prepared for the market. The farmers of the neighborhood supply the ammunition for the drives. The money derived from the sale and bounty pays for the ammunition and in many instances for prizes offered for the highest bags. In addition, a number of the idle men have been pressed into service and have earned considerable sums for their kills. Well-to-do citizens are repaid for their time by the sport they obtain while unemployed men are paid wages for their labors.

A Menace to Crops.

Jackrabbits have been a pest in certain parts of Texas for a number of years. Drives were organized from time to time and quantities were killed for the protection of the crops, but no special interest was manifested over and above the hope of gradually eliminating these destroyers of growing things. The demand, however, for furs on the part of hat manufacturers throughout the United States, due to the closing of European sources of supply, gave an added stimulus to rabbit drives and actually established a new industry in Texas. Whether American rabbit fur will continue to be used after the war is over is problematical, since the American variety is inferior in several ways to the pelts derived from abroad. Nevertheless, the Texans are not worrying about what will happen in the future regarding the demand for jackrabbit furs. They are cashing in on the present demand for carcasses at from 8 to 12 cents apiece, not including a state bounty of 5 cents, and they are going about it in a systematic way. These citizens of the Lone Star state figure that they are killing two birds with one stone, or, to be more specific, they are killing jackrabbits for two reasons—because they are pests and as sources of sport and income.

Save Valuable Pelts.

The first church built was the Baptist in 1890. Everybody contributing generously for its construction. The Methodist church was erected in 1896. At the present there are several denominations holding services in the place. The township hall was built in 1904.

The Loon lake branch of the Bay City and Alpena railroad better known as the Rose City branch, was put through in 1885, which aided very much in our way of transportation as previous to this we traveled by the way of ox teams and wagons. Horses were very scarce and automobiles were unknown to us.

Silcom post office was established Feb. 15, 1889, with E. A. Hitchcock as postmaster in his home. The office has been transferred several times and is now located at Taft in Mr. Sibley's store. We also have Rural Free Delivery from Whittemore. The route was established in 1908.

Our first store was at Cooper's Crossing, operated by James Cooper in 1890; we now have two general purpose stores at Taft.

We have two societies, the Grangers and Gleaners, both striving for the advancement of the farmer and the upliftment of his calling.

The first wedding among the settlers was that of Frank Horton and Miss Ada VanBuren, May 10, 1884. Rev. Sanderson officiating. The first one after Reno was organized was Thomas Daugharty and Miss Sophia Thompson, March 30, 1885, Rev. Horton of Tawas officiating.

William H. Flynn

Candidate for the nomination on the Republican ticket for

Circuit Judge

To fill vacancy.

A native of Huron County, Michigan, later a resident of Alpena County, from where he went to the City of Detroit and, after graduation from the Detroit College of Law in 1896, practiced law there until 1912, since which time he has been a practicing attorney in Iosco County and regained his health, the failure of which was the cause of his removal from the city. A man possessing all the qualifications for an ideal judge. Vote for him.

"Having known Mr. Flynn while in practice in Detroit, I am glad to say that he was favorably regarded by the Circuit Court for Wayne County as an honest and capable lawyer whom the public might employ in litigation or go to for advice with safety and assurance of fair treatment."

George S. Hosmer, Wayne Circuit Judge.

Two of Detroit's leading lawyers say:

"I recall with a good deal of pleasure our days as students together in the office of my father, General Henry M. Duffield and in the office of Mr. Thomas S. Jerome, and I can bear testimony to the fact that you have very excellent preparation, excellent experience and that your sixteen or more years of practice makes you especially well fitted for the office of Circuit Judge."

Dwight B. Duffield, Ex-Library Commissioner.

"I have known Mr. Flynn for the past twenty years and especially while he was a member of this bar for a period of sixteen years and I know him to be a careful, capable lawyer of excellent legal ability and a man of unquestionable integrity. I also know that he has in the past been entrusted with important legal matters in which he has been successful."

