RED CROSS MEETING A SUCCESS

Meeting Was Largely Attended by Representative Citizens of the Tawas.

At the call of the officers of the Iosco County Chapter American National Red Cross, a mass meeting was held at the court house on Monday evening for the purpose of furthering the work of securing the Iosco county quota of $5,000 for the Red Cross fund.

The meeting was called to order by Vice-chairman Jas. E. Dillon, and after a few appropriate remarks a fine program of vocal and instrumental music was rendered interspersed with short talks by the mayors of the Tawas, Messrs. Pinkerton and Bing, and the pastors of the several churches.

The principal address of the evening was delivered by Mr. Miles J. Purcell of Saginaw, who enthused the audience by recounting the work of the "Red Cross" and appealed for the support of the movement to supply things necessary for the comfort and health of our soldiers soon to be in France.

Cards were passed for subscriptions and when collected and added were found to total $1244.00.

An opportunity is offered to every person old or young to give for this cause—no coin too small—no check too large to be received.

Give! Give! Give until it hurts, and then your gift won't equal that of your boy who gives his life that you may enjoy peace.

NORMAL AND HIGH SCHOOL GRADUATION

The commencement exercises for the Iosco county normal and Tawas City high school classes were held at the court house Friday evening. It was impossible to have a stage built or to have any decorations whatever, as the jury did not give their verdict until 7 o'clock, and long before that time the people gathered at the court house and patiently waited in the hall and on the stairway for admittance.

The program opened with two selections by the high school orchestra, march by Miss Frances Wilson and Invocation by Boyd Swem. A song was then rendered by the graduates. Following this, Supt. Eugene Swem introduced the speaker of the evening, Miss Lucy Sloan of the Mt. Pleasant Normal, who spoke on "Wisdom Hints to Graduates."

She began her address by telling the graduates that they reached the first mile stone of the first race in which they took active part. She emphasized the fact that we ought to have many more pupils graduating from our high schools, and that the government of the people, by the people and for the people ought to be a sufficient reason for this country to put every effort to have more intelligent people.

A few of the many "Wisdom Hints" she gave the graduates are: To keep courage to a high key. Don't be people who always take a back seat in everything. Don't expect too much in life. If you don't succeed at one thing, try another, as life is too full of possibilities. With every enterprise you undertake, ask yourselves these three questions: "Is it right or wrong? False or true? Ugly or beautiful?"

At the close of the address, Supt. Swem presented the diplomas. The graduates sang a closing song, after which Benediction was given by Boyd Swem.

Following are the names of the graduates: High school—Nyda Campbell, Ruth King, Stella McArdle, Elen Johnson, Emma Bygden, Phyllis Birney, Nettie Laidlaw, Florence Kulazeski, Charles Johnson, Victor Marzinski and Albert Nunn. The normal class—Isabel Trainor and Josephine Klish of Tawas City, Getrude Bowersox of Wilber, Luella Anderson of Alabaster, Sadie Vaughan, Georgia Frazier and Helen Hale of East Tawas, Margaret Gardner of Oscoda, and John Johnson of Baldwin.

LONG LIFE FOR LINOLEUM

After buying new linoleum we like to lay it so it will not wear through on rough and uneven places in the floor. We get a quantity of sawdust at a hardware store and cover the floor thickly and evenly all over; then lay the linoleum on this soft bed. You will find it will wear indefinitely without a sign or a crack or break.

ST. JOSEPH'S SCHOOL ENTERTAINMENT.

The first annual entertainment of St. Joseph's school was held last Thursday evening in St. Edward's auditorium. An enthusiastic audience of parents and friends filled the auditorium to its capacity and a large number could not even find standing room inside of the doors and were forced to remain in the hall. This first entertainment was a delightful event and a grand success. The Dominican Sisters who have charge of the school deserve a great deal of credit for the time and patience they devoted in preparing the children for this splendid entertainment and for the efficient training each and everyone received, who took part in any way. Many that were present remarked that, "Everything went along like clock work" and admired the fact that no one had to be prompted. Each one of the numbers of the program was very well rendered and received great applause. The following program was given:

At the close of the program Rev. T. W. Albin delivered an impressive address to the children, graduates, parents and friends. He said that upon request of the eighth grade graduates, he would use every effort to put in the ninth grade in September in order that the children can attend a Catholic school another year. He spoke upon the great success of the school during its first year. This success is the outcome of the hearty cooperation of our zealous pastor and sisters and the parishioners. After the address, Rev. Albin conferred honors to the pupils who had the highest average in each grade during the past year. ## DELIVER US FROM HATRED.

