Soon—all to soon—it will be time to start your stoves and furnaces. Has your chimney recently been cleaned and thoroughly examined to ascertain whether it is absolutely free from cracks or defects? Is your stove in first class condition—are you sure it is? Is there a good metal board underneath the stove and all the nearby woodwork protected from a hot fire? Are you sure your stovepipe is in good condition, securely put up and wired? A little precaution exercised now may prevent the sacrifice of your life or that of some member of your family.

E. S. Anschuetz brought to the Herald office this week an apple from a tree which he had raised from the seed. The apple measured 3 inches in diameter and 9½ inches at its largest circumference. It was well formed, of good color and one of the best tasting that the editorial teeth have ever been set into. Mr. Anschuetz says that the tree is about 6 or 7 years old, about 12 feet in height, and that the apples, of which it produced about 20 this year are remarkably free from worms, even though the tree was not sprayed. It is apparently an entirely new variety and is certainly a splendid one.

Postmaster Patterson has been notified by the Postoffice Department that the Tawas City postoffice has been designated as the "central accounting" office for all postoffices in Iosco county. Under the new system instituted by the department all the postoffices of the county will make their quarterly postal reports to the central accounting office, where they will be checked and then forwarded to the department. This office will also supply all stamps and stamped paper to the other offices of the district. The idea of the department is to render more prompt service in filling requisitions for supplies and also reduce the work of the department by decreasing the number of reports they have to audit.

THE LIBERTY LOAN.

Based on a combination of banking resources and population the proportion of the Second Liberty Loan bonds assigned to Iosco county is $310,625.

In other words it is asked that the citizens of this county shall buy bonds to the above amount, thus showing their loyalty to the government and their love for the Iosco county boys now serving in the army.

The following committee has been named by the state committee to have charge of the loan sale in this county:

Len J. Patterson, chairman, N. C. Harting, Eugene Bing, Tawas City; L. G. McKay, C. W. Luce, A. Barkman, East Tawas; Mrs. E. R. Mc-Nichol, A. R. Weir, Mores Marks, Oscoda; C. H. Ridgley, Whittemore; S. B. Yawger, Hale.

HEALTH IN THE SCHOOL.

Probably the best thing about our schools is the medical and dental inspection now in use in some and which should be in all. Health is necessary to successful life. You may give a child all the intellectual culture and highest ideals possible, but if he is a physical wreck his efficiency will be impaired or destroyed. No one tormented by disease can work to advantage. The great achievements of the world have been made by men who were giants in intellect and able to work to the limit in human endeavor. They were strong in body hence able to endure the strain placed upon them. Without this physical health, their achievements would have been impossible. It is so with all of us. No man can do his best when handicapped by disease. The State Board of Health will furnish you free literature on the prevention of communicable diseases.

PATRIOTIC ADDRESSES AT IOSCO COUNTY FAIR.

(Though the courtesy of Mr. Hilton, Forest Supervisor of the Tawas National Forest, we are able to present to our readers a very accurate digest of the addresses made at the Iosco county fair on Wednesday of last week. Mr. Hilton took stenographic notes of the addresses and furnished us with the following copy, for which he has our thanks.—Editor.)

Though the crowd at the Iosco County Fair on Wednesday, the opening day, which had been designated as Patriotic Day, was disappointed in the non-appearance of Governor Sleeper, it was not disappointed in getting what it expected in the way of rousing addresses bearing on the war.

The speakers were R. E. Prescott, county agent; Mr. Nicholls of Port Haven; H. C. Haver, Deputy U. S. Marshal of Bay City; and J. H. McGillivray of Oscoda.

Several hundred people, with a large percentage of school children who were dismissed from school for the occasion, congregated around the grandstand about 1:30 to hear the state and federal officials espouse the cause of freedom, and in connection therewith more particularly the work which the farmers and the women could engage in to increase food products and assist in the conservation of food.

After singing of the "Star Spangled Banner," Mr. Nicholls, School Commissioner, of Tawas City, introduced the several speakers.

