Some people claim there is no music in the bagpipes, but they most assuredly would change their minds after hearing Mr. Halcro play this instrument. Rev. Anderson's skill and versatility are too well known here to need any eulogy from us. ALABASTER DEFEATS TAWAS BY SCORE OF 5-4.

Alabaster proved the surprise of the league Sunday by defeating Tawas on our home grounds. "Farmer By" Mark outpitched Robinson, the M. A. C. freshman pitcher from the White City, but had luck in the first inning and errors in the fourth and eighth innings accounted for his downfall. Each team got eight hits, but Mark struck out 14 men to his opponent's 10.

In the first inning before the Farmer settled to his work, he was nicked for a base on balls and three hits which accounted for three runs. Tawas counted one in their half when Johnson doubled, stole third and scored on a sacrifice fly. Tawas added another in the third on Miller's single, stolen base and a wild throw. Alabaster scored again in the fourth inning on Martin's double, an error and an out. There was no more scoring until the eighth inning when Alabaster came back with what proved to be the winning run, a hit and two errors making this run possible.

Tawas started a big rally in the eighth which fell just short of tying up the game. After two men had struck out, Miller got his second hit of the game and took second on a balk. B. Mark singled his home and took second on a wild pitch, scoring a moment later on a single by Swartz. Johnson then came through with a hit but was caught off first and the inning ended.

Our boys made another desperate effort to tie the game in the ninth when A. Mark singled, took second and third bases on wild pitches. Robinson was taken out and Frank Baker sent in to stop Tawas. On an attempt to score on a short passed ball, Mark was out at the plate.

Alabaster deserves credit for the fine game they put up, and should be pretty well up in the league standing at the end of the season. The addition of Robinson to the pitching staff increased the strength of the team 50 per cent. His hitting also was one of the features of the game.

After the first inning by Mark pitched an exceptional game as his record of 14 strike-outs shows. In the fifth inning he put up an exhibition of nerve which shows he is ready for a good season. With men on first and second base and none out Robinson singled to right field.

A. Mark who was filling in as an outfielder, nailed Musolf at the plate by a pretty throw. The Farmer then struck out Pete and Frank Baker. Omer is on the schedule for a game here next Sunday. The Omer boys always put up a fine game and will no doubt be a good drawing card.

NO SEEDS FROM CONGRESSMAN CURRIE.

The Herald is in receipt of a letter from Congressman G. A. Currie regarding the distribution of seeds, which will be of interest to our readers. Following is a portion of the letter:

"Inquiries from your county indicate that many people think I have the distribution of seeds for this year. This is not the case. The seeds for 1917 were allotted to Mr. Loud, because the order for them must be filed in October of the year preceding their distribution. Will appreciate your calling attention to this fact, with best wishes, I remain Sincerely yours, G. A. CURRIE.

A CORRECTION.

In the article from the Michigan Agricultural college published in last week's Herald, entitled, "Feeding season at hand for cut-worms," an error occurred in the directions for mixing the poison for these pests. The directions read: "Twenty pounds of bran, one pound of Paris green, three-quarters of a pound of white arsenic." This direction should read, "One pound of Paris green or one pound of white arsenic." The use of both ingredients would make the preparation too strong.

AGENCY FOR KALOMITE PRODUCTS.

Mrs. J. H. Benson of Alabaster has accepted the position of manager for a general distributing center for the Kalomite products. Kalomite Laundry Marvel is magic for washign clothes, a wonder to everybody and a blessing to those who have washings to do every week. BUY A "LIBERTY LOAN" BOND

The $5,000,000,000 bond issue of this year is named "The Liberty Loan of 1917" because it is to be a loan from a free people to be used in freeing the world.

It is the loan of a liberty-loving people to be devoted to the establishment of liberty in Europe and on the high seas.

It is the loan of the great democracy of the New World to redress the wrongs and support the cause of the democracy of the Old.

A Liberty Loan Bond is a solemn promise of the United States to pay at maturity the amount of the bond to the holder thereof, and to pay interest semiannually each year from the date of the issuance of the bond until it is fully and finally paid.

Liberty Loan Bonds of the first issue of $2,000,000,000 are to bear date of June 15, 1917, and to run for thirty years, except that the Government reserves the right to pay them fifteen years after date. If this right is not exercised by the Government fifteen years from date, the bonds will run the full thirty years.