There is one vital point upon which we as citizens must guard ourselves in the great contest before us, and that is that there grow not up in our hearts a spirit of hatred toward those in our midst with foreign blood in their veins.

We have said that we are not to prosecute a war of revenge, but a contest for right and justice. This sentiment comes easy enough at this time. The danger will come later, when the real shock of war is felt and grim death fans us with his sable wings as he takes a son from this home and a husband or brother from that one.

Americans can not afford to harbor hatred, and especially can they not afford animosity toward our citizens of foreign descent. If the citizens of Teutonic blood is loyal to our country though he grieves at the necessity for war with his fatherland, his burden is heavy enough without the added knowledge of suspicion that he is viewed with antagonism and distrust.

There are some who are unquestionably traitors to the land of their adoption, but they will soon come to their just end. Time will efface them. But their acts should not prejudice in our minds those who are loyal and who are staunchly supporting the government, even though it be with hearts saddened by regrets.

If Americans are even approximately true to their ideals they will not permit the loyal to suffer for the acts of the disloyal. To do so would be to defeat the very aims in view in the struggle before us.

We are now impelled by one consuming desire, the freedom to which we can attain is freedom of heart and rancor and bitterness.

No great cause was ever won with out martyrdom. Some must suffer greatly, all must suffer some. It is nature's way in which she works out human redemption. But if bitterness and hatred is permitted to creep into the martyrdom and suffering, their uplifting and purifying influence is nullified.

Let us pray to be delivered from all bitterness that when the contest is ended even our foes may be brought to see the light as we see it.—Ex.

WOMEN IN FOOD SAVING PLAN

Services Offered to Hoover Commission Through Maude Wetmore, Chairman National League for Woman's Service.

Detroit, June 28.—The National League for Woman's Service, throughout the country, has been offered to the Hoover Commission to help in the conservation of food. Miss Maude Wetmore, national chairman, has placed the league at the disposal of the Commission to help carry out the program of food saving. As there are fourteen branches of the league in different parts of Michigan, the women of the state will have good opportunity for direct cooperation in this work.

Blanks for women to sign pledging themselves to save food in whatever way possible, will be distributed throughout the state as soon as they have been received at headquarters. Women or organizations wishing to obtain these blanks or literature explaining the work of the league, are requested to write to state headquarters, 24 Witherell St., Detroit. Suggestions for patriotic work, directions for knitting and making soldiers' and sailors' comforts will be sent upon request.

Finished articles are now being accepted for the "Michigan" boys on the U. S. S. Michigan at state headquarters of the Navy League at 24 Witherell St., Detroit. The Navy League has requested that mufflers be knitted of gray yarn instead of blue, as the latter do not hold their color when moistened by salt water. Many women in the state are knitting for the boys on the battleship Michigan and sending the articles to the Detroit address.

EAST MICHIGAN PIKE TO START JULY 9.

Will Spend First Night at Saginaw Instead of Bay City This Year.

Detroit, June 25.—S. C. Starkweather, president of the East Michigan Pike association, is busy getting all details of the towns completed. Captain William S. Gilbreath, manager of the Detroit Automobile club, is cooperating with the pike officials in arranging the tour.

This year there will be two parties on the first day, one starting from West Grand boulevard and Hamilton at 8 a. m. Monday, July 9, the other from Port Huron at the same time. The Detroit men will stop at Pontiac and will have their noon control in Flint, where J. D. Dort and other prominent citizens plan to meet them. The night stop will be in Saginaw, instead of Bay City. Hereafter the tourists will alternate every other year, in stopping in these cities. Last year the first night control was in Bay City.

Edsel B. Ford has advised Captain Gilbreath that the Ford band will again accompany the tourists. This band was a feature of the first annual tour held in 1916.

After Saginaw, night stops will be made at Tawas City and East Tawas Tuesday, Alpena Wednesday, and Cheboygan Thursday. From the latter city the tourists will go to Mackinaw City on Friday morning. Noon stops will probably be made at Standish and Twining, Lincoln, and Onaway.

