MILLER-SWARTZ.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Miller in Tawas township was the scene of a very pretty wedding on Tuesday, October 10, when their daughter, Dorothy Louise, was united in marriage to Frederick D. Swartz of this city.

At 4:30 p. m., to the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march played by Mrs. Frank Dease, the bridal party took their place under a pretty arched canopy in the living room, where the ceremony was performed by Rev. C. C. Henning of the Emmanuel Lutheran church, the impressive ring service being used. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Irma Miller, and Miss Lydia Bertsch as bridesmaids, John Swartz of Alpena, brother of the groom, and Charles Miller, brother of the bride, acted as groomsmen.

The bride was daintily attired in white crepe de chine, with bead trimmings, and carried a bouquet of white roses. Miss Irma Miller wore a becoming dress of pink crepe, and Miss Bertsch one of blue crepe de chine. Little Florine Miller, sister of the bride, acted as ring bearer, carrying the ring in a rose. The home was prettily decorated in the bride's colors, pink and green.

After the ceremony the assembled company repaired to the dining room where a sumptuous wedding dinner was served to about 120 relatives and invited guests, after which the evening was spent in music, singing and dancing.

The young couple were the recipients of many beautiful and valuable presents, among which were china, cut glass, silverware, linen and furniture, and which testified to the high esteem in which they are held by their many friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Swartz will make their home for the present with Mrs. Swartz's parents. The groom has been for a number of years employed as cashier in the Tawas City bank of Ealy, McKay & Co. They have the best wishes of a large circle of friends for a long and prosperous married life.

THE WHITTEMORE FAIR.

Wednesday and Thursday of last week were gala days in Whittemore, the occasion being the third annual fair of the Western Iosco county Agricultural society. The weather was ideal and the people of the surrounding country turned out en masse for the occasion.

The exhibits this year were fully up to the standard of last year notwithstanding the backward season. The exhibit of stock, while not large, was of good quality.

Plenty of entertainment was afforded by the various sports, games, etc. The tug of war between Burleigh and Reno townships was won by the latter. The ball game between Whittemore and Henlock road on the first day was won by the latter, while the game between Tawas City and Turner on the last day went to Turner.

The balloon ascension on the second day of the fair was one of the best ever seen in this locality. The balloon rose to an immense height and traveled about 4 1/2 miles, the aeronaut descending and landing in the top of a tree, bruising him up somewhat but not seriously.

Taken as a whole the fair was a very successful one and those who attended report themselves as having enjoyed an excellent time.

COMMUNICATION.

Editor Tawas Herald:

For several weeks past the undersigned has been the recipient of congratulations for the communication published in the Herald, "A Voice from Tawas Township."

Not desiring to reap honors or adorn myself with somebody else's feathers, I take this step to correct the error and inform the public that I am not the citizen who wrote it.

Judging from the endorsement the communication has received from so many regardless of party affiliation, it is no surprise that the Miss Editor of the Gazette has to devote over a column to whitewash her position and try to belittle the writer of the communication and all other good citizens who do not vote to suit the Miss Editor of the Gazette.

Yours very truly,
GEO. C. ANSCHUETZ.

Dated at Tawas township this 9th day of October 1916.

If you wish a winter hat, a beautiful feather or ornament for your old one, call and inspect my fresh new line. Small orders also appreciated. Telephone No. 50-J. Mrs. A. W. Colby. adv

FEDERAL AID FOR IOSCO COUNTY ROADS.

The good roads proposition mentioned in the Herald last week as having been submitted to the county road commissioners by Leslie H. Belknap, representing Frank F. Rogers, state highway commissioner, is a proposition to secure state and Federal aid to build the road between the Tawas and AuSable and Oscoda by way of Wilber township. This piece of road is probably the worst piece of road in Iosco county. The total length of road to be improved is about 16 miles, and it is hoped to build one-half of it next year, including a new bridge across the AuSable river between AuSable and Oscoda.

This proposition was submitted to the board of supervisors at their session on Tuesday of this week, and was fully explained to them. To secure this Federal and state aid it will be necessary for the county to raise the full three mill tax which the law allows, and which will produce about $15,000. With this the state and U. S. government will put $45,000, making a total of $60,000 to be spent on this road.