Mr. Prescott, the county agent, opened first. He said that he would not give the farmers in attendance any advice; they were getting plenty of that from the newspapers nowadays. Everytime the daily newspaper wanted to fill its columns it would use something similar to "Helpful Hints to Hen-Pecked Husbands." (Laughter.) "When you get any advice from the United States Department of Agriculture or the State Agricultural college, listen to it; because those fellows say they know," he proceeded. "They have everything in the way of equipment, machinery and supplies, and the brains to find by experiment what the farmer guesses at. If the average fellow does not know what seed does under certain conditions, he takes a chance at it and may lose or gain, but by following the advice of these men, he takes very little risk. The United States has men in its employ, highly trained men, for every branch and sub-branch of farming." Mr. Prescott regretted that the draft was taking so many men from the farm. He believed in universal service as the only fair way of obtaining soldiers, but how were the farmers going to increase or hold the production if the draft took his help? He hoped and expected that condition would be remedied. He had been doing his best to have the farmer boy exempted from the draft, because the farmer could not fight and farm at the same time. The State Board of Agriculture had passed a resolution recommending that farmer boys be exempted from the draft. This, however, had been overruled by the department in Washington, which stated that no class exemption could be made. He further stated that he knew of five claims for exemption which had been refused and which should have been allowed, two of which meant that two farms would be idle next year. He found that district boards in other parts were exempting men because of their railroad employment. While he was aware that railroads were used for other purposes, he considered the question of raising the food more important than its transportation. Mr. Prescott said he would aid any farmer where the taking of his boy would mean the tying up of his farm activity. He would make over the necessary papers, and in case of rejection by the district board would make appeal to the President. With reference to the food situation, he said that the only appeal he was going to make was that the farmers should increase their production. In that connection patriotism meant profit, not because the farmer's patriotism and profit went hand in hand but because the conditions were such that food stuffs would demand a high price for years to come. Referring to patriotism of the housewives, Mr. Prescott stated that they had heard various rumors, which were unfounded. One was that housewives were advised to pickle and preserve and then the Government was going to seize it. He advised them not to believe any of these rumors, and stated that the Government would do nothing to them and the farmers but to help them.

"During the last week I gathered production statistics," continued the county agent. "I suppose that there are mighty few farmers who can tell me what it costs on their farms to produce a bushel of beans or a bushel of potatoes. The farmer has raised beans, potatoes, etc., and has taken the other fellow's price for it; if they are worth 30c he takes it. He then went on to say that the Government would ascertain the cost of raising products, add a fair percentage of profits, and set the price at the cost of ordering and delivery. He found that the average cost per acre to the farmer was $23.00. The average of beans per acre was only $6.00. "The government intends to take the price all over the country and then set a price. The other fellow has got to get out. Don't get panicky."

TAWAS CITY, MICH., OCT. 5, 1917

In all this flurry of governmental price fixing where does the consumer get off at? The results can't be seen in local markets on anything to be purchased in the line of fuel, food or clothing.

How has the mighty fallen! Senator "Bob" LaFollette, once the idol of the progressive wing of the republican party, and seriously mentioned as candidate for president, is threatened with expulsion from the senate of the United States because of alleged "treasonable utterances." In these times a man, whether in public life or not, is either a patriot or a traitor, and the sooner the latter class are dealt with as they deserve and as the law commands the better it will be for the country.

THE LIBERTY LOAN

By W. G. McAdoo, Secretary of the Treasury.

For the purpose of Equipping with arms, clothing and food our gallant soldiers who have been called to the field;

Maintaining our navy and our valiant troops upon the high seas;

Providing the necessary means to pay the wages of our soldiers and sailors, and, if the bill now pending in the Congress passes, the monthly allowances for the support of their dependent families and to supply them with life insurance;

Constructing a great fleet of merchant vessels to maintain the line of communication with our brave troops in France, and to keep our commerce afloat upon the high seas in defiance of the German Kaiser and his submarines;

Creating a great fleet of aeroplanes, which will give complete supremacy in the air to the United States and the brave nations fighting with us against the German military menace, and for other necessary war purposes;

The Congress of the United States has authorized the Secretary of the Treasury to sell to the American people bonds of the United States bearing four per cent interest, with valuable tax exemptions, and convertible under certain conditions into other issues of United States bonds that may be authorized by the Congress. The official circular of the Treasury department gives full details.

There is now offered to the American people a new issue of $3,000,000, 900 of bonds to be known as the Second Liberty Loan. They will be issued in such denominations and upon such terms that every patriotic citizen will have an opportunity to assist the Government by lending his money upon the security of a United States Government bond.

It is essential to the success of the war and to the support of our gallant troops that these loans shall not only be subscribed, but oversubscribed. No one is asked to donate or give his money to the Government; but everyone is asked to lend his money to the Government. The loans will be repaid in full with interest at the rate of four per cent per annum. A Government bond is the safest investment in the world; it is as good as currency and yet better, because the Government bond bears interest and currency does not. No other investment commodes with it for safety, ready convertibility into cash and unquestioned availability as collateral security for loans in any bank in the United States.

