The people of Iosco county are beginning to find out that Sheriff Hill takes the sworn duties of his office seriously and that law violators will be punished as they deserve. Last Friday he arrested two Tawas City men, one of whom had bought liquor for a habitual drunkard and the other the man for whom he bought it. One of the prisoners was taken before Justice Mount and the other before Justice Wuggazer, and both were given a fine of $10 and costs with the alternative of 30 days in the county jail. They paid. We understand that Sheriff Hill has absolute proof against some other parties who have been selling liquor illegally and that prosecution only waits on the action of the prosecuting attorney.

When the war was confined to the European nations the German sympathy naturally was with the fatherland, but now that the United States is involved in war with Germany their loyalty to the land of their birth or adoption is unquestionable. Some there doubtless are whose sympathies still remain with Germany, but the overwhelming majority are for "America ueber alles." Incidentally it might be mentioned that Mr. Schmidt is the owner of Serradella Farm in the northern part of Iosco county.

FROM THE FRONT.
Somewhere in France, March 22, 1917
Dear Friends,
Mr. and Mrs. John Hern:
Received your most kind and most welcome letter and glad to hear you are all well, as this leaves myself in the best of health. I sure was surprised to get a letter from Tawas as I think it is the first one in ten years. I was in California but I am a long way from there now.

Well, I have been in the army now thirteen months and have put in eight months in France at the front and I can tell you it sure is some sight on the battlefields at times. No one can even imagine what it is like till they go through it but I have been lucky enough so far to come through without a scratch, I sometimes wonder how I do it but it seems to be getting a little more civilized, as a short time ago after a battle we had four hours armistice on both sides to pick up our wounded and bury our dead. But it is not very often that they let us do that but everything is looking better in the last few months as we are driving them back a little all the time and I hope to see it over and hope to get back safe and sound, but we never know our luck over here but I am getting quite used to hearing the big guns roar day and night, month in and month out. It sure would seem nice to get away for a while.

Well, I have been in the army now thirteen months and have put in eight months in France at the front and I can tell you it sure is some sight on the battlefields at times. No one can even imagine what it is like till they go through it but I have been lucky enough so far to come through without a scratch, I sometimes wonder how I do it but it seems to be getting a little more civilized, as a short time ago after a battle we had four hours armistice on both sides to pick up our wounded and bury our dead. But it is not very often that they let us do that but everything is looking better in the last few months as we are driving them back a little all the time and I hope to see it over and hope to get back safe and sound, but we never know our luck over here but I am getting quite used to hearing the big guns roar day and night, month in and month out. It sure would seem nice to get away for a while.

THRIFT.

Any fool is a good spender, but it takes a wise man to save money.

That there are more fools than wise men is proved by the fact that one-tenth of all the people who die in the United States are buried in pauper's graves.

With a population of 100,000,000 there are 10,000,000 people in the United States who would be hungry in ten days after losing their jobs.

There are 3,000,000 men with steady jobs and little children dependent on them who have not saved enough to feed their own babies for two weeks.

There are 1,000,000 "well-to-do" men who could not pay their debts and have enough left to buy a gallon of gasoline for the automobile they ride in every day.

What is thrift? Industry earns, economy manages, providence plans, and frugality saves. Thrift embraces all these.

Training in thrift should be a part of the curriculum of every school, and part of the training of every boy and girl, every man and woman. Thrift of mind, of time, and most of all, of money, needs greater emphasis.

Keeping track of the way your money goes is the first step in thrift.

Try this plan from one pay day to the next:

Decide before you open your pay envelope how much of its contents you will save.

Put your savings in a good bank where you will keep your hands off of it, and which is safer than any hiding place.

Of the remainder of your wages think out carefully how it should be spent. Write these amounts.

Faithfully write down every amount you spend. Write it in the "total" column, and also in the column showing what it was spent for.

Add up the columns on next pay day and compare them with top line. This will help you in the intelligent handling of your next pay envelope.

A man does not have to be a

"tightwad" to be thrifty. The thrifty man not only saves but he spends wisely and gives generously.

Put some common sense into the care of your own money. Spend less than you earn, and get the thrift habit.

Wonders of Color.