By taking advantage of this opportunity the county will have, by spending the county funds on this road for two years, as many miles of state road built in two seasons as has been constructed by the county in the past ten years. This road, while directly benefiting the Tawas, Oscoda and AuSable, Wilber, Baldwin and AuSable townships, will indirectly benefit the whole county by completing a costly good road without much expense to the county, which would otherwise had to be built entirely out of county funds, and will thereby hasten the road building in other parts of the county.

The board of supervisors took favorable action on the proposition and while they had not voted on the three mill tax at the time the Herald goes to press, there is little doubt but that they will do so favorably, and thereby make it certain that this road will be built.

This piece of road is a part of the East Michigan Pike and the Dixie Highway. Other propositions affecting this route which are being considered this week are the whole stretch across Alcona county by way of Mikado and Lincoln to Spruce, and the road between Millersburg and Onaway.

The work will be let by contract and will be directly in charge of the State Highway Department, which department must see that the work is properly done in order to pass the inspection of the U. S. government engineers.

EIGHTY-TWO PRIZES WON BY PRESCOTT STOCK.

Much interest has been displayed the past week in the display of premium ribbons shown in the window of F. F. Taylor & Co.'s store. They are 82 in number and are ribbons won by the blooded stock from the Prescott ranch at three fairs, the State fair, the Northeastern Michigan fair and the Saginaw county fair. These ribbons are of much interest here as a large number of them were won by the stock which was exhibited at the Iosco county fair.

Following is the list of premiums won by this stock at the different fairs mentioned above:

Shorthorns—State fair, 6 firsts, 6 seconds, 1 third, 5 fourths, one fifth, and Junior Champion and Reserve Grand Champion bull, also two silver cups. Northeastern Michigan fair, 4 firsts, 5 seconds, 5 thirds and Champion bull. This was won by the Reserve Grand Champion at Detroit. This bull was 20 months old and weighed 1800 pounds when put on the car for Detroit Sept. 1. Saginaw Fair, 7 firsts, 5 seconds.

Angus Cattle—State fair, 1 first, 2 seconds, 7 thirds, 2 fourths, also one Reserve Junior Champion. Northeastern Michigan fair, 1 first, 8 seconds, 1 third. Saginaw Fair, 11 firsts.

In Detroit there were five herds of Shorthorns, showing a total of about 55 head. In the Angus there were three herds, showing about 25 head. With the exception of three herd bulls the balance of the show cattle were mostly all bred and raised by C. H. Prescott & Sons. The Junior Champion Bull is from the greatest Shorthorn sire in America, the great Prince of Albion, owned by Frank Edwards of Tiffin, Ohio, who has won the Grand Championship wherever shown for the past three years.

AN IMPORTANT CASE.

Judge Widdis and Circuit Court Stenographer Harting were at Harrisville last week holding court for the purpose of hearing some important cases. Among them was that of an injunction case against the Alpean Power Co. This company has impounded the water in Hubbard lake for the past ten years, causing the banks of the lake to overflow and flood some of the farm lands surrounding it.

Hubbard lake is about 12 miles long and 3 miles wide, and has a shore line of about 45 miles. There are many farmers living near the lake and the power company has been sued several times in previous years on account of the flooding of farms and judgment has been rendered against the company.

In this case a man named Holcomb, who lives near the lake, filed a bill in chancery asking that the power company be enjoined from raising the water to such a height as would interfere with the farmers. After hearing all the evidence in the case Judge Widdis ordered that an injunction be issued as prayed by the petitioner. It was, however, agreed between the attorneys in the case that the injunction should not become effective until the ruling had been decided by the supreme court.

IOSCO COUNTY BOOKLET ISSUED.

Northeastern Michigan Development Bureau's Publication, North Eastern Michigan Devoted to Iosco's Advantages.

A very interesting and attractive booklet, devoted to Iosco county, has been issued by the Northeastern Michigan Development Bureau, in the form of a "special edition" of the bureau's monthly "Michigan" magazine. "North Eastern Michigan" is a twenty-four page booklet, six by nine inches in size and printed on a fine quality of plate paper which adds materially to the attractiveness of the half-tones used as illustrations for the text.