People by thousands ask the Treasury constantly how they can help the Government in this war. Through the purchase of Liberty Bonds every one can help. No more patriotic duty can be performed by those who cannot actually fight upon the field of battle than to furnish the Government with the necessary money to enable it to give our brave soldiers and sailors all that they require to make them strong for the fight and capable of winning a swift victory over our enemies.

We fight, first of all, for America's vital rights, the right to the unimpeded and unobstructed use of the high seas, so that the surplus products of our farms, our mines and our factories may be carried into the harbors of every friendly nation in the world. Our welfare and prosperity as a people depend upon our right of peaceful intercourse with all the nations of the earth. To abandon these rights by withdrawing our ships and commerce from the seas upon the order of a military despot in Europe would destroy prosperity and bring disaster and humiliation upon the American people.

We fight to preserve our democratic institutions and our sovereignty as a nation against the menace of a powerful and ruthless military autocracy headed by the German Kaiser, whose ambition is to dominate the world.

We fight also for the noble ideal of universal democracy and liberty, the right of the smallest and weakest nations equally with the most powerful to live and to govern themselves according to the will of their own people.

We fight for peace, for that just, lasting peace which agonized and tortured humanity craves and which not the sword nor the bayonet of a military despot but the supremacy of vindicated right alone can restore to a distracted world.

To secure these ends I appeal to every man and woman who resides upon the soil of free America and enjoys the blessings of her priceless institutions to join the League of Patriots by purchasing a Liberty Bond.

SOY BEANS AS FOOD.

Cheap and Nourishing—Important Substitute for Other Materials Furnishing Protein and Fat.

Soy beans, introduced into the United States more than a hundred years ago primarily for use as a forage crop, are in reality one of the most nutritious of the legumes when used as human food, according to specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture. These beans have been used for centuries as a staple article of diet in China and Japan and are coming to be used more generally in this country as consumers learn their food value and palatability. Since they furnish protein which contains nitrogen for muscle building and valuable fat, they are especially important to turn to as an emergency addition to the usual dietary or as substitutes for other foods furnishing protein and fat. Moreover, the fact that they contain no starch makes them valuable for invalids who can not eat starchy foods. These beans may be grown easily in practically all sections of the country where corn is grown and give heavier yields than most other beans.

Soy beans have been so important for other purposes that until recently they have attracted little attention for food purposes in this country. They are now coming into their own for that purpose, however, and the acreage of soy beans has increased steadily in recent years. The dried beans may be purchased now in a number of markets in various parts of the country, often under the name of togo beans, and should, with the increased acreage of the coming season, be more generally available. Soy bean meal, a by-product of oil making, is a valuable food and no doubt will come into more general use with the increased production of soy beans.

Where dried soy beans are available, they may be baked with or without pork like navy and other beans. They should be soaked overnight and should be cooked longer than other kinds of beans. The cooking may be done economically in a fireless cooker of the sort provided with heating stones or plates; or on the ledge of the fire box, inside the furnace, if the house happens to be heated with one of this type.

Dried soy beans have been canned in considerable quantities during the past season, baked with pork, and are on sale in this form in numerous markets. Canned green soy beans, which may be compared with Lima beans, also are on the market in some sections of the country. Both these canned products yield as high a proportion of energy and a higher proportion of protein than the canned beans with which they are most closely comparable, and so are more nourishing. Both are produced and handled usually at a lower cost than other beans and should therefore be obtainable at lower prices.

FARMERS' FIRE INSURANCE

Mutual Companies Effect Large Savings in the Cost of Fire Protection.

Farmers' mutual fire insurance companies have reached a place of great importance among the cooperative associations benefiting dwellers in the country and have an opportunity to perform still greater service, according to an article in the 1916 Yearbook of the United States Department of Agriculture. Nearly 2,000 such companies exist in the United States and carry a total amount of insurance exceeding $5,250,000,000 on property worth nearly $7,000,000,000. This is more than two-fifths of the value of all the insurable farm property in the 48 states.

The saving in the cost of insurance to farmers brought about through these farmers' mutual companies is very large, but definite figures of the aggregate saving are not available. The average cost per $100 of insurance for all the farmers' mutuals in 1914, however, was only 26 cents, and it is estimated that a number of states where farmers' mutual insurance is most highly developed, the average cost of insurance for all such companies in the state has fallen below one-half the commercial rates.