Demand These Features in Your SILO!

Five Big, Dominant features put the Saginaw Silo at the head of the list. Each one strengthens and fortifies the Saginaw against destruction. A silo without any one of these features does not measure up to the standard of construction you should demand in your silo.

The Saginaw Inner Anchor uniformly distributes the anchoring pull on all the staves. This device, with the Angle Steel Rib, prevents the staves from coming in.

The Saginaw All-Steel Door Frame is the backbone of the Saginaw Silo, a heavy structural steel frame that completely does away with bulging or buckling of the silo walls.

The Saginaw Angle-Steel Rib including the silo, overcomes vibration of staves when silo is empty and prevents any possibility of cave in. The strongest winds cannot push in the wall of the Saginaw Silo.

The Saginaw Spine-Dowel unites all the staves into a rigid, immovable wall. It makes an airtight joint between the stave sections, and each Dowel interlocks each stave with the others in four places. The Saginaw Base Anchor holds the Saginaw to its cement foundation with the powerful grip of the giant oak.

To Build Permanent Redwood Wood will not shrink, swell or decay. It resists fire. Government reports show that Redwood has resisted rot and decay for centuries. Redwood staves with the staunch, steel-built features of the Saginaw Silo give it permanence and the perfect Silage qualities of wood—sweet, clean, succulent silage.

Erect A Saginaw Silo Saginaw Silos are built of Redwood, Shilled Yellow Pine and Yellow Pine, the best woods for silo building. Whatever wood you choose, you get the Saginaw steel-built construction that fortifies the Saginaw against wind and storm.

Behind every Saginaw Silo you have the reputation of the largest and most successful makers of silos. Saginaw Silos represent full value. Whatever you pay, you can't get as much value for the dollar in any silo. Send for Silo Book No. See agent in your locality. He will help you choose the Silo best for your needs.

A FAMILY FEUD

By LOUISE OLIVER.

Polly Brown and her father lived on one side of the paling fence that ran from the street to the back lot and Tom Watterson and his mother lived on the other.

Polly Brown grew up to hate Tom Watterson and Tom had been taught to dislike the Brown girl. Things had been much worse since the incident of the egg. It really was an accident, for Polly never meant to hit Tom in the back with it. She knew it was passe the minute she discovered the hidden nest in the chicken coop, and, picking it up gingerly between her thumb and forefinger, she had aimed over the fence into the back lot. But the egg slipped, and just then Tom straightened up from his wedding. Polly closed her eyes for an instant as she heard it hit. Then she lifted her chin two inches and walked majestically into the kitchen.

After that Tom called her "that little Brown cat," and deliberately let the grass go three weeks without cutting so the dandelions would seed again and blow over.

Polly had a voice, and it was the summit of her ambition to go away to study.

"There is no one in Stolway to teach me," she complained. "If I only had training I could open a studio of my own and give vocal lessons here. Can't I go, father?"

"Well—you can write to Aunt Peg, and if she can come and keep house for me for a year you can go to New York. I guess I have enough saved for that. The only thing I hate about the whole business is that your Aunt Peg is such a blamed bad cook! Anyway, you'd better ask her to come."

Aunt Peg came and Polly went, with enough money to keep her ten years in Stolway, but by compression and stinting it might stretch for six months in New York.

Tom had been studying law—odd hours out of the store and at nights—for a period of three years. About the time Polly went away, he passed his examinations at the bar.

Three months after Aunt Peggy had been cooking bad meals for Mr. Brown, a third third cousin of the Wattersons in New York told Tom that he had a splendid opening for him there. So Tom bade his mother good-by and went to the city of skyscrapers.

One night Polly, feeling particularly blue and lonely in her ugly little room, desired to take a walk down Broadway, contrary to the good advice of her one or two friends in town. But the windows fascinated her and made her forget that she was poor and lonely.

Tom, rather new to town, decided the same evening to walk up Broadway.