Twenty-two of the twenty-four pages are devoted to the advantages and possibilities of Iosco county, and every page is illumined with one or more photographs of scenes taken within the county. Forty-seven pictures have been used each of which tells a story or helps to brighten up the editorial matter.

The leading article concerning Iosco was written by A. C. Carton, Commissioner of Immigration for the State of Michigan, and is published under the caption "Iosco County—Her Resources and Possibilities."

In this article our fellow citizen "Gus" Carton has dealt broadly with the subject "Michigan" and more minutely with Iosco County in such a manner that the subject appears very interesting. He gives some very valuable information for farming activities as well as for the man interested in commercial lines or manufacturing. In fact he has put the song of Iosco into a new tune, one which should be good music to the ears of prospective settlers for this county.

John M. Waterbury deals with the subject "Iosco County—1880-1916" in a very brief, yet very concise way. Mr. Waterbury has been a close observer of the developments of this county for over thirty years and he is highly qualified to express, as he has, his pertinent remarks in regard to Iosco's history during the past third of a century.

Leslie H. Belknap, of the Michigan State Highway department has given some very valuable information concerning good roads in this county under the head "Good Roads in Iosco County." Mr. Belknap says, in part: "Iosco county is an agricultural and a summer resort county. There are many fine lakes and good trout streams. Lake Huron makes a shore line on the east side of the county, and the AuSable River flows eastward through the north tier of townships. So because of all these natural advantages—good lands, lakes and streams—the new settler and the tourist as well, are interested. There is a reason for good roads."

Practically two pages are devoted to "Iosco County Schools" by J. A. Campbell, commissioner of schools and these pages are illustrated with views of the East Tawas, Tawas City, Hale, and a standard rural school, a view of the G. A. Prescott residence, and three views of typical churches in the county. Commissioner Campbell has set forth the real facts concerning our county's school system and appeals to the man who is looking forward to a new location to first investigate the school system offered for his children. He maintains that Iosco county will offer every advantage necessary, a factor always to be considered.

Under the title "Hydro-Electric Power Generated on the AuSable" one is given a very clear idea of the immense proportions to which the commercial advantages of the AuSable river have grown. The article is highly instructive and written in such a way as to appeal to any reader. A group of three views of the dams in this county and a view of one of the steel transmitting towers illustrates the page.

The writer gives the extreme value of the current generated when he says, "If the whole current were available for use, from these three dams, and were it possible to transmit the current such a distance, there is sufficient electricity generated to light arc lights, one every three hundred feet, from New York to San Francisco over the route of the Lincoln Highway. Or the power generated in Iosco county would operate 600 street cars of forty horse power each 24 hours a day, and if these cars accommodated 60 persons an hour, each hour in the day, 864,000 people might have an hour's ride on Iosco county product's energy."

"Iosco County's Railroad and Shipping Facilities" is fully treated by C. A. Pinkerton. A page is devoted to specific statements regarding crop productions in Iosco county. This page will undoubtedly interest every man to whom the story of Iosco appeals. It is brimful of facts concerning agricultural production and the facts make us think

What Michigan Farmers Think About The Saloon Men's Fake "Home Rule" Amendment

The following resolution was adopted unanimously by the Executive Committee of the Michigan State Grange at a meeting held at Lansing, Sept. 6, 1916:

Whereas, the president of an organization favoring the adoption of the so-called "Home Rule" amendment, intended to destroy the present County Local Option system by providing a smaller unit for its application, has advertised himself as a "member of the State Grange" with the evident intention of carrying the inference that he represents the sentiment of the Michigan State Grange.

And whereas, the State Grange in all its annual sessions in recent years has by unanimous vote enthusiastically endorsed the County Local Option system and opposed the reduction of the unit to the township, village and city.

Therefore Resolved, by the Executive Committee of the State Grange, acting for and with the full authority of that body between its annual sessions, that the action of the said person is entirely out of harmony with the sentiment and intent of the State Grange and that until state-wide prohibition of the liquor traffic becomes an actual fact, we are unalterably opposed to any decrease in the unit of territory for local option below the county and call upon every member in our order and every lover of sobriety, good government and clean manhood to work earnestly and persistently from now until the polls close on the evening of November 7 against this misleading and pernicious measure and we urge every voter to vote "NO" on this so-called "Home Rule" amendment, which is but another attempt to destroy what we have already gained in the fight against the saloon.

that Iosco "isn't so bad after all for the farmer."