So far, it is pointed out, the efforts of the farmers' mutuals to achieve efficiency have been directed chiefly to a reduction of expenses of operation. It is possible, however, still further to decrease the charges to be met by a concerted campaign to reduce fires. More careful inspection should be practiced and risks should be classified so as to place a premium on safe construction and the adequate care of buildings.

One of the important effects which the success achieved by the farmers' mutual fire insurance companies has had on country life, in the belief of rural organization specialists of the department, is the encouragement of farmers to attempt other cooperative enterprises.

PATRIOTIC ADDRESSES AT IOSCO COUNTY FAIR.

over government control! The sticky fingered middle man is the only one who can lose," he said. (Applause.)

Mr. Nicholls of Port Huron then spoke. He referred to the great patriotic demonstration in the city of Detroit recently when 25,000 marched in line, half a million citizens watched with tear-filled eyes and 35 bands played patriotic airs and the drafted boys entrained for cantonment. "If you did not have any patriotism when you went into the crowd you were certainly filled with it when it disbanded," said Mr. Nicholls. "We are in the midst of the greatest war yet known, but you who are up here in your isolation realize very little; we traveling men get around and see what is going on. Sherman has told us that 'War is Hell.' It certainly is. Just consider the atrocities that have taken place in Europe. It is your duty to work and to give. My boy, my only son, goes to Port Huron tomorrow to be examined. I want to say that when we find ourselves arrayed against a foe capable of going to such depths of infamy and atrocity as have been questioned over there in Europe, it means a united people that will stand behind the President and say 'Here is our wealth, our sons and our daughters are Red Cross nurses; we are behind you Uncle Sam!' You farmers can live for your country, as our boys must die for their country. You are to provide food for the sons of war, because men can't fight unless they are fed." He then referred to an old maid who worked in a newspaper office whose duty was to answer questions in the query column. She was asked this question, "How can I keep my husband good natured?" to which she replied, "Feed the brute!" "That is the only way we can keep them good natured at the front," said Mr. Nicholls. "The thing that makes a soldier fit is to stop for a moment and consider, 'What are they thinking of me at home?' and to know that we are thinking of him. That keeps many a soldier at the front." (Applause.)

U. S. Marshall H. C. Haller, of Bay City, next spoke. He referred to the time when the people of this country responded to the call of freedom under Washington and Lincoln. The people then fought and died for their country and they were still willing.

He continued, "When our forefathers settled in this country they proceeded to chop down the mighty oak in the hope of making a home. It then became necessary in order to get the comfort that they wanted to exterminate a lot of objectionable things. They came in contact with hostile savages, skunks, wolves and snakes. It became necessary to fight them to obtain freedom. Today as a great nation we find surrounding us the same skunks, the same wolves and snakes in the autocracy of the military government of Germany. In order to protect the lives of our children, to stamp out the government of autocracy, and make the nation safe for freedom and democracy, we are standing alone," concluded that he could rule this earth as he saw fit! For years he has built up the munitions of war to subdue us, and has said, "Me and God are going to rule this world! They sank the Lusitania which sent the best men, women and children to their graves. We were at peace with the world, expecting that government (Germany) to do as they pleased in accordance with international law. But they had spies in this country. Remember, we have no great fight with the German people. God knows! When this war is over, God knows! when this war is over, it is against the autocratic power that has a grip upon the people. And we have tried our best to keep out of this war; but the Kaiser's word was not worth the paper it was written on." He then referred to the activities of the I. W. W. "What do we have today? The United States government, through the office which I hold, have gone into the I. W. W. camps, and there seized all of their paraphernalia. What do you find, and some of those men, God forbid! claiming to be American citizens—the whole thing financed by German money to kill off Federal officers, and burn the wheat fields." He stated that a great many people believed in the true principles of socialism, but not socialism as practiced by the I. W. W. and continuing said: "We need today the united effort of the manufacturer, farmer, railroad, transportation company, and every man in every form of life to give work, and assist this great republic in this war. The I. W. W. have been telling the people that the war was brought about by the capitalist men to crush labor. That is not true. Take such men as Henry Ford who is giving his money, as others are doing. Such speech is treacherous and should not be tolerated." The Marshall then referred to the foreign born citizens, and said: "We have a great many people come here from foreign countries. You come to this country unsolicited, many without friends and money. You have sponged upon the free institutions of this country, and you have partaken of the privileges of citizenship of this country, and if you do not stand up like men when that flag is assailed you are curs!" (Loud applause.) Mr. Haller then commended the good work carried on by the women and the Red Cross and said that we ought to be thankful that we as a people are the most broadminded in the world, though they had been narrowed down in Germany. He compared President Wilson as a man sent from God to stand up for liberty and freedom, as he believed Washington and Lincoln had been sent from God. The speech throughout was listened to with close attention by everyone present, being a masterpiece patriotically and in its sincerity.