A small and simple experiment can be made by any reader which will go far to convince him or her what a good thing it is we have sunlight, which enables our eyes to take advantage of the beautiful hues of nature. Make a room quite dark and then burn some carbonate of soda in the flame of a bunsen gas burner. It will burn with an orange yellow light sufficiently strong to illuminate everything in the room, but you will realize with a sudden shock that, bright though the light is, all distinctions of color have vanished. Only light and shade remain. A crimson carnation, a blue violet, a red tablecloth, a yellow blind—all look gray or black or white. The faces of those present look positively repulsive, for all natural color, has disappeared. No other experiment will so well convince those who have witnessed it how great a loss would be that of our sense for color.

Non-Advertising Failures.

Startling figures relating to failures in business and non-advertisers were given to the Cincinnati Ad Club recently by Jesse M. Josephs, of the Josephs Advertising Agency. In his address on "What Should a Retail Store Spend for Advertising?" Mr. Josephs said among other things: "Figures I obtained from a financial agency shows that out of all the failures in one city during the year, 86 per cent of the firms had not spent a dollar on advertising, 14 per cent spent about fifty dollars a year apiece; not one had really advertised. Judicious advertising is founded on facts, figures, and research. I want to warn you not to stand still in advertising. If you don't advance every year your business is slanted for the grave."

NEWS FROM THE STATE CAPITOL

Our Special Correspondent At Lansing Relates Doings of Legislature

PREPAREDNESS IS MAIN TOPIC

Work to Perfect Michigan War Plans is Progressing Rapidly—The Most Important Measures Proposed for This Session Have Passed, But Hundreds Have Fallen by the Way.

By Lewis W. Bailey.

Lansing, Mich., April 18.—Interest in war preparedness overshadows everything else in the capitol even though the legislature is in its closing days and Governor Sleeper's office has been filled day after day with men interested in the military affairs of the state, men interested in agricultural preparedness and women ready to serve the state in any way that may be suggested, and ready to suggest many manners of service themselves.

The selection of a board which should carry out a plan to increase the crop yield of the state, working with the organization now under the control of the state board of agriculture was the most important act of the week for the governor and the men he named widely known in the state and have the confidence of its people. Chairman of the board is former governor Fred M. Warner, of Farmington, and serving with him are Nathan F. Simpson, of Detroit, who worked such reforms in Jackson prison and put the institution on a self-supporting basis, as representative of the Gleaners of the state; Nathan P. Hull, of Lansing, former master of the Michigan State Grange; George E. McCormick, of Menominee, representing the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau; W. K. Prudden, Lansing, prominent manufacturer and alumnus of the M. A. C.; John S. Haggerty, Detroit, for many years Wayne county road commissioner, and Wm. J. Orr, president of the Michigan Bean Jobbers' Association.

The appointment of these men came following a conference of the leading farmers and manufacturers of the state to discuss the situation in Michigan as to seed, farm labor and crop prospects. The conference brought out the fact of a shortage of seed potatoes, but that sufficient beans had been held in reserve by bean jobbers to assure seed this year. It revealed that the chief problem is the shortage of labor, and that something out of the ordinary this year must be done to assure crops equal to the demands of the nation and of the European allies who will look to the United States for food as soon as the American navy has made possible shipment in sufficient quantities.

The plan which will be followed by the new board, as tentatively drafted, was the suggestion of W. K. Prudden, of Lansing. It is a proposal that the banks of the state make it as easy as possible for farmers to get money to buy seed and that the factories guarantee men in each locality to put in, cultivate and harvest the crops this year.

Would Shut Down Factories.

It is proposed that where necessary the factories shut down for a week or two that the men may assist in farm work. In all counties where there are county agents these men will devote themselves to encouraging and in such ways as they can assist in developing to the utmost agricultural possibilities. Where there are no county agents it is proposed to appoint men to look after groups of counties in the same manner. M. A. C. students who are due to graduate this year are likely to be given their diplomas early, where they desire it, that they may return home and assist in farm work. Underclassmen will also be permitted to go home early.

Through the state employment bureau appeals are being made to men who have had experience on farms and will return to farmwork this summer to list their names with the bureau, which in turn will see that they are placed. Even the recruiting station, in the capital city at least, has caught the spirit of the movement and when a six footer applied for enlistment the other day he was told by the recruiting officer to return to the farm whence he came for he could best serve his country there.

Supt. of Public Instruction Fred J. Keeler has said there are more than 200,000 school children in Michigan whose help can be drafted in garden work this summer and the suggestion has been made that schools throughout the state should close at such time as the children could be of help.