The cities and towns of the county come in for their share of publicity, Tawas City, East Tawas, Oscoda, Hale, Alabaster and Whittemore each having brief descriptions while mention is made of Taft, Melvor, Serradella, El-lake, Emery Junction and Wilber.

"Gypsum—An Iosco County Product for the World" is an instructive article dealing with gypsum and the products made therefrom. This story is illustrated with a view of quarrying operations and the manufacturing plant at Alabaster.

J. P. Harsch, William Letter, J. D. McCrum, and W. W. Brown contributed letters in which they told their "story" of how they came to select Iosco county, and of the success they have had in their farming operations. These are first hand expressions from some of the county's most successful men each of which is a good "booster" for the county and aids in its advancement along agricultural lines.

The summer-resort business is given considerable prominence under the title "Iosco County's Playgrounds." Assistant Secretary W. H. Hill of the Development Bureau says: "This is undoubtedly the strongest special issue of our magazine we have ever issued, and we hope that beside being of particular advantage to Iosco county it will also be a credit to the whole district. Much effort was spent to make this a "cracking good" magazine and I believe the cooperators will find that Iosco county will be well repaid for the effort and assistance they gave. We are deeply indebted to many Iosco county citizens for their faithful and hearty co-operation and wish to thank them."

THAT BANK FAILURE.

Since the announcement of Mr. F. F. French of East Tawas that he would enter the race for prosecuting attorney and make the race at the coming election on slips, there have been some people throughout the county who have recalled the matter of the failure of the Tawas State Savings Bank, and used this failure to discredit Mr. French with the voters.

We believe the average voter desires to be fair and give every man a fair chance, and before believing the stories regarding Mr. French they should investigate the matter and find out the facts in the case.

As a matter of fact, Mr. French was not held responsible by the officials of the bank, nor by the state banking commissioner for the failure of the Tawas State Savings Bank, and surely if he was exonerated by those who were most directly interested he should not be held responsible by the people at large. Following is a letter from the State Banking Commissioner written shortly after the investigation of the failure of the bank:

Detroit, Mich., December 13, 1903.

I can fully endorse Mr. F. F. French, late with the Tawas State Savings Bank, as a gentleman of integrity, honest and upright and excellent character.

In regard to the closing of the above bank I am satisfied that no blame should be attached to him.

He sacrificed his own property to pay the depositors nearly in full.

George A. Maitz,
State Banking Commissioner.

In view of these words of commendation from the man who was in the best position to judge fully as to Mr. French's connection with the matter, we believe that no attention should be paid to the false stories being circulated.

Mr. French is a man of clean moral character and is fully qualified for the position of prosecuting attorney. He should receive an overwhelming majority at the coming election November 7.

THE ESTATE HOT STORM

The Stove With "A Little Furnace" in it

The "Little Furnace" is built inside the stove just below the top. It blocks the heat from going up the chimney and throws it against the stove's radiating surface which gives it a tremendous heating capacity, thereby reducing fuel cost.

The man who buys an Estate Hot Storm gets both a stove and furnace combined. They produce a volume of heat from the same fuel consumption that is positively unequalled by any other heater.

HEART BALM FOR MEN?

Some time ago, in a famous case, a jury awarded a young woman $20,000 heart balm because the young man to whom she had been engaged decided that marriage would interfere with his career, and broke the engagement.

Now the judge sets the verdict aside on the ground that it is absurdly out of proportion to what the young man can pay. Which raises the question:

If women are to be the equals of men in business and at the polls shall there be any breach of promise verdicts at all? Or if this survival from the age of matrimonial barter and dowry is to continue shall not the liability be equal on both sexes?

Ever hear of a man suing a woman for breach of promise? There have been a few of such law suits, a very few; but they have mostly been treated as jokes. Do you recall that a man plaintiff ever got a verdict with substantial damages?