Most of the people here began to disperse, but there was more patriotic enthusiasm in store for them, as J. H. McGilivray of Oscoda gave a stirring address on "Patriotism and Conserva-

BENITA'S CHOICE

By JOSEPH SHAW.

Benita lingered most provokingly and deliberately on the road home. There are times when home seems the very last desirable place in the world to go, and this was one of them. First of all, Grandmother Rollins had told her at least seven times that day to count her blessings one by one, and she'd be surprised to see what the Lord had done.

Then her mother had said: "Benita, child, what does all you? You are bewitched. You drop everything you touch, and you haven't a decent word for anybody in the family." "Why should she have thought Benita haughtily. Weren't they all against her? Wasn't it bad enough to have a name tacked on one like Benita Dusenberry, coupled with an artistic temperament, and then have a family without any of the finer instincts at all? Somehow she had never noticed the lack of these finer instincts until Jessica and her brother had come to stop awhile at the Three Pines.

Wallace, the tall, fair musician brother, was dreamy and aloof. He took long, solitary walks through the woods and roads, and came back to improvise marvelous airs on his violin. Once Benita had met him, standing enraptured, gazing at something in his hand.

"Little girl," he had said, "can you tell me the name of this?" "Adder's tongue," answered Benita. She thought everybody knew what plain, everyday adder's tongue looked like. She told Len about it when he came up to help Tom with the wood-cutting. Len was twenty and nearly six feet tall. He looked fearfully hearty beside Wallace.

Len had laughed and said he looked "sort of peaked." Genitus should look ethereal, Benita had thought. Then the climax came. Jessica told her that she, Benita, was the inspiration for Wallace's latest improvisation, "The Maid of the Pines."

"I hope he will be able to capture it and write it down. It has all the walling of the wind in the pines in it, and the mystical yearnings of the unfledged soul," she explained.

After the dishes were finished Benita threw a cape around her and went out under the three tall pines in front of the house, to catch the mystical yearning herself. But Len came along from the barn, and stayed talking to her until her mother called her in. He reminded her that they were engaged. Benita had put the thought from her for several weeks.

"I guess by Easter I'll have things settled, so we can be married. Think your mother can spare you by then, Benita?"

"I don't know," Benita had said vaguely. "I think eighteen is plenty old enough to get married, and I won't be seventeen till next month."

Now had come this final day. Mrs. Brewster, Len's mother, had sent her to help with some quilting.

"You might as well, 'cause half of them are for you and Len," she said cheerfully. And all the afternoon Benita had quilted and listened to long accounts of this piece and that piece, and whose dresses they had come from back in the annals of Len's family. All the way up the hill road Benita told herself she would break her engagement to Len the next day, and find what Jessica called the path to higher happiness. And then over the edge of the woods, just where the eastern sky was darkening at nightfall she saw a rising column of smoke, followed by a spurt of yellow flame. It came from the house, she felt sure, as she broke into a quick, light run along the frozen road.

Then, just as she reached the gate she saw Wallace. He sat on the stone wall with his violin, quite like Nero. Benita thought later, drawing sweet strains from his violin, and Jessica was beside him with three suit cases packed safely.

"Where is mother?" Benita exclaimed.

"Oh, the young man who cuts wood is fighting the fire in the kitchen," Jessica told her happily. "Isn't it an inspiring sight? Wallace has a theme already, 'Gloaming Embers.' Do you like it, Benita?"

But Benita had fled around by the back way. Her mother was helping Tom draw buckets of water from the well and soaking blankets and old bur-lap sacks to pass up to Len on the "L" roof. Several times when the flames and smoke hid Len from sight, she found herself praying for the safety of her Len, brave and fearless.

It was nearly nine before the last smoldering was extinguished. The fire had been confined to the "L," thanks to Len, and he stood eyeing the result proudly, smoky and begrimed, his arms bare. Benita was beside him. Len glanced down at the slim figure beside him, and smiled, slipping one arm around Benita's waist.

"Hello, dear," he said. "We beat it, didn't we?"

"You were splendid," Benita answered, solemnly, "just splendid, Len. The whole house would have gone if you had not fought the way you did. I'm awfully proud of you."