The speakers this year will include Mr. Starkweather, Mr. Bleil, Captain Gilbreath, William E. Metzger, president of the Detroit Automobile club; J. W. Boardman, sr., Jackson; P. T. Colgrove, Hastings; Frank F. Rogers, Lansing; Horatio S. Earle, John S. Haggery and Edward N. Hines, Detroit.—Bay City Times-Tribune.

CANNING FRUIT WITHOUT SUGAR

Washington, D. C., June 27.—Fruit for use in pie or salads or as stewed fruit can be put up or canned without the use of any sugar at all, according to the canning specialists of the department. They, therefore, advise those who, because of the high price of sugar, have been thinking of reducing the amount of fruit they put up, to can as much of their surplus as possible by the use of boiling water when sugar sirup is beyond their means. Any fruit, they say, may be successfully sterilized and retained in the pack by simply adding boiling water instead of the hot sirup. The use of sugar, of course, is desirable in the canning of all kinds of fruits and makes a better and ready-sweetened product. Moreover, most of the fruits when canned in water alone do not retain their natural flavor, texture and color as well as fruit put up in sirup. Fruit canned without sugar to be used for sauces or desserts must be sweetened.

Directions for Canning Fruits Without Sirup.

Can the product the same day it is picked. Cull, stem, or seed, and clean the fruit by placing it in a strainer and pouring water over it until it is clean. Pack the product thoroughly in glass jars or tin cans until they are full; use the handle of a tablespoon, wooden ladle, or table knife for packing purposes. Pour over the fruit boiling water from a kettle, place rubbers and caps in position, partially seal if using glass jars, seal completely if using tin cans. Place the containers in a sterilizing vat such as a wash boiler with false bottom, or other receptacle improvised for the purpose. If using a hot water bath outfit, process for 30 minutes; count time after the water has reached the boiling point; the water must cover the highest jar in container. After sterilizing remove packs, seal glass jars, wrap in paper to prevent bleaching and store in a dry, cool place.

If you are canning in tin cans it will improve the product to plunge the cans quickly into cold water instead of after sterilization. When using a steam pressure canner instead of the hot water bath, sterilize for 10 minutes with five pounds of steam pressure. Never allow the pressure to go over 10 pounds.

OUR RED CROSS IS NOT AIDING ENEMY NATIONS NOWADAYS

Patriotic Americans who have been helping the Red Cross have of late been making anxious inquiries as to whether the humanity and the neutrality of the Red Cross would constrain it to send food, medicines and hospital units to Germany.

"I want to give to help our boys, and the stricken people of France and Belgium and Serbia," many a one has written in; "but I don't feel like doing anything if the Germans get part of it."

Americans need be under no apprehension. Not a cent of Red Cross contributions is going to Germany, or has gone there since the war was declared by the United States. General Pershing is now in Europe to convey to the kaiser Uncle Sam's compliments in the form of shells and American bayonets, but the Red Cross has no part in that except to care for such of General Pershing's men as may need care.

The matter of sending Red Cross supplies to Germany was brought up in the recent Red Cross war council in Washington. Charles D. Norton, one of the members, answered inquiries thus:

"The answer is exceedingly simple. We do not purpose to be tried for treason. We do not purpose to lend aid and comfort to our enemies. We mean to attend our own American Red Cross affairs."

Former President Taft, who is chairman of the executive committee, supported this view. He said that when wounded Germans fell into the hands of the American Red Cross they will get the same treatment as our own men; but that it would undoubtedly be treason to send supplies to Germany as we did before we were forced into the war.

So Americans can give freely, knowing that every cent is for our own and our allies' wounded, and not for the enemy.

Red Cross Trench Work.

Red Cross surgeons and orderlies give first aid to the wounded in little underground dressing stations in the front line trenches. In these dark, wet places, cold and ill-ventilated, it is sometimes necessary to perform major operations—such as an amputation, for instance. War records in France show that as many Red Cross workers as infantrymen are killed by enemy fire in the trenches. Red Cross field service requires courage of the highest order.

RED CROSS NEEDS FUND

"Drive" for $100,000,000 Opens Throughout Country

New York and Chicago Will Give at Least $40,000,000—Every Region Must Be Generous Now.