Yet, if money is a measure of love hopes blighted, surely the man who loses the one woman he desired to make his life complete is not less in need of recompense than the daughter of Eve who discovers that she is a discard before the law has given her the title of wife. In this day of shifting standards, no one need be surprised at a movement for the benefit of men who "get the mitten."

WASTE TANBARK NOW USED TO MAKE ROOFING.

Washington, October 9.—A method for using waste hemlock tanbark to partially replace expensive rag stock in the manufacture of felt roofing has been developed at the Forest Products Laboratory and is now being used commercially by cooperating mills, ac-ording to an announcement made by the Forest Service. It is stated that, in these mills, from 20 to 30 per cent of the rags is being replaced by waste bark and that the quality of the finished product is equal to that manufactured solely from rags. Members of the Forest Service who have been conducting the experiments say that the utilization of the bark will make it possible to effect a considerable saving in the manufacture of felt roofing.

According to the census of 1909, over 698,000 tons of hemlock bark were produced each year in the United States. After the tannin is extracted this bark is used for fuel purposes, for which it is said to have a value of 60 cents per ton.

The extent of the savings rendered possible by the new methods is pointed out by the fact that the roofing mills of the United States have a total estimated annual production of 237,000 tons of finished roofing of all kinds, equal to about 11,300,000 "squares." By a "square" of roofing is meant 100 square feet. The utilization of the waste bark in this industry should, it is said, enable the mills to reduce their manufacturing costs appreciably.

In addition to the use of the bark for roofing, papers made at the Forest Products Laboratory on the basis of 80 per cent of waste tanbark, have been successfully printed on a commercial twelve-color wall-paper printing machine, and give promise of being entirely satisfactory. Other paper of the same make-up has been made into fiber conduits by a commercial manufacturer.

Other possible uses of waste bark which suggest themselves, say the Forest Service experts, are the use of bark mixed with ground wood for the production of wall board, or with sulphite screenings in the manufacture of car liners. Studies already made at the Forest Products Laboratory indicate that it may be possible to use waste hemlock and oak tanbark in making sheathing paper, carpet liners, bottle wrappers, deadening felt, and the like.

A kind word is worth much, costs nothing, and leaves a green spot in memory. Harsh ones are the cause of blight, wither and decay.

REASON ENOUGH.

The late General Gordon, of the Confederate army, was a young man when the Civil War began. He organized a company in Kentucky and came down with his men by easy stages through Virginia. Everywhere he grew more enthusiastic in his denunciation of the Yankees. Finally, at Petersburg, Virginia, he made a brilliant speech and declared amid tremendous enthusiasm:

"Why, fellow citizens, we can lick the Yankees with popguns." Years afterwards, when the country was at peace and General Gordon had settled in Virginia, he was running for Congress.

He arrived at Petersburg to make a speech, and while in the middle of it a grizzled Confederate veteran rose.

"Say general, wasn't you here at the beginning of the war?" he said.

"I was," said Gordon.

"Didn't you all say we could lick the Yankees with popguns?"

"I did," replied Gordon.

"Well, then, why didn't we?" asked the veteran.

"Because the darn Yankees wouldn't fight with popguns," vociferously yelled Gordon.—Boston Transcript.

FOREST NOTES.

One ton of coniferous wood waste will produce from 15 to 25 gallons of 190-proof alcohol.

The farm woodlots of the United States contain about 10 per cent of the total standing timber in the country.

Grazing experts of the Forest Service estimate that the cost of producing lambs in the Northwestern states is $1.82 per head.

The bark of black oak, or "yellow oak," as it is often called on account of the color of the inner bark, is now used for dye-making.

The stand of timber on the two great National Forests in Alaska is estimated by the Forest Service as over 70 billion board feet, while the annual growth will, it is said, produce of pulpwood alone enough for the manufacture of three thousand tons of wood pulp a day.

ON SUNDAY AFTERNOON.
Sunday afternoon when father is reading and mother is resting or writing letters, and one may not run and play with companions as on other days, the hours are long to a child. Why not propose the making of a Sunday book at home? Each week as the children go home from Sunday school give them a written or type-written copy of a Bible verse to paste in a loose-leaf or other scrapbook. The verse should be one which may be illustrated. For example: On one Sunday give the verse, "He hath made everything beautiful in its time," and direct the children to paste this verse on a page in their Sunday books and after they have done this, to gather flowers and to copy them as best they are able with crayons or paints. If they cannot draw flowers they can draw around leaves and obtain good outlines to be filled in with color.