"Even if I can't fiddle?" Len's blue eyes were twinkling. He had not been altogether blind to current events.

Benita snuggled closer to him with a little sigh of relief.

"I don't mind if—if it is at Easter, Len," she whispered. "I don't like violin music, but, oh, now, at fires." (Copyright, 1917, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

The number enrolled in the county normal class is seventeen. Lillian Wicklund and Charles Johnson entered after first report was published.

After four weeks of preliminary practice in Palmer penmanship, the normal class has begun sending the writing drills to the Palmer company to be approved in preparation for the penmanship diploma which each member hopes to win before the end of the year.

The class in advanced sewing, consisting of six girls from the high school and six from the normal class, are doing Red Cross work instead of the regular course in sewing that was originally planned. A fine Singer sewing machine recently purchased by the board of education is doing splendid service in this class.

holding a Dispensary Clinic for all his patients having appointments and others who may want to see him. Dr. Sanders is too well known to most people in this locality to need any introduction except to newcomers. Having practiced medicine in most of its branches for more than forty-five years in Ohio, he is known from one end of the state to the other as a great Medical Expert in the Diagnosis and Treatment of Chronic Diseases of MEN, WOMEN and CHILDREN.

The hundreds of chronic sufferers cured give testimony to the truth of this assertion: "Come and see some and talk to others you will meet, and be convinced."

No matter how long you are ailing, or what the nature of your ailments are, how many doctors you have seen, or what has been done for you. Go and see Dr. Sanders. Your visit will cost you nothing and at last you will meet a man, grown old in the service of humanity, honest, up-right, sincerely and scientifically recommended and able. He will examine you thoroughly and what to do to get rid of it.

Dr. Sanders treats MEN, WOMEN and CHILDREN afflicted with Chronic Diseases only, that is to say, diseases of long standing. If you are now in the care of your family physician, and he is doing good work, do not come and take up his valuable time, as in that case he will not see you. If he can help you, he will tell you so, and give you such treatment, remedies and advice as will restore you to perfect health. If your case is not curable, he will give you such advice as will relieve and may prolong your life.

CONSULTATION and EXAMINATION at this visit is FREE. YOU will be charged only with the actual cost of the treatment required to effect your cure, which at all times will be reasonably moderate. Under no circumstances will he take a case for treatment that can not be cured.

This is not a scheme to trick you out of your money, not a C. O. D. and be convinced, and find at last a strictly ethical and according to law. Come and see for lack of expert medical skill and that you are not hopelessly doomed to suffer perfect health for less money than you spend on patent medicine. NOTE: If you have pain in the back bring a two-ounce bottle of urine for chemical and microscopic examination and analysis. Minors with private homes $10.00. Consultations with physicians by appointment only. Remember the date. Hours, 9 a. m. to 8 p. m. Friday, October 19, Alpena, Mich., Hotel Avery.

Dedicate Longest State Paved Road

The longest paved road in Michigan is to be dedicated at Northville on Thursday, October 11, when the Detroit Automobile Club holds its celebration in honor of Wayne County's Road Commission. A parade will pass over the route indicated by heavy lines.

CONCRETE DRIVE TO BE DEDICATED

CELEBRATION IS PLANNED WHEN WAYNE COUNTY'S OUTER BELT IS FINISHED.

INVITE ALL MICHIGAN PEOPLE

Detroit Automobile Club Sponsors Big Affair Which Gov. Sleeper and Others Will Attend.

In the last few years the building of good roads has been given a wonderful impetus in Michigan, as the city man and farm owner came to realize the value of them. In nearly every county there has been activity along this line. Some counties that could not afford to surface the roads kept them graded and dugged. Others built gravel. Some built asphalt and brick, while those who knew that permanent roads must be built constructed their highways of concrete.

Wayne county, in which Detroit is located, has been the leader in building concrete roads, because the road commission quickly learned that the enormous volume of travel would wear out in a year or less most any other type of road. So for nine years Wayne county has been building of concrete. Today there is in the county limits approximately 160 miles of paved road. At the time the road commission is completing what is known as the Outer Belt Drive, a route encircling the county and being 120 miles in length, all but 25 miles of it being in the county system. The 25 miles is in Detroit and suburbs.

Thursday, October 11, has been set aside as the day for the celebration. More than 15,000 good roads boosters from all parts of Michigan, including the road commissioners, county supervisors and other officials of every county will be invited.