Uncle Sam is calling for a Red Cross fund of $100,000,000 to enable the Red Cross to give the proper care to the sick and wounded, the homeless and the desolate, when his men get into the fighting in earnest. New York city has promptly pledged itself to "raise one-fourth of whatever sum is needed," and is now collecting the money. Chicago has been asked for something between $5,000,000 and $10,000,000, the levy based on population and credit rating.

Mr. O. B. Towne has been appointed by Washington as director of the Red Cross war fund campaign, for the central division, and has opened a drive for the money in nine states.

The money is being raised by subscription among the various chapters, and it has been arranged that each chapter shall have one-fourth of whatever sum it raises. Mr. Towne hopes that the country will raise enough to give the national organization its full $100,000,000 over and above what the chapters retain.

The Red Cross is compelled to raise its fund from the people because it has so small an endowment fund—less than $2,000,000—while Japan, for instance, has more than $13,000,000 in her fund, the income from which pays all expenses.

The money is necessary to keep up the supplies and equipment of the base hospitals, and for relief work in war.

Yankee Ingenuity.

In all of the American Red Cross hospitals and American ambulance stations in France are to be found ingenious contrivances to save the lives and limbs of badly maimed soldiers. One such apparatus, apparently a tangle of weights and pulleys and rubber bands, holds up the legs of a patient whose lower limbs have been broken in three or four places by shell explosion, and prevents the bones from growing together improperly. Another, which looks like a mass of small rubber drain pipes suspended from a bag, irrigates deep wounds which have become infected and which must be constantly drained and cleaned with an antiseptic solution if the patient's life is to be saved.

MAY PUT PRISON CAMP ON ISLE ROYALE

Lansing, June 6.—Isle Royale, located in Lake Superior many miles off the coast of Keweenaw county may be used as a federal prison camp, as word has reached Lansing that the island, which is owned principally by a syndicate of English capitalists, may be turned over to the state and federal government as a suitable place to keep persons convicted of conspiring against the government.

As a prison camp Isle Royal in winter would compare favorably with Siberia. Inasmuch as it is fifty miles from the mainland it would be easy to patrol and escape from a prison camp on the island would be exceedingly difficult.

The state owns approximately 12,000 acres of land on Isle Royale and the public domain commission through the state game warden's department is establishing game preserves on the island. This work, however, would be abandoned if the island is used for a prison camp.

Inasmuch as the federal prisons may be filled to capacity, it may be necessary to take advantage of the offer of the English syndicate, which, according to word that reached Lansing this week, will be made within a few days.—Bay City Times-Tribune.

THE KID HAS GONE TO THE COLORS.

The Kid has gone to the Colors, And we don't know what to say; The Kid we have loved and cuddled Stepped out for the flag today. We thought him a child, a baby, With never a care at all; But his country called him man-size, And the Kid has heard the call.

He paused to watch the recruiting, Whered, fired by the life and drum, He bowed his head to Old Glory And thought that it whispered, "Come!"

The Kid, not being a slacker, Stood forth with patriot-joy, To add his name to the roster— And God, we're proud of the boy!

The Kid has gone to the Colors; It seems but a little while Since he drilled a schoolboy army In a truly martial style. But now he's a man, a soldier, And we lend him listening ear, For his heart is a heart all loyal, Uncoursured by the curse of fear.

REAL DIPLOMACY

By A. M. BROWN.

I had never realized what a different nature I possessed until I tried to bring myself to propose to Millicent.

I was pretty sure she would accept me if I could but screw up my courage to the sticking point.

Two or three times, indeed, I had very nearly taken the plunge. One afternoon Millicent and I grew confidential over the tea table, and my lips were actually framing the fatal question, when I shot the muffin dish into her lap.

A brilliant strategist would have risen to the occasion with a remark wittily appropriate and complimentary. Millicent would have blushing said that it did not matter, and the inevitable tableau would have resulted. As it was, seeing the havoc caused by the melting butter on her new silver-gray gown, I seized my hat and fled.

Again, one Sunday evening on the river, I let the oars trail in the water as we drifted under the bank. "Millicent," I began, hoarsely, leaning forward. "Will you—?" A cough interrupted me, and I found two elderly dowagers on the towing path eyeing me with stern disapproval. I concluded lamely: "—pull your left, please."