Everyone Should Drink Glass Of Water To Clean Kidneys

If Your Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers You Drink Lots of Water.

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore, don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with cold water and kidney which removes the body's urinous waste and stimulates them to their normal activity. The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of Water—you can't drink too much; also get from any druggist about one dozen 5 grain kidney tablets, take one tablet before each meal and at bedtime with a glass of water for a few days and your kidneys will act fine. This famous remedy is made from perfectly harmless ingredients and acts quickly and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Kidney is inexpensive, cannot injure, make no mistake, insist on kidney which everyone should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this, also keep up the water drinking and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache. 45

HOW TO SMOKE MEATS.

Directions for Smoking Pickled and Cured Meats on the Farm.

Pickled and cured meats are smoked to aid in their preservation and to give flavor and palatability. The creosote formed by the combustion of the wood closes the pores to some extent excluding the air, and is objectionable to insects.

House and fuel.—The smokehouse should be 8 or 10 feet high to give the best results, and of a size suited to the amount of meat likely to be smoked, 6 by 8 feet being large enough for ordinary farm use. Ample ventilation should be provided to carry off the warm air in order to prevent overheating the meat. Small openings under the eaves or a chimney in the roof will be sufficient if arranged so as to be easily controlled. A fire pot outside of the house proper with a flue through which the smoke may be conducted to the meat chamber gives the best conditions for smoking. When this can not well be arranged a fire may be built on the floor of the house and the meat shielded by a sheet of metal. Where the meat can be hung 6 or 7 feet above the fire this precaution need not be taken. The construction should be such as to allow the smoke to pass up freely over the meat and out of the house, though rapid circulation is at the expense of fuel.

Brick or stone houses are best, though the first cost is greater than if they are built of lumber. Large dry goods boxes and even barrels may be made to serve as smokehouses where only small amounts of meat are to be smoked. The care of meat in such substitutes is so much more difficult and the results so much less satisfactory that a permanent place should be provided if possible.

The best fuel for smoking meats is green hickory or maple wood smothered with sawdust of the same material. Hardwood of any kind is preferable to softwood. Resinous woods should never be used, as they are likely to impart bad flavors to the product. Corncobs are the best substitute for hard wood and may be used if desired. Soft wood and corncobs give off large large amounts of carbon in burning, and this is deposited on the meat, making it dark in color and rank flavored. Juniper berries and fragrant woods are sometimes added to the fire to flavor the meat.

Filling the house—Meat that is to be smoked should be removed from the brine two or three days before being put in the smokehouse. If it has been cured in a strong brine, it will be best to soak the pieces in cold water overnight to prevent a crust of salt from forming on the outside when drained. Washing the meat in tepid water and scrubbing clean with a brush is a good practice. The pieces should then be hung up to drain for a day or two. When drained they may be hung in the house. All should be suspended below the ventilators and should be hung so that no two pieces come in contact, as this would prevent uniform smoking.

Keeping up the fire.—A slow fire may then be started, warming up the meat gradually. During the winter months in cold climates it is best to keep the fire going continually until the smoking is complete, holding the temperature at about the same point. If the fire is allowed to die down, the meat becomes cold and the smoke does not penetrate readily. This results in heavy smoke on the outside and very little on the inner portions of the meat. During the spring months and in the summer a light fire may be started every second or third day for two weeks, the meat being allowed to hang in the smokehouse until sufficiently colored. When the fire is kept going steadily and an even temperature is maintained, 24 to 36 hours will be required to finish one lot of meat. Smoke will not penetrate frozen meat and it will be necessary to extract all frost from it before putting it in the house.

The house should be kept dark at all times to prevent flies entering. As soon as smoked sufficiently the meat should be cooled by opening the ventilators or doors. When hard and firm it may be canvased or packed away for summer use.