These bonds bear interest at 3 1/2 per cent per annum, and the interest is payable semiannually on the fifteenth day of December and fifteenth day of June in each year.

Every American who subscribes to the justice of the course of the United States in entering and conducting the war we are now engaged in, should subscribe to the Liberty Loan Bond issue to the extent of his or her financial ability.

Every American who subscribes to the belief that an American should stand by his or her country should subscribe to the Liberty Loan Bond issue.

Every American who loves America and is jealous of America's honor should subscribe to the Liberty Loan Bond issue. The real success of the loan is to be more determined by the number of Americans participating in it than by the amount subscribed. The spirit of the Nation is going to be judged abroad, especially by our enemies, more by the number of its American men and women who support this bond issue than by the mere amount of money subscribed.

Blank forms of application for the purchase of these bonds can be obtained from the Treasury Department, any Federal Reserve Bank, any National, state, or private bank, any express office, and any post office in the United States. Any bank or postmaster will aid applicant in filling out his blank and the other acts necessary to obtain these bonds.

CURRIE VOTED TO RAISE PAY OF SOLDIERS TO $30.

A story has been and is being circulated throughout the Tenth district to the effect that Congressman Currie recently voted against raising the pay of the American soldier from $15 to $30 a month. Congressman Austin, of Tennessee, writing to the Times-Tribune, says this report is misleading and is doing Congressman Currie a great injustice. According to Rep. Austin who offered the original amendment to the military bill, Rep. Currie voted for it and supported it all the way through. Mr. Currie also voted for the amendment of Rep.

Austin for giving Col. Roosevelt authority to raise a division or more for service in France. When the military bill was reported to the house for final passage, the conferees had agreed on the $30 pay and on a roll call Mr. Currie voted for the bill containing the provision. In conclusion Rep. Austin says: "I do not think Rep. Currie should be censured in this matter for he proved conclusively that he was a friend of the private soldiers. He is regarded in the house as a faithful member, losing no opportunity to advance the interests of his constituents."—Bay City Times, Tribune.

SUGGESTIONS TO SAVE HIGH PRICED SEED BEANS.

R. B. Odle, Lapeer produce man, offers the following suggestions to save seed beans without handicapping the yield:

"As we are all interested in the production and conservation of the food supply, I want to make the suggestion that the farmers of Michigan change their method of planting beans.

"As you probably know the usual way is to plant them with a grain drill in continuous or "matted row" which requires one bushel or more seed per acre.

"But if planted by hand in check rows, 28 inches apart, each way, with common hand corn planters only nine to twelve quarts per acre would be required which would mean an immense saving.

"The great objection to this method of planting among the farmers has been that it was impossible to get the necessary help at time of planting—not that the yield is less.

"On the contrary where this way has been tried out the yield was greater, the ground kept in better condition with less work; in a wet season they are less liable to blight and mildew and the same is true in a dry season, the ground can be all covered with a dust mulch.

"If the farmers can be assured of enough help in planting time I think they would gladly avail themselves of the chance to save more than half of the expense of seed.

"I offer this simply as a suggestion to you in an effort to do my bit."

CONTROL THE WEEDS.

Weed Control Will Be Big Factor In Michigan Production.

East Lansing, Mich., June 4.—Control of noxious weeds, which if not grappled with early will retard production on farm and garden, is prescribed by farm crops men of the Michigan Agricultural college as good "medicine" for producing strong and vigorous crops. Weeds, it is charged, not only rob the growing crops of valuable food by locking it up in their tissues, but they do additional damage by using up water which the corn, beans and other plants require. Weeds, for every pound of dry matter they manufacture, remove from 400 to 500 pounds of water from the soil.

"Weeds," the farm crops men say, "are the greatest of crop enemies. It is a mistake to allow them to grow four or five inches before cultivating. The time to get them is just as they start. Soon after planting either corn or beans, the field should be gone over with a spike tooth harrow with teeth slanting slightly back. The weeder is an excellent tool for early cultivation, and can be used in corn until the plants are six or eight inches high.

"The first cultivation with the cultivator is usually made when plants are high enough so that rows can be easily followed. This cultivation should be close to the plants and fairly deep, though if the seed bed has been properly prepared, deep cultivation is not necessary.