They met at Herald square, looked fairly into each other's faces and then quickly away. In all the immense desert of New York they avoided this little oasis of friendship. But Tom remembered the egg and the cat and the roof, and Polly the seeds and the dog and the chickens. He wandered up to Forty-second street, she down to Twenty-third.

Polly turned. So did Tom. Polly stopped to look into a window.

Someone said, "Hello, girlie, nice night!" in a strange masculine voice and linked his arm familiarly through hers.

Polly shrank back frightened. Then she suddenly saw Tom rushing at her tormentor like a thunderbolt and swing his right fist under the man's nether jaw.

"Come with me, Polly!" cried he as the man staggered back. "I'll take you home if you don't hate me too everlastingly much to let me walk beside you."

"Oh, Tom! I never meant to do it. It slipped, truly. The egg, I mean."

"You proud little thing! And you let me think you meant it! Then I'm sorry about everything I've ever done. I've been a nasty brute and am heartily ashamed of myself. But I hope I'm a man now. The world makes one look at things differently, doesn't it? We all need to get out and be shaken up a little."

"Indeed, yes!" agreed Polly, and, later, when they had reached her steps and Tom leaving, she asked: "Won't you come to see me, Tom? I'm afraid we can't talk over the good old times at home, but we can babble at least about future prospects. We have that in common, although mine are not as rosy as I had expected."

Tom promised eagerly. "Polly Brown's the prettiest girl I've seen in New York," was his comment to himself going home. "I shall certainly try to make up for lost time while she is here. What a fool I've been all these years!" Then, whimsically, "I wonder what mother would say?" But he need not have worried, for Polly got this letter the next morning from her father:

"Dear Daughter: Aunt Peg got sick and went home last week. Widow Watterson took pity on a lonely old man and sent in the finest things to eat you ever tasted. Of course I had to take the dishes back, and fixed a broken water pipe for her. She's a fine woman, Polly. It's terrible how I've misjudged her all this time. Hope you are well.

"Your loving Father."

"P. S.—Widow Watterson promised tonight to become Mrs. Brown. Wish me joy, Polly!"

BUSINESS OPPORTUNITY

Requires $1,500 capital and a small place to work near where you can get sand, preferably from a gravel pit; and a small building for a warehouse not over 20x70 feet. This business is to manufacture concrete roofing products under patent and entirely new developments. This roofing tile will sell immediately upon presentation, as it is no heavier than slate and costs little more than shingles.

With this outfit you can make from $25 to $40 per day and more in proportion as you increase the number of your machines. We will co-operate with you in finding a market for your manufactured product, although this will be unnecessary, as you will have difficulty in keeping up with the demand. This roofing is suitable for all kinds of buildings. It has life-wearing qualities, is moisture-proof, can be made in any color, is exceptionally economical, is absolutely fireproof, and can be laid equally well on old and new roofs. I have the rights for Michigan for these machines and will protect the purchaser for 14 years within the limits of the territory granted, which cannot exceed one county to an agent. If interested write at once for details, specifying the territory preferred.

WORK IS EASY FOR ME NOW

Saginaw Man Has Found New Health in Great Remedy, Tanlac.

Robert Shirley, a foundryman, who lives at 537 Howard street, Saginaw, states:

"Stomach trouble caused my whole system to become run down. I lost weight and energy. I suffered from indigestion a great deal. I did not sleep well and would often wake up with a sort of dull headache, which would last all day. Everything I ate would ferment on my stomach. Some days I would just feel 'all in.'"

"A friend advised me to try Tanlac, the new medicine, and I got a bottle. Since using the medicine I feel much better in every way. I can now eat what I want without being distressed and can sleep like a top. I have a good appetite and more real energy than I have known in years. I can endorse Tanlac highly."

Tanlac may be obtained here at the store of J. E. Dillon.

Tanlac may also be obtained from Henry Zeran, at Prescott.—Adv.