The various civic organizations in the cities and counties will be invited, with their members, and it is planned to make this occasion the greatest good roads affair in the history of Michigan.

All the state officers, including Governor Albert E. Sleeper and those of his staff will be present. Governors from surrounding states are coming and there will be good roads men from Wisconsin, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Pennsylvania and New York.

Governor Sleeper and Mayor Oscar B. Marx, of Detroit, are to play the leading parts in the dedication of the road. These ceremonies will take place at Northville, in the northwestern part of the county. It is at this point the last work is being done on the Outer Belt Drive.

A program is being arranged. Governor Sleeper will wield a gold and silver shovel especially furnished for the occasion. The blade of this shovel is of silver and the handle of gold.

USE GOLD SHOVEL IN WAYNE

Governor Sleeper to Wield Costly Spade at Northville, Oct. 11.

Michigan's soil will feel for the first time on October 11 the blade of a gold and silver shovel that has been used in other states in good roads celebrations. When Wayne county jetties over its highway system of concrete roads at the dedication of the Outer Belt Drive of 94 miles, at Northville, October 11, this implement will be used. The Detroit Automobile club, which has the handling of the monster parade and ceremonies in charge has obtained the shovel. The handle is gold and the blade is silver. It has been used in Illinois, Indiana and Pennsylvania, on eight occasions and a gold plate on the handle commemorates each occasion.

SHOW MANAGER RUNS PARADE

Detroit Automobile Show Boss in Charge Good Roads Day.

H. H. Shuart, manager of the Detroit Automobile Dealers' Association, who so successfully directs the big annual Detroit automobile show, has been named chairman of the parade for the big Good Roads Day being planned in honor of the completion of Wayne county's Outer Belt Drive, a concrete highway 94 miles long. The Detroit Automobile club, which is putting on the Good Roads Day celebration, October 11, obtained Mr. Shuart, will have Herbert I. Buhler, who will be vice-chairman. Mr. Buhler has also had considerable experience in handling affairs of this kind.

FACTORIES ARE GENEROUS

Give Bands, Cars, Moving Picture Machines for Good Roads.

Generous responses are coming to the Detroit Automobile club from the manufacturers who have been asked to loan cars to carry the guests to the Big Wayne county Good Roads Day celebration to be held at Northville, Wayne county, on October 11. The Ford Motor Company has advised William E. Metzger, president of the club, that it would furnish a large number cars, the big Ford band of 60 pieces and the Ford moving picture service. Other bands expected to take part include the Studebaker, Reo, Willys-Overland, Buick.

GOVERNOR AT DEDICATION

Sleeper Takes Part in Big Affair Oct. 11 in Wayne County.

Governor Albert E. Sleeper and State Highway Commissioner Frank F. Rogers will go from Lansing to Detroit on October 11 to participate in the Good Roads Day celebration that will dedicate the 94-mile Outer Belt Drive of the Wayne County highway system. The two state officials have a deep interest in the building of modern highways in Michigan and will go to the celebration to pay tribute to the Board of County Commissioners who have made the name Wayne synonymous with concrete highways all over the world.

CIVIC BODIES GET INTO LINE

Help to Boost Detroit Auto Club's Good Roads Day, Oct. 11.

The civic organizations of the state whose members will attend the dedication of the Outer Belt Drive of the Wayne county concrete highway system at Northville, Oct. 11, will be entertained at Northville after the preliminary dedication ceremonies on the concrete road by the Detroit Automobile club. Two large tents will be put up on the Northville fair grounds. In one luncheon will be served and in the other the speech making of the day will take place.

WOMAN'S BEST ERA

CHANGE WROUGHT BY INDEPENDENCE AS WAGE EARNER.

She Always Worked, but Until Recently the Money All Went Into Father's Pocket as His Legal Right.

It was just a little piece of newspaper poetry published on the editorial page. Doubtless many thousands read it, for it was well phrased. Probably most of the men who read it were pleased, for it was an appeal to men's chivalry and protection, a confession of feminine weakness and self-insufficiency.

The burden of the poem was a faint wail that women were forced to leave the home where it was alleged they all wanted to stay, and to become wage earners. Men were appealed to to treat the unhappy creatures kindly and make up to them by politeness what they had lost when they ceased to be domestic workers.

It is a little hard on those brave pioneer women who made it possible for the girl of today to get a job, who forced open the colleges that women might educate themselves for business and the professions, to be thanked in terms like these.

Surely they never expected that when the time came when women would have their choice, at good pay, of the work they should do, that they would sigh over the necessity of working.