"The next cultivation usually follows within a week or ten days. This should not be quite so close to the plants or as deep. Later cultivations, with either corn or beans should be shallow, merely deep enough to dislodge developing weeds and keep the ground in loose condition. After about thirty-five days growth the roots of corn and bean plants completely interlace between the rows and come to about two inches of the surface. These surface roots are the chief feeding roots of the plants and deep cultivation at this time, because it would prune these roots, will cause a considerable loss in yield. Level and shallow cultivation is the best and the use of a small shovel or small cultivator equipped with blades or sweeps is advised. Deep cultivation is particularly the practice of "laying by." Cultivating deep at the last cultivation and throwing the earth from the middle of the row up around the plant should be avoided. Thorough early cultivation of corn and beans will lessen the work of later cultivation and go far toward insuring crop success."

WHITE PINE BLISTER RUST IS FOUND IN NURSERY.

East Lansing, Mich., June 4.—White pine blister rust, the scourge of Europe's pine forests and a plant disease which already has made dangerous inroads upon the white pine timberlands of the east, has established itself in Michigan. Forest experts, according to a report from the Michigan Agricultural college, recently found it in a Michigan nursery where unsuspected it apparently has been present on imported seedling stock for more than nine years. In this time, the Michigan foresters believe, it probably has become more or less scattered through the state—an ever present threat against Michigan's remaining $15,000,000 worth of white pine timber.

The disease thus far, however, has not become so established that it cannot be eradicated. This spring three men will take the field, one of them from the federal bureau in Washington, and two of them from the M. A. C. school of forestry, to trace down every suspicious symptom and to enlist the public in general and farmers in particular in a "look out" campaign to control the disease.

So far as is known, M. A. C. forestry men say, there is no cure for the rust. It kills all the young trees it infects and spreads rapidly. The disease, however, while it does most damage to the pine, requires currant or gooseberry bushes in order to compete its life cycle. In May and June small oval bodies are blown from the diseased pines to the currant and gooseberry leaves, where they germinate and produce clusters of yellow spots; these spots produce millions of small oval armed bodies which are blown to other currant and gooseberry bushes, and infect them. In August these same yellow spots are found and also some dark hornlike formations. These hornlike structures are covered with small round bodies which are blown about by the wind and when they fall on the pines they germinate. The disease spreads around the branch or trunk of the tree, blisters the bark and cuts off the circulation, causing the tree to die.

In order to stop the spread of the disease all diseased pines, when found, should be destroyed at once and any currant or gooseberries in the vicinity should be uprooted and burned. Persons in the state finding symptoms of this deadly disease on either currants, gooseberries or pines should report the fact at once to the Michigan Agricultural College, East Lansing.

GROVELING AT THE FEET OF WEALTH.

It never fails. This country simply can not face a national crisis without some metropolitan newspaper slobbering all over itself in its blatant worship of wealth.

A few weeks ago young Marshall Field—very rich and a decent fellow—quietly enlisted as a private in a Chicago regiment, just as a thousand other young men had done before him. His act was smeared all over the Chicago papers, photo and all.

Theodore Roosevelt's young son answered the call of his country and the fact was immediately flashed by telegraph all over the land.

Bill Jones, poor and hard working, hitched his old mare in the barn and streaked it for the nearest recruiting office—and not a word was said about it.

Ain't it awful?—Ex.

"HOW LONG SHALL WE EAT TOGETHER?"

This is the title of a striking picture in one of the fly campaign leaflets recently received at this office. A bright little child sits in her high chair with a dish of food before her on the food shelf, and on the opposite side of the shelf is his deadly proboscis in the food. Does the child not have a right to demand an answer to this question? A few suggestions:

How to make your Community Flyless

1. Educate and stir up action.
2. Prevent breeding of flies.
3. Keep filth covered until removed.
4. Screen porches, doors and windows.
5. Make all privies fly-proof.
6. Kill all winter flies.
7. Trap the fly.
8. Swat the fly.
9. Offer prizes to children.
10. Keep everlastingly at it.
11. Insist upon your neighbors doing likewise.

How to Stop Breeding of Flies

1. Get rid of the breeding places: Manure—Clean daily from milking sheds and horse barns. Pig pens—Keep dry and clean. Garbage—Keep it fly-proof.
2. Kill the breeders: Kill all winter flies—these are the egg-layers. Put several large fly traps about all breeding places to catch the flies before they lay their eggs. Continue this trapping until after frost. It is better than swatting. One trap caught 50 quarts or 500,000 flies in one season.

"Cleanliness is cheaper than flies." "Screens cheaper than doctor bills." "Make your home flyless, Clean Up and Keep Clean."