The strain at last began to wear me thin, and I determined to resort to desperate measures. With this end in view, I invaded Regent street.

"I want an engagement ring," I said, cursing inwardly at the fine acoustic properties of the shop. Half a dozen people turned round to smile broadly in my direction.

"It's for a friend of mine," I added loudly.

"Yes, sir, I quite understand. What stone does the lady prefer?"

"My friend didn't say," I told him. The shop door swung open again. I turned round and found myself face to face with Millicent.

"Fancy meeting you here!" I stammered.

"Fancy meeting you!" she replied. "Um—er—yes, ha! ha! Isn't it funny? The fact is—I dropped my voice to a confidential whisper—I am buying an engagement ring—for Tommy Hasler. He is confoundedly shy about those things, you know."

"How sweet of you. Who is the girl?"

"Don't you know?"

"I can guess."

"You mustn't," I said. "Tommy wants it to be a dead secret."

"What is the size of the lady's finger, sir?" asked the shopman, returning with a tray of rings.

"I don't know," I said, glancing at Millicent's gloved hand.

"If it's Ella Burnaby," said Millicent softly, "she's got rather fat fingers, and will want a large ring."

"Tommy told me to be careful to get a small ring. I like this one, do you?" Millicent nodded.

"I'll take it," I said, "and chance it being the right size."

"Thank you, sir."

"I want a solid silver cigarette case," said Millicent to another salesman.

"You see, Ella Burnaby asked me to buy this for her, as she's rather a shy girl, you know. I think it is for a Christmas present."

"Can I help you?" I said. "I am a bit of a connoisseur on cigarette cases. Is the fellow Tommy Hasler?"

"I mustn't tell," said Millicent.

"Because if it is, Tommy does not smoke."

"Oh!" she exclaimed blankly.

"Ella must be playing a double game," I insinuated.

"I am sure she isn't. Yes, that one will do."

"You'll have the initials engraved on the case, ma'am?" asked the salesman.

"Yes," said Millicent.

"T. L. H.," I told him.

"Yes, sir."

"No," broke in Millicent quickly, "these are the initials." She scribbled something on a card and pushed it across the counter without letting me see. "Of course, the initials must be engraved on Tommy's ring. They are—"

"They are not," I said quickly. "Here they are." I wrote something on another card.

"Is that right?" I asked recklessly, and handed the card to Millicent.

"I think so," she said, after a pause; dropping her eyes and handing the card to the salesman. "And—I hope you'll like your cigarette case."

Quite a Difference.

Reference at a recent dinner was made to the perplexities of the English language, when this story was fittingly related by Zane Gray, the author of many charming stories of the great Southwest.

Some time since a young girl who had gone through a fashionable college was having a highly intellectual talk with a young man acquaintance when the words "vision" and "sight" were used by the fair one.

"I think I catch the drift of our argument, Miss Smith," said the young man in answer to the girl's last remark, "but please don't make the mistake of saying 'vision' when 'sight' is what you mean."

"I don't quite understand you, Mr. Green," loftily returned the young woman. "There is absolutely no difference between 'vision' and 'sight.'"

"Oh, yes, there is," cheerfully declared Mr. Green. "Walking along the street you occasionally meet a girl who is a vision, and the next minute you may meet one who is a sight."—Philadelphia Evening Telegraph.

ACTUAL DRAFTING TO BE DONE IN WASHINGTON.

Regulations for the drafting of the new national army, now awaiting President Wilson's approval, contain provisions for every step of the great undertaking excepting the actual method of the drafting itself. No official announcement has been made and official confirmation is being withheld, but it has been stated and is generally accepted as true that the federal government itself will do the drafting, so that there will be no opportunity for local favoritism, political or otherwise.

As the results of the registration now stand, every man who registered has a number. These numbers will be forwarded to Washington and the drawing will be entirely by number. The identity of the numbered men will be unknown to those in charge of the drafting machinery and will be established only by comparing the numbers with the printed lists in the men's home districts.

As the numbers are drawn, they will be telegraphed to the home districts where the registered men will learn where they have been drafted. Then the question of exemptions will come up, before the local boards. If a man is exempted, the man bearing the number drawn next in order will take his place and so on. In this way all available men of the 10,000,000 registered will be made ready for the country's call and from them the first increment of the 625,000 will be assembled. Others will be called as they are needed as the war goes on.