The trouble with the business girl who thinks she would be better off at home embroidering dollies, is that she does not know that work has always been the portion of women. Long before there was a factory or a typewriter or a power-driven machine women worked for wages. They had to. The workman never supported his family. He was never able to support them.

The difference between then and now is that in the old days women did not collect their own wages. The money went into father's pocket. He had a legal right to the services of his wife and children, and thought he had also a moral right to whatever they earned.

There has never been a time in history when women were as happily situated as now. And the change has been wrought chiefly by the fact that women are increasingly becoming independent wage earners. They are in a position now to marry whom they please, whether the man has money or not. They can grow and develop to the very limit of their capacity. They are as free as women have never before been free.

The woman who finds the business world uncongenial is free to go into domestic service, unless she is too much of a snob. But the chances of living a parasitic life of sentimental idleness are as slim now as in the earliest Victorian times.

Birthday of Byron.

Recently occurred the one hundred and twenty-ninth anniversary of the birth of Lord Byron. The poet's family, on the paternal side, traced its origin back to the time of William the Conqueror, and on his mother's side he was related to the royal family of Scotland. His father, Capt. John Byron of the Guards, was so notorious for his gallantries and recklessness that he received the nickname of "Mad Jack." After squandering the inheritance of his wife, "Mad Jack" deserted her, and died a few years after the birth of George Gordon Noel, who early became Lord Byron through the death without issue of his granduncle, the fifth Lord Byron. He contributed some notable works to literature and introduced a style of romantic poetry that was to set the fashion for many a day.

Bobby Was "Fixed" for the Job. Jimmy had seen a steeple climber in action, and upon reaching home he immediately tried to imitate the feats he had seen. Picking out a large tree, he began to climb up its rough trunk, but ere he had gone his height his small hands loosened their hold upon the scaly bark and he came to earth amid a shower of brilliant stars. Manfully controlling his ready tears, he walked thoughtfully toward the house, conscious of a rapidly growing bump immediately under his cap. As he entered and passed the pantry door he spied his smaller brother busily engaged in transferring the contents of a jam jar into his tiny stomach. As Jimmy surveyed his smeared and sticky little brother he smiled through his tears and said: "Gee, whiz! Bet you cud a hold onto that tree, Bobby!"

So Don't Mix Play With Work. Injury to an employee by falling down steps down which he was carrying a load in the course of his employment, because of the act of a passing employee in thrusting a newspaper against his ribs for the purpose of tickling him, is held not to arise out of his employment within the meaning of the workmen's compensation act, in the California case of Coronado Beach company vs. Pillsbury.—Case and Comment.

Filling a Want. "Do you know that fortunes are made by selling soft drinks at baseball parks?"

"I'm not surprised. The fans appreciate and encourage a business like that. For a nominal sum they not only get a refreshing drink, but the empty bottle serves as an ideal missile to throw at the umpire."

CHICKEN MEN ATTENTION

A few days ago the Northeastern Michigan Development Bureau, a Board of Trade along agricultural lines, had occasion to engage a photographer to photograph some rural scenes.

In giving directions the secretary of the Bureau expressed the hope that the photographer knew something of farm life and for instance knew the difference between sugar beets and chicory. "Sure," replied the artist, "I once saw a piggery over at Grand Rapids so I guess I can tell a chickory when I see one."

REMEMBER HIM?

We don't like mysteries so we'd like for some one to tell us what has happened to the old fashioned grocer who used to smile and give us a "baker's dozen."

WEAK IN THE KNEES

The laziest man we know of is the one who refuses to go to the movies because he's afraid he'll have to stand up while the orchestra plays "The Star Spangled Banner."

WRITING ON AN EGG.

Hand a friend a hard boiled egg with the request that it be minutely examined. After he has satisfied himself that the egg is of the ordinary kind you tell him to break off the shell and, much to his astonishment he will discover his name plainly written on the white of the egg.

There is a previous preparation, but it is very simple. Dissolve one ounce of alum in a half pint of vinegar. Take a small pointed brush and outline whatever you desire on the shell of the egg. Let it dry thoroughly and then boil the egg for about fifteen minutes. If these directions are carried out all traces of the writing will have disappeared from the outside of the shell, but when the shell is cracked open it will plainly show on the white of the egg.

WHAT PAW THINKS

When father figures up the total cost, he is convinced that a "college bred man" is one who had a four years "loaf."

CURIOSITY

It isn't what a girl knows about a man that causes her to marry him. She is curious to find out what she doesn't know.