Flies spread disease in two ways: (1) By their hairy feet, wings and bodies, which gather up germs and carry them from place to place. One fly may carry 6,000,000 germs. (2) By fly-specks. Germs do not lose their power for evil in passing through the intestinal tract of a fly. An eminent investigator reported that a single fly-speck contained as many as 5000 germs of tuberculosis. "The Only Good Fly is the Dead Fly."

"Eat Plenty of Hard Food."

"There are three things to keep in mind when considering diseases of the teeth—first, that soft food is injurious; and that plenty of hard food should be eaten; second, that infection in the gums and tooth cavities may cause disorders by the pus being swallowed and so conveyed to the stomach and intestines; thirdly, that the pus may cause more serious trouble by being absorbed through the lymphatics."

NEWS ITEM.

(From the United States Department of Agriculture, Forest Service, Forest Supervisor's Office, East Tawas, Mich.)

A list of the Federal Farm Loan Associations in this vicinity includes the names of E. B. Follett of Hale, and James E. Ballard of Tawas City, as secretaries of two Iosco county associations.

In stimulating crop production money is often needed, and there are no doubt many cases in which money can advantageously be secured through the Federal Farm Loan Bank. The loans must run at least five years but not more than forty years, and in amounts not less than $100 nor more than $10,000. It is necessary that 5 per cent of the loan be immediately invested in farm loan bonds which may yield dividends or in any event can be turned in as the last payment on the loan. Money can be obtained only on land owned or about to be owned without other incumbrance. The amount borrowed may not exceed 50 per cent of the appraised value of the land plus 20 per cent of the appraised value of the insured improvements. The appraisal is first made by the loan committee of the local association, followed by the appraisal from the Federal Loan Bank. The money loaned can be used only to discharge indebtedness incurred in the purchase of the land, for the payment of mortgage or debt already existing, for the purchase of live stock or for any kind of productive improvements such as fertilizer, needed buildings, drainage or irrigation. There are, of course, some limitations in the use of the funds, and some unavoidable delay in securing them. The interest is at the rate of 5 per cent.

Farm Loan Associations composed of not less than ten members may be organized wherever a sufficient number desire to obtain loans. For localities desiring to organize, blanks and instructions can be secured from the Federal Farm Loan Board, Washington, D. C. In following out the organization a board of five or more directors is elected, a loan committee of three, a president, vice-president, and secretary-treasurer, the latter of whom must be appointed and who is the only officer who may receive a salary. He may or may not be a member of the association.

KEEP CANDY FROM CHILDREN

Sweets Cause Early Decay of Teeth, Is Assertion Made by Dr. Harvey W. Wiley.

"Rear your children on whole wheat, cornmeal, skim milk and the Bible," said Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, chemist and food expert, to the mothers who attended his lecture at the Forsythe dental infirmary the other afternoon, says the Boston Post. Today we are eating too much brand and too little bran," he added.

"One flour is just as good as another and it is ridiculous to pay an extra dollar or two to get some particular brand," he continued. "White flour, regardless of brand and price, is a devaluated and demineralized food product. They don't have wholesome foods on sale at the grocery stores because no one asks for them."

"There is only one food that you can live upon alone and that is milk. If you mix whole wheat products with milk you can live forever. We have failed to realize what a splendid food can be found in Indian corn meal. We do not know how to live."

"Women are blindly following a vicious fashion in wearing high-heeled stiletts that ruin their health and make them unable to become mothers. The mothers of this country are eating white bread, cake and ice cream, and then expect their children to be born healthy."

"Candy never should be fed to children. The child does not have a sweet tooth until it is acquired by being fed sweet stuffs. No wonder its teeth decay and fall out before maturity. Some women use malts and make every effort to put on flesh before motherhood. That is bad."

Was Taking No Chances.

"The lovely defendant says she shot in self-defense." "But she further avers that the man she killed had never raised his hand against her." "True, but something told her that he might do that any time."

THE BANK THAT PAYS 4 PER CENT

You Can Win— Or Lose Your Corn Crop

It is entirely up to you. You can lose all the feeding value of your corn crop or you can save it

You know that your corn will not mature, that you cannot cash in on an empty crib. Are you going to stand still, continue to kick about conditions and lose what you are entitled to?

Save the Corn Crop

Hundreds of farmers are ordering silos now. They know, as you surely do, that this is the only way of getting full feeding value from their corn. You will save the price of your silo if you save this year's crop. A silo full of succulent and palatable silage is better than an empty crib.