To Separate Postage Stamps.
In damp weather the careless placing postage stamps, sometimes stick together. When this happens, place them on a newspaper in a hot oven for a few moments. As soon as the stamps get hot the glue dries and by pressing between the fingers it is readily broken, and the stamps may be easily separated without the least damage.

TONOLINE IS BEAUTY AID ANNOUNCES SPECIALIST

Mildred Louise Talk of Interest to Women.

As health is a first aid to beauty this story, told by Mildred Louise, beauty specialist, of Boston, Mass., is of unusual interest.

"I can recommend no better health giver than tonoline," said Mildred Louise.

"I was for many months a victim of stomach trouble and nervousness. I had suffered terribly from pains that followed eating. Headaches also would add to my worries. Poor digestion finally brought on nervousness. Relief came, however, when I took the advice of several women who said, 'Take tonoline.'

"Not long after I started the tonoline treatment, my patrons began to remind me of the improvement in my condition. And because health is the quickest way to beauty, the improvement was particularly noticeable in my face.

"What tonoline really did for me I cannot say. I am so grateful that I am very willing to recommend tonoline publicly."

Tonoline is a purely vegetable preparation which goes to the seat of common maladies—stomach and kidney trouble, catarrhal affections of the mucous membranes, liver ailments and impurities of the blood—and quickly restores proper action. Tonoline is being explained daily to many people at all druggists.

Notice:—As tonoline is a wonderful flesh builder it should not be taken by any one not wishing to increase his weight ten pounds or more. Although many reports are received from those in severe cases of stomach trouble and nervous dyspepsia, chronic constipation, etc.

A big new discovery in cigarette blending

The big thing about Chesterfields is their unique blend. The Chesterfield blend is an entirely new combination of tobaccos. This blend is the most important new development in cigarette making in 20 years.

As a result, Chesterfields produce a totally new kind of cigarette enjoyment—they satisfy! Just like a "bite" before bedtime satisfies when you're hungry.

But with all that, Chesterfields are MILD, too!

This new enjoyment (satisfy, yet mild) comes ONLY in Chesterfields because no cigarette maker can copy the Chesterfield blend.

ONE MAN TIES BIG AUSABLE RIVER DAM.

Lansing, Mich., Oct. 5.—How a piece of land, less than half an acre in area, is causing a peck of trouble for the Eastern Michigan Power Co. and incidentally delaying the use of a new $250,000 dam, is shown by supreme court records. James F. Perry, owner of the land, located on the Ausable river has tied up the company, and the supreme court has thus ruled with the owner of the small tract of land and against the power company.

Perry wanted a stated price for the land, for flowage rights. The power company thought the price out of reason and threatened to overflow the land in question when their dam was completed. Perry obtained a permanent injunction from Judge Widdis restraining the power company from flooding the Perry land to start the water power from the dam, so the power company, anxious to have the dam working and the litigation settled, appealed to the supreme court, but was too late to have the case docketed for this term of court.

Tuesday the power company attorneys asked the court for a stay of the injunction and made a motion to docket the case. Their request was denied by the supreme court, and now it will be impossible to have the case heard before the January term.

Under the decisions of Michigan courts it is impossible to condemn lands to obtain flowage rights.—Bay City Times.

For the Visitors.

In full view of the crowd in a busy street two vendors of berries were busy with piles of thin wooden boxes, each scantily filled with immature fruit. Emptying a box after box, the vendors deftly punched up a layer of the box bottom to form a sharp angle pointed in the middle, propped it there with paper and then refilled the receptacle, taking great care that the finest and freshest looking berries should make a showy top covering. One of the spectators grew indignant. "How in the world," he demanded, "do you expect to sell your wares when you openly show that they are not what they seem to be?" "Aw, gwan!" said the vendor, addressed. "This is New York, and there are more trains coming with more people."—Everybody's Magazine.

Unmaimed Cervantes.

The statement that Cervantes lost an arm at the battle of Lepanto is incorrect. This common mistake, as Mr. H. E. Watts and other authorities have pointed out, is due to forged portraits and fraudulent statues. The use of his wounded left hand was never fully recovered, as he himself says, "El movimiento de la mano izquierda"—that is to say, he lost "the movement, or use, of the left hand." It is moreover, obvious that he could not have served for four years as an infantry soldier after the total loss of a hand. There is, as a matter of fact, no portrait of Cervantes that can be proved to be contemporary, and only one for which any plausible evidence at all can be produced. So that we must be satisfied with his own description of himself as given in the prologue to the "Exemplary Novels."