Plenty of time will be given for the drafted men to arrange their personal affairs and report to the cantonment camps. It is hoped to have all of the men in training by September 1 or soon thereafter.

COPPER AND SILVER PRODUCED IN MICHIGAN IN 1916.

The production of copper in Michigan in 1916, as reported by the United States Geological Survey, Department of the Interior, was 273,692,525 pounds, valued at $67,328,361, and that of silver was 716,640 fine ounces, valued at $471,549, a combined value of $67,799,910. This is an increase of $21,078,251, or 45 per cent, over the value of the output in 1915.

The average price of copper per pound for 1916 was $0.246, compared with $0.175 in 1915. The average price of silver for 1916 was $0.658 per fine ounce; for 1915 it was $0.507. The average value per ton of "rock" treated was $5.34, compared with $3.76 in 1915.

The smelter production, or the output of refined copper, in 1916 was 269,794,531 pounds, which represents an increase of 30,838,121 pounds over the smelter production for 1915.

In 1916 the amount of "rock" milled was 12,364,114 short tons, which yielded 420,551,291 pounds of "mineral" and 268,279,876 pounds of copper. In 1915 the amount milled was 12,334,700 short tons, which yielded 400,178,132 pounds of "mineral" and 265,283,378 pounds of copper.

The average recovery of refined copper per ton of "rock" milled in 1916 was 21.7 pounds, compared with 21.5 pounds in 1915.

Washington, June 19.—President Wilson, in a telegram to one hundred mayors of cities urged generosity in contributions for the Red Cross fund. He said:

"The American people by their overwhelming subscriptions to the Liberty Loan have given a new endorsement to the high principles for which America entered the war. During the present week which I have designated as Red Cross week they will have a unique privilege of demonstrating America's unselfishness as well as the real spirit of sacrifice which animates our people. May I urge that your city in doing its part in the raising of this $100,000,000 war relief fund, measure the generosity of its gift by the urgency of the need."

THE SIXTH STATE.

Not that it makes any particular difference, but the draft registry indicates that instead of being the eighth state in population, as it was in 1910, Michigan is now the sixth, having passed Massachusetts and Missouri, and being excelled in number of inhabitants only by New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Ohio and Texas.

Massachusetts' registration totaled 359,323 to Michigan's 372,872, Missouri showed only 299,946 eligible for the draft. Michigan's total exceeded the government's estimate by 44,718. The figures are fairly reliable as an indication of the whole population.

Michigan's showing, of course, is due to the great prosperity of her manufacturing cities. Where work is to be done at good wages, there people throng.

The work of the Red Cross surgeons and stretcher bearers at the front in France was never more vividly illustrated than in a recent letter forwarded to America. It was written by Philip O. Mills to Mr. Elliot Norton, head of the Volunteer Motor Ambulance corps which Mr. Mills was serving. The communication was private, but was made public because of the clearness with which it sets forth the scenes amid which the surgeons and ambulance workers labor, day after day. The text follows:

"Tonight I am sitting in a small underground cellar of a public building, acting as a sort of timekeeper for the cars (ambulances) going up to our

"An hour later, as our night's work is slackening up and several cars have driven up and been unloaded, the infirmer comes in from the little room and says something to the brancardiers. Two of them get a stretcher, and in a moment the 'blesse from Belleville' comes past us with a sheet over him. They lay him down at the other end of the room and another brancardier begins rolling and tying him in burlap for burial. As I look he changes to a shapeless log. Then, out to the dead wagon with it.

"Soon after, I go into the little ward again to see how the others are coming through the night, and am glad to see them all quieted down. Even the little German seaman in less pain, though his breathing still shakes the heavy bed he lies on.

"A long, heavily arched corridor, with stone steps leading down to it; two compartments off to one side, lined with wine bins, where our reserve men and a few French brancardiers (stretcher bearers) are lying on their stained stretchers, some snoring; beyond, a door that leads to a little sick ward—the most pathetic little room I have ever seen—with four beds of different sizes and kinds on one side, and six on the other, taken, evidently, from the ruined houses near by; and one tired infirmer (hospital attendant) to tend and soothe the wounded and dying.

"In the bed nearest the door a French priest, shot through the lungs, with pneumonia setting in, his black beard pointing straight up, whispering for water.