Don't try to sidestep present conditions, you can't do it. McClure agents all over the country tell us conditions are about the same, that crops are not what they are cracked up to be, and the man with plenty of feed will have plenty of money in the bank this coming season.

Nature Will Have Its Way

Neither you nor we can control the weather. You cannot stave off the frosts. You cannot take the moisture out of the ground that is preventing the crops from maturing.

But you can be prepared to save this crop. You can let it grow, give it every chance to mature, and after the first frosts you can put it into a Saginaw Silo, thus getting tons of fattening and milk producing feed. Without a silo you haven't a thing to show for your work.

With the unusual demand for live stock, prices will undoubtedly be high, and it is easy to see that feed prices will also be high. The silo is the only answer, both for the man who raises stock and for the dairyman.

Now Is the Time For Action

You know these conditions as well as we do, you only have to look at your own corn fields and those of your neighbors and you know that a silo is the only means of being absolutely sure of saving your corn crop. It will produce plenty of silage, but what else? Never before have the farmers of this country needed silos like they do right now.

Immediate Shipment

This is our sincere message to you. You will thank us for it after your silo is up and your immature corn safely put away for next season's feeding.

All our factories are naturally busy working to supply the farmers of this country, but with our facilities we can ship immediately. You will have your Saginaw Silo in plenty of time for filling.

You know this Saginaw Silo, a permanent Steel-Built structure that gives the perfect silage keeping qualities of wood and the wonderful strength of steel. And you can get a Saginaw Silo made of Redwood or Siloiled Yellow Pine—both permanent. The Saginaw Silo is your permanent insurance against unknown conditions. It will save your corn crop, not only this year, but every year. Take the bull by the horns, and don't let a day go by without wiring us.

You may wire us today at our expense. We will put you in touch with a Saginaw man. Delay means big losses.

NEWS FROM THE IOSCO COUNTY SCHOOLS.

OUR PICNIC. By James Daley, Seventh Grade. When the last day of school came the grammar rooms had a picnic at Smith creek.

When we arrived at the picnic grounds we had a marshmallow roast. Some of us burnt our marshmallows, but we all had a good time.

After drinking lemonade we had our program. Then Mrs. Dyke gave us her farewell speech and we went to dinner.

After dinner we played games awhile, then we went up to school to play ball. Another boy and I choosed up to play.

After the ball game we all went home saying we had a good time and wishing we had a picnic every day.

OUR LAST DAY OF SCHOOL. By Charles Kocher, Seventh Grade.

Our last day of school was a pleasant one, it ended with a picnic at Smith creek. We had a dinner and a very nice time. We rode out there in an auto, we spoke pieces, and the teacher which was Mrs. Dyke, gave us our grade cards and spoke three pieces.

GIBSON PROPHECIES BIG PRICE FOR BEANS.

John I. Gibson, known all over Michigan as the hard-working and producing secretary of the West Michigan Development Bureau, has sent out a bulletin to the State urging the farmers to plant more beans.

"A great deal is being said and written nowadays about the progress and development of modern agriculture in the United States and its relation to National Preparedness.

"Vacant lot and backyard gardening and intensive cultivation are being widely advocated.

"It is beginning to dawn on the conscientiousness of the country, now that we have embarked in war, that the army will, of necessity, move on its belly.

"Food of all kinds has been so abundant in the past that the question of a shortage has never been seriously considered by the people of the United States.

"The farmers of Michigan have it in their power to assure a sufficient food supply, help to win the war, and at the same time increase their own bank accounts by the simple expedient of planting the largest possible acreage of beans.

"That the demand is in excess of the supply is shown by the fact that from September 1, 1916, to April 1, 1917, we imported into this country over 5,000,000 bushels of beans. During this time the single port of New York received 346,991 bags from abroad. Most of these bags contained 240 pounds of beans. We are now importing beans from China, Japan, Brazil and Mexico. "All of the above mentioned five million bushels sold at over the five dollar mark, so it safe to look for a price of not less than six dollars for the 1917 crop. It is evident, therefore, that even if Michigan raised five million bushels more beans this year than last, there would be a domestic market for them at good prices. Beans are a quick turn-over cash crop. Planting can be done around June 1, and the farmer can have his check in the bank the latter part of September or the beginning of October for the crop."