Women Offer Services.

The services of women of the state have been offered through the Women's War Preparedness board, whose spokesman was Rev. Carlisle Bartlett Crane, of Kalamazoo. She told the governor a canvass of 20,000 women had been made and these women and more could be depended on to do the lighter work of the planting and harvest time, canning, hospital work in case of need through actual hostilities, Red Cross work of all descriptions.

Meantime work in the legislature and the governor's office to perfect Michigan's war plans is progressing rapidly. With Major Roy C. Vandercook, formerly adjutant general of the Michigan National Guard, as secretary of the war preparedness board and organizer of the Michigan Home Guards and chief military advisor to Governor Sleeper, at the head, details are being worked out for the protection of the state against riots or other disturbances when the National Guard is called out of the state in federal service. The Culver military bill, which brought the Michigan National Guard into conformity with the National militia laws, has been amended to permit of state insurance for men who are called to the colors, a mortuary benefit of up to $1,000 and a casualty benefit of up to $500 and relief for dependents' families up to $20 for a wife and $7.50 a month for each child under 16 years of age. The bill authorizes the state to carry its own insurance if it is so desired.

The funds are made available under the $5,000,000 appropriation which is made a part of the bill creating the Michigan War Board and which passed the house Monday afternoon amid a tremendous patriotic demonstration, having previously passed the senate. Rep. Peterman, who sponsored the bill in the house, had arranged for the Industrial School Boys band and choir to lead in the singing of "The Star Spangled Banner" and the unfurling of a big American flag in the house when the bill should pass. Members of Veterans' organizations had been invited to attend the ceremony and to follow the five and drum through the capitol building to the places reserved for them in the house. Galleries were thronged with spectators and the scene was one which exceeded in dramatic interest any before staged in Michigan's capitol.

With the war measures out of the way, the compromise budget measure agreed to in both houses, compromise railroad legislation disposed of and prohibition bills through the senate and back to the house for only slight amendments, the legislature bids fare to complete its work this week with all the big matters disposed of without any very bitter contests either between the houses or among members of either house.

Senate Accepts Wiley Bill.

As predicted in these columns, the senate accepted the Wiley bill for Regulation of the sale of liquor for purposes permitted by the constitution and the Lewis bill to make the dairy and food department responsible for enforcement of the measures, and killed the McArthur "bone dry" bill in the committee. It passed the Damon bone dry bill and sent it over to the house where it had been planned that it should pass without serious opposition. Talk of wets of submitting the liquor laws to a referendum upon petition is said to have been responsible for putting the liquor legislation in three bills instead of one. Efforts to have the liquor bills given immediate effect failed to materialize and strong support has been lacking for the proposal to delay the adjournment of the legislature that enactment of legislation immediately effective as a war measure. The senate even tabled a concurrent resolution to memorialize Congress to pass a national prohibition law as a war measure.

Rep. Charles Culver's military training measure, which provides for military training in the high schools of the state when 25 students elect such a course, passed last week after it had once been tabled by the house. Further economy in institutional appropriations before the week has ended is promised. The senate had put back into several appropriation bills slums which the house had cut out and the house refused to concur in these increases. Appointment of conference committees resulted. Then came the State Agricultural board and asked that the bill for the appropriation of $250,000 for a new library at the Michigan Agricultural college be killed after it had passed both houses and was up to the governor for signature. Badly needed though the members considered it, they believed the sacrifice should be made because of the war and the break will result in the cutting of other appropriations. The bill which passed the house for an optional Torrens law in Michigan passed the senate after it had been amended to make the system optional not only with the land owner but with each county in the state as a unit. In this form it went back to the house for concurrence.

Railroad fare legislation was disposed of by a bill authorizing the governor to appoint a commission of four citizens to subpoena witnesses, examine records and determine the justice of the demands of the railroads for an increase in passenger fares, and by the passage of Senator Tripp's bill permitting the roads to charge three cents a mile for travel in all steel Pullman cars.

Budget legislation, which promised to give one of the deadlocks of the session for weeks and brought from the governor a threat of an extra session, was disposed of as the governor desired, by a bill to authorize him to appoint a commission of five members, the governor and auditor general being ex-officio members. The other members are to be appointed by the governor and are to complete the work and report a budget system suitable for Michigan by the first of next January. One member to be chosen by the governor is to continue after that date and prepare institutional budgets for presentation to the next session of the legislature.