"Next to him a little German lad, hardly nineteen, and small, with about six hours to live, calling—sometimes screaming—for his mother, and then for water.

"Next to him a French captain of infantry, his arm off at the shoulder and his head wounded—weak, dying, but smiling.

"And next to him a tirailleur (infantryman) in delirium calling on his colonel to charge the Germans.

"The infirmer is going from one to the other, soothing and waiting on each in turn. He asks me what the German is saying, and I tell him he is calling for his mother.

"Ah, this is a sad war! he says, as he goes over to hold the poor lad's hand.

"A brancardier comes in with a message: A blesse (a wounded man) at Belleville—very serious.

"This is a reserve car call, so one slides out and is gone like a gray ghost down the ruined street, making all the speed its driver can—no easy matter—with no lights. In twenty minutes he is back. The brancardiers go out. They come in again bearing the wounded man on a stretcher and place it on the floor. One of them, who is a priest, leans over him and asks his name, and his town. On answer to the question what his wife's name is, he whispers 'Alice,' while on the other side another brancardier is slitting the clothes from his body—and I shiver with the pity of it at the sight I see.

"The surgeon comes out of his little operating room. Weary with the night's tragic work—after so many, many other tragic nights—he douses and know that the night's work is over."

This is not a sketch from the imagination of a novelist—it is the actual occurrences of a night behind the front where the French, the Belgians, the British—and soon the Americans—hold at bay the German invader. This is the nightly work of the men who care for the wounded.

HOW $100,000,000 FUND WILL BE SPENT

Red Cross Chairman Tells Of War Relief Plans

The way in which the Red Cross war council plans to expend the $100,000,000 fund which is being raised was explained by Henry P. Davison, chairman, in a letter from him to the Red Cross.

The purpose to use the bulk of the fund in the purchase of necessary supplies was made clear in Mr. Davison's letter. He gave assurance that "only a small percentage of each dollar contributed would be required to carry the relief to its destination," because of the volunteer character of the best American talent in medicine, sanitation, transportation, construction, welfare work, purchasing, commercial business, accounting and along other lines.

Base hospitals will continue to be organized, to be turned over to the army at once for service in France. Units for military and naval mobilization camps will be provided. Supplies must be purchased, collected, transported and stored. Hospital ships are to be bought, equipped and manned. A sanitary engineering corps will be formed. The extent of all this preparation cannot now be estimated, Mr. Davison said, because no one knows whether one or two million men are to be sent forward.

Michigan Ambulance Corps: Twenty-seven ambulance companies have been organized by the American Red Cross in this country for service on the European battlefields. So far Michigan is represented by four of these units. The Michigan companies are:

- No. 8—Detroit. Dr. Chas. Barton;
- No. 11—Battle Creek. Dr. James T. Case;
- No. 15—Grand Rapids. Dr. Thomas D. Gordon;
- No. 21—Flint. Dr. Walter H. Winchester.

placed under one and those of the eighth grade under the other. The class colors, blue and gold and white and green, were draped above the arches, while the mottoes, "Always Prepared," and "We have crossed the bay, the ocean lies before us," in white looked very pretty against the green of the background. Miss Grace Birney played a most beautiful march, to the strains of which the graduates marched to their seats on the platform. Two choruses, "Commencement Song" and "Homeward Bound," were sung during the evening by the entire high school and were very favorably received by the audience. The eighth grade class history was very nicely given by Miss Lillian Spring. Victor Anderson then recited the class poem, which was greatly applauded. Misses Birney and Hinman played a very pleasing duet. Miss Alice White gave a very comprehensive and well written history of the twelfth grade. Milo Johnson gave a very humorous and well phrased class poem. Following another pleasing duet by Misses Birney and Hinman, Principal Ousterhout introduced the speaker, Mr. Masselink of Ferris Institute. In his most interesting and instructive address he warned the graduates to preserve until they had accomplished their aim. Quitters and loafers were greatly scorned. Mr. Masselink proved a very forceful and effective speaker and as such he won the appreciation and sympathy of his audience. L. H. Emerson of Tawas City, then gave an interesting talk during which he presented diplomas to graduates of both classes. As a token of his interest he gave a season Chautauqua ticket to each twelfth grade graduate. John Mielock then gave a fine valedictory in which he thanked all who had helped the class in any way.