Playing Possum. When caught, the possum will feign death, all the while looking out of the corner of an eye, watching an opportunity to escape. And from this comes the well-known expression, "playing possum."

It should be said, however, if one is lucky enough to get a Kentucky dressed possum in the market, there is no danger of its escaping. It has then arrived at a period in its career when possum play has ended.

FRENCH SUCCESS IN ALGERIA

One Hundred Years of Effort is at Last Beginning to Bring Measure of Reward.

After a vast expenditure of lives and treasure, France is beginning to reap its reward from the conquest of Algeria. A hundred years ago the northern African country was the abode of barbarism, and piracy was the principal occupation of its people. The United States was the first nation to revolt against the payment of tribute to the dey of Algiers for "protection" to commerce, and after a brief but thrilling conflict, the buccannier chieftain was brought to his knees.

In 1827 the French took up the white man's burden in Algeria, and after a struggle of 30 years subdued the country. Under the monarchy and the second empire the government of Algeria was based solely on force, but the republic won the allegiance of the Algerians by withdrawing the military government from all of the settled portions of the country, which have since been treated very much as if they were a part of France, each department sending one senator and two deputies to the French chambers. Algerians, save for a few of the tribesmen in the remote interior, are now loyal Frenchmen, regardless of color, race or religion, and they are fighting bravely for "la patrie." Algeria also supplies vast quantities of foodstuffs and metals to France.

WANTED TO BE INTRODUCED

Bringing In of New Foreman Led to Strike in Munition Factory in English Town.

A novelty in the way of strikes was described at the munitions tribunal, Caxton Hall, England, recently.

It appears that 240 men struck for two days because their employers had shown lack of courtesy in introducing a new foreman without notifying the men of the appointment, says the Chronicle. Proceedings were taken against 25 of the men.

For the workers, the court was told that it was the custom to introduce a new foreman with the remark, Mr. —, this will be your new foreman in future." The first they heard from the new foreman was a threat to suspend a man.

Mr. Gibb (manager) said it would be impossible to introduce a foreman to 40,000 men.

The workmen replied that there were only 50 men concerned. They did not expect Mr. Gibb to introduce the man to the whole factory or to the young ladies in the shop.

Another workman said that they did not know the foreman's name. He was ordering the men about and they thought that he was a policeman.

The court would not impose any penalty, and hoped in future things would work harmoniously.

Portable Ice Stations. Small, portable ice stations are operated during the summer months by an ice company of Columbus, O., which has found them both useful and profitable, while they are a boon to many families in the districts they serve, according to Popular Mechanics Magazine.

The stations are built by a refrigerator company in all sizes. The size used in Columbus is a little building 16 feet long and 12 feet wide. A space about 12 feet square is used for storage of ice—floor, ceiling and sides being insulated with mineral wool. In front is a small office and platform, where ice is delivered to those who call for it. A sign on each station indicates its purpose, and the ice is sold at the rate of 20 cents per 100 pounds, while ice delivered from the company's wagons costs 35 cents per 100 pounds. The stations are intended to serve a class of people that do not buy ice regularly from wagons. They are placed for the summer at convenient points in thickly populated districts.

White Whale in Big Demand. Ben Nygren, who, with his partner, Sam Torkoison, is making a success of the white whale industry at Cape Nome, is in town. He says that white whales have been plentiful this season.

At the white whale plant at Cape Nome no part of the animal is wasted. Hides, flesh, oil and bones are all utilized. Th hides bring a good price and are made into the strongest kind of leather. After the oil is extracted the meat is dried and sold for dog meat.

The oil of the white whale is said to excel the oil of any fish. Some of the local product is so clear and transparent that one can look through it and easily read a paper held on the other side. It sells in England at the remarkable price of $500 a barrel. One single sleet carrying the products of the Norwegian white whale industry recently sold its cargo for more than 28 million dollars.—Nome Nugget.

School of Mines. "What are you boring there?" "A gold mine."

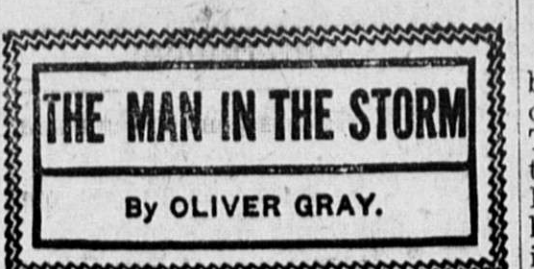

"Bah! There's no gold around here."