Greatest Clan on Earth.

There is no truth in the legends that Smith draws his name and blood from Shem, son of Noah, whose descendants wrote their patronymic successively—Shemit, Shmit, Smith; or from the mythical Pharaoh Smithosis of the Theban line of kings. The name has its root in remote Saxon times, in the word "smitan" (to smite), when it was borne by every man who earned an honest living by his arm-muscles, whether as blacksmith, wheelwright, carpenter or mason. Every Smith is a member of the greatest clan in all the world; for almost every civilized land has its army of fellow Smiths in as many different guises—from the Russian Smittowski to the Spanish Smithas, and from the Icelandic Smithson to the Mexican Smittil.

Slightly Mixed.

The distinguished young man paced wildly across the floor. "Miss Merrill, that beautiful young lady that I was engaged to, has asked to have her letters returned," he said. "Oh, well, cheer up, don't take it so hard," his friend said. "I suppose you have sent them?" "Ah, no, that is the trouble," said the wild-eyed man. "I made a mistake and sent the letters from another girl!"

THE FARMER AND PROHIBITION

What will become of the farmers when the brewers and distillers no longer buy their grain and their grapes, their apples and their cherries? One would think that nobody likes grapes and apples and cherries unless they come in the form of booze! The fact is, the farmers' ability to supply the American market with produce is rapidly decreasing. From 1899 to 1909 the acreage in the United States used for raising cereals—corn, wheat, oats, barley, rye, etc., increased only 3.5 per cent. The amount actually produced increased only 1.7 per cent, but the population of our country during this period increased 21 per cent. That is, the population increased about 12 times as fast as the increase in the amount of cereals raised. Meanwhile the value of these cereals increased 78.8 per cent. The percentage of all agricultural exports during the past 40 years has decreased 30 per cent because of the increased demand in our own country for the farmers' products.

In round numbers there are 10,000,000 farmers in the United States. The value of their annual products is about $10,000,000,000, that is, about $1,000 for each farmer. The liquor industry purchases each year about $100,000,000 worth of produce from the farmers. Therefore, the liquor industry consumes just about 1 per cent of all the farmers' produce, or about $10 for each farmer in the United States.

The question is, what will the "poor farmer" do with his $10 worth of produce which the liquor industry cannot purchase when it is put out of business? He may have to feed some of it to his horses or cows or pigs, but even in this case it would not be a loss to him. It is absolutely certain that he will not be compelled to throw away this $10 worth of material which is troubling the liquor men so grievously. The chances are that somebody else besides the liquor men will find use for it.

There are over 20,000,000 families in the United States which would purchase the stuff now sold to the liquor men. According to a study made by the Department of Labor of the United States the average workingman's family spends annually about $500 for food. This would make a total of at least $10,000,000,000 per year for the twenty million families.

If the twenty million families were each to increase their purchasing power 1 per cent or $5 per year it would amount to exactly one hundred million dollars—the sum of the liquor men's purchases from the farmer. But let us assume that the retail figure at which the average family would be compelled to buy is twice as high as the liquor men pay. This would increase the amount necessary to be purchased to $10 per year for each family, or about 20c per week. There can be no doubt that, with the increased earning power and spending ability of the average workingman's family—due to the abolition of the liquor traffic—every family will easily wish to spend at least 20c more per week for cherries, peaches, apples, berries and the various forms of grain, to say nothing about flour and bread and other materials which come primarily from the farm.

Here's another comparison: There are just about 100,000,000 people in this country—if each of these should spend one additional dollar per year for fruit and flour and other products of the farm, which means the price of a postage stamp per week, it would pretty nearly take care of all the material now sold to the liquor industry by the farmers.

There is no need to worry about the farmers. Anyway, the farmers are voting out the saloon every time they get a chance, fully realizing the force of whatever there may be in the argument of the liquor men, so far as they are concerned.—Charles Stelzle.