"This is a practical tunnel for our students in the mining course."

"Does it look like a real mine?"

"Very much so. Several people have been along who wanted to buy stock in it."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Dried Buttermilk on the Market. Commercialized dried buttermilk is a new feed. The first carload of it reached Chicago for a company which controls the output of 20,000,000 pounds annually. It is to be used for special mixing feed for fattening poultry and hogs.—Chicago Herald.

"Janet, dear, won't you please come to the hotel with us and stay all night? We've stayed out so late at shows and things we can't let you go so far alone now."

"No, Sally, thanks just the same. I'll take the subway and be home in no time. I live so near to the car, you know."

"It isn't near—it's several blocks and you shan't go alone. Henry will certainly go with you."

"Henry certainly will not. You two are so tired doing New York now you walk as if you were on pegs, and Henry's eyes look like holes burned in paper for want of sleep. We girls get accustomed to going around alone, and you needn't think I'm a martyr."

"Well, little sister, all right," acquiesced Sally. "You are too independent for comfort, though, sometimes. This musical career in the first place is all—"

Janet laid her hand over her sister's mouth. "Hush! Here we are at the station. Now good-night."

She had been just long enough in the metropolis to get over the wonder of it, then over the disgust of it, for there is always reaction, and to take the philosophical view that is best. Her music and little else really interested her. She had her wagon hitched to the star of a musical career and she was willing to work and sacrifice everything for its sake.

Hartley Howard had insisted that his love for her counted for more than music, and it had been a long, hard fight to convince herself that he was wrong. She had asked her sister about him that night so indifferently that even Sally's sharp eyes were deceived.

"He's doing pretty well, Janet," she had answered. "They say he's going with Mary Porter, but I don't know for sure. Think how funny it will be some day, sister, when you're away up in grand opera and just home from the courts of Europe to have Hartley present you to Mary, fat and forty, and with a family of six to cook and sew for!"

She had meant it kindly, for she thought Janet was looking a bit white and peaked, but her words had brought no answering smile.

"It seems a good piece ahead," sighed Janet.

She thought it all over now in the car and she was very close to the line which separates will from weakness. Was she getting homesick? Then she thought of the European courts and of darning stockings and cooking. The brave color came back to her cheeks and she sat very erect. She had chosen a career and she was going to make good.

The train stopped at her station and she got off. Others got off other cars and went up the steps of the subway exit to scatter at the top in different directions. A fine sleet had started to fall and the wind which was blowing a gale sent the fine, icy particles into her eyes. She turned up her fur collar, tightened her veil, and burrowing her face into her muff, started up the street.

At the same time a man started after her. At first Janet paid little attention to him, but as she left the lights behind and plunged into the darkness ahead she felt uneasy. She walked faster but the man soon overtook her, walking beside her and snuffing his step to her's. Janet kept straight ahead, never so much as glancing aside. But she knew that he, too, had his hand down against the wind and the collar of his great overcoat was almost touching his hat.

"If you're afraid I shall be glad to take you home," he said finally, his voice coming in fitful jerks as the wind caught it.

"No, thank you! I'm not afraid," said Janet as firmly as she could with her teeth chattering.

"But I'm going to the ferry and I'll just walk with you, if you don't mind."

No answer, but he was not discouraged. He kept right beside her.

"I'm not accustomed to being out so late!" She decided it was best to let him know that she was a proper, law-abiding person. "I was with some friends from the West and wouldn't let them bring me home." She thought he would go then, but he didn't.

"I'm from the West, too," he said. "This isn't very far West," she amended. "It's only in western Pennsylvania!"

"Why, that's where I'm from!"

"Is that so?" Janet was interested.

"What is the place?"

"Not far from Pittsburg. A town called Lockton."

"Why, that—whom do you know in Lockton?"

"Oh, everybody. Do you know anyone there?"

"Yes."

"Do you know the Moores?" he asked eagerly. "Do you know Janet Moore?"

Janet caught his sleeve and turned him sharply. "Hart!" she cried. "Don't you know me?"

"Janet!"

And suddenly European courts and darning were forgotten. He hadn't asked her if she knew Mary Porter. He still loved her and she had no will to resist.

"I'm going home, Hart!" she said in the shelter of the entrance where they could talk.

"Why, Janet?"

"Oh, to marry you, I guess. Don't you want me?"

But the last words were lost in the depths of the big overcoat.

A patriotic entertainment was given in the town hall Tuesday evening, June 5, by the school. A number of patriotic songs were sung after which the assembled crowd joined in our National anthem, "The Star Spangled Banner" and "America." After singing these songs several tableaux were given. Harold Mulsolf and Everett Johnson were unusually good in the tableaux, "I'd Like to Be a Soldier Boy in Blue." John Mielock might have been mistaken for a real soldier in "Just Before the Battle, Mother." The next tableaux was, "Behind the Trenches," with Irene Benson and Grace Anderson as Red Cross nurses and John Mielock as a wounded soldier. Another was "A Letter From the Front," with Hilda Johnson, Duane Bean and Garnet Binder participating. Alice White acted as the "Goddess of Liberty" in the last tableaux. Appropriate choruses were sung during the presentation of the tableaux.
We were pleased that all of our regular eighth graders succeeded in passing the examination. The following is a list of those who will graduate: Victor Anderson, who received the highest standing, John Johnson, Doris Duby, Elmer Johnson, Lillian Spring, Gabel Anderson, Edward Oates and Florence Phelps. Alabaster is very proud of her base ball team. They have succeeded in arousing a great deal of interest. We hope to have a large crowd at the game Sunday.

FLAG DAY PROCLAMATION

By the Governor.

Flag Day! Why? That we may not forget that our Flag is the symbol of liberty, the national emblem of our free Republic. This broad land over which it floats has been for generations a refuge for the oppressed of every race and of every clime. We honor the Flag in times of peace. We are ready to follow it now in time of war, because we know that where it leads injustice and tyranny and oppression cannot long endure. "Forever float that standard sheet! Where breathes the foe, but fall before us!"
With freedom's soil beneath our feet And Freedom's banner streaming o'er us."

We have flung out our banner to the breeze, that its gleaming stripes and shining stars may tell to all the world that in this Nation the love of freedom still lives, and that liberty is still our watchword. Beneath its rippling folds, more than a hundred million souls proclaim their united purpose to uphold the cause of humanity.

"One flag, one land, One heart, one hand, One nation evermore."
Therefore, I, Albert E. Sleeper, Governor of the State of Michigan, do issue this Proclamation; and I urgently request that Thursday, the fourteenth day of June, 1917, be observed as Flag Day.

I suggest not only that flags be displayed on all public buildings and, so far as practicable, on all private dwellings, but that both young and old of our people wear miniature flags upon their persons.

Given under my hand and the Great Seal of the State, this sixth day of June, in the [SEAL] year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and seventeen, and of the Commonwealth the eighty-first.
ALBERT E. SLEEPER,
Governor.

By the Governor: COLEMAN C. VAUGHAN,
Secretary of State.

HOW IMPLEMENT DEALERS CAN HELP.

(By Hon. C. L. Glasgow—Michigan Railroad Commission.)

At this time of the country's special need, our loyalty demands that each one shall contribute according to his or her ability and preferably along the line of their chosen avocation wherein their activities will prove most efficient.
Especially emphasis is being placed upon an increased food supply, not only to meet our own needs but to enable us to meet the demands made upon us by the other nations, and it appears to be quite as patriotic a duty and necessity as the supplying of munitions or the raw material from which they are manufactured.
The obtaining of farm labor which has been difficult enough in recent years has been rendered more so under present conditions and farmers have been unable to cultivate all their lands and the acreage sown or planted has been greatly reduced. About the only source of relief from these conditions has been the employment of more modern machinery.
The demand for iron and steel and associated metals has been and is such that their cost has increased from 75 to 200 per cent, thus greatly adding to the cost of farm machinery, and thereby increasing the expense of farm operations. However, much of the machinery now on sale was made from material less in value than at the present time and therefore an opportunity presents itself for the sellers of such machinery to demonstrate their loyalty in helping to get the needed tools into the farmers' hands as cheaply as possible.
Nearly every dealer contracted for goods before present high prices prevailed, and while under ordinary circumstances a merchant is not expected to part with his goods at less than he can replace them and not in all cases upon the basis of cost, yet these conditions show where the implement dealer can truly be patriotic.
Both national and state organizations have notified the President and the Governor of their willingness to help and in fulfillment of this pledge I believe the dealers all over this state will be willing to make substantial concessions to any and all farmers who desire to make a special effort to increase production for the purpose of meeting the nation's need, at least to such an extent as the amount of goods bought at the old price will permit.
